WITHOUT the new-fangled methods of storing leftovers Mom still had a way of making the next day's meal seem like almost brand new- as they say down the street.

OH, YES, I remember the soup lines and the relief lines when skimmed milk, soup and graham crackers were the menu. Mom, though, saw to it that we always had plenty to eat.

The garden was always full of fresh vegetables then the jars became full for the long winter ahead. Gee, she sure could make carrots even taste good - and I hated them and was the only one who kept looking for a blind rabbit to prove my point.

I don't know what will be on the table tonight. I don't even care.

I REMEMBER MOM and funny, I think she has talked to my B.W. and they understand my loneliness.

Garage Barrage

A garage sale by any other name (yard, patio, basement, roof, etc.) would smell as sweet.

Sort of paraphrasing what one W. Shakespeare said about a rose. Nevertheless the variations on a theme by residents who have gathered in clans and made a farce of spring cleaning sales have resulted in some suburban cities taking action to halt or put a crimp in these bargain basement tactics.

WITNESS: We went to three garage sales last week to take stock of what these home-spun merchants had to offer. About 10 items at one 'yard' sale were new: three at another had apparently never been used and could be classed as brand new; several others at a 'backyard' bargain rack still had store tags attached.

THE QUESTION: Are there, by these grouped neighbors, any apparent violations of city, county or state laws where required tax forms (personal property, income, withholding or sales) have not been filed with the proper authorities?

THE ANSWER: Some retail merchants, as well as residents whose neighborhoods have become cluttered with perpetual sidewalk type sales, are up in arms. The Goodwill Industries, Salvation Army and Volunteers of America have come up short in collections that have resulted in some handicapped persons coming up with shorter weekly pay checks that are already too short.

Not that we have any quarrel with the person who offers his used goods for sale (after all inflation has resulted in the need for more 'pin' money) but we do quarrel with the person who decides to take advantage of the garage sale craze and avoids, most times deliberately, the same risks that businessmen must take in operating a business.

The gathering of clans has also resulted in questions as to whether zoning regulations (as well as fire regulations and other safety factors) are being broken.

BEXLEY has invoked a license fee with another stipulation that a resident be limited to one 'garage' sale every 90 days and if others are involved at his location that their names and addresses and merchandise offered be listed on the permit.

Reynoldsburg has just approved a similar ordinance.

Other suburban communities - already hit by the bargain basement blight - are seeking relief.

Perhaps - like high button shoes, the Charleston, the Big Apple, Zoot Suits, shaggy dog hair and the drug craze - the garage sale, too, will fold its tent and silently steal away...either by choice or by ordinance.

Housewives Challenge Computers

Specials, coupons, and bonus stamps have long been the main concerns of the thrifty housewife, wheeling her cart up and down supermarket aisles. Now she faces more lures at the cashier's counter--the credit card and the computer.

Steven Straw, doctoral candidate in marketing at Ohio State University, is basing a dissertation on a study of consumer behavior and attitudes regarding the use of credit cards and computers known as "remote terminals" at a supermarket in a Columbus suburb.

"THE WHOLE idea of the thing is to witness customer acceptance of credit cards," he explained. "If they're accepted for groceries, that may indicate the general population is ready to accept a new era of credit."

Centering his research around the activities of shoppers in a suburban area, Straw is conducting his study in cooperation with a bank and a credit card company. He has received partial funding for the study from the supermarket.

"We want to see what happens when a customer inserts his credit card into the remote terminal," Straw said.

"THE TERMINAL is a machine which looks a lot like a typewriter, and decodes the magnetic numbers on the credit card. Connected with the bank, it provides immediate access to credit information. In this way, it's a protection, both for the customer and for the merchant."

The transfer of funds from the bank to the store is instantaneous, and the customer's charge is made to the credit card company, to which the customer then pays his bill every 30 days.

STRAW plans to have his data compiled soon, an effort which, he said, will entail "massive statistical work."

"We're mailing out four sets of questionnaires to 200 consumers, chosen at random from the store area," he explained. "The questions refer to shopping habits. For example, where do you usually shop? What percentage of your income do you usually spend in this store? Have you used the computer terminal, and what do you think of it? By the time we're finished, we'll have answers to 300 or 400 questions."

IN ADDITION to the 200 specific customers, Straw is also mailing to 75 shoppers from another Columbus suburb. As a control group response, their answers will be used to determine general changes in public attitude towards the use of credit cards. Personal information from the 275 customers will remain confidential.

An assessment of the computer terminal now would be premature, according to Straw.

"Our first mailing went out before many of the customers had a chance to use it," he said. In spite of the delay, he was optimistic about the outcome of his study.

"IN GENERAL, the people are cooperating very well. The only trend which we can see so far is that a significant number of people are using these cards. However, this finding is only tentative," he emphasized. "It's based on only half of the sample and could be misleading."

Straw began this study at Ohio State under the direction of his faculty adviser, Dr. Bernard J. La Londe, Riley professor of marketing and logistics. Straw received his bachelor's degree in management from the University of Utah in 1964.

The research is part of a broader study being conducted by La Londe and other marketing faculty. It involves interviewing merchants to determine various attitudes of consumers toward credit. Dr. John Grabner and Dr. James Robeson, associate professors of marketing, join La Londe in this endeavor.

Wall-To-Wall

I recently moved from a house into an apartment and had the awesome task of fitting a life time of keepsakes into three rooms. What once took up one bedroom, the guest room closet, the garage and one-fourth of the basement now has to fit on three shelves in the linen closet. I open the door very carefully.

Before I moved I decided to be practical and get rid of all the junk I had been collecting over the years. Unfortunately in all eight boxes or 300 pounds there didn't seem to be anything I could classify as junk. I mean how can you part with your first piggy bank, your first valentine, the gold painted horseshoe you received at summer camp when you made the riding club. And you're going to want to read all those paperbacks at least once more.

Of course after I moved all the boxes over to the apartment and tried finding a place for all the keepsakes, I found I could be a little more callous. In fact after a few hours I found myself throwing away my autographed picture of "Leave It to Beaver" and my original Mickey Mouse Club ears, without batting an eye. (I expect to be suddenly struck with remorse any day now and find myself out digging through the trash in a frantic search.)

Besides learning to maneuver around boxes and books in the obstacle course I call the living room, there have been other adjustments in apartment living. You have to break yourself of the habit of reaching for a lifejacket everytime the people upstairs run water. Gone are the days when you could stick one arm out the front door and into the mailbox so that the neighbors don't know that you're still in your pajamas at noon.

And another thing--what do you do with a wet mop? I spent 45 minutes the other night holding it in front of the air conditioner until it stopped dripping enough to put it in the closet.

But I'm not complaining. There are many great things about apartment living. I have great neighbors, a convenient place to play tennis and I think I have great looking shag carpet. I haven't seen it since I moved in but I'm sure it's down there somewhere.

It's Always Fair Weather

The excitement of a fair or festival draws people in droves and this summer has been no exception.

The grand and glorious State Fair was superb with new Fair Manager Vic Lucas and Special Events and Junior Fair Director, Bill Stalter, doing yeoman work in making a smooth operation seem effortless.

The Franklin County Fair, Grove City's masterpiece, the Westerville Fair and others in the area all added to the great rural outlook that means so much to so many.

Now comes another to our area - the Reynoldsburg Tomato Festival. This seventh annual festival starts today and continues through Saturday.

Those who like these grass roots events will thrive in the exhibit tents and midway areas. Those who aren't sure what to expect can see some of Americana in action as Tomato Town shows off its product.

It's always fair weather it seems and this will be no exception.

Whose Garden Is This?

BY RICHARD L. PAUGH (THROUGH YOUR LOCAL TR ASSN.)

THIS TAPE WILL SELF-DESTRUCT

Recently at the Ohio Department of Health Building in Columbus, the Ohio Air Pollution Control Board (ACPB) accepted testimony concerning the setting forth of a fee schedule relative to the issuance of permits to pollute the air of Ohio.

TESTIMONY offered was fairly typical of attitudes prevalent throughout the whole environmental battle. Those doing the polluting were all in favor of the cost of permits being covered by taxpayers while most on hand wanted fees higher than those proposed. The most telling testimony was by Bill Auberle, super of the Dayton Regional Air Pollution Control Agency, who also represented control officials in Toledo, Cleveland, and Akron. Bill said "It is our opinion that the proposed fees are inadequate in virtually every source category, and are much too low in the categories of very large sources such as large boilers and large processes." It left no doubt that the system in not self-paying.

Yet, Douglas Trail of the Ohio Manufacturers Association stated "We do not have at this time any hard evidence to present that would indicate that the proposed schedule (of fees) would produce too much money, too little money, or just the right amount of money. We are, however, inclined to feel that too much money would be raised." In other words, admitting they don't know, the polluters automatically beef about the fees being too high. Actually, if factories were somehow made to be responsible for the rust on your car, the coatings in your lungs or the loss of income due to the air pollution effects on crops, fee costs would be a small part of their worries.

IT WAS significant that Charles DeVoss, Air Control officer of Columbus, did not choose to join in with Dayton, Akron, Cleveland, and Toledo. During the January, 1972 Ohio Air Pollution hearings, DeVoss offered testimony to the effect that standards should not be very high. He did not appear but rather sent one typed copy which took a week to follow down and read in preparation for this column. He asked the APCB to lower 14 out of 15 fees in the most important category - gas and oil burning equipment. Where the suggested schedule on variances and renewals for this equipment ran from $80 to $250, DeVoss asked that no charge whatsoever be made for variances (exceptions) and renewals.

THIS MAN'S salary is paid out of the taxes of the Franklin County residents who must, besides paying those taxes, stuff their lungs with the air made impure by fuel-burning equipment. DeVoss further stated that, if the federal installations don't have to apply for operating permits, all other levels of government should "be treated as an equal". Two wrongs or three or four wrongs do not make one lonely right.

LIFELINE SUGGESTIONS: Government technicians at all levels should first bend every effort to make for a healthful environment - ABOVE ALL profit making considerations. Question your state, county and local officials on how they consider the environment. First, second or last? Ask them.

Capt. Kidd Knows

Thar's Gold In Them Thar Hills. . .I Hope

By PAUL WALKER

A MADCAP evening, the only one of its kind in central Ohio, comes up Saturday, Sept. 23 when Capt. Kidd holds his (her?) 7th annual Treasure Hunt to benefit the American Cancer Society. Contestants (three couples per car) will start out from School for the Blind anytime between 7 and 7:30 p.m. and where they'll finish at midnight nobody's saying right now.

"It isn't a race, as 's Capt. Kidd, "but a battle of wits. We (referring to himself (or is it herself?) set out a series of clues which lead participants from one place to another. When you solve a problem and find the right spot on the map (which is furnished each car) you proceed there and start looking for another clue. What it will be, I can't say. But you look around and it will be there.

"Solve it and move on," he (or she) smirks.

CAPT. KIDD is a name behind which the entire committee hides. How many members there are on this committee only Capt. Kidd knows. The only thing he (she?) will say is: "This will be our 7th annual Treasure Hunt. It's strictly a fun evening.

"We tell our people to wear old clothes, bring flashlights, hip boots, a bath towel, perhaps a compass and for heaven's sake fill the gas tank. There've been times a ladder has been helpful. Each spot we've picked to hide a clue has its own fascination. Each clue, we promise, will provide bewilderment, puzzlement, and perhaps encourage mayhem.

"When the first clue is figured out at the Blind School, that carload will take off. Maybe it's going to the right spot, maybe not.

"But at midnight when we all gather for refreshments, the route will be explained in detail and it will sound simple, I promise you. It's always surprising to hear Treasure Hunters bragging about how they got to the right place for the wrong reason.. or maybe figured out the right answer and went to the wrong place.

"Half of the fun is listening to the explanations and alibis after we've finished.

"WE SCORE on the basis of the number of clues solved per minute. If you can't figure out a certain clue, we provide you with an explanation (which involves a penalty of 20, or 40, or even 60 minutes)--but that's your problem.

"It's all for fun, and to keep it that way, the first prize has little value -- but everyone wants to win it. Each person in the first place car will receive a silver dollar, a buffalo nickel, and an Indian head penny.

"There are prizes for the first three cars.

"And there is no racing along country roads because we alert the sheriffs, highway patrol, and police to the exact route to be covered," Capt. Kidd said.

Cost is $25 per couple, of which $20 is deductible for tax purposes. Reservations are suggested (276-5134) and Capt. Kidd also says, "Have three couples in your car before you come to the Blind School if you can, because you may never get back to the starting point. Who knows?"

Well...Capt. Kidd knows, but he (she?) just ain't talking. There is room for 50 cars only. And an envelope to be opened at 11:30 will direct you to the finish line if you haven't been successful in solving clues. If there is a baby-sittin' problem at home, figure on 1 to 1:30 a.m.

That's what Capt. Kidd says. Laughing!

Your Election Laws

Voter Registration Deadlines Necessary

(Secretary of State Ted W. Brown becomes a contributor to the editorial page the next four weeks with a series of informative articles concerning your local election laws.)

(First Of A Series)

Voter registration will close October 10 and will remain closed until November 18. The question is occasionally asked: Why should registration close? Why can't voters register at any time? The answer is that the very purpose of registration requires that it be closed for a short period before and after every election.

THE PURPOSE of registration is to assure that every voter who is entitled to vote at a particular polling place is able to vote there without delay and also to assure that no person who is not entitled to vote there is permitted to do so.

To accomplish this purpose of identifying qualified voters, the registration card forms signed by the voters are sorted out precinct-by-precinct and sent out to the polling places. When a prospective voter comes into the polling place and announces his name to the clerk, his card can be taken from the file; and when he signs the poll book, his signature there is compared with the one on the card.

If the signatures correspond, that person is positively identified as the person who is registered and entitled to vote. If there is no card for the person, or if the signatures do not correspond, the person is not entitled to vote there. The increasing mobility of population, with voters moving from one place to another with great frequency, has emphasized the importance of a positive means of identifying voters.

CLOSING registration during a period of 30 days before and 10 days after an election gives the board of elections time in which to separate out the cards and forward them to the polling places. Election officials are busy during this period in examining the cards, moving the cards of voters who have moved, and sorting cards.

This explanation of the operation of the registration system will also serve to demonstrate the importance of reporting every change of address to your board of elections. If the board does not know you have moved, it will send your card to your old voting place. When you arrive at your new polling place, your card will not be there and you will not be allowed to vote. If you move, notify the board of elections of the change in your address. This may be done by mail.

(Next week: Precinct changes.)

It Pleasures Me

I have a cozy little home among the hills.
The night slips through the gap and o'er the lea.
It's then I rest my banjo on my knee.
And play the tunes I like...because
It pleasures me.

My father left me this forty acre farm,
The racer and the pacer with the pedigree.
He built this house of stone and logs, long ago
To live within its sheltering arms -
It pleasures me.

All over the wide world I have roamed.
The far places were delightful to see.
But my heart yearned and home my steps returned
To live this simple country life.
It pleasures me.

There's a pert and saucy witch lives on the ridge.
On Sunday my dog and I walk up to see.
In the spring she has agreed to marry me
And with her promise in my heart -
It pleasures me.

Council Ordinance Sets Regulations

Is There A Garage Sale In Your Future?

By RAY ADAMS

Reynoldsburg residents have a new ordinance to interpret with the passing of a law last Monday night that will restrict and control 'home sales' conducted on residents' premises.

The you name it (garage, patio, yard, roof, carport, basement, driveway) sales will cost the resident 50 cents for a permit and no resident can have more than one each nine month period.

ALTHOUGH council finally passed the ordinance by a 5-1 vote (Mrs. Joann Davidson opposed the ordinance and John Francis had an excused absence) almost as much discussion on pros and cons of the ordinance was heard as had been heard in numerous committee and previous council meetings.

Safety Committee Chairman Richard Retterer even questioned the opposing council members as to whether or not the ordinance was really one everyone had favored in previous meetings. His remarks came after council members had suggested last minute changes (and even getting Mayor Richard Daugherty's last minute thoughts) that he said should have come before the committee a long time ago instead of at the final reading.

ONE PART of the language was finally voted out of the ordinance when Spectator Newspaper Executive Editor Ray Adams spoke against the wording of Item G that said, "'Home sales' may be advertised through the newspaper of other media." Adams told council that the wording inferred that council could, if it chose to, forbid advertising in the newspaper of any garage sales, etc. He told council that it did not have the legislative right to regulate advertising, whether it be approved or restrictive. He further said that the wording could be misconstrued as requiring residents to ask council's permission prior to advertising.

Council was told that there had been complaints about the nuisances caused by these sales.

Safety Director Hugh Dutro told council the ordinance should stand on its own merits and it was not necessary to have a complaint before an ordinance would be effected.

Definition - "Home Sale". A sale of personal property to the general public conducted on any portion of the residence property within a residential zoning district, to include but not to be minited to, garage sales, patio sales, yard sales, carport sales, basement sales, porch sales, driveway sales and the like.

Intent. It is the intent of the Ordinance to regulate, restrict and control home sales conducted on residence premises within residential zoning districts.

It is not the intent of the Ordinance to prevent corporations not for profit, churches, temples, or recognized fraternities, sororities, clubs or lodges from conducting "home sales", provided, such corporations not for profit, churches, temples, recognized fraternities, sororities, clubs or lodges, conduct their sale on real estate owned and - or occupied by such organization.

It is further not the intent of the Ordinance to prohibit sales conducted by non-conforming businesses located in residential zoning districts.

Prohibitions

No person, firm, or corporation shall conduct "home sales" within any residential zoning district in the City of Reynoldsburg without first obtaining a permit from the Service Director.

No person, firm or corporation who has obtained a permit shall violate the rules and regulations as provided within this Ordinance.

No "home sale" shall be conducted by more than one resident without the consent of the Service Director.

No "home sale" shall be conducted during hours other than those hours prescribed by the Service Director and in no event shall a "home sale" last more than three consecutive days.

No "home sale" shall offer any merchandise for sale that has been purchased by the resident for purposes of re-sale at such "home sale." Any new merchandise offered for sale shall be prim-facie evidence as merchandise purchased by the resident for re-sale at such "home sale."

A sign, not greater in size than 3 feet by 3 feet, may be installed on the property where the sale is being conducted.

No sign shall be placed on the public right of way or on property other than where the sale is being conducted. No lighted sign shall be used.

The sign shall be displayed only during the sale and shall be promptly removed after trhe sale.

Prior to and during the conduct of a "home sale", as permitted by this ordinance, it shall be unlawful to place or display any of said property in front of the building setback line and it shall be unlawful to place or permit any signs advertising, promoting or giving directions to said sale, at any location other than the property on which the sale is being conducted.

Not to exceed ten articles of tangible personal property may be sold or offered for sale by the owner inside his or her residence if no signs or advertising are placed or permitted to be placed outside the residence, without the necessity of obtaining a permit.

THE SERVICE Director of the City of Reynoldsburg, Ohio shall provide application for permits and permit licenses for "home sales". Such application for permit shall include the name of the applicant who shall be a resident of the City of Reynoldsburg Ohio, address, telephone number, length of residence within the City, nature of merchandise to be offered for sale, date of sale and hours and duration of the sale.

The Service Director shall approve the application and shall regulate the hours of the home sale issued to the resident applicant, except, no home sale shall be commenced earlier than 9:00 a.m. nor shall such sale last later than 8:00 p.m.

The Service Director shall charge a fee of 50 cents to the applicant.

Every licensee conducting a home sale shall keep posted in a prominent place, upon the licensed premises, the permit certificate and shall exhibit same upon request.

WHOEVER violates or fails to comply with any provisions of the Ordinance, shall be fined as a first offense, not less than $5 nor more than $50. Whoever violate or fails to comply with any provisions of this Ordinance as a second offense, shall be fined not more than $100.00 and - or 30 days imprisonment.

HERE'S JUST one of the many "advertisements" seen in Reynoldsburg last week for garage sales. There is a violation here (putting a sign on a pole) but the offender must be observed to be prosecuted. Meanwhile the arrow points the way.

CARS AND MORE CARS were gathering at one location even before the items were put in the yard. The one auto with the trunk lik partially open apparently is full of "yard sale" items.

Let's Tour Ohio

Scenic Hocking Hills Is A Tour Highlight

(One of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by Columbus Auto Club Travel Department)

A visit to the Hocking Hills is a scenic delight in any season, but most of all when leaves of the trees are taking on autumn colors.

Logan and Circleville are principal points of entry for the six state parks which make up the wooded wonderland suggested for today's tour.

THE PARKS abound with caves, canyons, cliffs, gorges and waterfalls, with many miles of woodland trails. Best-known is Old Man's Cave. Already attracting thousands of visitors, it has become more popular with completion of cabins and a lodge with dining facilities.

Ash Cave is a semi-circular recess in a huge rock, with a waterfall over the rim. Rock House, Cantwell Cliffs and Conkle's Hollow have cliffs, gorges and interesting rock formations. All these parks are on Ohio 374 except Ash Cave which is on Route 56.

NATURE lovers will find the Hocking Parks a paradise. They will see here the greatest variety of trees and plants to be found in Ohio, more than one hundred species of birds, and every kind of game native to the midwest.

Good picnic facilities are provided, but those wanting water sports will need to travel a little farther. The Hocking Park area has no lakes, and the lodge and cabins at Old Man's Cave are the first such state construction not on a body of water.

In nearby Hocking County is Lake Logan. Adjoining Vinton County offers three lakes -- Hope, Alma, and Wellston.

AAA suggests this routing to the AAA tour area: From Columbus go east on I-70 to US 33; southeast on US 33 to the tour area.

And So It Grows

By The
Ohio State University
Cooperative Extension Service

The rains came, the grass grew, but so did the weeds. And with fall coming on, we can give thoughts to controlling these weeds in our lawns. The best time to do this, of course, is in the fall or early spring.

BROADLEAF weeds like dandelion, dock, knotweed, henbit, pigweed and many others can be killed, usually with one proper spray treatment. Chemicals such as 2, 4-D, MCPP, 2, 4, 5-T and Silvex do a good job. Liquid and granular formulations are on the market. Either type will do the job if applied according to directions on the label. When using a spray, use the amine, not ester, formulation. Esters more volatile and more likely to injure plants. If misused, all these herbicides can kill or injure trees and other ornamental plants.

SOIL AERATION

If your lawn fails to grow even during wet weather, it may be suffering from lack of water penetration. The rate of water intake and penetration on some lawns may be improved by using some type of mechanical aerator. This permits more water to soak into the soil and lets fertilizer come in contact with the root system.

Use aerators that remove a plug of soil the size of a pencil or larger. Some aerators are drum-like rollers with spikes two to three inches long. These punch holes in the soil about three inches apart when pulled over the lawn. Although they do not remove a plug of soil, they do help aerate the soil, letting more water and fertilizer into the root zone.

REMOVING CLIPPINGS

Allowing clippings to remain on the lawn benefits thin stands. They conserve moisture, keep the soil cooler, and permit reuse of the fertilizing materials in the grass. However, clippings are of little benefit to a thick stand of grass an may hinder it by increasing disease problems and contributing to the buildup of thatch.

THATCH REMOVAL

Thatch is the intertwined stems and dead leaves between the green portion of grass and the root system. Thatch is the mat of dead material that builds up among the grass plants on the surface of the soil. Thick, heavy mats prevent water and fertilizer penetration and eventually cause the grass to thin out. Thatch also harbors diseases.

Mid fall or early spring is the best time to dethatch your lawn. You can rent dethatching machines or buy certain type rakes or you can sprinkle about on eighth of an inch of good top soil over the lawn. The thin layer of top soil sifts down into the grass and aids thatch decay.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Pied Piper

Little Tommy raced across the street to buy a strawberry cone from the ice cream truck. But as he started back, he stepped into the path of an oncoming car. Tommy was seriously injured, and his family sued the ice cream company for having failed to warn him of the danger.

At the trial, the company protested that its driver had no obligation to take care of other people's children. But the court ruled otherwise. Ordering the company to pay damages, the judge said:

"The sense of haste is purposely aroused in the children by the tinkling of bells and flashing of lights. The responsibility of one who provokes into action the natural recklessness of children ought (to) be proportionate to the danger he creates."

There have been a number of these "Pied Piper" lawsuits in which a street vendor has been held liable for tempting a child into jeopardy. However, some courts have rejected such claims, at least when special circumstances come into the picture.

Consider another case, also involving injury to a youthful ice cream purchaser. This time, the boy had walked some distance around the rear of the truck before starting back across the street. Moreover, he was a vigorous 10-year-old, the kind of youngster ordinarily well able to cross alone.

Denying damages, the court said the driver could not fairly be blamed for assuming that the boy was "on his own."

Furthermore, the victim himself may be guilty of negligence. Thus:

An 11-year-old boy leaped onto the running board of an ice cream truck, out of the driver's line of vision. When the truck began to accelerate, the boy fell off to the pavement.

In the lawsuit that followed, he acknowledged that he had been aware of the risk he was taking. Turning down his claim, the court said:

"All the essential ingredients of contributory negligence were present."

Neither Rain, Snow, Etc.

Postal Manpower Subject Of Study

It's always been a sure thing. Tradition has vowed that neither rain, nor snow, nor dark of night will delay the U.S. mail.

But just in case, Vincent Mabert, who expects to receive his Ph.D. in production and operations management from Ohio State University in June, 1973, is giving Columbus' Twin Rivers Dr. facility of the U.S. Postal Service an extra push.

THAT PUSH is the essence of his doctoral research, and consists of a study of the efficient allocation of manpower in a typical post office work day. His research began in July, 1970, and was triggered by a change in postal management.

"Up until two years ago, major policy decisions such as postal rates, wages, and capital expenditures were controlled by Congress," Mabert explained. "Now with the transition into public corporation, all these decisions are within the domain of postal management. This transition has brought on new problems which the management had not previously had to face, and it's these problems which I'm studying."

HE STRESSED the fact that he is not interested in evaluating post office efficiency as it applies to individuals, but as it relates to the distribution and delivery of the mail, as a whole. Application of the latest business techniques is one way he sees of improving this process.

The Twin Rivers Dr. facility is better equipped this summer than most post offices with the installation of a mechanized system. The Letter Machine Code Sort System (LMSS) speeds up the process by imprinting magnetic numbers on addresses, and decoding them in a machine which automatically slides letters into their proper destination slots.

"This office is actually a pilot project for LMCSS," Mabert said. "Columbus is a preferential mail center, which means that first class mail is handled mechanically, while many other areas are bulk mail centers, handling only second, third, and fourth class mechanically."

MABERT'S dissertation will review the effectiveness of LMCSS and other management techniques in the hopes of establishing a decision methodology, and will give suggestions for improvement to the Post Office.

"We want to see if we can come up with an operational policy for overall efficiency. We may be able to achieve some mathematical formulas which will provide simple rules as a framework for decision making," he speculated.

Mabert's research is one aspect of a broader post office study currently being conducted by four Ohio State faculty members.

Mabert's faculty adviser, Dr. Larry P. Ritzman, associate professor of management science, commented, "His is really a spin-off of the total study. We're also studying things like how manpower limitations can meet seasonal demands, how manpower can be distributed in shifts most effectively, how to predict mail inputs, and how to locate post offices most effectively."

THIS RESEARCH was begun about 2 years ago, and will continue for another 1½ years, Ritzman estimated. The Research Division of the College of Administrative Science granted the four faculty members $10,000 to conduct this study. Dr. Leroy J. Krajewski, assistant professor of management science, is the primary investigator. Besides Ritzman, he is joined by Dr. Stanley T. Hardy and Dr. Lawrence D. Vitt, associate professors of management science. The faculty members originally employed Mabert as a research assistant, a position which led to his current doctoral research with the post office.

He has received two degrees from Ohio State, bachelor of business administration in 1967 and master's in 1969.

The Last Hoops Of Summer

TWO SWINGERS got in the last few kicks of summer before school started and they had to hang up their hoops. Peace or victory were obviously in the mind of the young man on the left. The young lady on the right demonstrates a figure setting and saving exercise mothers should try. Hula hoops were a big thing a few years ago, but they faded away. History repeats itself. The hoops are back a-round. Kids used to think they were terrific hoopsters when they could just swing the thing around their necks, their legs, their chests and their arms—all at the same time. Aren't you glad you've passed the swinging age.

Dear Consumer

Vacation Plans Need Planning

By VIRGINIA KNAUER
Special Assistant to the President,
and Director
White House Office of Consumer Affairs

A weekend or vacation house for the whole family.

A retirement home away from the city.

We dream of these get-away-from-it-all places—in the mountains, at the shore or in the country. Over the years, many of us try to save a little extra cash to buy a piece of land for that special dream house.

For many persons, however, their savings buy disappointments instead of dreams. According to the Office of Interstate Land Sales Registration in the Department of Housing and Urban Development, "Thousands of people every week are being misled or cheated when buying lots for recreational, retirement, or investment purposes."

Because it heard so many consumer complaints about questionable sales practices by land developers, Congress passed the Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act in 1968. If you ever intend to buy land promoted for recreational, retirement or investment purposes, you will be interested in some provisions of the law:

First of all, virtually any land developer who is selling or leasing 50 or more unimproved lots of under five acres each is required to furnish you with a property report giving detailed information about the land you are considering. Insist upon receiving a property report and study it before you buy. The property report represents one of your primary sources of protection under the law.

Second, the property report must tell you

–Distances over paved and unpaved roads to neighboring communities,

–Existence of any liens on the property,

–Availability of schools, medical and shopping facilities and public transportation,

–Availability of sewer and water services, gas and electricity,

–Soil and foundation conditions that could cause problems in construction,

–Number of houses currently occupied in the development,

–Availability of schools, madical and shopping facilities and public transportation,

–Probability of receiving clear title to the land when you have paid for it,

–Many other features about the land of importance to you in deciding whether to buy.

Of course, your best protection is to see the land before you buy.

If you desire more information about the law and your rights as a consumer, write to the Office of Interstate Land Sales Registration, Department of Housing and Urban Development, Washington, DC 20410.

Million Dollar Club Inducts New Members

A record 239 Realtor and Associate Members were honored today by the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards, (OAREB), as they were taken into the "Million Dollar Club." They were presented their "Club" certificates at a special luncheon during the Association's annual State Convention in Columbus.

OAREB originated in 1970 to give recognition to real estate professionals who have done an outstanding sales job during the previous year. Those qualifying by selling One Million Dollars or more of residential, commercial or industrial property between July 1 and June 30 are honored annually at the State Convention. (Note: This year's recipients earned their membership by selling One Million Dollars' worth of real estate between July 1, 1971 and June 30, 1972)

Sears Plans To Open Catalog Store Sept. 14

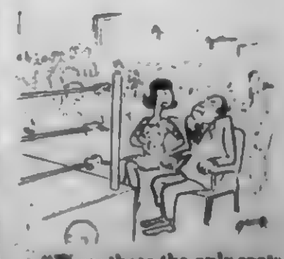
Sears, Roebuck and Co. this week announced plans for opening a new Catalog Outlet Store Thursday, September 14, in the huge Sears Columbus Distribution Center at 4545 Fisher Rd. on the West side.

Thomas F. Driscoll, general manager of the Center, said that a grand-opening and ribbon cutting ceremony will be held at 11 a.m., September 14.

The new Catalog Outlet Store, first of its type in this area, will feature Sears nationally advertised soft-lines merchandise as well as major appliances.

DRISCOLL added that most of the merchandise will represent new but discontinued or surplus goods at discounted prices. Electrical and mechanical units will carry a guarantee to be free of operational defects.

A catalog order desk, where any of the 200,000 items in the Sears catalogs may be ordered, will provide another shopping attraction.



SEARS display experts have transformed an 18,000 sq. ft. section on the first floor of the administration building of the Distribution Center, into an attractive, modern and well-lighted sales facility.

Named manager of the new unit is George A. Fergison, a 16 year veteran, who formerly was a division manager in Sears Northland store.

Driscoll announced that the new Catalog Outlet Store will be open from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

"OPENING of this store will provide our Columbus-area customers with even more economical shopping opportunities," he said.

IMS Plans Discussion On Transcendental Meditation

The International Meditation Society (IMS) will present an introduction to the technique of Transcendental Meditation or TM tomorrow evening, at 8 at the Bexley Public Library, 2411 East Main St.

TM, as taught by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi is a simple system which allows those practicing it to gain deep rest and relaxation in just a few minutes. This deep rest rejuvenates the mind and body, and the individual returns to activity with fresh energy and enthusiasm.

Scientific studies have been done on TM which show that the rest gained during the period of medition is even greater than that gained during deep sleep.

Standard physiological measurements of heart rate, blood pressure, breath rate, and other similar functions indicate that general metabolic rate decreases by an average of 20 per cent. Brain-wave measurements, however, indicate that while the body is in this state of profound rest, the mind is fully alert.

Tomorrow's lecture will be given by Stan Crowe, a teacher of Transcendental Meditation and Area Coordianator for IMS in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky.

For more information on this and other lectures in the Columbus area please call the International Meditation Society, 294-7467.

AROUND TOWN

Now Here This! People of Columbus! Beginning September 19 we have another first class, fun type room, offering the best entertainment Around Town, in an exciting, Fun type atmosphere.

The name of this new room is "The Yankee Doddle Room." It is located, this you may not believe, but the place is coming alive, and I do mean alive, in the Imperial House - West Motel.

All the action will take place in what is now the dining room. The theme for the new room, as you may imagine from the name, will be very patriotic with red, white and blue bunting. The same color combination will be on the drums, circa the spirit of '76, that will be hung throughout the room.

THERE WILL be several sharp cocktail waittresses, and I do mean sharp, wearing very short red, white and blue skirts. The gals will be known as the Yankee Doodle Dandies. And, they are dandies.

The room opens with a powerhouse of an act, Autum, Sun and Love. These boys are well known and provide nothing but first rate entertainment. You will flip over the vocal and instrumental stylings.

The Yankee Doodle Room will have an atmosphere similar to a supper club. Now, don't let this scare you. There will be no cover or minimum charge. You may walk in, and just order a drink, or dine with some of the finest foods around. Dinner will be served until 11 p.m. You can order a sandwich anytime. But, like I said, don't think it is going to be so high class or expensive, that you won't want to walk into the room.

THE YANKEE Doodle Room is going to be a room, similar to those entertainment spots of the 40's. Nice, plenty of fun, but not expensive or plush.

See you at the Imperial House-West, Tuesday, September 19. I'll bet you I will see you often in the Yankee Doodle Room.

Columbus just keeps popping up with new places. In Gahanna there is a brand new room, that is going to be a real winner. It is called, "The Place Downstairs." It is located downstairs in Miller's Village Inn. Like everything Miller does, this place is first class.

It has an informal, relaxed atmosphere. The decor is strictly contemporary. Yet, there is nothing way out. It is a type of room that will appeal to all ages. The clever use of blacklighting, wall decorations, painting and assortment of colored candles gives the room plenty of life and color.

WHILE IT is a contemporary motiff, the decor is not way out. It still retains a high degree of taste.

The trio who are currently appearing in The Place Downstairs fits all the requirements. The name of the group is The Entertainment Committee. Their music resembles the rooms decor-an appeal for all ages, plenty of life, a touch of the contemporary, while maintaining a good taste for music.

I first reviewed The Entertainment Committee about a year ago. At that time, I flipped over this outfit. They have come a long way since then. In my opinion they are several times better.

JEFF DEVER sings and plays drums. He does both better than most anyone else around. His rendition of, "On A Clear Day," will stand up with the best of them. Jeff's voice can only be described as beautiful.

Guitarist Bob Gillespie is excellent. He has a heap of chords in his head, which he constantly passes on to you. Bob literally makes the guitar talk. This fellow is just as good in the vocal department. Singing with loads of soul and feeling Bob can milk the devil out of a tune. His vocal, as well as his instrumental attack, shows plenty of control and style.

THE KEYBOARD man is always the important link in a group. And, as the old saying goes, a chain is only as strong as its weakest link. This outfit has no weak link. Chuck Bowen is as dynamic of a musician as the other two. A real master of the black and whites is the only way to describe Chuck Bowen.

As you can well imagine all three are outstanding soloists. Put them together, and watch out. You hear some great three part vocal harmony. The Entertainment Committee is a fast pace, highly polished trio. They play all types of music.

This is one committee you won't mind listening to. Their name is Entertainment Committee. Entertainment is their business and they do it well. You can hear the Committee's report Wednesday through Saturday at The Place Downstairs. I'm sure you will second the motion.

THE CURRENT production of Columbus - Springfield Dinner Theatre's, "Butterflies Are Free," is without a doubt, the finest production, the best play and most of all, the most talented cast to set foot on their stage. That, my friends, is saying a lot, when you consider, many of the excellent plays presented at the Columbus - Springfield Dinner Theatre.

For those of you who have not read the book, caught the stage or screen offering, I'll just give you a very brief resume of the plot. The book is much to good to reveal the entire plot. This would ruin it for those of you who are going to catch it.

"BUTTERFLIES Are Free," is a play by Leonard Gershe who was inspired by newspaper accounts of a blind boy. In fact, read the August issue of Reader's Digest. The condensed book section, features a book, "To Race the Wind," which is all about the same boy.

In "Butterflies Are Free," the play deals with a young fellow who decides to leave home, move into New York City and try to make it on his own. His next door neighbor is a sensentive, bedroom type of gal. They fall into bed and then into love.

That's all I'm going to tell you about the plot.

But, I will tell you this much, "Butterflies Are Free," will cause you to laugh a lot. And, if you are like a lot of Friday's night audience, you'll shed a few tears as well. Many of the lines are hilarious. Yet, there are scenes which are very poignant.

THIS PLAY is truly a lively, touching romance between two dynamic individuals. I believe it is one of the best things to hit the American theatre in many a moon.

However, what really makes the play a work of art is the cast. Thomas Browne as the blind Don Barker turns in a sterling performance. He does an extremely convincing job of portraying a blind personb. His actions and mannerisms are authentic to the last detail. In fact, many of the people in the audience were convinced that Browne was actually blind. I'll say this, of all the actor and actresses I've seen this past year Thomas Browne deserves a local Oscar.

Judy Miller, playing his lover, Jill Tanner, also turns in a metalic performance. An enthusastic performer, Judy is a real spark plug on stage. Her work, no doubt, is a great assistance to everyone. She has a fine sense of timing and is able to establish a strong character. Four Stars to Judy Miller.

ANOTHER gal deserving plenty of credits is Isobel Hamilton, who plays Don's Mother. She puts everything into her role of a doting, prudish mother from the rich suburbs. You could not want any better person for this role. She is terrific.

Another fellow, who has a small part, but turns in a tremendous performance is Robert Nesbitt, as Ralph Austin, a Broadway play producer, who has been making it with Jill.

Just do yourself a big favor, make sure you see, "Butterflies Are Free," at the Columbus-Springfield Dinner Theatre. It is one performance you will remember and talk about a long time afterwards.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

WHILE I don't have room this week to give you a complete review on Misty and Larry, currently at Lincoln Lodge, just let me tell you this - they are great. Misty sings like a bird. She sings all types of songs from the 40's and 50's on up to the 70's. This gal is great, you'll flip over this duo...The Duke Jenkins Trio opens at the Marriott Inn next week. This is one of the best musical trios Around Town. They played at the Marriott a few months ago, and were definitely brought back by popular demand. You go a long way before you hear some of the fine sounds as you'll hear from this outfit...

THE RAMADA Inn North has one of the strongest double barrell deals in Columbus. Both Jim Hittner and the Phrophecy and The Diamonds Four are sharing the same stage. That's right - both groups are playing nightly. One outfit plays for 45 minutes, then the next one performs for 45 minutes. At Ramada Inn South, you hear a trio, that I'm sure will flip you right off your seat. Their name is the Gateway Trio. They sound very similar to the old Kingston Trio. Bill Morris is entertaing at the Ramada Inn East...On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, you must head to the Holiday Inn Reynoldsburg and listen to the Dave Hopkins Trio. Here is a trio that doesn't play jazz, nor do they play much contemporary music. They handle nothing but pretty, pretty music. Dave is one of the best trumpet players in these parts. He and the boys are all first rate musicians. Each song, be it from the 40's or the 70's, has that special Dave Hopkins touch. Sweet music, with a heavy melody line with a strong simple rythum pattern is their trademark. Of course, that can, and do cut lose on some might hot, swinging numbers. But, they never get way out in left field. You will enjoy this trio, if you dig good music. Believe it or not, there is not a guitar or electric bass in the entire group...

LAST, but not least, that crazy man at the piano. Piano Pasha returns to the Imperial House-North. This fellow is one of the funniest and one of the best pianist you hear anywhere. He has played there several times the past three years and always packs a full house. You'll laugh yourself silly with his humor, and marvel at his flying fingers. Piano Pasha is one of the best in the business.

ACT II
By BETTY DRAGONETTE

You still have Saturdays and Sundays through October 29 to get in on lots of fun at King's Island. We took the four kids, age eight through twelve and had a ball. It was the first time in my entire life I actually enjoyed an amusement park. The first thing that strikes you is the fact that there is one admission, and, except for food, that is all you pay.

There is no limit to the number of times you can ride anything in the park, including the sky ride and the giant twin roller coaster. The second point of amazement is the cleanliness. There are men in little white uniforms who follow you around with a broom and a silent butler to sweep up anything you drop. I felt like such an idiot when I dropped a thread and the man came over and swept it up in front of me. Pretty soon you get the general idea and neatness becomes a habit.

We took the kids to the "Lost Parents Center" and told them we would check back periodically and in case they were hungry or lonesome to meet us there. They scattered off in all directions - and it is perfectly safe. There is no traffic on the grounds and there is plenty of adult supervision - all of them kind and personally interested in your welfare. Then it was our turn.

I went on rides I swore I would never go on and found myself wanting to experience more and more. The food was good in all of the places we tried and it was no more expensive than any other amusement park or state fair. Entertainment abounded, but I will let you in on just two features-the "King's Island Clown Band", made up of eleven men from Xavier University - all of them in the marching band, but none of them music majors - with Mike Fritz as their composer - choreographer.

They entered the grounds, wound around through the shops playing with a far out beat and ending up at the bandstand in front of the Eifel Tower putting on a fantastic show. I understand my chasing them as they make their exit caused not just a little laughter. They offered to add me to the show - but I couldn't see the trip every weekend.

Then there is "The Medicine Show". University of Cincinnati students Greg Gunning, Tina Bacalakis, Tom Mothersole and Nancy Hill (from Columbus) try to sell Dr. Daniel's Rapid Rejuvenator. I guess by now you have the picture - I liked King's Island!

A short announcement - tryouts for Worthington Community Theatre's "Therese", directed by Curt Meeks will be held Sept. 13-14. I hope you are reading this as soon as it arrives or it will be too late. For information call Andrea Wright, 885-0369 or Mary B. Crawford, 885-5017.

Three 'All-East' Battles Top Prep Grid Slate

Spectator SPORTS

Football fortunes out East were a predictably "mixed bag" as the '72 high school pigskin season got rolling last weekend.

Defending City king Eastmoor built a 15-0 lead at Zanesville, then held off a late Devil rally to avenge last year's only setback 17-13.

ELSWHERE, Academy tuned up for this week's Mid Buckeye showdown against Newark Catholic by demolishing Cincinnati Country Day 34-0. Bexley topped Canal Winchester 20-12 in a Thursday tussle. St. Charles and Groveport dropped tight decisions to out-of-town foes, Hartley suffered a 30-0 mauling at Gahanna, and Reynoldsburg's "rebuilding" program ran into a 21-6 snag against Grandview.

This Friday's card calls for a trio of all-Eastside showdowns, as Bexley entertains St. Charles, Whitehall invades Eastmoor and Reynoldsburg motors down Hamilton Rd. for a date at Groveport.

Other tilts will feature the Academy-Newark Catholic duel--a Saturday afternoon bash with the loop crown in question--and road tests for Ridge (Whetstone) and Hartley (Mohawk).

FRIDAY'S TRIUMPH at Zanesville was the tenth straight for Bob Stuart's Warriors after an opening loss to the same Blue Devils last year.

That's Columbus' longest high school streak.

Stu's crew bunched all their scoring in the second stanza as QB Mark Kraker dove over for one TD, Wingback Duane Howard streaked 15 for another and burly Ron Ayers booted a 35 yard field goal.

Some hard-hitting defense kept the Devils scoreless till the third quarter, and helped set up the second E-M score.

THE WARRIORS entertain Whitehall Friday evening, and nobody's taking the Rams lightly after a strong showing against City contender Ridge last week.

Mike Caporiello's young club ran more plays and totalled more first downs than the Scots, but lost four of five fumbles in good field position to choke off scoring threats.

Only tally they could produce was a nine yard aerial from Dave Brobst to Ron McMahon--on the first play after recovering a Scot fumble.

CHARLES TAYLOR got 73 yards rushing in 16 tries and Mike Davidek added 42 more in only seven carries to pace the Ram ground game.

A 6-6 tie at the half, the game was decided midway through the third stanza when Ridge QB Greg Wray hit speedy slpit end Kevin McCray with a 'look-in' pass over the middle--and McCray cantered 45 yards for the deciding TD.

SCOT COACH Vince Cahill is hopeful that his charges got all the "mental mistakes" out of their systems in Friday's tilt.

"We blocked the wrong people a few too many times," he said. "But the offense got going pretty well in the fourth quarter so we're hoping things will be a lot smoother at Whetstone this week."

Vince was cheered by the defensive play of tackles Ken Levine and Leonard Temple, and also had kind words for linebacker Steve Landry.

HE DESCRIBED Whetstone as a "big, methodical club," and speculated that the Braves will stay with a grind-it-out, straight ahead power game unless they fall far behind.

Reynoldsburg got on the scoreboard early, as newcomer Neil Foor scampered six yards for the season's first TD--but first-game lapses cost the Raiders and Grandview built a 14-6 halftime lead into a 21-6 final margin.

So new coach Dick Kerschbaum will take 'em to Groveport Friday still looking for that streak-breaking win (Raiders haven't won since opening game last season).

THEY'LL FACE a Cruiser club that got stung on a "dipsy-doodle" play en route to a 13-7 setback at Teays Valley Friday night.

Viking end Terry Lambert grabbed a short pass, but cheerfully lateralled to teammate Jim Pabst when the G-P secondary pounced on him. Before the startled Cruisers could change direction, Pabst was long gone for a 30 yard TD.

Bob Starr's club sputtered on offense till the late stages, but QB Ken Law did manage to find Rob Moore in the end zone for a last-minute 36-yard score.

BEXLEY BOSS Dan O'Brien was "quite pleased" with the overall performance of his Mid Eight favorites last Thursday.

"It's hard to critize an offense that gets you 360 yards and 17 first downs on opening night," he noted. Keying the ground attack was vet Lou Lombardo--who galloped for 144 yards in 13 carries. He got plenty of help from Buzz Inboden (92 in 24 tries) and Doug Ewing (90 in 11 rushes).

DAN WAS ALSO tickled with a rushing defense that held the Indians to a measly 29 yards for the evening; but growled a bit about the 196 yards in aerial gains his secondary allowed.

"That's too many doggone yard," he said--"you better believe we'll spend some time this week improving that part of our game."

O'Brien had some kind words for Friday foe St. Charles.

IN ONLY THEIR second varsity year since resuming interscholastic competition, the Cards have a raft of material but not too much experience. It cost'em last week, as West Jefferson made a second quarter TD pass stand up the rest of the way for a 6-0 verdict.

"I've got a lot of respect for Jerry (Connor) as a coach," said O'Brien; "and I know his kids would just love to hang one on us.."

With league warfare just a week away for most area eleven's, Friday's battles will be a last tune-up before their respective main events.

WHAT HIT ME? Canal Winchester running back Dave Wagner slowly releases pigskin toward waiting official after absorbing a double-barrelled jolt from Bexley defenders Steve Marr (43) and Dean Pedon (28). Wagner, who was stopped after a short gain here, did manage to shake loose for a pair of fourth quarter TD's in last Thursday's season opener--but not until Lions had built an insurmountable 20-0 lead. Some Sweet Swingers

TENNIS, ANYONE? might be answered by many young men of the community who would challenge these two beauties to a game of netting on any court. They're two of the champs in the recent city tournament. Nancy Hanko, left, who just happens to be the Tomato Queen runnerup, is the city girls singles champion. She also is the doubles champion with Loretta Myers, right. Wouldn't it be fun to engage these girls in a tennis marathon for some charitable cause? We'd be willing to show our Helen Wills Moody form for that cause. Any takers? Jr. High Grid Loop Unveils 2nd Edition

The Columbus Independent Junior High Football League kicked off its second season last weekend with two new entries and a full slate of action.

The card featured four shutouts, with defending champ Eastmoor's 12-8 verdict over East the only exception.

MARION-FRANKLIN topped Mifflin 12-0, with 'Tosh Howell running six yards for one TD and recovering a Cowpuncher fumble in the end zone for another.

West opened its rookie campaign with a convincing 36-0 romp over North. Roosevelt Williams was the offensive star for West with TD runs of 40 and 50 yards and 35 yard pass reception from Linwood Patrick. Other tallies were by Dean Smith (1 yard run) and Tim Borror (blocked punt).

Linden clubbed Walnut Ridge 20-0 as Roger Williams raced 15 and 35 yards to paydirt. Roger Pinckney had the other Linden TD on an eight yard blast.

RICK WCWHIRTER, Wayne Butts and Tim Hackett all collected six-pointers as Whetstone dumped South 20-0. Hackett's score came on a 15 yard pass from QB Mark Chickerella.

Viking Gridders 3-2 In Weekend Duels

Three Eastland Viking gridiron clubs opened '72 battling with wins over the weekend, while two others didn't fare quite as well.

The 90-pound Tri-County team edged the Arlington Tigers 6-0 on a 45 yard run by Keith Griffin with only two minutes to play.

THE 105-POUND Capital City entry collared Gahanna 24-0, as Terry Galloway had a pair of TD canters, Ken Topping another and Mike Frost took a kickoff 70 yards to paydirt.

The Viking 120-pound Midwest League squad posted an identical 24-0 count over the Northland Lancers. Randy Bressler rushed for over 100 yards and scored from 27, 35 and 3 yards out to spearhead the Eastland attack. Brett Landry got credit for a safety.

The news wasn't so good for the 115-pound Vikes, however, as they failed to convert after an 80 yard scoring dash by Jeff Stout and lost a 7-6 heartbreaker to Whitehall.

Heart Of Ohio Loop Opens '72 Warfare

The Heart of Ohio Adult Tackle Football League opened its fourth season Saturday night at Harley field as last year's champs, the Columbus Wild Bunch, downed the Arlington Norsemen 8-0.

Phil Frazier tallied the game's only TD, gathering in a 30 yard pass from QB Jim Mason in the final period. Jay Sheets added a safety for the winners.

SUNDAY'S ROUND of action was tense to say the least.

The Mount Sterling Golden Grizzlies got a third period touchdown on a 30 yard pass from Steve Gibson to Bill Marting, then held on by their fingernails as Lancaster's Raiders ran out of time on the Grizzly 2 yard line.

Rick Juguo of the Whitehall Winers crashed over from six yards out and Charles Buklen ran for the two point conversion in the last three minutes for a 14-13 win over Worthington's Rangers.

Worthington got its scores on a four yard run by Larry Paschal and a 60 yard bomb from Jack Roth to John Cooke, Al Sandberg kicked one PAT.

ONLY OTHER Sunday battle saw the Columbus Vulcans and Heath Falcons play to a scoreless standoff.

The Audi 100LS The Porsche 911 The Porsche 914

The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.
It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty-one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)
The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.
A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty-one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.
And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.
We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.
We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.
And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look: The way they work.

Profound Thoughts

BY LOIS SHERERD

A little black boy asked a missionary in Africa, "Was Jesus a black man?"

"No, my boy, I don't believe He was", answered the missionary. The little boy turned away disappointed, saying, "Why do the white people have all the good things?"

The missionary noting the sad face of the boy and reflecting on the hot Syrian sun, replied, "Truly, I think His color would be between yours and mine".

The boy clapped his hands and shouted "Then He belongs to both of us" - and jumped up and down for joy.

The Devil has no great interest in destroying the Church; he would far rather run it.

Is Jesus the answer for you, to these questions? If so, I would say you are on the right road to the Kingdom of God.

Who is your first Love? Rev. 2:4 – Who has your heart?

Who is the source of your supply?—Who hears and answers your prayers?

Who do you trust for eternal life?—Whom do you meditate upon?

Who has your surrendered will?—Who has your best energies and good works?

In whom is your greatest delight-Who do your desire to see first in heaven?

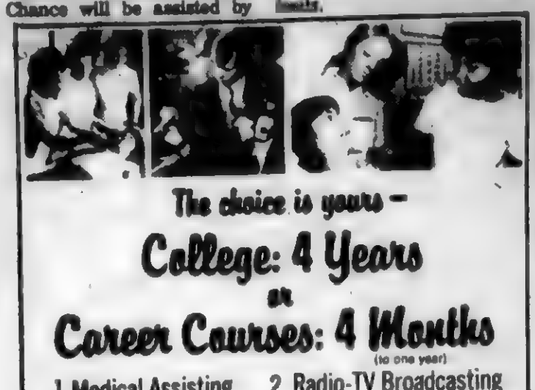
Who forgives your iniquities and heals all your diseases? Ps. 103:3.

Navy Recruiter Assumes Command

Lieutenant Commander James W. Shelton has assumed command of Navy Recruiting District, Columbus from Commander E. F. Poyet. Ceremonies were held at the Navy-Marine Corps Reserve Training Center, September 9.

Rear Admiral Emmett H. Tidd, Commander, Navy Recruiting Command, spoke at the affair.

LCDR Shelton, who began his Navy career as a seaman apprentice in 1947, comes to Columbus from overseas shore duty where he was Officer in Charge, Naval Support Activity, Naples, Italy.



CDR Poyet returns to sea duty to assume command of the newly commissioned landing ship tanks, USS Manitowoc (LST 1180).

LCDR Shelton served 11 years as an enlistedman, attaining the rate of Boatswain's Mate First Class and a designated helium-oxygen deep sea diver.

They've Set All Their Sails

WHAT'S MORE exciting than for a young fella to do down to the sea to watch the ships come in? Why, of course, it's going down to the creek with Grandpa and sailing your own boat while Grandpa gives weatherbeaten advice. That's the thrill that Doug Francis, son of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Francis, Graham Road, was able to share with his grandfather, John Bysinger, East Main Street, as they walked to French Run Creek and waited for a 'Noreaster' to take the ships up the creek. What a rare treat it must have been for Doug to build such a real dream castle so close to home. A story and more photos of their adventure are on an inside page. (Spectator photo by Ray Adams.)

School Board Gets Bond Issue Support

The League Of Women Voters Tuesday, issued the following statement to the Columbus School Board in support of the 89.5 million dollar bond issue.

"At a meeting on Sept. 6, the Board of Directors of the League of Women Voters of Metropolitan Columbus voted to support the 89.5 million dollar Bond Issue placed on the ballot by the Columbus Board of Education. Our decision to support this issue is based on our conviction that the school children of Columbus are in need of additional facilities and was reached only after many hours of interviews with school administrators, talks with Board members, and marathon discussions. We intend to work diligently for passage of the issue.

"The proposed building program will provide enclosures for educational programs well into the 21st Century. It is our firm intention to exert unremitting pressure on the Columbus Board of Education concerning these educational programs for at least that long. We are, and will be, particularly concerned with the affirmative action undertaken by this Board to implement the public commitment made to integrated education last July. We sincerely believe that quality education should be available to all children and that Columbus, Ohio, with its large school district and increasing pattern of racial dispersal in housing, has the opportunity to be a model of successful school integration for all America. Whether or not this happens depends on the sincerity of your statement. We have all heard similar words before; this time we are looking forward to their translation into action and shall not hesitate to rally public indignation when we find that action wanting.

"The buildings made possible by passage of this levy will no doubt furnish school rooms for many of the babies born to the teenage parents now afforded discriminatory exclusion from their classrooms by this Board of Education. A recent newspaper article credited attempts to change this policy as stemming from "liberal" groups while "conservatives" are described as clinging to the status quo. I cannot decide what word I would substitute for "conservative," but I do believe the word "liberal" could have been written as "humane" or "realistic" or "concerned." This is an area of League interest which has been conveyed, at one time or another, to all of you. We will continue to talk to you, and subsequent Boards of Education, and to the community about the needs of these young people until your policy is brought into the realm of the 1970's.

"The Columbus school population does need new buildings for the future. The Columbus school population also needs policies responsive to the changes in attitudes and conditions that are the substance of life in a progressive metropolitan area."

Board Also Responsible

Fund Priorities Key To Project Equality

By THOMAS CONNERY

A proposal to the Columbus school board by Project Equality of Ohio, Incorporated to provide its services to the city school system received mixed reactions from board members at their Sept. 12 meeting.

Wade Franklin III, executive director of Project Equality, explained that the non-profit organization is funded by various religious communities in the state. The program uses the economic strength of these communities in an attempt to bring about equal employment opportunity.

Franklin said that his organization would now like to work toward the same goal with school systems.

He said that Project Equality proposes to review equal employment opportunities in the Columbus school system. Following this review an "Affirmative Action Plan" will be written, providing timetables and goals that will allow the school system to comply with federal equality guidelines.

AFTER THIS plan is initiated, Project Equality will inspect the employment practices of fifty selected firms that do business with the schools. The results of this investigation would then be presented to the board for review and action. Franklin emphasized that in the end it will be up to the board to decide if it will act upon his organization's suggestions and findings.

Board members Paul Langdon, Mrs. Virginia Prentice and Marilyn Redden indicated that they are concerned with the $32,500 cost of the program.

Mrs. Prentice questioned whether the board should spend tax money allocated for educating children on enforcement of laws which could be policed by other agencies.

LANGDON said that the board would be stepping out of its area of concern. "If we get into this area, why not check to see if firms are also not keeping with wage and price guidelines," he said.

Marie Castleman was the only member who indicated unqualified support of the project. She said that the $32,500 fee is a very small amount to spend in such a critical social area.

Board President Thomas Moyer noted that the project is a worthy one, but that there is a question of priorities regarding allocation of funds. He suggested that regardless of the final decision concerning Project Equality, the board should take some postitive steps toward assuring that the firms dealing with the schools are equal opportunity employers.

MOYER asked School Supt. John Ellis to investigate the possibility of obtaining state or federal funds to finance the program.

The board also was presented with a report on the school system's program for the emotionally handicapped. Assistant School Supt. Joseph Davis gave the report at the request of the board.

Includeed in the report is a recommendation that more formal training to be provided for those with emotional disabilities. The need for better facilities was also emphasized by Davis.

Selfishness Can Mar Bond Issue

By THOMAS CONNERY

Selfishness is the biggest obstacle to passage of the school building bond issue according to Columbus School Supt. John Ellis.

Addressing a meeting of the Columbus Council of Parent Teacher Associations, Dr. Ellis said that a typical response of voters is "What's in it for me?" He said that different sections of the city are under the false impression that their particular section will gain nothing from passage of the bond issue. Dr. ellis said that each section of the city will receive an equal distribution of funds, but that the most crowded schools will receive first priority.

The superintendent said that those voters who vote against the bond issue in November because they are angry at school officials or the school board are only hurting their child's chance for a quality education and are not hurting the school officials or the board.

"IF YOU ARE waiting for perfection before voting for a bond issue," Dr. Ellis said, "you may wait forever. Humans can't be perfect and we will make mistakes."

According to Dr. Ellis, passage of the bond issue will alleviate crowded classrooms and provide for program expansion.

Ellis said that "Columbus is a thriving, growing community" in which construction has begun on 30,000 homes in the last four years. "But not one new school has been started in that time," Dr. Ellis said.

He said that program expansio would primarily occur in new and improved vocational training and in the establishment of library learning centers. Dr. Ellis stated that only one elementary school library in Columbus meets the minimum state standards.

DR. ELLIS warned his audience that if the bond issue is defeated tension will increase in the schools and problems will only worsen.

He said that passage of the bond would not insure quality education, but that it was a step in the right direction.

Dr. Ellis concluded by urging the council to do what is necessary and "get behind the school system." He said that a vote for the bond issue is a vote for "progress, your children's future, and the future of America."

Finance Group Meets Tomorrow

The Finance Committee of the Columbus Board of Education will meet tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the Board Room on the second floor of the Education Center, 270 E. State St., according to Dr. Watson Walker, chairman of the committee.

The agenda for the meeting includes: changing the name of the school system's lunchroom fund in accordance with recently enacted state law; addition of the assistant superintendent for business administration as a person authorized to sign Board of Education checks; a report on bonded debt obligations to other school districts; a review of a proposal to make use of the National Utilities

The agenda for the meeting includes: changing the name of the school system's lunchroom fund in accordance with recently enacted state law; addition of the assistant superintendent for business administration as a person authorized to sign Board of Education checks; a report on bonded debt obligations to other school districts; a review of a proposal to make use of the National Utilities Service in checking utility bills and rates; and a report on insurance policies for Board of Education vehicles.

The meeting is open to the public.

Creative Talent Keeps Artist Excited With Life

To say something in a language that's never been spoken before, is the goal of Bexley artist Sheila Elias.

Mrs. Elias of 2541 Bexley Park, will have a one woman show at Ohio State University beginning Oct. 6 and running through Nov. 5.

She came from a creative family, her grandmother being a dress designer and her mother an interior decorator. "My sister paints and both of my children are very creative."

"I think everyone has some creative talents but in most people I guess it's just dormant. I think being creative keeps you very excited and thrilled with life and also keeps you young."

Mrs. Elias described her work as "large acrylic canvases with bold black and white forms dancing across brightly colored backgrounds." She said the paintings represent newspapers and crushed soft drink cans flying across landscapes.

"I got started on this when one day I was walking along Michigan Avenue in Chicago and saw newspapers being blown across the landscape and crushed cans lying along the street.

"This was before the whole ecology movement and real public awareness. I was really into it personally and so I began to express what I saw in my paintings."

Some of her paintings are shaped like giant puzzle forms and others are separated into panels to give a feeling of movement.

About people understanding what she's painted, Mrs. Elias said, "I will explain what it is. People don't have to understand the painting. What's important is if they like the form or color; it's how they relate to the painting."

"There has been a tremendous change in my painting over the last seven years or so."

"I'm now in a more contemporary mood," she said describing herself as an abstract expressionist.

"I think that an artist's paintings are an extension of the personality. My earlier paintings were a little more somber, the colors I used were darker. Now I'm using acrylics instead of oils and I've gone to much brighter colors."

Mrs. Elias has a studio in the basement of her home where she does much of her painting and teaches several classes.

"When my children were growing up I had to paint at night but now I have lots of time to spend."

She said she sketches or makes a drawing before she begins a canvas and said, "I have books loaded with drawings I never finished."

"I see something and it presents itself in a certain form to me and I go from there. I guess I'm creating my own world."

Some of the paintings she will be exhibiting at the OSU show are, "Yellow Journal," "Sweet News," and several from the "Flying Newspaper" series.

Her work has been displayed at the Chicago Art Institute, the Vincent Price Art Gallery as well as the Boyds Gallery in Columbus and the Mansfield Fine Arts Center.

She has been invited to show her work in New York but said she has not yet decided on that possibility.

Mrs. Sheila Elias of 2541 Bexley Park displays several of the paintings she will be exhibiting at her up coming one-woman show at the Ohio State Union. Mrs. Elias, whose work has been shown at the Chicago Art Institute, calls the above work, "Yellow Journal." She explained that the forms represent flying newspapers blowing across the landscape. Her showing will be opening Oct. 6and will run through Nov. 5.

Cities Receive Funds

Gasoline excise tax distributions to counties, townships and municipalities reached $8,235,215. in September, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

Payments to each municipality were based on a formula of one dollar per motor vehicle registered in the municipality.

Local areas received funds totaling $345,416. Distribution for the areas were: Bexley: $7,507.; Columbus: $323,427.; Whitehall: $12,231; Groveport: $1,843; and Lockbourne: $408.

The funds from the seven cents per gallon gasoline tax must be used for street and roadway purposes.

DAVE BROCKETT and Micky talk and walk near their home on Wedgewood Dr. When Dave was officially given the dog Saturday, he said "she's the most faithful woman I've found." Dave's only been married since August 1, so his wife will probably forgive that slip.

Eagles Give Guide Dog

BY KATHY DEVANEY

Dave Brockett, 870 Wedgewood, received his guide dog, micky, officially Saturday from the Fraternal Order of Eagles Scioto Valley Aerie 2272.

A check for $1,800 was presented to a representative of Pilot Dogs Inc., 625 W. Town.

Blind students and their families are not charged by Pilot Dogs, Inc., but service organizations are encouraged to provide scholarships for students.

"We were allowed no visitors for the first two weeks," Dave said.

The student and dog are brought together after the dog has gone through three to four months of extensive training. Then the student and dog work together four weeks.

"We went into residential areas, downtown, on buses around trains...they try to put you in every situation that might come later," Dave said.

"We walked an average of 100 miles in that month," he said.

Dave hot his first dog, a Labrador Retriever, when he was living in Delaware.

"I was the first one in Delaware County to get a dog," Dave said.

"He didn't work."

Mr. John Grey, executive vice president of Pilot Dogs, said that one person may not be able to work with a dog but another person can.

Pilot Dogs are obtained through donation and from their own breeding program.

Selected pups are placed in foster homes until they are a year old. Home raised dogs make better adjustment as guides than kennel raised dogs.

As of August, 1972, Pilot Dogs, Inc. had presented 1,215 guides to graduates.

The organization needs more than 300 good dogs between 10 and 30 months old and 22 to 24½ inches high at the shoulder.

Hold That Line

The infighting in the political arena has started and we've been the recipient of numerous literature and personal phone calls expounding the pluses and minuses of most every candidate on the November ballot.

We've two avenues of thought on this deluge that has fallen on our desks.

One is that some of the senders obviously haven't read a recent (for 15 months at least) issue of our newspaper.

Two is that we now know the reason why political campaigns are million dollar businesses.

IN ANSWER to one it seems somewhat odd to us that since we have moved from a West Broad Street address to South Boulevard more than a year ago that mail still comes to the old address.

Two is that duplication of releases is commonplace. We had six of a kind one day last week. Add seven telephone calls on the same subject from one hot campaigner's office and that adds up to a lot of money - and nonsense.

AT LEAST up to now my name hasn't been mispelled. That's an error I'd find hard to forgive.

The meat of this missle is that the drum thumpers seem to have "piece work rates" where they get so much per call or mailing piece.

So to you candidates who plead for space because of lack of funds we advise you to buckle up your organizations and keep tab on your dollars. Prosperity and poverty have a way of parting each others company at the worst times.

Hold the line, we say.

Kathy Devaney

You Know It

Underclassmen shouldn't be too upset with this, since they'll begin to notice the same thing in 10 years of less.

We notice people around us changing, but seem to miss changes in ourself (unless we try running a couple of blocks).

Other people's children are spoiled. Other parents yell and scream and get no respect.

Our parent's high school pictures make us laugh, just as our pictures will be funny to the next generation.

High school achievements fade with family responsibilities. What seemed like life and death situations there, are a little silly now.

The football hero the girls dreamed about ended up jumping behind the lines in Vietnam--a different kind of hero.

People who seemed to be on top of the world or the center of attention with their straight A's, athletic ability or good looks and popularity are now housewives, salesmen, mechanics, soldiers, farmers or secretaries.

You see some justice in the world when people you didn't like are worse off than you.

And you consider yourself lucky that you have your health, a nice home and a family that cares about each other.

Your Election Laws

Precinct Changes Governed By Election Realignment

(Ed. Note: This is the second of a four-part series from the office of Secretary of State Ted W. Brown outlining the election laws and how they affect everyone. This week the subject is "Precinct Change".

Voters who receive post cards in the mail notifying them of a change in either their voting precinct or the location of the precinct may wonder how the change came about.

The Ohio law provides that each board of elections may divide a political subdivision into precincts, with one polling place per precinct. The law also provides that the board may rearrange the election precincts and change the location of the polling places.

THESE CHANGES are usually made with reference to the number of voters in the precinct; however, if there is an emergency, a board of elections may place more than one polling place in a precinct.

Each precinct shall contain as nearly as practicable not more than four hundred nor less than two hundred fifty electors, according to Ohio's election laws.

In areas where voting machines or other automatic voting equipment is used, precincts may be larger. With the ever growing population, additional precincts and changes in precincts will be needed from time to time to comply with this law.

Also, public buildings or public schools are not always readily available within a precinct to use as a polling place. Therefore, the law provides that a polling place may be outside the boundaries of precincts.

Many more precincts will have to be changed this year than are normally changed as a result of the 1970 federal census; the redistricting of the state from 24 U.S. Congressional districts to 23 Congressional districts; the reapportionment of the state into new General Assembly districts for both the Senate and House of Representatives; and the realignment of wards in many municipalities. When any of these changes are made, precincts have to be changed.

Since all of these changes have occurred very recently, many more people will be affected than are normally.

New Voters Get Time To Register

All voting places in Franklin County will be open from 12 noon until 8 p.m. October 5, 7 and 10 for the purpose of receiving new voter registrations. All registrants are encouraged to register in their voting places.

The office of the Board of Elections in the Courthouse Annex will be open the following Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. until noon: September 23 and 30 and October 7 from 8:30 a.m. until 8 p.m.

The Board of Elections will be open October 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 10 from 8:30 a.m. until 9 p.m. for registration and reports of change of address.

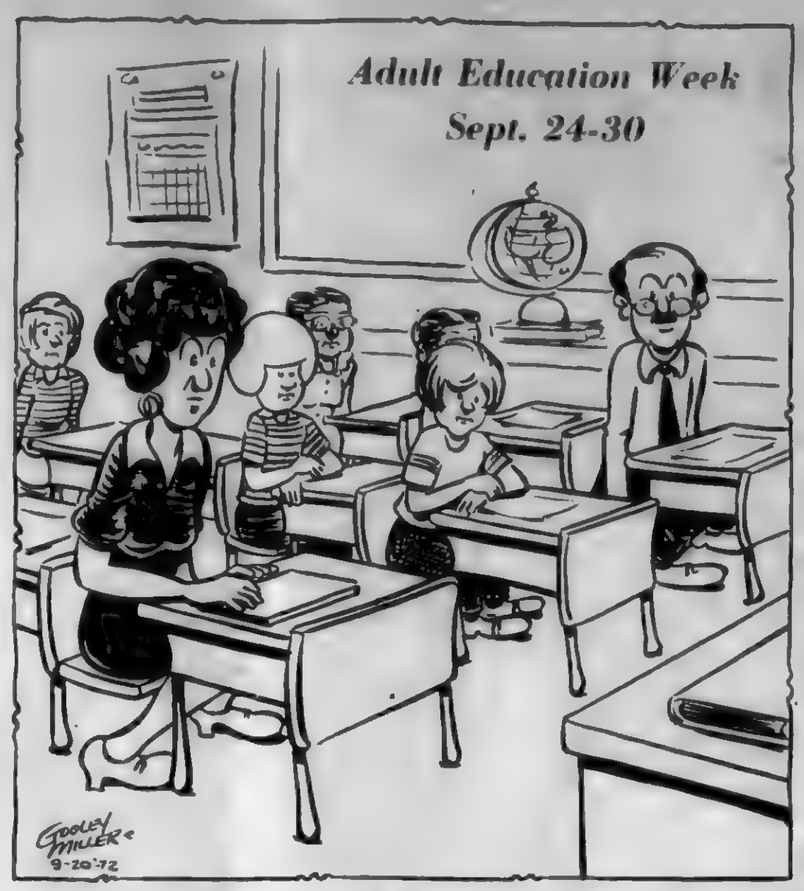
The following Senior Citizens Centers will be open for registration October 5, 7 and 10 from 12 noon until 8 p.m.: Jenkins Terrace, Poindexter Towers, Taylor Terrace, Worley Terrace and Westminster Terrace.

All electors who desire to vote November 7 must be registered from the address where they reside in Franklin County October 10.

Changes of address may be reported in person or by postal card. They may not be made by telephone.

AF Diamond Year Off To Rough Start

At no time in our Nation's history has air power come under such attack by government officials as well as citizens.



The bombing in Vietnam, the noise created by super-sonic planes, the presence of military personnel in towns scattered all over the country and just a dislike for anything connected with planes have put pressure on the Air Force personnel.

The United States Air Force observed its 25th anniversary Sept. 18.

The diamond year is off to a rough start.

May the rest of the voyage into the wild, blue yonder be smooth.

Brown Baggers

By their "brown bags" shall you know them.

Hundreds of the mid-30 and up generation will start to burn the midnight oil next week as what we used to refer to endearingly as "Night School" finds silent bells ringing all over the Franklin County area.

Age has never been a barrier - or at the most an implausible one - to those whose quest for knowledge knows no bounds.

Some will be struggling with the basic three R's. Others will be advancing their own causes toward promotions by getting a little more book learning.

The road will not be easy as dust on the books will in some cases be matched by cobwebs on the brain until the rhythm of learning starts a smooth flow.

It's a tribute to these pre-senior and some much younger citizens that they will be foregoing some of the material pleasures of life to add a little more "smart" that can be turned into dollars. This effort will give them and their families a little more vittles on the table and a few more bucks in the bank for that rainy day that sometimes comes too often.

As for the brown bagger tag - that's the little brown sack that might hold a sandwich, an apple, a "Twinkie" and some other magic goodie that will make recess all the sweeter.

Happy diploma.

'Expo Ed' Will Tell Adult Education Story

Adults wanting to learn more about adult education programs available to them in their community are invited to attend Expo Ed, a new career education program, being held at Aquinas Hall on the Columbus Technical Institute Campus, 550 E. Spring St., Monday September 25 from 4-8 p.m. The hours of Expo Ed are programmed to enable downtown commuters to attend on their way home and avoid the rush-hour traffic.

The program is being sponsored by Columbus Tech and the Central Ohio Adult Education Association as part of their activities for Adult Education Week, September 24-30.

PARTICIPATING in Expo Ed Night will be schools, institutions, and agencies which conduct adult continuing education or provide support service to facilitate adult education.

Dr. Carol A. Fought, chairman of the continuing education division at Columbus Tech and program chairman of Expo Ed, said the exposition also would have career information sessions. "Following these sessions," she said, "adults could investigate educational opportunitites."

Dr. Fought explained that adult continuing education is divided into three types and that Expo Ed would have respresentatives from each, including degree programs, non-credit or career reorientation courses and personal development or enrichment courses.

"MANY ADULTS are returning to school in order to enter new fields of employment or to perform better on their present job," Dr. Fought said. "Others are taking classes for their own enjoyment."

The representatives at Expo Ed will have detailed information on the type of adult continuing education programs their organizations offer, plus they will be prepared to answer questions regarding tuition, fees, financial aids or any other queries the participants will have.

Dear Consumer

Getting Mortgage Worth

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President
and Director
White House Office of Consumer Affairs

It's often said that most families never make a bigger single investment than buying a house. You might say that a house is the most expensive "consumer product" you'll ever buy in your lifetime.

Most builders are conscientious in constructing houses for their customers as promised-according to the plan and to the contract. But there's usually a minority-interested only in making a sale-that forces consumers to cope with poor workmanship and other problems.

Take for instance, this letter that recently came into my office from a Florida resident:

"The house was made larger than the plan, the window for the half bath was put in the bedroom, the ceiling and walls were put in my dining room before the top was placed on. It rained for two full days and part of the nights, then two days later they placed a top over the wet ceiling. They put the wrong door on the front, they replaced the door after five weeks and prime coated it after seven weeks, and painted it six months later."

Fortunately, if you plan to buy a new house soon, there's much you can do to make sure your purchase goes smoothly. Perhaps the most important is to check the reputation of th e builder before you deal with him.

Talk with other customers who have bought houses from the same builder. Call your nearest Better Business Bureau or your local consumer organization. If you're dealing with a real estate firm or taking out a mortgage, find out from the broker or the lending institution what their experience has been with the builder.

You should also get a check list of things to look for while your house is under construction.

There are plenty of publications you can get at your library or at a bookstore that provide a list of defects to look for in your new house, everything from leaky roofs to wet basements. They can also tell you how to finance your house, how to make sure that the community where your house is located has adequate services and what to look for if you're buying an old house instead of a new one.

Answers About Your Insurance

(Presented by the Columbus Chapter of the Society of Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriters)

Our son is going to college this fall and will live on the campus which is approximately twenty-five miles from our home. He will take all of his clothing and other personal belongings. Having an approximate value of $5,000.

We are concerned about the loss of his property through fire, theft or some other peril. Can we buy an insurance policy to protect his property?

If you cary a homeowner's policy, you would have protection against fire, theft, and certain other perils to your son's personal belongings while away at school, provided he maintained your address as his permanent residence.

This protection is limited to 10 percent of the amount of coverage on unscheduled personal property provided in your policy. Unless your policy provides $50,000 of coverage on personal property, the protection on your son's belongings while situated on campus would be inadequate.

There are at least two other solutions to your problem. (1) You may obtain a separate personal effects floater specially written to cover your son's personal belongings against practically all risks up to the full $5,000. (2) You could purchase specific fire and specific theft policies on behalf of your son; however, this would not offer as complete coverage as the personal effects floater described above, but is less costly.

Your insurance questions are welcome. While individual answers cannot be provided, questions of general interest will be used in this column.

Garage Sales Draw Opinions

To the Editor:

Congratulations! You've finally hit the nail on the head with all this garage sale hokey that has been making some of our neighborhoods look like the sidewalks of New York's bowery or the Fulton Fish Market area of the Windy City.

Isn't it a shame that cities had to resort to ordinances to keep our residential area from becoming slums? With all this talk about pollution you'd think that "America the Beautiful" would mean more to people these days.

BUT NO, some are just concerned about the Almighty Dollar and how they can operate sideline business without having to pay their fare share of taxes like the corner grocer.

I wonder if many of those who take out permits for sales now realize that they will be permitted to contribute their share of tax revenue to the cities in which they reside?

I'm not one for begrudgingly holding offense against anyone who wants to earn a little more money but when a flock of neighbors (you referred to them as a gathering of clans) take it on themselves to open shop it's time to get the padlocks in action.

I WAS TOLD that one of your weekly papers also had a story about a garage sale ordinance that was just passed. I hope that council is personally congratulated for doing their duty against what could have been strong public opinion. (Ed. Note: The Reynoldsburg Spectator story covered the action of city council where by a 5-1 vote the council passed a 'home sale' ordinance that requires a 50 cent permit among other things.)

The reason I'm writing this letter is because I used to have a used clothing store. We kept our merchandise clean and priced low to held the needy. We bought low and sold low. We payed all the taxes required.

So should everyone.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. A.J.
Whitehall

To the Editor:

The "editorial" on garage sales seems a little two-faced coming from you. I have never known you to refuse an advertisement for same in your paper. The people have had enough of their freedom whittled away and now we find a newspaper, of all things calling for further infringement of rights.

Apparently you have not visited the Goodwill store at 909 W. Fifth Ave. or the Volunteers at 879 W. Broad St.

At both places you will see many nice items at higher than going price. Additionally, these stores are inefficient and wasteful; sometimes handling items several times only to see them arrive broken at the outlet stores.

Finally, much of what is given to the "charity" stores never gets to the poor. There are a chosen few dealers (some related to store personnel) who have first pick.

A pox on you and anyone who contrives additional infringement of human rights. If anyone is using this medium of sales commercially, let them be singled out. Don't make all of us pay for it.

Yours,
Bill Brannan
900 Stephen Dr.

To the Editor:

Isn't it about time that local governments stopped passing ordinances that deny residents the privileges granted them by the United States Constitution?

What's wrong with any resident selling his own property on his own property?

WE LIVE near a church and you ought to see the traffic that gathers when the church has one of their annual rummage sales. The annual happens every month.

Why shouldn't we have the same privilege?

It's our property and our house and I don't think it's fair or legal for anyone to tell me what I can't or can do on my property.

I'VE CHECKED with my neighbors and none of them have ever complained.

I do agree with your editorial where you point out that when a group of neighbors get together and hold a garage sale it's like going into business. Those kind ought to be stopped but not the ones where the homeowner sells his things himself.

Though I don't agree with all you said at least you did say something and that's lots more than others are doing.

Thanks.
Carl B. Elsmere

ROUNDS A FELLOW OUT

The folks who play in the outdoors understand best of all the loss of a stream or forest. Just as hunters and fishermen first saw the approaching floodtide of pollution, the Boy Scouts of America should have been aware.

Having held the position of scoutmaster for three different troops in the forties and early fifties, I speak from experience about their activities. During camping trips, I tried to instill the need for participatory conservation in them but it was tough. Actually, there was no way to relate the environment to the scouting programs.

Little or nothing was found in their merit badge system or their advancement requirements that emphasized the need for continued involvement either as clean-up crews or as watchdogs.

NOW, I SEE five ecology workshops are scheduled this summer in New Jersey. I hope the BSA stays in the environment for good. The millions of boys in the program represent tomorrow's business leaders. To impress on them the sincerity of the need for environmental reform in all walks of life is to guarantee their help and good wishes when they become involved in the business machinery of the world.

If the Board of Directors of B[illegible] North Brunswick really have, I mean REALLY have the [illegible] of Planet Earth sitting with them at board meetings, they will involve themselves as an industry. BSA is indeed an industry. They have literally thousands of retail outlets to sell their supplies. They furnish a market for hundreds of manufacturers of all sizes.

WHAT WOULD be more natural than (a) using recycled paper for all purposes, (b) demanding all paper be bundled and shipped to recycling centers, (c) not allowing a franchise to a retail store which creates any pollution or which does not recycle its own paper trash or (d) using lead-free gas on all vehicles whose title or mileage is paid for by BSA?

GRANDPA always told me the best teacher is example. Surely, the millions of tender-feet would see and mimic their elders now and later in life if the examples were loud and apparent.

BSA is to be commended for its ecology workshops. It is a start. Doubtless, the few scouts who have the money to get to New Jersey will bring back the word to the affluent suburbs. When the success of a program as broad as environmental improvement can only be introduced to a very few, the total impact is in doubt.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Do you train the young folks around your house by example? Teach them to turn off lights, bale papers and buy returnable containers.

Grandpa, Grandson Go Down To The Sea

Rhyme With The Ancient Mariner

By RAY ADAMS

I went down to the sea yesterday to watch the ships come in. The sea was French Run Creek and the ships were those handcrafted by 82-year old John Bysinger, East Main Street.

It was a magical experience even more so for me, I'm almost afraid to admit, than it was for young Doug Francis, the grandson of John Bysinger.

Doug Francis did again last week.

Now French Run Creek is that little body of water (not little to a boy who builds sand castles of giant stature) that flows ever so gently back of the fire department and in front of the post office.

BUT THAT'S getting way ahead of our story and to get back to putting first things first we have to go back 75 years when John Bysinger was a little boy.

That's when he dreamed of ships - but never got to sea.

He envisioned then a world of ships of his own that could sail all the world's waters without leaving home.

THE DAY never seemed to come yet John knew that if he wished hard and long enough it just might come true.

The day finally came in 1967 when he retired after a 40 year position as a pattern maker with International Harvester in Rock Island, Illinois.

Busy hands kept the mind from becoming the Devil's workshop and soon John was whittling away and smoothing out his rough work with a lathe at home.

HIS FIRST ship became a reality and he got so carried away that it wasn't until 32 ships later that he decided to make something else - and that something else was a toy cannon.

Can you carve anything in three weeks? John Bysinger carves a ship in that time.

HE DOESN'T work to measurement - only by plumb scale from long hours of studying various types of old schooners. The finished product is a work of art. He paints it, uses plastic mayonaisse jugs for the sails (cut of course) and uses round toothpicks for the masts.

His blueprint is a photo or drawing of a ship. His keen eye does the rest.

EVERYONE has a hobby - or should have. John also has his. That's making people, like his grandson Doug happy with another ship.

Doug can close his eyes and become a first mate, a captain, put himself in a typhoon, battle a tidal wave, or do anything his imagination will permit.

The longing of a little boy for that moment of adventure will come to Doug some day.

Grandpa will be there. He's the original Flying Dutchman and has Pandora's Box to prove it.

WHITTLING then finished work are the keys to a good ship. John Bysinger is exacting with his work and Doug watches his every whittle to learn how.

THE DOLDRUMS in the millinery industry are over...women everywhere are buying hats again!

According to the Millinery Institute of America's Fall Show I attended in New York, the fashion world has finally returned to a new and delightful sanity...women will look like women again.

HATS ARE an essential ingredient of the new femininity that has invaded all fashion...every hat complimenting a specific look, designed with head-to-toe perfection in mind. Wide selections will satisfy every fashion taste and mood.

LITTLE HATS emerge as big fashion...ever young, close to the head...in a multitude of materials. Leather, fur, felt, knits, velvet...to be worn with every type of costume, from daytime pants to evening glamor.

TO SATISFY Ladies Lib are the many haberdashing looks...the Pork Pie, the Sailor, the Snapbrim, the Fedora, the Stetson, done in glamorous colors...brilliant, vibrant shades to combine with the many plaids and patterns in ready-to-wear. Choose from flaming reds, bright Kelly greens, citrus oranges and yellows, tawny golds...gay plaids are used by themselves or as trims and facings...with matching scarves and bags.

SWEATER DRESSING takes to crocheted and knitted hats in new silhouettes...alone or in combination with leather, fur and felt.

LATE DAY hats follow the lady-like fashion movement. Exquisite furs, velvets and felts are handled with subtle restraint, embellished with touches of sparkle, wisps of veiling or feathers. Like make-up and jewels, they're a dramatic finish for the elegant clothes worn for cocktails, theater, or enchanted evenings.

ALBRIZIO makes an event of an evening occasion with this feathered spectacular...matching muff.

Jewish Center Offers Babysitting Clinic

In response to many requests from tweens, the Jewish Center is offering a Babysitting Clinic and Job Registry for seventh and eighth graders.

The Clinic will begin in mid-October and will run for four weeks. The fee for this service will be $2.

Graduates of the Jewish Center Babysitting Clinic will receive a certificate, then be able to put their names on a registry. The Jewish Center will help those certified to find jobs in the community.

The Clinic will be taught by a registered nurse who is also a young mother, and will include first-aid, emergency procedures, parent expectations, as well as basic child growth and development.

All tweens interested in this practical and potentially financially beneficial course should contact Sheldon Sklar, Youth Services Worker, as soon as possible since registration will be limited.

On Saturday, Oct. 21, 2-4 p.m., the Center is initiating a drop-in program for Tweens as part of the Center's newly developed Sabbath Family Day. Tweens, grade sixth-eighth, are invited to participate in this co-ed program geared to a relaxing atmosphere symbolic with the Sabbath Day.

Activities will include discussions and raps, speakers, games (ping pong, chess, scrabble, etc.) and will offer a place a Tween can come and socialize with his or her friends. Refreshments will also be on hand. This group will meet on alternating Saturdays throughout the fall.

On Sundays beginning in October, the Center is resuming the mystery trip of the month for Tweens. A package of six trips are planned for the next six months, and trips announced on a month to month basis. These trips are guaranteed to be entertaining and exciting.

If any Tween is interested in joining in to form a Tween Age Council to plan activities for Tweens please contact Sheldon Sklar, Youth Services Worker, at the Center (231-2731 - ext. 38).

Flea Market At Town And Country

Friday and Saturday of this week the Town & Country Shopping Center, 3600-4000 E. Broad St., the nation's first regional shopping center, will stage it's second Flea Market and Crafts Show.

Scores of Flea Marketeers and Craftsmen are coming from all over Central Ohio, offering their wares on some 100 tables spread along the Town & Country sidewalks.

The public interest in flea markets has escolated greatly in the past few years. The reason? Because what may be "Junk" to someone is a "Treasure" to someone else.

Old china, glass, silver, handicrafts and what not will be on sale in vast quantities.

The center's 95 stores and services are anticipating the event by stocking all sorts of "best buys" for the opening of the fall season.

Why Not Join The Crowd

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

The 20th annual Ohio Community Theatre Association conference is over and we come away from it filled with new insights into our craft and many more clues concerning what the judges are really looking for in our excerpt contests. Selection of play, believability of characters and a feeling of reality in relationships ranked high in their comments during the critiques Sunday morning.

Everyone seemed to stress placement on the stage as denoting relationships, in other words, good old fashioned blocking. Lack of communication was the greatest fault of every excerpt.

We heard Johnny Price, producer of Cleveland's Musicarnival, call the theater the "fabulos invalid" and his own tent theater that "cultural kindergarten under canvas".

Don Robertson, noted authority on the Civil War, author, columnist, critic and director, stated that "Theater should not be afraid to run the risk of offending".

Now, to who won what. The only technical awards given to our area were third place tro Bill Tumblin for his Welsh Hills Players newsletter, and second place to Players Club for their set model. The judges tore our excerpt entries apart - and when I read the program and saw that Dayton Theatre Guild was doing Pinter's "The Birthday Party" with Ken Hardin in the lead, I knew they would win best excerpt and best actor - and they did.

The Northwest region's Van Wert Civic Theatre, Inc. doing "Look Hommeward, Angel" was awarded second place and Gerna Dean Niblick, their Eliza, received best actress. Third place went to the Southwest region's Drama Workshop for "Hatful Of Rain". The last one was the one I disagreed with.

I considered Little Theatre Off Broadway's "Hatful Of Rain" the better of the two. But then, I'm prejudiced. I wish our region better luck next year. I'll be there.

Players Club opens their season Friday, September 22 with "Oh, Kay", a 1920's musical. And that's Denver McClurg in the lead, not Doug McKlure - I don't know where I came up with that name. For ticket information, call the box office between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. at 224-6971.

"On A Clear Day" also opens this week at Little Theatre Off Broadway in Grove City. Saturday night is the official opening. Their phone number is 875-3019.

Don't forget the ACT Press Party open to all theater members of theaters belonging to ACT Columbus. It's at the Ohio Theatre on Thursday, September 21 from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m.

Camping Major Activity In State Park Structure

A recently-completed park user survey of the Ohio state parks indicated camping continues to increase as the major activity in the parks, Natural Resources Director William B. Nye said today.

"We found in this year's survey that campers have an impact on park activities far beyond their proportional representation of total park visitors," Nye said.

"Only 23 per cent of the interviews were taken in camping areas, yet 49 per cent of those interviewed indicated they were staying overnight, and most of those were campers," Nye said. "The implication is that one out of every three persons using day-use areas (fishing, swimming, picnicking) is actually a camper."

NYE POINTED out that 91.5 per cent of those interviewed thought the parks and prk laws were properly policed and enforced.

The survey was designed to indicate who is attending the state parks, so the department can plan future park activities to meet the needs of the citizens.

The survey was conducted by Thomas H. Brunner, an Ohio State University parks and recreation major, who is working with the Department of Natural Resources in a six-month internship program.

BRUNNER said parks employes interviewed 1,647 visitors in 19 state parks during a three-week period this summer.

He said park user surveys conducted in 1958, 1963 and 1970 showed strong use by campers, and the 1672 survery results indicated that the increase in campin is continuing.

THE SINGLE main activity listed by most visitors was camping (25.4 per cent), followed by swimming (23.9), fishing (16.4), picnicking (12.4), motor boating (8.5), "just plain relaxing" (7.4) and trail hiking (6.0).

Other activities, in decreasing order of importance, were nature observation, sightseeing, water skiing, games or team sports, bicycling, row boating, sailing, canoeing and sunbathing.

However, when visitors were asked to name all the activities they participated in while at the park, swimming was rated first 23.4 per cent, followed by (fishing (14.9), picnicking (13.3), camping (11) and motor boating (8.3).

OTHER FACTS gleaned from the survey were:

–The average head of a family group visiting the parks is 39 years old, earns $10,056 a year, attended for 12.7 years and heads a family of four.

–87 per cent of park visitors have family incomes between $5,000 and $16,000 a year.

–89.7 per cent of park visitors are Ohioans, 10 per cent come from other states and .3 per cent are from foreign countries. Resident of Pennsylvania led the visitors from other states (2.5 per cent), followed by Indiana, West Virginia, Kentucky and Michigan.

–The average overnight stay in the state parks is five days, with most visitors staying in camping areas.

–11 PER CENT of the visitors responding wanted more Class "A" camping facilities, 15.9 per cent wanted more swimming beaches and 10.5 per cent wanted more docks and marinas.

–51.5 per cent said state parks should be financed through state taxes, 28-7 voted for a daily admission charge, 13.1 for an annual pass and 6.7 for an increase in prices at special facilities.

–52 per cent of the visitors have been going to state parks six years or longer, and most campers have been going to them eight years or longer.

–THE MAJOR reason cited for going to state parks, instead of other kinds of parks, was better facilities (39.8 per cent); 11.2 per cent said they preferred the state parks because they were more organized and well-run.

–A majority opposed having recreational vehicles, such as off-the-road motorcyles and snowmobiles, near occupies areas of the parks.

–71 per cent said prices in concessions were reasonable, 11.2 said they were too high and 3.3 said they were too low.

–OF OVERNIGHT park users, 36 per cent stay in trailers, 34.4 in tents, 9.6 in pickup truck campers, 4.6 in motor homes, 4.1 in cabins, 2.6 in lodges and 2.1 in mini-motor homes.

Brunner said the survey was a random sample, with each park visitor having an equal chance of being interviewed.

Try These Antiques For Size

THE MOST fascinating display at the Reynoldsburg Tomato Festival last week had to be this antique collection of hardware that has been in the Ralph Connell family for generations. Many Reynoldsburg, Whitehall, Bexley and East Columbus residents had the opportunity to make 'educated' guesses at identifying the various items. Ralph said many came close and he's keeping the winner's names a secret until next week's Spectator. Did you try to identify them on this, his 100th anniversary? (Spectator photo.)

'Y' Forum To Start Tuesday

The Community Forum, sponsored by the YWCA Public Affairs Committee, the Community Services Council and the United Community Council will launch its series of programs Tuesday, September 26 at noon at the YWCA, 66 South Fourth St.

"Our Schools and the Bond Issue" will be the first topic. Columbus School Board members, Tom Moyer, Marie Castleman, David Hamlar, Paul Langdon and Superintendent, Dr. John Ellis will lead discussions.

The program is open to the public. Sandwiches and coffee will be available at 11:30 a.m. Meetings will begin promptly at noon and end promptly at 1:30 p.m.

E-M Meets West, Cards vs Pacers In This Week's Prep Grid Headliners

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

Spectator SPORTS

After two weeks of preliminary jousting and experimentation, the '72 high school football season really gets rolling this Friday as intra-league warfare opens in the City (South Division), Ohio Cap, Metro and Mid Eight loops.

Top contests will find OCC hopefuls Worthington and Delaware dueling on the Cardinal grid; and old City League rivals Eastmoor and West hooking up in a crucial early test on the Hilltop.

ELSEWHERE, Mid Eight favorite Bexley entertains rebuilding Hilliard and Metro contenders Franklin Heights and West Jefferson lock horns in the Roughrider back yard.

Last Friday was a rough night for the three teams picked to battle for Ohio Cap honors. Westerville dropped a tough 13-7 verdict to Catholic power Watterson; Worthington got its annual dose of Bear Power from Upper Arlington and Delaware swallowed a last minute lesson from suddenly-menacing West 14-10.

Eastmoor's defending City kings got a big scare in their home opener, trailing underdog Whitehall till the final three minutes before pulling out a 14-6 win.

WALNUT RIDGE made a second period TD stand up (just barely) for a 7-6 squeaker over Whetstone, but CL South Fortunes elsewhere took a beating as Central was swamped at Wintersville and Hartley mangled Mohawk.

Wehrle and Ready rebounded from first-game maulings to join the winners' circle, but DeSales missed a last gasp field goal try and bowed to Linden 12-10 for the sole CCL setback.

With two weeks left till they open internal competition, four of the Catholic schools will visit City League North foes this Friday while Ready entertains Miami Trace.

TOP ATTRACTION on this week's high school menu has to be the West-Eastmoor clash.

Coach Dave Koblentz' Cowboys drove 60 yards in the final four minutes at Delaware last Friday, with fullback Carl Phillips diving over from in close for a come-from-behind 14-10 triumph.

Following an opening 20-6 win over Whetstone, that moves the Broncs into Friday's home showdown against E-M with a perfect slate and a ten gallon hatful of momentum.

"WE WENT UP against a fine football team as underdogs, and we beat 'em," said the obviously pleased Cowboy boss. "I thought our coaching staff did a great job of getting the kids ready, and then the players made it work on the field."

With top halfbacks Harold Lee and Ron Williams playing together for the first time in a month, the Bronc running game rolled for 182 yards in 46 rushes--a little better than four yards a crack.

Fullback Philips was the workhorse, collecting 80 yards of Pacer real estate in 17 carries. Dave also had high praise for the clutch performance of QB Larry Todd, who cooly led his club to the winning score with less than 30 seconds left on the clock.

THE BRONCS outgained Delaware 290 total yards to 182, and that's not a bad edge over a club that scored 66 points in its opener.

Dave had plenty to say about Eastmoor, all of it respectful.

"They're a big, strong, fast club--justlike always" he intoned. "Bob (Stuart) hasn't had a weak defense in 17 years, and he's got fine running backs in Ray Griffin, (Chuck) Hunter and (Duane) Howard."

KOBLENTZ reserved his real kudos, however, for Warrior singal-caller Mark Kraker.

"I've been up against him in football and baseball for three years now," said Dave. "He's a whale of an athlete and a real leader on the field"he's the guy who makes 'em go."

The Warriors didn't 'go' for three quarters plus against Whitehall last week--primarily because of a horrendous 125 yards in penalties and a rash of dropped or hurried passes.

TRAILING 6-0 against the fired-up Rams for most of the evening, Kraker finally hit Griffin with a 45 yard pass that set up the tying score with only three minutes to play. Ron Ayers booted the PAT for a 7-6 Warrior edge; then the Rams gave up an interception trying to fight back.

Mr. Griffin settled the issue quickly, dashing 70 yards on the second E-M snap for an 'insurance TD'.

Eastmoor's up-front defense is massive with Ayers and Jon Williams (both around 6-3 and 230) at the tackles. Stuart's secondary has some experience, but it's spread pretty thin and might be "burnable" if the opposition QB ever gets time to set up.

"WE FIGURE it'll be a pretty wide open game," said Koblentz, pointing out that the Warriors have done a lot less inside blasting this year with Archie Griffin departed.

While there's certain to be a fair number of "keep 'em honest" off-tackle plays--look for Friday's showdown to be settled by one or two breakaway runs or long passes (or key errors).

With Lee and Williams versus Griffin and Howard, the crowd should be treated to one of the season's top speed contests.

EASTMOOR HASN'T lost a league game since the Cowboys upset 'em in'69 to grab the title. That streak includes a pair of season-opening wins over West--and the Bronc seniors remember quite well how it felt to be shot out of the race before it got started.

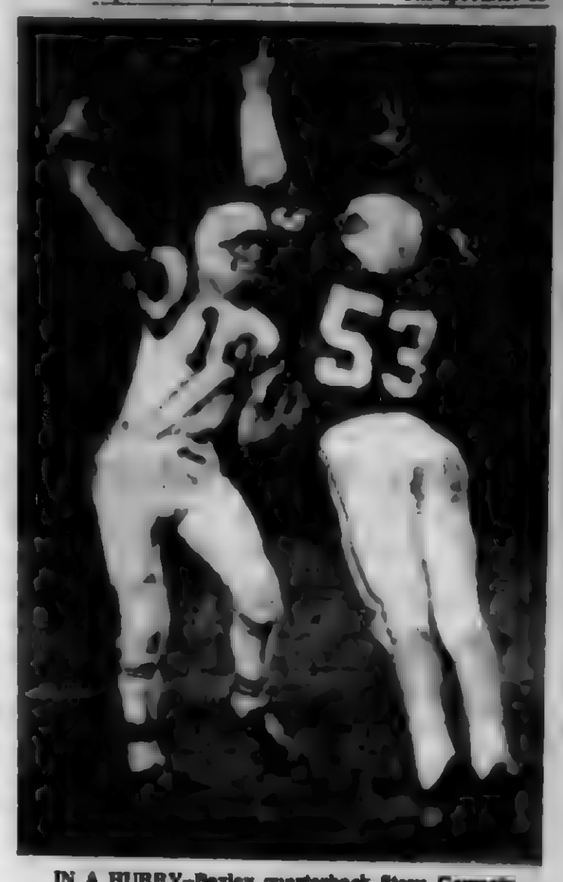
Come early and plan to stay late.

IN OTHER KEY action around the area, Watterson coach Ron Shay sends his impressive Eagle contingent out to face backyard rival Whetstone Friday night.

It'll be the third "AAA" school they've encountered in as many weeks--but judging by their performances against powerful Lancaster and Westerville, jumping a class doesn't faze the Eagles a bit.

The best word to describe last week's 13-7 win over Westerville is "workmanlike."

SHAY'S CHARGES scored early on a nine-yard sweep by Dan Heffernan; then the defense took over to successfully stifle talented Wildcat passer Steve Wohlert and fullback Brad Corkwell for three periods.



At the outset of the final stanza, quarterback Art Yaroch took the Eagles on an eight-minute sustained drive that finished with fullback Jim Grimm blasting into the 'Cat end zone-and only three minutes left.

Wohlert did engineer a game last-minute TD drive, but it was too little and too late as Shay's troops avenged one of their disappointing '71 setbacks.

WHETSTONE IS 0-2 despite some solid defense--especially in last week's 7-6 loss to Walnut Ridge. Quarterback Rick Kinney completed 10 of 15 passes in that contest, but the Braves lost four fumbles and were nailed with 90 yards in penalties to negate most of their offensive gains.

Suffering from an unexpected lack of consistent offense, Walnut Ridge will face South at home Friday in the loop opener for both clubs.

Vince Cahill's triple-option game got pretty well gummed up last week against Whetstone--especially by a hideous seven fumbles, five of which the Braves pounced on. One bright spot was fullback Matt Guttman's 118 rushing yards in 20 carries. That raises the burly junior's total to 205 for two games-a 5.6 carry average.

IN A HURRY--Bexley quarterback Steve Germain unloads a fourth quarter aerial considerably farther than he'd like, and with severely limited visibility. Forcing this state of affairs is St. Charles' Charles Kramer--who managed to seep through the Lion blocking wall and put the heat on Mr. Germain. This sort of thing didn't happen too often, however, as Bexley rolled to victory number two with a 46-0 romp over outmanned Cardinals.

BEXLEY TAKES aim on the Mid Eight throneroom Friday as Hilliard stops into inaugurate the '72 league campaign.

The Lions clobbered St. Charles 46-0 last week as fullback Buzz Inboden punched in from short distance three times and defensive end Jeff Edelstein proved that big men can move by rambling 65 yards with a pass interception.

It was the sixth straight triumph for Dan O'Brien's charges going back to last season. In just two '72 outings they've already totalled more than 550 yards offensively.

GROVEPORT cruised from an opening loss to smack Reynoldsburg 25-0; ace running back Rob Moore scampered into paydirt from 12, 21 and 30 yards out.

The Cruisers start an uphill campaign to defend their Mid Eight crown Friday when they travel to unbeaten London for a rugged early test.

Whitehall's Rams, who have put up splendid upset efforts in their first two outings, will try to start OCC competition under new boss Mike Caposiello on the right foot when Reynoldsburg rolls in Friday.

IT'S THE Ram home debut.

Meanwhile the Raiders will be gunning for their first loop victory in three seasons. Thus far inexperience has cost them dearly in early setbacks to Grandview and Groveport, but first-year boss Dick Kerschbaum is hopeful that his new offensive and defensive systems will begin to show results in the win column.

NO THRU TRAFFIC--Walnut Ridge cornerback Steve Winslow (with a little help from an unidentified teammate) bars the progress of Whetstone halfback Tim Mills after a short gain in Friday's Scot-Brave tussle. Ridge defense came up with big plays all night to preserve a tight 7-6 verdict and keep the Scot slate clean.

Devils Bump E-M In Jr. High Grid Action

Marion-Franklin's Clint Woods galloped 23 and 27 yards for touchdowns Saturday, and hit teammate David Scott with a 26 yard scoring strike as the Devils downed defending champ Eastmoor 20-12 in the Junior High League headliner.

Robby Jones and Mike Guess tallied for E-M.

ALL FOUR of the other weekend battles were shutouts, as Whetstone swamped Brookhaven 34-0, West clouted Walnut Ridge 36-0, Linden topped North 14-0 and East got by Mifflin 6-0.

Quarterback Mark Chickerella was the big gun for Whetstone, connecting on three TD passes to Brent Apgear and Tim Hackett.

Apgear ran for another Brave score and Kevin Furno rambled 11 yards for the final six-pointer.

SPEEDSTER Roosevelt Williams was a one-man wrecking crew for West--galloping 52, 15 and 2 yards from scrimmage and returning a W-R punt 55 yards for a fourth score. QB Van Harper hit Linwood Patrick with a 75 yard aerial bomb, and PAT runs by Dean Smith, Rick O'Hara and Dick Cunningham accounted for the other West points.

Hockey Loop Sets Meeting

The Columbus Men's Ice Hockey League has scheduled an organizational meeting for the '72-'73 season at Iceland Arena on Thursday, Oct. 5 at 9 p.m.

League officials plan to divide this winter's program into two four-team divisions according to playing ability. Season openers are slated for Oct. 15.

All players must pay a $25 registration fee and $2 per game--payable in 12 game packages. Jerseys and socks will be furnished by the League, all other equipment must be provided by the player.

Viking Gridders Win Four

It was a banner week for the Eastland Viking football program, as the local entries picked up four wins and a tie in five outings.

The 90-pound Eastland club shut out Pickerington 12-0, with Keith Griffin scoring on 40 and 45 yard dashes--he's another of the illustrious Griffin clan.

THE 105-POUND Vikings played to a scoreless deadlock with Westgate but the 115-pound Tri-County team topped Pickerington 12-6 on TD runs by Jeff Stout and Barry Cahill. Scott Souder was outstanding on defense.

Randy Bressler gained 108 yards in only eight carries for the 125-pound Midwest League Vikings as they posted a 20-6 verdict over the Dayton Huber Wildcats.

Bressler tallied on a 62 yard blast, Joe Olny raced 22 yards to paydirt with an interception and Jim Schurman galloped 18 yards for the three Eastland TD's. The Vike defense held their opponents to minus eight yards rushing, keyed by eight solo tackles and four assists from Jesse Woods.

The 140-pound Viking traveling team swatted Clintonville's Shamrocks 30-6 in the other contest.

QB DARRELL Barnes scored on a 55 yard run and hit Dan Floyd with a 70 yard "bomb" on the first play from scrimmage to lead the Eastland offense. Mike Furniss turned in a 61 yard scoring dash and Chip Loftus got the other Vike TD on a five yard run. Greg Stevens and Tony Lockhart were the defensive standouts.

'Fearless' Predictions

Having found discretion the better part of folly, our peerless pigskin prognosticator laid off his crystal-gazing for the first two weeks of the prep football campaign.

We told him it was past time to prove his psychic prowess, so he grumblingly came up with the following rundown for Friday's gridiron slate:

EASTMOOR AT WEST--Warriors made a whole season's worth of mistakes against Whitehall last week, and barely got out of it intact. Broncs are young, eager and unbeaten--and the last CL outfit to stop Eastmoor (three years back). Might as well start off with a Lulu... West, with the home folks roaring.

DESALES AT CENTRAL--Buc defense an up-and-down outfit so far. Stallions always stingy...DeSales.

WATTERSON AT WHETSTONE -- Brave defense very impressive, but offense hasn't scored a point yet--Eagles soar on.

REYNOLDSBURG AT WHITEHALL--Rams gave Ridge and Eastmoor all they could handle, should crack win column with similar performance against rebuilding Raiders.

WESTLAND AT WESTERVILLE -- Cougars have lots of talent and experience on offense--so how come they don't score points? Westerville.

FRANKLIN HGTS. AT WEST JEFF--Roughriders 2-0, but not against Falcon-class foes. Home crowd may tell tale...West Jeff.

MIAMI TRACE AT READY--Knights got their helmets back on straight last week, and would love to do something about 42-0 shiner Trace hung on 'em in '71....Ready.

SOUTH AT WALNUT RIDGE--Defense has carried Scots to a pair of tight wins; but they'll need points to top improving Rebs...Ridge.

GROVEPORT AT LONDON--Nobody's scored on Raiders so far, Cruisers may lean on Rob Moore too much...London.

NORTH AT HARTLEY--Hawks did nice turnaround after terrible opener, Polar Bears have scoring potential in monster end Mike Harris. Hartley in a toss-up.

GUESS WHO RECOVERED?--If the expression on the face of Eastmoor's Ron Bensinger (56) isn't enough of a clue, the official's signal and jubilant Whitehall players make it obvious that the Rams have just come out ahead in this piece of first-quarter action from Friday's neighborhood squabble at Eastmoor. After shocking the heavily favored Warriors by scoring on their first possession, Rams then stole a favorite piece of Bob Stuart strategy by trying--and recovering--an "on-side" kickoff. E-M defense held here, but W-H hung onto 6-0 lead till some last-gasp heroics by Mark Kraker and Ray Griffin provided 14-6 Warrior win. Tom Athey (62) fell on the fumbled kick; other Rams are Miles Barrett (9) and Art Martin (60). Photo by Tom Holzer.

Branch Library Planned For East

A branch library to be located in the vicinity of East Livingston Avenue, bordered by Hamilton Road on the West and Brice Road on the East, has been authorized by the Board of Trustees of Columbus Public Library.

The actual site for the proposed branch facility has not been pinpointed by the board which is considering several locations.

Librarian Edward B. Daniels said the proposed branch library will serve an estimated 55,000 persons who currently have to visit Columbus Public Library's Branches in Reynoldsburg, Whitehall or at 3669 E. Livingston Ave.

Board approval to lease and operate the new branch climaxes a year-long study for the need of library facilities in the fast-growing Eastside area.

Funds to operate the leased facility are included in the library's budget request submitted last month to the Franklin County Budget Commission.

Releases Statistics

Nearly 29 per cent of the 1,601 persons who took advantage of free hearing screening tests this summer did not have normal hearing according to statistics released this week by James Spadafore, coordinator of Clinical Services for the Hearing and Speech Center.

Spadafore emphasized, however, that this percentage (28.86 percent to be exact) should not be considered to represent the average incidence of hearing loss in Franklin County. He stated that the national average of people with hearing impairments from a true cross-section of the population is estimated to be between five and seven per cent.

The Hearing and Speech Center, 1515 Indianola Avenue, is a private, non-profit agency affiliated with the United Way of Franklin County.

Suicide Center Needs Volunteers

Approximately 30 volunteers, 19 years of age and older, are needed, according to John Tewart, Social Work Director at the Center, 1515 E. Broad St.

Volunteers will begin two-a-week training sessions Tuesday, October 3, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. on such subjects as suicidology, toxicology, community resources and crisis prevention.

FALL MAY bring out the color of the leaves, but it also seems to bring out a flock of new rooms. Last week, I told you about one that opened last night. No, let me tell you about another new swinging spot. It is called Diamond Jim's. It is located on Murray Hill Road on the west side of Columbus. You may not have heard much about the place yet. That is because it has only been open a week and a half, and the management has been wanting to get all the "bugs" worked out before they start a big campaign.

However by the crowds, you can't tell that they haven't been promoting the room. Diamond Jim's has started with a bigger bang than that you would experience on the Chinese New Year, and has not let up.

THE REASONS are many. First of all, there is no other room or place like Diamond Jim's in the whole city. It is a show room, not a lounge. You can go in, dine, if you want, dance and catch a high powered show. Diamond Jim's is very similar to the popular show rooms in Vegas. In fact, most of the groups they are booking are the show groups direct from Las Vegas.

They probably have one of the largest dance floors in the city. As it was pointed out to me, and to repeat myself: this is not a lounge, where you come in, set down and expect to hold an evening of coversation with your friend.

But, if you are looking for place that really swings, a place to dance and a place for a souped up floor show, a place that is loaded with gorgeous stag girls, then Diamond Jim's is for you. "You," can be almost any age group. I ran into some friends of mine the other night, there, who were having a ball. And, these folks are grandparents.

NOW, ABOUT the room itself. As some of you may know, it is located in the old Murray Hill Steak House. But that is where the similarity ends. They have completely remodeled the room. A large dance floor, a huge stage and a balcony have been added. The room is not only plush, it is beautiful.

Get out to Diamond Jim's. What a surprise is in store for you.

INTO THEIR second week at Lincoln Lodge is an act that will more than please you lovers of good music. They call themselves, Misty and Larry. Probably, because that is the name of these two people, Misty, a gal who is simply loaded with talent and her partner, bass man, Larry.

First, let's talk about Misty. This girl is appropriately named. Her voice is so misty at times, that when she sings songs like, "Moonlight In Vermont," you can almost see the fog rolling in the lounge. A big, full sound, with plenty of resonance is Misty's voice. It has a rather deep tone that makes you want to set there all night long listening to her vocal rendition.

Reaching right out and grabbing your ears, Misty comes on with a style that is strictly her own. This gal does not sing, she wails. It'll tell you this, Misty is a singer in every sense of the word.

THIS BLONDE bundle doesn't stop here. She is one of the most personable girls I've seen on stage. Then, there is her artistry at the piano. Misty is as talented on the black and white as she is in the vocal department.

Her keyboard stylings are as dynamic and exciting as are her vocal works. Misty plays the piano like a man. That, my friends, is a great compliment. Her fingers are all over the ivorys. She throws in lots of riffs, runs and a host of other fancy works with each tune she tackles.

Her partner is a strong bass man, who adds fine instrumental support to Misty's works. But, here is where his talents end. Larry has absolutely no personality. He does not sing. All he does, which as I said he does well, is play a strong bass part, which is a big help to Misty.

THEIR MUSIC is great for most all people. Their library runs from the 40's to the 70's. To me, it is not only a treat, but a pure pleasure, to be able to hear a group do some of the good ole songs.

With the explosive talents and personality wrapped into Misty, plus the wide variety of tunes, you can easily imagine what a fast paced, fun group this turns out to be.

All you need to do, to enjoy all of this, along ith the wonderful party atmosphere of the Lincoln Lodge Lounge, is go there, Monday through Saturday. You will thank me for it.

GATEWAY is currently appearing at the Ramada Inn South. They call themselves Gateway after the old, famous Gateway Gospel outfit. This one is a trio. The leader is Pat Brunner, who sings baritone and plays a five string banjo. Then there is Bob Crister who also sings baritone. This chap plays a twelve string guitar. Last, but not least, you'll find Ed Moore, a bass man and tenor in the vocal department.

Individually all three are rather unique and talented performers. Put them all together and they spell nothing. That is just what their act is, one of the weakest, non-entertaining trios I've heard in a long time. This, by far, is not the usual Ramada Inn type of entertainment.

THE BIGGEST fault that you will find with this group is their sound system. While it is not my purpose to review sound systems, I feel, when it becomes the major source of making an act click, then it must be mentioned. In the case of the Gateway there is so much reverb it sounds as if they are singing, as well as talking, in Echo Valley, U.S.A.

There is no need, nor is there any reason in the world for any act, to come across, soundwise, as does this threesome. There is so much reverb, one can hardly distinguish their words over the sound system.

THE LEADER of the trio, Pat, asked me what I needed when I introduced myself to him. This was before I heard them perform. I told him I didn't need anything. After listening to them, I did need someone to tell me what was being said.

Musically, they play just about the entire gamut, from country, to pop to rock and roll. Yet, with their stylingizing, it all comes out sounding the same.

So take my advice, this week, head for the Ramada Inn South only for one reason; darn good food. You will also enjoy the warm, friendly atmosphere of the personable cocktail waitresses. But, you will find a whole stage full of top entertainment at the Ramada Inn North with Jim Hittner and the Prophecy and the beautiful Ramada Inn East has the fabulous Bill Morris. After all, you can't win them all, all the time, two out of three still isn't bad.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

LAST NIGHT, The Yankee Doodle Room opened at the Imperial House - West. Autum, Sun and Love, a solid, and darn good trio opened the place. This is one stop you must put on your agenda. Within a few weeks, this room is going to catch on like gangbusters. The entire mode of the room is quite different. It is a combination supper club and lounge. You can go in either for dinner or drinks. You can go either stag or drag. It is going to turn into a real fun place....

OUT IN GAHANNA, The Place Downstairs, another new room, has held over The Entertainment Committee. This is a very versatile trio that plays all types of music. I know you will dig both the group and the room. It is located downstairs, at Miller's Village Inn....

DUKE JENKINS has returned to the Marriott Inn. This is one of the strongest, musical trios you ever want to hear. They have a modern jazz type of approach to their works. Be it the oldies, or the better things from today's works. If you enjoy real good music, then The Duke Jenkins Trio has to be a must for you.... For a high flying good time, don't forget MARCO POLO'S LOUNGE. This spot really jumps. It is loaded with fun type people seven nights a week. Owned and managed by Mark Adams, an expert in making lounges click, Marco Polo's features a way out group, Trilogy for dancing and just plain listening. They are truly good. Speaking of dancing, that old dance expert, Buddy Joyce is the host. When you stop in, be sure you say hello to him. By the way, there is always a host of pretty pretty gals around.... For one of the best restaurants in town, take my word for it, and head to the DOBBS HOUSE, at the airport. This may be a surprise, but you will not find any better anywhere else in Columbus. The food is excellent. The entertainment is unique: that is a complete view of all the air traffic. The kids love it. There are special menus for the children, too. You can go to the Dobb's House any day and any time, for a steak and your favorite cocktail, or just a sandwich and a glass of ice tea. They are flexible. Try the place, you'll love it....

IN FIFTEEN MINUTES YOU CAN TEACH YOUR KIDS A LESSON THEY'LL NEVER FORGET.

The day your little boy or girl is old enough to go out and play, is the day your child is old enough to go out and get lost.

They think Daddy's name is Daddy. And they might even know what street they live on. But that's not much to go on.

If, however, you teach your kids their telephone number, they can never be lost.

It takes only a few minutes. And it might save a lot of worry and heartache later on.

You might also want to show them how to dial "operator" in case of emergency. And have them carry a dime for emergency calls.

Of course, it's always a good idea to jot down emergency numbers and leave them by the phone for the baby-sitter.

Ohio Bell also helps schools set up courses in telephone use and etiquette.

But if your children are not yet school age, maybe a little homework is in order.

Birds-Eye View Of Borden's

IT'S ONLY a huge hole in the ground now but in a short time this scene will be that of the new Borden's Building at Fourth and Broad Streets in downtown Columbus. The old and the new are also shown here as the historical St. Joseph Catholic Church is just in the background and the tall structure jutting up is the Midland Mutual Building. It's all a part of the changing skyline in Columbus and the many suburban communities experiencing growing commercial developments. This photo was taken from the third floor of the Empire Parking Garage in case any sidewalk superintendents would care to get a birds-eye view of the area. (Spectator photo by Ray Adams.)

Local Results Back On Consensus Project

Results of the Search For Consensus program, returned to the Madison - Local school district recently, showed community residents favored more vocational education programs and more individualized instruction in the schools.

School officials received the results recently from the State Department of Education. The Search for Consensus program was initiated by the state legislature to set up guidelines for establishing accountability in education.

THE QUESTIONAIRE filled out by community participants all over the state last spring, covered such topics as instructional methods, personnel, accountability, curriculum, equal educational opportunity, student rights and responsibilities, building facilities, school community relations, finance and educational organization.

Under instructional method, respondents indicated they favored schools grouping students according to their abilities and also agreed that pupils should be advanced in school in terms of their continuous individual growth and not retained.

THE RESULTS also revealed that among those answering, a large number strongly favored the introduction of new practices, such as non-graded schools, team teaching and individualized instruction. All of these are presently being used in various schools in the district.

Under accountability, respondents were unsure of how they felt in regard to standardized testing programs for measuring accountability and achievement.

Under this same category, a large majority said they disagreed with bonuses being given to teachers or administrators based on the academic achievement of the students.

IN THE AREA of curriculum, the majority agreed strongly that reading should be the most emphasised subject in elementary school.

Eighty six per cent agreed that courses such as environmental education, consumer education and drug education be taught.

The majority also strongly favored providing suitable guidance services for course selection, choice of vocation and selection of post high school studies.

SEVENTY NINE per cent favored emphasis being placed on career educational programs.

Under the category of equal educational opportunity, the respondents had a chance to speak out on busing.

Seventy nine per cent of the respondents disagreed that "racial isolation should be overcome by balancing the racial composition through busing of pupils from one attendance area to another within the school district."

TO THE statement: "If racial balance cannot be obtained within a school district, cross busing should be utilized on an area basis," the results showed 61.3 disagreeing.

There was agreement with the statement that busing to achieve racial balance be done only with permission of the parents.

Also under this same category, the respondents indicated by a 91.9 per cent figure that they felt every school district should make available vocational training for pupils who expect to enter employment on leaving high school.

UNDER STUDENT rights and responsibilities, the results showed 83 per cent agreeing that the administration and school board should involve parents, faculty and pupils in developing rules and regulations regarding dress and style of hair.

To the statement that parents and pulls should have access to all records pertaining to the students, 54.1 per cent agreed, 35.6 per cent disagreed and the remainder were undecided.

Over seventy seven per cent disagreed with the statement that a school administrator does not have the right to search a pupil's locker, book bag, or briefcase even though he has reason to believe that it contains a weapon or harmful drugs.

RESPONDENTS favored the statements that called for school facilities to include both educational and recreational features. They also favored by 80.4 per cent, having new buildings contain more open space classrooms and flexible partitions for large and small group instruction.

Under finance, results show 91 per cent favoring a statement that the board of education should provide understandable financial reports to the citizens of the community providing sufficient information about the way their tax dollars are being spent.

The majority of the respondents were undecided on the question of whether the sales tax is preferable to the income tax as a method of raising money for schools.

THIRTY ONE PER cent agreed, 36.2 per cent disagreed and the remainder were undecided.

These questionaires were filled out last spring in open community meetings. Those attending were divided into groups to duscuss the various topics and to make recommendations in these areas.

ACCORDING TO the original plans, meetings were to be held this fall once the results were completed. Each school district was to then incorporate the views of their districts into a program of accountability.

Citizens Committee Preps For Bond Issue

The campaign to obtain voter approval of the Columbus Public Schools bond issue got into high gear this morning when the Citizens Committee For Progress held a kick-off meeting.

Thomas E. Palmer, Chairman, said the committee will contribute to a comprehensive, wide-ranging campaign to insure that every Columbus voter is given an opportunity to learn about the need for the bond issue and of the benefits it will bring to Columbus school children.

"We are confident," Palmer said, "that when the voters really understand the merits of the issue, they will approve it."

PALMER SAID that in order to save time, the framework of the campaign already has been assembled and the preliminary work has been gotten out of the way.

"We are relying on the Citizens Committee," Palmer said, "to supply the campaign staff with information and ideas with regard to how best to carry that story to their family, friends and associates."

MEMBERS of the Committee, Palmer said, represent a broad spectrum of community interest. They include parents, community leaders, students, and educators. Deputy co-chairman of the Citizens Committee are Mrs. Pat DeWitt, chairman of the Columbus council of Parent-Teachers organizations, and Rev. Johnny K. Bryant.

Palmer said the campaign has been divided into distinct weeks with a special theme assigned to each week.

THE THEMES are: how the bond issue will expand and improve training for jobs and careers, how the bond issue will improve the senior high program; how the bond issue will benefit handicapped pupils; how the bond issue will improve the junior high program; how the bond issue will benefit the entire city.

Theme for the final week will be: Get out the FOR vote.

The campaign includes advertising in the news media, a speakers' bureau, a telephone information line, city-wide distribution of informational material and special events.

THE CITIZENS Committee FOR Progress is a non-profit, civic organization which lends its support to issues it feels will be of benefit to the community.

Board Discusses Enrollment Drop

Thomas Comery
Special Staff Writer

A recommendation that current staff levels be maintained and class size be reduced caused a lively discussion at the Sept. 19 meeting of the Columbus Board of Education.

The recommendation was made by Don Pierce, president of the Columbus Education Association. Pierce said that teachers who have left the school system are not going to be replaced in order to make up for a 2,000 pupil drop in school enrollemnt.

SUPT. JOHN ELLIS denied that this is true. He said that the pupil drop was not sufficient to relieve over-crowded classrooms.

Pierce also recommended that fewer substitute teachers be hired in order to improve the economic benefits of substitutes; that substitute teachers not be allowed to reject assignment to specific schools; and that more teacher aides be provided for the Alexander Bell School for the deaf.

IN OTHER business, the board:

- APPROVED hiring 47 elementary, and 30 secondary teachers.

- APPROVED appointing five community federal Emergency Employment Act of 1971. relations assistants, to be paid under the - APPROVED hiring 551 Educational Aides for the 1972-73 school year. They are to be paid from the State Disadvantaged Pupils Program Fund; the Non-Public School Services Fund, 1972; the 1972-73 General Fund; Model Cities funds; and from Title III - federal funds.

- APPROVED appropriatiating $15,000 for membership dues in the Metropolitan Educational Council. Through participation in the Council the Columbus schools have saved over $100,000 in the purchasing of school supplies.

- AUTHORIZED appropriating $39,000 to the Vocational Education Fund. Of this amount, $33,660 will be reimbursed by the State Dept. of Education.

- APPROVED continuation of a program to provide disadvantaged adults with training skills necessary for employment. State-federal funds provide for 86 per cent of the program's $30,500 cost.

- AUTHORIZED signing a contract with the Army allowing for 75 per cent reimbursement of military personnel enrolled in Adult Education courses. The trainee would pay the remaining 25 per cent of the tuition.

APPROVED a request to provide Educable Mentally Retarded pupils with private transportation to their respective schools when Board-owned vehicles are unavailable.

Slow Down, Twilight

GOD'S in His Heaven - all's right with the world.

That not so new but oh so true phrase came home to me again last week when I snuck away from the mad, mad world for a couple of hours with two precious grandchildren in tow.

Know what I learned in that short span of time?

Hamburgers, French fries, Cokes, potato chips, cookies and bananas are not enough for a picnic lunch when it's a special time.

They call them 'teeter totters' and not 'see-saws.'

Slides look a long way down to Grandpas - not to fearless children.

Fish take naps in the afternoon.

Children are really weightless.

Playing horse for two active children is bad on the back but good for what ails you.

There are not enough afternoon hours in a day.

A little love can go a long way.

Never go to a park where the restrooms are closed.

Happiness is going backward in time when you find out that swing seats no longer fit - or is it the other way around.

Twilight isn't too bad after all when you know that you've lived a lifetime between sunrise and sunset.

"DO YOU HAVE ANY GOOD NEWS?"

A Miracle At Your Doorstep

October 8-14 is National Newspaper Week.

We think that every week should be newspaper week--YOUR newspaper week. That's why we're jumping the gun.

That's why we make an effort to print news about YOUR community - localized to your neighbor, your street and yourself.

So what's new? News from China, Russia, Vietnam, the Moon and Mars? Is that all there is?

WHILE NEWS from far-off places seems to dominate the daily newspaper headlines, life goes on and things happen right here in town, in your own neighborhood, that are of far greater concern to you.

In this day of miracles, nothing has replaced the weekly newspaper for keeping you informed of what's happening around town: weddings, engagements, church news, school news, sports news.

WHO HELPS fill quotas during fund drives, fights pollution and backs every cause whose aim is to make this a better place in which to live?

Your weekly newspaper, with all its services and features is perhaps the greatest single force for service to the public and the community.

OUR GOAL is to make it continue to fill every possible need in a bigger and better way in the future.

You're Telling Us

Thanks For The Shirt Off Your Back

To the Editor:

We of the Volunteer Service Unit of the Franklin County Welfare Department would like to thank you for your generous donation of time and effort for our clothing drive.

It is so difficult for many of our clients to purchase clothing for their children, therefore, the success of our clothing drive is of paramount importance.

Once again, thank you for your kindness. It is good to have friends in the community such as you.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Julia Stewart

I Cried Because I Had No Shoes . . .

To the Editor:

I am a mother of five children and the five children haven't had a father for two years. He did some wrong and is in prison for a long time.

The welfare people have been kind to me and before school started the children all had decent clothes to wear to school. This is thanks to the welfare people for giving them clothes to wear to school. The youngest is in first grade and the oldest in ninth.

I found out yesterday that where the clothes came from was from your newspaper that helped collect them.

There is all this talk too much how newspaper people are selfish and only care about big things that are happening. I know this is not true and so will my children when they get old enough to understand.

Now you did last week something that I am thankful for. I called the people about getting some more education and they said O.K. and come and talk to us. My neighbor stayed with the young children that afternoon cause they were sick and I went down and now I might get a chance to learn some more at night.

I only wish I could spare the fifty cents to give your very nice young man who delivers the paper. I need it so bad I just can't spare it. The next time we are at the table you'll be in our prayers very special.

I had a friend write this letter for me because I don't write or spell so good.

God bless you all.

A woman with five children and no father.

Garage Sales Are Not Hurting Them

To the Editor:

I read with interest last week's letters about the opinions of garage sales.

I think everyone who has ever had a garage sale should realize what the businessman has to put up with when he starts his own business.

I only have a small business but I have to pay more than $500 in taxes every year in order to stay in business.

Since I was curious what a garage sale was like my wife and I went to one last weekend. It was advertised in The Spectator.

We never saw such junk that people were selling for such high prices. The funny thing is that some people were buying it.

There are so many garage sales nowadays that I'm not even concerned about them. I'm sure that soon they'll go away just like a lot of fads have done.

When people realize that they can't return something they've bought when it doesn't work or is the wrong size maybe they'll wake up.

Meanwhile, we're in business to stay and I say let them have all the garage sales they want. They're not hurting us a bit.

Sincerely,

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Kishmell

'Round The Bend

I'm convinced the quickest road to insanity is owning a car without (a) a degree in auto mechanics; (b) the patience of Job or (c) a real love of punishment. I just discovered that getting a car in for service is like trying to get on the freeway with the emergency brake still on. I've now tried both so I know.

I STARTED having car trouble recently so I decided before it got worse, I'd take it in for some work. I should have known I was in for trouble when the switchboard operator refused to put me through to the service department until I'd given her my engine number under oath and the middle name of the salesman who sold me the car.

When I finally got through to the service manager he was downright indignant that I had bothered him when all four tires were still on and rolling, the engine still up front and at least one radio station still coming through clearly.

I DON'T consider myself a perfectionist but when I step on the brakes I like to think that I'll be stopping within the next couple of blocks and it's pretty distracting to have the windshield squirted with water everytime you turn on the blinker.

I was persistant though and finally got an appointment to get the car in--fortunately before the models changed.

Getting there is only half the battle. The first thing the service manager wants to know is what's wrong with the car. Frankly I had thought that was my question, but I gave it a try. Have you ever tried to imitate the sound of a missing engine or a dity carburetor--I know I don't have it down perfect but I didn't think it was that funny--especially when I could see I was drawing a crowd.

I DID LEARN a few things from the experience though. I now know why bicycles are becoming so popular and now I also know why they say "driving" me crazy.

Who Needs A Ph. D.?

Degree Doesn't Equate Dollar vs Dollar Value

THE SO-CALLED "Ph.D. surplus" has become the object of speculation in education circles in recent years. Whether there's any truth in the notion that there are more Ph.D.'s than society wants or can afford is still up in the air.

Although there has been no national survey known to provide conclusive evidence one way or the other, some studies have been made whose statistical results could be related to the validity of the matter. Ohio State University has issued one such study entitled "Where have all the Doctors Gone?", tracing the whereabouts of 1,308 Ph.D. recipients from Ohio State's College of Education from fall 1940 through summer 1970.

Dr. Arthur Wohlers, director of the Educational Personnel Placement Office at Ohio State, was instrumental in its preparation. Although he has had experience in helping to place scores of Ohio State Ph.D.'s, he hesitated to comment on a "surplus."

"IT'S DIFFICULT to say whether or not a surplus actually exists," he explained, "because so many factors enter into it. For example, some Ph.D.'s have jobs, but they're not the type of job they were really trained for or want. Do you count them as surplus? Many husbands and wives are Ph.D.'s. Do you count a Ph.D. wife who chooses to be a homemaker and do volunteer work as surplus? And then, too, there are some Ph.D.'s who just don't want a specific position for a brief period. If it's their choice, are they surplus?"

Dr. Wohlers, however, did acknowledge a "possible surplus" in areas such as English, history, foundations and math education.

"There's no question that the market is tight. No one is denying that many institutions are forced to make budgetary cutbacks and aren't hiring as many Ph.D.'s as are available," he said.

DR. WOHLERS was careful to point out that his judgement is based primarily on his work with those registered with the Educational Personnel Placement Office. Although all Ph.D. candidates in education at Ohio State are not required to register with the office, most do.

The study indicates a slow, steady growth of Ph.D's graduating from Ohio State over the 20 years to 1960, after which the number rose rapidly. Dr. Wohlers attributed the dramatic increase to a variety of factors.

"The most obvious explanation is the baby boom," he said. "Many of the babies born right after the war were finishing college and enrolling in graduate programs during this last decade. And of course, a doctorate has always carried with it a good deal of prestige. More and more jobs are requiring them today."

Dr. Wohlers also recognized two more practical reasons for the increase of Ph. D.'s graduating during the 1960's. Some students stayed in graduate school just to avoid the draft. And scholarships, GI bill benefits, campus jobs, and affluent parents put the Ph.D. programs within the financial reach of more students than ever before.

ABOUT 78 percent of Ohio State's Ph.D.'s in the study have chosen to continue their careers in a college setting. Of those, fifty-six percent are teaching, while the remaining 22 percent are in administrative work. All are employed, with the exception of 1.2 percent retired, and one student doing post-doctoral research.

Only slightly more than 10 percent are currently employed as public school administrators, a figure which doesn't coincide with the fact that most public school administrators have higher salaries than college professors and administrators. The median salary reported for public school administrators was $22,500, as compared to $13,500 for college teachers and $16,500 for college administrators.

THE STUDY reported 8 percent of Ohio State Ph.D.'s remained in the Columbus area, while another 20.6 percent stayed in Ohio.

Many of the remaining Ohio State Ph.D.'s who hadn't gone to work for colleges and public schools held executive positions with non-education related corporations. Others registered as educational consultants for both private and non-private companies, as well as government officials, editors and clergymen.

Your Election Laws

Busy People Are Helped With Absentee Balloting

(This is the third in a series of "Your Election Laws" as presented By Ohio Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.)

Many Ohio voters cannot make it to the polling place on election day for a variety of reasons. They may be absent from the county for business or other reasons; they may be unable to vote on election day because of their religious beliefs; they may be detained in a hospital for medical or surgical treatment on election day; they may be physically unable to go to the polling place; or they may be members of the armed services.

SUCH VOTERS wish to vote, as do other voters, but often wonder how they may do so. Ohio law provides that people who fit in these categories may vote by absentee ballot. Recent changes in the law have made it much easier for such people to exercise their right to vote.

In order to vote by absentee ballot, a civilian must first make application for that ballot to the board of elections on a form provided by the board. In previous years, this application, after completion, had to be notarized. This was not always convenient and sometimes placed a great hardship on certain voters, especially disabled people. This requirement has been eliminated by the new law.

AN ARMED service voter may apply for absentee ballots, but the application need not be on a specific form. The ballots may also be requested by a near relative of the service member.

Applications by civilians must be returned to the board of elections by 4:00 p.m. of the fifth day before the election (November 2, 1972). Applications for armed service ballots must be returned to the board by 12 noon of the third day before an election (November 4, 1972). These dates were not changed by the new law.

However, absent voter ballots will be valid and counted if they are returned to the board of elections by the close of the polls on election day. Before the recent change, civilian ballots had to be returned by 12 noon of the fourth day before election day and armed service ballots had to be returned by noon on election day in order to be counted.

ANOTHER important change has extended the privilege of voting by absentee ballot to a number of people who were formerly disfranchised. People who were hospitalized because of an accident or other unforeseeable medical emergency occuring after the time for applying for an absentee ballot had no means of exercising their right to vote.

The new law allows such people to make a written request to the board of elections to vote by absentee ballot. These requests will be honored if delivered to the board before 3:00 p.m. on election day. In order to qualify for this privilege, such people must be hospitalized within their county. Two clerks from the board of elections will then go to the hospital, where the voter will execute the ballot; and the clerks will return the ballots to the board to be counted.

Women Voters Will Sponsor Programs

The League of Women Voters of Metropolitan Columbus, beginning October 4, will sponsor a 15-minute broadcast Wednesdays at 9:30 a.m. on WOSU-AM (820 on the dial).

A series of three programs on the Equal Rights Amendment will be followed with shows such as election issues, police-community relations, social services funding, juvenile justice, environmental quality, and the effects of international trade on Ohio.

Questions concerning programming may be directed to "Prospectus", WOSU Radio, Columbus, Ohio 43210 or the League of Women Voters of Metropolitan Columbus, 221-1742.

Members of the League of Women Voters of Metropolitan Columbus will begin work October 2 on their annual fund drive.

This year's drive is spearheaded by Mrs. Harold Haldeman, 2850-14 Canterbury Lane.

The goal of the drive is to raise $10,500 in community contributions towards the League's $29,000 1972-73 budget.

The organization is an unbiased, nonpartisan group interested in helping citizens to be informed voters.

The League lists among its services to the community a speaker's bureau, a weekly WOSU radio program, a semi-annual Voters Information Bulletin, a community publications subscription, and candidates nights.

Persons wishing to contribute may contact the League of Women Voters of Metropolitan Columbus, 66 South Fourth St.

Business Boom

The economy in Franklin County must be on the upswing.

The criteria we're using is the large number of new businesses (some old and established ones are also spreading out with branches) opening in our circulation areas.

Customer convenience seems to be the trademark for all as the men and women who hold the purchasing power are being catered to with newly styled services that make it a pleasure to shop.

Much credit for this new trend must go to the new breed of people who are in key positions in these businesses. Other credit surely has to go to those already established who have set standards others must follow to assure themselves a piece of the economic action.

We welcome you all.

"You sent for me?"

Whose Garden Is This?

BY RICHARD L. PAUGH (THROUGH YOUR LOCAL TRASH)

PREVENTION OR CURE?

An Associated Press story recently appearing in Ohio papers told of the economic devastation of Saltville, Virginia "caused" by an Olin Industries plant that was creating both air and water pollution and had to be shut down by new environmental laws.

THE STORY goes on to say that economists predict environmental shutdowns may hit 300 factories and 125,000 jobs in 150 communities over the next five years.

Along with Saltville, the article goes on, is Barberton, Ohio where a like industry owned by Pittsburg Plate Glass Industries is shutting down. The PPG plant acutually started to shut down in 1971 and area residents had plenty of warning.

WHEN REPORTS are heard that environmental laws "caused" a shutdown, it is like kids playing on a freeway and passing drivers being hauled into court to face the blame for causing those kids injury.

"Thou Shalt Not Pollute" is now the law of the land. When local citizens note that an industry IS polluting, the best possible course of action is to go to the plant manager and demand anti-pollution equipment be installed. Mayors, county commissioners and school boards should follow suit and present a united front in the plant's front office. If that industry must fold up and move because they have not planned a logical clean-up, all governmental levels will be badly affected.

Schools will be hardest hit by the sudden shortage in tax revenues, thusly, school boards would be much better off if they were involved in the prevention rather than crying over a cure.

PUBLIC OFFICIALS, if stymied over the stubborness of a polluting industry, should make all haste to invite non-polluting industries to settle and furnish employment and taxes. Labor union officials should do all possible to get plants to quit polluting. It could save hundreds of jobs.

This subject of cleaning up industry is so important, a marriage between union officials, school boards and public officials in a common task force would be a beautiful approach to prevent rather than try to find cures for environmental shutdowns. When a plant manager had finished having a meeting with all those united forces, a special summit meeting would certainly be in order.

ENVIRONMENTAL law does not "cause" unemployment. It actually saves many lives, health problems and needless costs. The next time you hear of environmental shutdowns, remember, that is the death rattle of a shortsighted town.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: The next time you travel from town to town, watch the skies and rivers. You can tell exactly which ones are due to become a "transitional economic dislocation".

German Village Plans Oktoberfest Sept. 29-Oct. 1

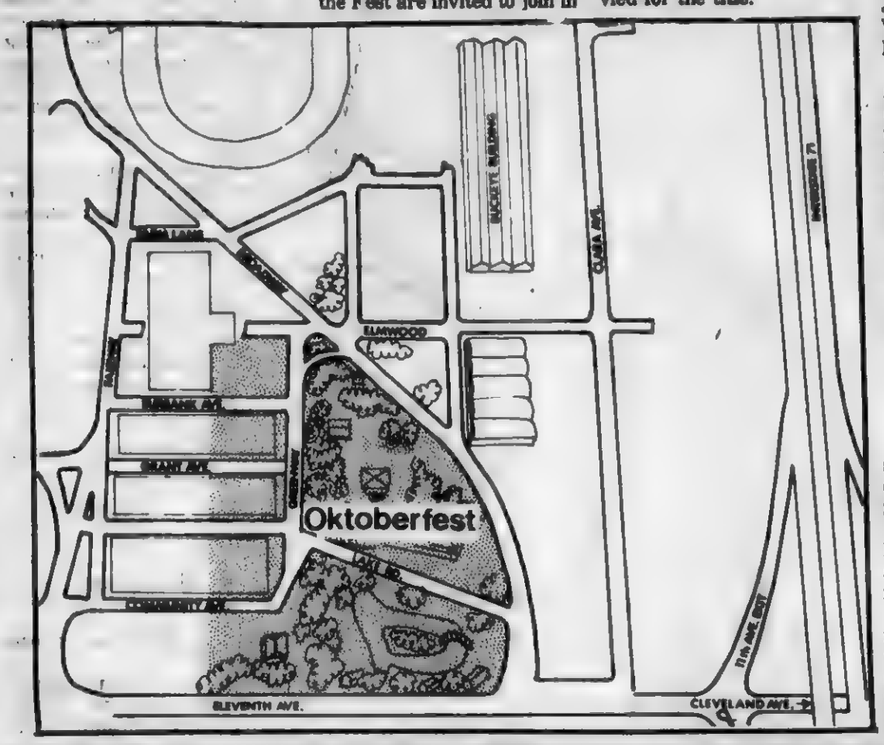
The 6th Annual German Village Oktoberfest, Friday through Sunday September 29 through October 1, will be held at the Natural Resources area at the Ohio Expositions Center.

"The Ohio Department of Natural Resources area, located at the southeast corner of the Expositions Center, provides us with the basics for presenting a worthwhile program and affords us room for future growth", stated Adams, president of the German Village Business Association.

"The purpose of the festival is a fund raising affair--not for the Association, a nonprofit organization--but for the German Village community." Adams said, "When the festival shows a profit, the money will be used for the betterment of German Village." The Association works hand-in-hand with the German Village Society.

German favorites such as bratwurst, sauerbraten and weinerschnitzel will be available ,plus German pretzels and plenty of gutes deutsches bier!

During the three day Fest, 10 a.m. until midnight daily, German music will be provided by professional and amateur groups from throughout Ohio. Visitors to the Fest are invited to join in the fun and try their hand at dancing, and for the inexperienced, dancing demonstrations will be presented by various Old World Dance Clubs.



Crafts and craft demonstrations, which have been well received in years past, will once again play a major role in this year's program.

Some thirty-five craftsmen from throughout Ohio have registered to participate this year.

Terri Murphy will reign as "Miss Oktoberfest" during the three day Fest. She was selected by a panel of judges from some twenty girls who vied for the title.

Presidential Candidates Invited To Speak At ODC

The Student Body at Ohio Dominican College has extended speaking invitations to Presidential Candidates, Student Body President Bill Johanson, and Student Body Vice President Miss Sandie Estanek announced today.

"In the interest of free speech and an informed electorate, we have invited the major party candidates to visit our campus and express their views on the critical issues of our day," the Student Body officers said.

"Knowing the issues and the attitudes of the various candidates is important to everyone, of course. But since this is the first Presidential Election in which 18 to 21 year olds have the opportunity to vote, it is especially important that students know and fully understand the opinions and platforms of the various candidates," they stressed.

John G. Schmitz, American Independent Party Candidate, has already set the date of Sept. 29 for his appearance on the ODC campus, 1216 Sunbury Rd. He will speak before the students as well as the general public at 9 p.m., in the Little Theatre of Erskine Hall.

RETURNING FROM MALAWI

Woman Ends Service As African Teacher

Crowning some 32 years of overseas mission service, Seventh-day Adventist Ruth Foote was recently named "Queen of Service" by 300 friends, including approximately 70 former students, at Malamulo College in Malawi, Africa.

Miss Foote will leave Malamulo this month after spending nearly half of her life there as headmistress and teacher. She will come to the United States on a permanent return.

At Malamulo, Miss Foote saw some of Africa's greatest needs being met–education for a people looking to self realization, independence, and she was privileged to have a part in that development.

She also saw the dreadful results of leprosy when it went untreated, and she watched the Malmulo Hospital care for the victims of this disease, bringing a halt to the destruction of tissues through modern medicine. She saw too the orphaned cared for, and the knowledge of a Christ carried to the people.

Miss Foote is leaving Africa and Malamulo. But when she goes she will carry with her the memory of those years that brought a richness to her life as well as to the lives of those she served. And Malamulo and its people will not forget.

Born in Parkersburg, W. Va., Miss Foote grew up in Nevada, Mo. She attended high school at Battle Creek Academy in Michigan, where she went to work to meet school expenses.

In order to finance a college education, she spent all her out-of-school hours at the Battle Creek Sanitarium as a laboratory technician and a hydrotherapist.

Graduation in 1929 from Emmanuel Missionary College (now Andrews University) in Berrien Springs, Mich., marked the beginning of a life dedicated to teaching.

Her first assignment took her to Keene, Texas, where she was home economics teacher and matron at Southwestern Union College from 1929 to 1938. Summers she worked on her Master of Arts degree at Texas Woman's University, Denton. Then, in 1939, she responded to the call of her church to teach in Africa.

The Seventh-day Adventist church has mission work in 187 countries. Last year 470 missionaries, like Ruth Foote, were sent overseas.

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

"FASHION NEVER STANDS STILL, and this is a season that proves it," said Ken O'keefe, fashion director of the Men's Fashion Association of America, during the Fall-Winter Press Preview I attended in New Paltz, New York. "It's a new era of dressing for men, based on knits, with spirit and flair but also selectivity and good taste."

THERE ARE more new ideas in men's clothes than ever before...casual clothes moving in a dressier direction while dress-up clothes becoming more casual. There's news in color, pattern and fabric...tasteful clothes for every occasion...perhaps the key word is elegance, whether a man is a swinger, sophisticate or traditionalist.

IN SUITS, knits or other stretch fabrics are still where the excitement is...style and silhouette are relatively stable. Plaid is the big pattern with flannel the important "new" fabric. Yes, "the man in the grey flannel suit" will be a reality...flannel in pure wool, blends and knit is updated in colors of grey and blue for the year ahead. Besides flannel, velvet, ribless corduroy and brushed denim will be part of the suit scene.

SPORT COATS will be the backbone of a man's wardrobe for weekends...ruggedly country casual...fitting into city as well as country life. Blazers, too, are newest in knits and stretch flannel...blues, reds, greens and earth tones are the important colors.

THE LAYERED LOOK comes charging into men's wear for fall to illustrate how confident and sophisticated men have become. For men it involves wearing a sweater or vest under a sportcoat or suit jacket...it means piling color on color or pattern on pattern to add zest to an outfit, or throwing in a solid color for a toned-down effect.

OVERCOATS feature the ragland sleeve again, and will be primarily single breasted..length has settled at the knee or just below, the maxi length is out!

FOR FORMAL OCCASIONS, the man who dares will wear a velvet or plaid dinner jacket...broad lapels, shape and sophisticated trim are other features. A new and unusual version of tails is expected to stimulate interest in the formal wedding.

'Twas A Big Week For Pigskin Frontrunners

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator sports Editor

Spectator SPORTS

In the first weekend of league warfare around the Central Ohio prep football scene, it was clearly a field day for favorites.

Eastmoor's two-time defending City kings opened with an impressive 29-20 decision over scrappy West while top contenders Walnut Ridge and Marion-Franklin also rang up initial loop wins.

WORTHINGTON'S defending OCC champs used some clutch defensive plays and a pair of long, time-consuming TD marches to dump pre-season strongboy Delaware 15-7. Co-favorites Westerville and Gahanna got off on the right foot too--the Wildcats mauling Westland 46-0 and the Lions burying Mt. Vernon 34-6 -- and Whitehall got win Number One in a big way; whomping Reynoldsburg 47-0.

In Mid Eight action, touted Bexley did nothing to discourage their favorite tag by thumping Hilliard 28-0 while Grove City took advantage of a first-round bye to impress with a 36-6 romp over Washington C.H. Groveport's defending champs, unwilling to abdicate without a scrap, also came out on top of a 6-3 nailbiter against London.

The CCL was still busy with non-loop chores, but even there things went strictly according to form. Powerful Watterson made it three wins in a row over AAA competition by destroying Whetstone 44-0, and always-tough DeSales put together a workmanlike 26-6 verdict over Central.

MEANWHILE Hartley made it two in a row with an exciting 29-21 win over resurgent North, and Ready got some impressive passing from Chuck Seipel enroute to a 24-14 revenge upset over '71 conqueror Miami Trace.

Tim Matheny converted after a first-period Franklin Heights touchdown to give his club a 7-6 lead over arch-foe West Jefferson, and the Falcon defense made it stand up for three stanzas to start Metro warfare on a cheery note.

Favorite Dublin hung an embarrasing 22-7 shiner on Brookhaven's hapless Bearcats, and Olentangy shocked '71 champ Teays Valley 14-12 in other Metro action.

Independent St. Charles rebounded from last week's blasting at Bexley to tally a pair of fourth quarter TDF's and dump Danville 14-6 for their first '72 triumph.

HEADLINING this week's card should be a pair of early showdowns between title contenders.

Neal Billman's Gahanna Lions will take their perfect 3-0 slate and OCC aspirations to Westerville, where the 'Cats have lost only to Watterson. The two clubs tied in a real head-knocking donnybrook last season, and it should be more of the same Friday.

The other crucial match-up is between a pair of City League South unbeatens, as Walnut Ridge and Marion-Franklin hook up on the Devil gridiron.

THE SCOTS have been less than impressive offensively in three wins to date; topping Whitehall 13-7, and edging both Whetstone and South 7-6. 200 pound fullback Matt Guttman has been the key man in a mistake-prone Wishbone attack-smashing for 270 yards in the three wins despite enemy defenses stacked to stop him.

In Friday's league-opening squeaker over South, Guttman battered his way for 69 yards in 13 carries (a 5.3 average); and slammed over from the one yard line midway through the second quarter for the only Scot score.

Pete Bickel split the uprights with the PAT kick, and thus provided the margin of victory for his club for the second straight week. South got a score of its own in the third stanza, but a fake-kick pass play fell inches short.

THE REBS stormed back in the closing moments to threaten, but safety Jack Stephenson picked off a deflected pass to save the day.

The Rams rebounded from a pair of tight early setbacks to Ridge and Eastmoor with a vengeance last week, giving new coach Mike Caponiello his first win.

TERRY TAYLOR rushed for over 100 yards and QB Dave Brobst averaged nearly 30 yards per completion as the resurgent Rams totalled 470 yards and 21 first downs to outclass the rebuilding Raiders.

Delaware missed the services of standout runner Vance Herrell (separated shoulder) in last week's tight loss at Worthington. The 185 pound slasher will reportedly be sidelined till very late in the season.

Understandably buoyed by a fine performance at West Friday night, Eastmoor's Warriors travel Downtown to Central this week to square off with John Butler's Bucs.

E-M SHOWED none of the sloppiness that marked their last-gasp escape at Whitehall two weeks ago as they systematically out-performed the ruff-'n-ready Broncs in a crucial early showdown.

Classy QB Mark Kraker marched his charges down the field for 66 yards and a touchdown on their first possession, and later built the Warrior edge to 12-0 with a scoring strike to end Monty Hannah.

After the Cowboys had struck back on an 18 yard pass from Larry Todd to Warren Lewis to narrow the count to 12-6, Kraker and Hannah teamed up to wreck West momentum with a 55 yard TD "bomb" just before intermission.

FULLBACK Carl Phillips and QB Todd each capped Cowboy drives with short scoring plunges in the second half, but the Warriors responded with a Ron Ayers field goal and Ray Griffin's four-yard burst to stifle a gutsy comeback effort.

While E-M battles Central and Ridge hooks up with the menacing Red Devils, West will try to put the pieces back together against winless Mohawk.

"They aren't a bad team at all," said coach Dave Koblentz of the Indians; "certainly not as bad as their record might indicate."

HE THOUGHT his young club put on a creditable performance against the brawny Eastmoor veterans, and was especially pleased with the pass catching of Warren Lewis and defensive play of Don Snider.

"It's very important for us to keep our heads up and play well this week," said the Bronc boss. "I have a suspicion that the Division champ may just have one loss this year, and we can't afford to let down against Mohawk like we did last year" (West was upset by Indiana week after losing to E-M).

ONLY NORTHLAND and East will be in action in the CL North Division Friday. The Vikes visit the Tigers at Harley field after convincing triumphs over Findlay, Cincinnati Greenhills and Dayton Roosevelt.

Three of the other Division schools will be in battle with CCL opponents, as Linden invades Hartley, North entertains Watterson and Brookhaven and DeSales hook up in a neighborhood feud.

TONY SUSI, a defensive tackle, got Hartley off to a fast start against North by recovering a Polar Bear fumble for a first period TD. From there on it was steady running by backs Chip Jakeway, Tim Cunningham and Ed Radcliff that keyed the exciting Hawk triumph.

It was win number two for Jack Ryan's improving eleven after an opening loss to Gahanna.

There were plenty of key men in Watterson's 44-0 romp past Whetstone.

SCATBACK Dan Halfernan led all rushers with 128 yards in 21 carries, and quarterback Art Yaroch connected on six of 10 aerials for another 140 as the unbeaten Eagles gained 360 yards against what had looked like a solid Brave defense.

READY'S Silver Knights sprung a big shocker on Miami Trace, as fast-developing quarterback Chuck Seipel hit rangy Brady Linard on scoring tosses of 35, 28 and 7 yards to pace the 24-14 upset.

It had to be especially gratifying for Knight coach Jim Long, since Trace bombed his '71 club 42-0. Pat Horgan connected on a 25 yard field goal in the fourth quarter to put his club out of range.

It was the second triumph in a row for Long's senior-studded contingent, which has obviously recovered completely from an opening night disaster in Cincinnati.

GROVEPORT'S Jeff Baker galloped 14 yards for a second period touchdown at London, and the stingy Raiders stayed stingy--but behind for the rest of the evening. The Westerners got as far as the Cruiser 15 in the closing minute, but London placekicker Larry Wilson was off-target with his last-gasp field goal try and the G-P title defense was off to a winning (if shaky) start.

REMEMBER THE LOCOMOTION? -- West co-captain Tony Manasco (87) and Eastmoor defensive back Dave Minster are both probably too young to remember the early-Sixties "Locomotion" dance craze--but they do a pretty fair semblance of a Choo-Choo act in this bit of fourth quarter action from Friday's City League South showdown. Actually Manasco has just grabbed a first down pass on the Warrior three yard line and Minster is making sure he goes no farther. Broncs scored three plays later to pull within 29-20--but that was as close as they got as E-M kept three-year CL win streak alive.

ONE THAT GOT AWAY--West end Tony Manasco stretches vainly for this sideline pass during final moments of 29-20 Cowboy loss to Eastmoor Friday. A last-minute interception by E-M safety Tom Stavroff killed final Bronc scoring bid two plays later--and Warriors locked up third straight win over Hilltoppers.

Eastland Gridders Split

The five Eastland Viking football clubs broke dead even in an active weekend of junior grid battling, posting a 2-2-1 record.

The 90 pound Tri-County Vikes tapped Pataskala 18-0 as Keith Griffin raced 40 yards for one touchdown and defensive end John Buck blocked a punt and ran it in from 40 yards out for the other.

PAUL GREEN and Tom Myers added PAT runs.

Only other winner on the week was the 140 pound entry. They edged Northland 6-0 on Mike Furniss' four yard scoring dash. Actually the final score is a bit misleading; Vike runners Furniss and Darrell Barnes galloped for a combined 280 rushing yards to dominate the contest.

Elsewhere, the 115 pound Capital City League Vikes played to a 6-6 tie with Eastern YMCA while the 105 pound Midwest team dropped a 16-0 verdict to Upper Arlington and the 115 pound traveling team lost a 6-0 toughie to Pataskala.

TAKING UP where brother Archie left off is Eastmoor halfback Ray Griffin, who leaves a fallen defender in his wake and looks toward the West goal line here after picking up a first down at Cowboy four yard line Friday night. Another Bronc defender (just visible over Griffin's shoulder) shoved Ray out of bounds, but Warrior speedster tallied final E-M touchdown of the evening on next play to cement 29-20 triumph and keep three-year string of loop victories intact.

THE ENERGY CRISIS IS THREATENING YOUR WAY OF LIFE

Offshore Blockade threatens the Economy and Environment

The Gulf of Mexico covers over 372 million acres. There's great fishing in its waters. There's also a lot of natural gas and oil locked in the earth at its bottom.

Unfortunately, unusual concern about the effect of offshore drilling on the environment is blocking further development of the Gulf as a valuable source of energy. And the blockade is forming at a time when America must have adequate supplies of energy to protect both its environment and its economy.

The federal government has leased some of this offshore land. Important quantities of natural gas and oil are being supplied from wells drilled in the Gulf. However, as production in these fields declines, new areas must be developed to replace the old ones.

But what's happening? The Department of the Interior's most recent lease sale, involving the Gulf of Mexico, was blocked in court by environmental groups concerned with the possibility of oil spills. We share this concern for the environment. The reality must be faced that producing petroleum in ocean waters poses potential problems. However, the record shows that over the years, the industry has developed its ability to drill for and produce this much needed fuel without permanent environmental damage.

Since 1947, over 14,000 wells have been drilled in federal and state waters. In these 25 years, only three oil spills have been large enough to attract widespread attention. Evidence to date indicates that even these three accidents resulted in no lasting harm to the environment.

It's time to balance our nation's urgent need for energy with the need for a clean environment. The growing energy crisis is the most serious problem confronting America today. Our nation must have adequate supplies of clean energy to solve all of its other major problems. Unless we act quickly to correct the situation, it could have a devastating effect on our economy: create widespread unemployment, a lower standard of living and a higher cost of living.

It is urgent that the government lease more offshore acreage for oil and gas exploration. Lease sales must be held more frequently with greater areas of land involved. Leases in the Gulf of Mexico must be granted on a minimum of 450,000 acres annually through the balance of this decade, if there is to be any hope of holding production of natural gas from that area at its present level.

You owe it to yourself, your family and your community to voice your concern about the problem. Write to your Senators and Representative. Tell them to act now to prevent the energy crisis from becoming a national disaster. They're responsive to your wishes when you make them known.

'Fearless' Predictions

The fearless one hit a spiffy .750 last week, clicking on nine of 12 picks to open up this '72 slate...

Loop warfare, and its accompanying number of "psyched-up" old rivals, makes for an interesting challenge this week: here's how the swami has it figured:

EASTMOOR AT CENTRAL – Warriors decided to teach the Fearless a thing or two last week; should continue lesson versus outmanned Bucs...Eastmoor.

WEST AT MOHAWK – Broncs gotta bounce back; running game should be more effective against Indians...West.

WALNUT RIDGE AT MARION-FRANKLIN – Seven points just ain't gonna do it against veteran Devils, Guttman or no Guttman...M-F.

NORTHLAND AT EAST – Vikes got Green Machine in gear, they'll be tough to tame...Northland.

LONDON AT BEXLEY – Raiders gonna need a heap of points to derail Lion express, even if defense is stingy...Bexley.

GROVEPORT AT HILLIARD – Cruiser attack on-and-off, this week it's on ... Groveport.

TEAYS VALLEY AT FRANKLIN HGTS. – Falcons are a confusing outfit, but their defense seems to be getting better by the week...F-H.

WATTERSON AT NORTH – Eagles finally converted yardage into points last week, no reason to suspect they'll suddenly regress....Watterson.

DESALES AT BROOKHAVEN – Look for Bearcats to be a little angry about loss to Class "A" Dublin. I said a 'little' mind you....DeSales.

WHITEHALL AT DELAWARE – Rams have momentum aplenty, Pacers in the dumps after two straight setbacks...Whitehall is this week's 'upset'.

REYNOLDSBURG AT WESTLAND – A pair of slow starting clubs try to break the jinx...Cougars better bet.

ACADEMY AT NEW ALBANY – Vikes have had a week to stew about tight loss to Newark Catholic, our guess is that's not bad....Academy.

ST. CHARLES AT CEDARVILLE – Fourth quarter rally pulled out win number one for Cards last Friday Mo (Mentum) wearin' a red jersey this week...Cardinals.

HE WENT THATAWAY–Whitehall running back Rick Robinson looks less than enthusiastic here, as an unidentified teammate blocks outside while Reynoldsburg linebacker Jeff Wade storms by in the other direction. This sort of thing was the exceptions rather than the rule Friday night, as Rams unveiled a dynamite offense to hand first-year coach Mike Capodelle his first victory–a 46-0 romp past Raiders. Some Rules To Follow

Publicity Chairman Help Us And The Club

We'd like to help publicize that special event your club or organization is planning.

But - too often - we don't find out about it until it's too late.

THAT'S WHERE all you fine publicity chairman can help us - and your organization - get that special announcement in The Spectator.

There are a few common sense rules that we use in reporting our own stories in the various communities in which we circulate.

We're going to pass them along to you in hopes it will make us both a little more cognizant of the importance of your article and its place in our newspaper.

HERE'S ALL YOU HAVE TO DO.

Start with a typewriter or if one's not available use a pen, please. White paper, double spaced, is the best.

Give us the facts of your meeting or event. We call them the five W's - who, what, where, when, why and then add a how.

REALLY, that's all there is to it. If you don't have a typewriter please print all the names.

And - please don't use little scraps of paper. Those are so easy to get lost among the countless items we receive in the mail every day.

We have deadlines for organizational news. That's the Friday before the Wednesday publication date. This gives us time to handle it properly. And - if you'll please put your name, address and telephone number at the end we'll call you if we have any questions.

WE CAN'T guarantee we'll use all of the article you submit since we do have newspaper style rules that we try to follow.

As for photos - well, it would be rather difficult for us to take photos of every club officer group that uses our Spectator Newspaper. We prefer, whenever possible, to get some of your officers or members when they are involved in a project. (P.S. Polaroids just don't make the scene.)

AVAILABLE space is our biggest enemy. With communities growing there are more clubs and more demand for space.

Honest - we think you are very important to the success of our Spectator Newspapers.

Get your news to us on time and we'll do our best to get it in.

We aim to make this Spectator Newspaper the most important media in your community.

You can help us hit the bullseye on that target.

Thanks - Ray Adams, Executive Editor.

Anyone interested in receiving the materials or bracelets should write to: Concerned Families Of Ohio, 3271 Riverpoint Court, Columbus, Ohio 43223.

Competition Tight In Jr. High Grid Races

Marion — Franklin's Independent Jr. High League gridders posted a solid 20-0 verdict over East Saturday to remain unbeaten atop the South Division standings.

Meanwhile, North Division frontrunners Linden and Whetstone played to a scoreless deadlock.

THESE TWO WHITEHALL YOUNGSTERS didn't seem to mind the bad weather this weekend. They were out at Orton Davis Park taking part in the city's 25th birthday celebration. There were rides, games, hot roast sandwichs, birthday cake and a fireworks display.

DAVID KENDRICKS and Clint Woods ran over from in close for two of the M-F touchdowns, and defender Marty Estice recovered a blocked punt for the other. Kerry Thomas paced the shutout defensive effort and Mason Moon was the top offensive blocker.

Eastmoor stayed close (2-1) by whipping Mifflin 12-0 behind the passing combination of Kevin Edwards to Robby Jones. Edwards hit Jones with a pair of flat passes, and the speedy receiver took it from there with TD dashes of 70 and 40 yards.

Walnut Ridge's entry made the win column on its third try, popping South 12-0. Mark O'Connell hit Don MacFarland on a 70 yard "bomb" for one score and Steve Tatman fell on a blocked punt in the Reb end zone for the other Scot TD.

BESIDES THE 0-0 tie between the North Division frontrunners; North downed Brookhaven 20-0. Rick Cordova accounted for two North TD's on a fumble recovery and a 70 yard kickoff return, teammate Gary Lewis got the other on a 35 yard canter.

AN INVITATION TO JOIN OUR ARMY

In the past years we have been serving this community, we have developed an army of friends and well wishers. A good many of them are very fond of us and we love them too, but we are not happy. You see there are some women within easy walking distance of us who have never been in our salon, and that saddens us. We wouldn't care if they would just look in and wave when they go by. If you know any of those women could you ask them just to wave and smile?

Schools Not Idle During Summer

School buildings did not stand idle in Columbus this summer as summer term programs were conducted in over half the schools and one out of every five Columbus students took part, Summer Term Director Paul Lindquist reported last week.

Lindquist said enrollment figures showed some 24,000 students participated in summer term programs conducted in 94 Columbus schools. He noted the programs served about 4,000 students more than last year, and attributed the increase to boosts in the enrollment of programs operated with state and federal funds.

The summer term director said enrollment for the term included 7,400 elementary and 9,600 secondary students completing regular classes, 189 handicapped pupils served by special education programs, and nearly 7,000 students taking part in programs operated with state and federal funds.

Regular summer term classes for elementary students were designed to provide opportunities to strengthen and improve basic reading, writing and math skills, and explore areas of interest such as art and music.

Available to secondary students during the term were a full range of classes for advanced and completion credits, and enrichment courses in career education, fine arts, instrumental music, driver education, foods and clothing.

Lindquist said a breakdown of secondary students attending summer term classes showed 2,100 earned advanced credits, 3,800 received completion credits, 1,800 completed driver education programs, and 1,800 took advantage of enrichment courses.

Another 4,900 secondary students were served by programs operated with state and federal funds, including 4,600 who took part in Project SOAR, operated with state disadvantaged pupil funds and offered for the first time this year.

Conducted in 19 secondary schools, SOAR--Summer Orientation, Adjustment and Remediation included various programs to orient incoming students to junior and senior high school, help secondary students with adjustment problems, and provide remedial assistance.

Over 300 other secondary students were served by Project Move Ahead, a federally-funded program to help junior high school students achieve at their academic grade level before reaching high school.

Other federally-funded summer term programs included pre-kindergarten and kindergarten classes, and a "multisensory" program designed to build upon the interests of students in 14 inner-city elementary schools to make learning more meaningful to them.

WHEN SCHOOLS HAVE PROBLEMS, IT HURTS!

This morning Mark came to school. He'd like to stay for language club at 4. He can't, because his school ends at noon.

This afternoon Tommy wanted to read a science book from the library. His elementary school does not have a library.

Melanie receives special education her neurological handicap requires. But, hundreds of our handicapped children are crowded out of special classes.

In June, Jim will graduate. He wants a good job. He probably won't get one. He's not trained.

Ellen came to school at noon. She wanted an elective class in the morning. But, due to overcrowding, the class couldn't be offered.

Let's see how some of these problems are affecting our children. Also, let's look at the solution.

LACK OF FACILITIES DEPRIVES CHILDREN OF JOB TRAINING

Over 60% of our Columbus school children do not go to college. Of those who do, many do not finish. They all need jobs. But how well do we train them? Can a boy learn to repair an airplane engine from a textbook? Can a girl learn computer programming with a blackboard and chalk? Adequate career training requires more space and equipment than regular courses do.

The Better Schools Program will expand career training opportunities in our high schools. Also, it will build four career-vocational centers to provide a wide choice of highly specialized skills. Every child in the Columbus school district — public and parochial — can choose from the wide selection of career training. He will be transported to the career-vocational center for this special training. He will return to his home school for his regular courses.

OVERCROWDED SCHOOLS CROWD CHILDREN OUT OF A WELL ROUNDED EDUCATION

In the past four years, 30,000 homes and apartments were built in Columbus. How many new schools were started? Not one.

As a stop-gap solution to overcrowding, nearly 70% of Columbus secondary school students attend schools on emergency schedules. Students on split sessions or over-extended school days are being deprived of courses and activities they need. For example, an eighth-grade girl may want to elect home economics. But if the school is crowded with seventh graders, where the course is required, she misses out on the course. Because of overcrowding, over-extended school days require some children to leave for school before daylight, and others to come home after dark. These stop-gap measures now forced on Columbus schools to relieve overcrowding, are crowding thousands of boys and girls out of a well rounded education.

The Better Schools Program will build 6 new secondary schools and 10 new elementary schools plus additions during the next 5 years, the period when the bonds will be sold. Four schools will be used as Developmental Learning Centers to carry out innovative and promising teaching and learning improvement programs. They will be available on a voluntary basis for students from other school attendance areas.

CHILDREN NEED LIBRARIES AND LEARNING CENTERS FOR AN UP-TO-DATE EDUCATION

Of our 129 elementary schools, only 38 have libraries. Even secondary school facilities in many cases fall short of State standards. Good reading skills are basic to the entire process of learning. Libraries and learning centers can provide the personal learning assistance so many children need.

The Better Schools Program will mean a modern library in every elementary school! And an improved library in every secondary school. And, this means more than just books! A modern library has the latest in learning materials, including films and film strips, records, tapes, and other reading aids for innovative teaching and motivated learning.

HANDICAPPED CHILDREN REQUIRE SPECIAL ATTENTION

A blind child, a crippled child, a deaf or hard-of-hearing child, a retarded or neurologically handicapped child deserves special education—an education to develop his potential for participation in today's world. It's the very least we can do for him. Yet, some of our Columbus schools are so inadequate, physically handicapped children must labor up steps at school. Our facilities for the deaf are painfully overcrowded. Children with emotional handicaps attend one of the most cramped schools in our city. And, 500 educable mentally retarded children are waiting to be placed in approved classes.

The Better Schools Program will enable our schools to do more for our boys and girls with special learning needs by providing the extra space and equipment required for this type of education. There will be a new school to serve the physically handicapped, an addition to the Alexander Graham Bell School, and expanded and relocated facilities for the emotionally handicapped.

BUILDINGS TOO OLD FOR SAFETY AND EFFICIENCY NEED TO BE REPLACED

24 Columbus schools were built before 1900. Maintaining these schools is costly. The atmosphere can be depressing. The hazards are obvious: consider three flights of stairs; consider framework and wiring three quarters of a century old. Ask yourself: would I want my child to go to such schools?

The Better Schools Program will begin to restore or replace many of the over-age facilities with well-designed, flexible schools to provide for modern educational programs.

VOTE FOR THE BETTER SCHOOLS PROGRAM NOV. 7th.

Help every child, in every school, every day.

QUESTIONS ABOUT THE BETTER SCHOOLS PROGRAM? CALL 221-1456. This is the first in a series of messages brought to you by the Citizens Committee FOR Progress, who believe tomorrow's community depends on today's schools. Thomas E. Palmer, Chairman, 3862 Pegg Ave. Mrs. Pat DeWitt and Rev. Johnny K. Bryant, Deputy Chairmen.

Hugh DeMoss with the news at 6 & 11 PM. News worth getting up and walking clear across the room and changing channels.

With all due modesty, we at TV-4 think we do a pretty good news show—and a lot of people are taking notice.

It's friendly—honest—and human. We think you'll find it's worth the trip to the TV set.

AROUND TOWN

PUZZLE IS the name of the group currently at the new and very popular Diamond Jim's. Once you catch this quartet, it will not be a puzzle to you as to why the house was jammed packed last Wednesday or why I think they are one of the most powerful and entertaining outfit I've seen or heard in many a moon.

All four fellows are first rate musicians and highly polished [illegible].

First, lets talk about their comedy. Yes, my friends, it is comedy. Even the corny material produces laughs because this group is the first to make a face when the stuff is "rotten." It has been a long, long time since I have witnessed so much laughter from an audience. But, you can't keep from laughing when you hear and see these boys.

THE GROUP is composed of Dave Miller, lead singer and guitarist, Mike Notartomaso drummer and lead singer, Bob Johnson handling bass guitar, organ, sax and clarinet.

Woody Hayes would be quite pleased with a lineup of such triple threat men. While Mike is listed as drummer, I feel this is an understatement. He is a percussionist in every sence of the word. He is as speedy as Gene Kruppa and shows more creativeness.

All of the men are out of sight in the instrumental department. I could listen to Rick and his reed work for hours. Rick has the ability to set a velvet mood or burn the place down with some red hot licks. Believe me, Dave Miller and Bob Johnson come just as strong.

They could throw away their instruments and still be fantastic. Just let them sing. Individualy or with their two, three, or four part harmony you will flip over the sound you hear.

IF IT IS still a puzzle to you, here is how to solve it. Take four top comedians, who are great instrumentalists and vocalists. Add the words, Diamond Jim's and the answer is an evening you will remember for a year or two.

They close Sunday, so make sure you catch Puzzle at Diamond Jim's. What showman!

LAST WEEK I told you about the brand new Yankee Doddle Room at the Imperial House - West. Now, let me tell you about the trio appearing there Autumn, Sun and Love. If you want to hear some fine music, great for dancing, dining or just nice listening while sipping your favorite cocktail, then be sure to put this spot on your agenda.

Brothers Arnie and Jack Bates play electric bass and electric guitar, respectively. Ron Caban takes care of the sticks and brushes. Put them all together and they spell entertainment.

ARNIE comes on with a voice that shows plenty of control and a sound that's big and full. Take my word for it, this guy should be a hit in his own right. He also comes across with some nice work with the electric bass.

Brother Jack is a real virtuoso. His finger work and harmonics with the electric guitar are out of sight. Add his electronic gimicks to it, and you have a guitar that makes sounds as if it were an electric organ or a banjo. Ron's stick work fits this trio like he was made for the job. I'm not so sure that he is not another brother. His playing has as much class as does Jack and Arnie.

In fact, this is one point about the trio that I enjoyed, they do have class. Not only does their musical styles have blends or class and sophistications, both their singing and instrumental work shows a uniqeness.

YOU NAME IT and they will play it seems to be their motto. They will dish out a few of the oldies and come right back with tunes of today. Autum, Sun and Love will play slow, fast, mood music, dinner music and rock. There is something for everyone. And, they don't dwell on one idiom. They keep their sets moving at a fast clip.

Autum, Sun and Love is a highly entertaining trio. You will love them. Stop out for cocktails, or dinner some evening at the Imperial House - West. The new Yankee Doodle is a real Yankee Doodle Dandy of a place.

night, they agree with me. This fellow is better than most trios and quartets that come down the pike.

While it is a single act, Bill Morris does put on a first rate show. Each set is nothing but a floor show.

THERE are singers, and then there are singers. Bill Morris is one of the finest male singers to set foot on a stage. He is an exciting singer of song who comes on like gangbusters. What a dynamic performer.

Doing a tremendous job of accompanying himself on the electric guitar and piano, Bill not only is able to entertain you with his voice, but you will enjoy his instrumental work as well.

HE MIXES up the sounds with his piano and guitar stylings, so that you never hear the same thing over and over. This is also true with his music.

You can catch him Monday through Saturday at the Ramada Inn East. When you stop in, be sure to say hello to the man behind the bar, Andy Komtomerkos. Andy is well known, and one of the best there is in the business. He used to work for one of the well known establishments in the north end, now he is at Ramada Inn East. Head out there soon, you will have a great big ball.

THE PIPE DREAMS is rapidly becoming a place to visit on the west end of Columbus. The new owners have taken the place and made it into a real swinging spot that's fun, just by plenty of personality, good service, fine food and most of all, lots of nice customers. You are never a stranger at the Pipe Dreams...Stopped in the other evening at the Studio Five. This is one of the most unusual and most beautiful lounges in the city. It is divided into several little rooms, with sofas and big, lounge chairs. No entertainment, just a way out place to go for conversation and meeting new friends... As they say in the TV ads, do we have a fall for you. How true regarding the night light in ole Columbus town. Many big things will be happening. Remember, you'll read about it first, in the Around Town Column of the Spectator Newspaper.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Club House restaurant is place you don't won't to skip over. Their food is delicious and the atmosphere is so relaxing. While it is five miles south of Scioto Downs, in Pickaway county, it is just a short drive. I can make it from my office in twenty minutes. Try it, you will not be sorry. On Saturday nights, Ed Hix and the Townsmen play for your listening and dancing. These fellows ares very enjoyable...My gal, Sonia Modes, continues to provide plenty of good piano music and charm at the Holiday Inn East. This has to be one of the friendliest cocktail hours in town... This is the finale week for Misty and Larry at the Lincoln Lodge. This bundle of beauty sure do play a handfull of the black and whites...Downtown at the Charleston Club owner Hal Case continues to keep things hopping with his bevy of dancers. It is sure to take your worries away. What a way to relax.. My personal pick of all groups for pretty, pretty music is the Dave Hopkins Trio at the Holiday Inn - Reynoldsburg. This trio is just plain hard to beat for good music. Dave handles the trumpet so gently, the soft, mellow tones will keep you there all night...

THE BILL Morris Show is currently knocking them dead at the beautiful Ramada Inn East. The Bill Morris Show consists of one man. What a show this fellow puts on for the people.

A single act is quite a departure from the normal bookings at the Ramade Inn East. But, as for this columnist, and, judging from the large number in the audience for a rainy Monday night, they agree with me. This fellow is better than most trios and quartets that come down the pike.

Greg Morris Walks Tall

Barney Proves Mission Is Possible

BY KATHY DEVANEY

After seven years on "Mission Impossible" Greg Morris–Barney–is leaving.

"Peter Graves, Peter Lupus and I are like brothers. I've never worked with nicer people, but now its time to move on," Greg (as he insists on being called) said.

His agents are now negotiating for a show of his own in which he will portray a young black doctor who started in Watts but who is also very cosmopolitan.

"He'll lose some cases, some patients," Greg said.

Greg hopes this will be a tasteful realistic show about a man in relation to his family and his community.

He also sees a need for good situation comedies with and about blacks.

"I hope this is just beginning of better things to come," he said.

Greg came to Columbus for the Hilltop Civic Council Benefit Show Friday because he's a "kid fruit."

"The Council is doing a lot for the black community and the community in general and it's like coming home for me.

"I meet my wife here and our first child was born here," he said.

Greg went to the University School-Champion Junior High and East, then he left Columbus.

After serving in the army he went to Ohio State for one quarter before transfering to Iowa in 1958 as a radio and speech major.

"I try to walk tall, as a man and I hope I'm an example to kids, black and white." Greg said.

"All kids need a patriarchal, masculine image I hope I'm able to be that and I also hope there will be more of us."

"Kids learn by example. This is the greatest, most unphony generation I've ever met.

"They can spot a phony immediately. You have to be yourself and do your own thing," he said.

About the series he said after he read the script he knew it was a winner.

He thought it would be on for three years but never [illegible].

"Barbara Anderson (formerly of "Ironside") has done six or seven episodes, but Linda Day George "Casey" is back after having a big beautiful girl," Greg said.

"I've played 40 different roles from an assassin, chef, European clown, etc. The people in the business have seen me in these different roles ,"he said.

The show is very authentic.

"We skirt the credibility gap. Ninety-five percent of the gadgets are probable-most are rented," he said.

Greg feels "Mission Impossible" has helped him grow, has given him financial security.

A First Class Detective

HOVERING JUST ABOVE THE GROUND, this may look like an ordinary helicopter, but actually this is the police department's "super dectective." This copter, with the aid of a ground team, has helped to capture 140 burglars and find 80 lost children this year. Pilots, Sgt. Robert Myers and Patrolman Kenny Morgan, demonstrated how the helicopter manuvers to a group of Columbus high school students recently; just another of it's many "good deeds."

Human Relations No. 1 Problem

THOMAS CONNERY
Special Staff Writer

"Human relations is the number one problem of the Columbus public schools," Supt. John Ellis said Sept. 26.

Answering questions as a member of the panel at the Community Forum discussion of the bond issue, Ellis said that passage of the school bond issue is an "important ingredient" in the solution to this problem.

Ellis said that new buildings would not teach people how to live together in dignity, but selection of proper sites for the new buildings would improve the racial balance of the schools.

Other members of the panel were Tom Moyer, board president, and board members Marie Castleman and Dr. David Hamlar. Dr. Luvern L. Cunningham, Dean of the Ohio State University College of Education served as moderator.

Board member Paul Langdon was scheduled to be on the panel but refused to appear. In a letter to the Community Forum he explained that he had been told that the forum would discuss the bond issue only. According to Langdon, advertisements the day before the panel discussion said that the black-white dissension on the board would also be discussed.

Langdon said that public discussion of the internal problems of the board would serve no purpose. He said that he did not wish to become in a "shouting match" over racial questions.

Although the dissension of the board was never raised during the forum, several questions were asked concerning the effect of passage of the bond issue on the black-white problem.

The panelists said that the board does not wish to place a new school in either an all white or an all black neighborhood.

The board intends to bring its case for the bond issue to the people through events similar to the Community Forum, which was sponsored by the YMCA and the United Community Council

The meeting is open to the public and will be at the high school, 417 S. Weyant Ave.

Walter H. Kropp, president of the library Board of Trustees, will officially present the branch library to the City of Columbus. Accepting on behalf of Mayor Tom Moody will be Jerome Gafford, the mayor's executive assistant.

Rev. Nelson and Mrs. James Davidson, who have been instrumental in obtaining the new facility for the Driving Park area, will offer remarks during the program.

The 6,000 square foot facility, including land and furniture, cost $2,220,000. It will eventually contain 26,000 volumes.

The new library features a 540 square foot multi-purpose room which will be used for a study area, story hours, films and neighborhood meetings.

BOARD AWAITS HUD DECISION

Committee Studies School Land Sale

The Divestiture Committee, formed to oversee the sale of Section 16 land in the Village of Groveport, is currently considering an offer to purchase 292 acres on Hamilton Road.

The offer was made by Ballco, Inc. at a price of $4,000 an acre. The developer would use the land for an industrial complex.

THE DIVESTITURE Committee is composed of the superintendents of both the Madison Local District, Canal Winchester district, village manager of Groveport, and a representative from the state auditor's office and the engineering department.

Village manager, Roger Higgins in a report to the Madison Local school board recently, said the committee had advertised and had received a number of offered for various portions of the land.

"This offer from Ballco was what we were looking for because they want a large portion of the land and want to develop it right away."

HIGGINS SAID there had been offers for a few acres for a gas station and possibly a motel but that the people who made the offers had no specific plans for development.

He explained that the land had been appraised and that the $4,000 offer was considered fair.

He said the developer would have some off site and on site costs which made the $4,000 figure about as high as the developer could go.

"I JUST received some information that we might be eligible to get some money from the Department of Housing and Urban Development which would allow us to tie into a 16 inch sewer and water line from the city of Columbus ." This line would come down Hamilton Road.

The HUD funds would pay for half of this work. Higgins said he was going to apply for the funds right away and he had been informed that HUD would have to decide by December.

Philip Williams, supt. of the Madions Local district, said if the lines were put in this would reduce the on site costs of the developer and he should then be able to add the amount saved to his offer per [illegible].

THE SCHOOL board members voted to await until Higgins received word on the HUD funds before deciding to accept or reject the offer from Ballco.

The Divestiture committee was formed four years ago when the state decided by take the section 16 lands and sell them to build vocation schools.

Higgins then lead the fight to stop this in Groveport because of the fact that Eastland Vocational was already in the area.

THE COMMITTEE was charged with disposing of the land and the money was then put in a trust fund.

The money is divided between the two school districts on the basis of the number of students.

If the land were sold now the two districts would collect the interest from the fund. Canal Winchester would be entitled to about one-sixth of the interest and the Madison district the remainder.

Ballco officials figured that the taxing value could be $30,000,000 in ten years.

ESCAPE INTO LIFE

The way to escape is just to go... go red or blond with a new haircolor or on an African safari. If you are hemmed in too tightly by responsibilities and loving concerns you can still find gentle, personal escape routes. We have a patron whose life is more demanding than most who considers her visit to our salon once a week, with a long hour and a half uninterrupted under the dryer, a kind of escape. PHYLLIS VAN ARSDALE

Local Girl Named Contest Finalist

Twirling a baton is only one of the things Eastmoor junior Phyllis VanArsdale does well, but she does that well enough to have been selected one of 20 finalists in the Sears Miss Teenage America Contest.

Miss VanArsdale of 966 S. Hampton Rd. has been a majorette at Eastmoor for the last two years but just recently began taking lessons.

Last week she was in two tournaments and entered 26 events. When it was all over she had 26 trophies to show for her efforts, including the trophy for the Queens Contest and the High Point trophies.

Miss VanArsdale has competed in about 11 tournaments since beginning the lessons about four months ago and has won over 50 trophies.

"I took a few lessons at the Barnett Recreation Center when I was about nine and then gave it up until I became a majorette."

She said she practices with the other majorettes after school and then works several hours at home each day

She takes lessons from Dee Felz who has taught baton to such people as Miss Teenage America, A Miss America and various national twirling champions.

Various schools across the country provide twirling scholarships and Miss VanArsdale hopes to be eligible for one when she is ready for college.

Besides twirling, her interests range from swimming and diving to dramatics, choir and various school activities.

She is a member of Future Teachers of America, The Girls Athletic Association and has taught synchronized swimming.

As her mother said after the announcement of the 20 finalists, "Well she made it and now the real work begins." The finals will be Oct. 29.

Don Ellis Band Scheduled At Cap

The Don Ellis Band will launch Capital University's 1972-73 Special Events Series, with a performance on Friday, Oct. 6 at 8:15 p.m. in Mees Hall Auditorium on the Capital campus.

Ellis, who composed and conducted the film score for "The French Connection," has been known since the mid-1960s as a trend-setter in jazz band circles. His musical development includes stints as a trumpeter with leading jazz groups, a combo leader at a Harlem club, a dabbler in Indian music (he once led a group called the Hindustani Jazz Sextet), and the academic world (for one year under a Rockefeller Grant he was a "Creative Associate" at New York State University in Buffalo).

He is best known as a musician who has principally, since 1964, led his own large orchestra, specializing in jazz, rock and a mind-boggling variety of odd meters.

His success with the score for "French Connection" led to a call to do "The New Centurions," which he recently completed. Established as a promising composer, Ellis still enjoys the role as featured trumpeter with his band--the group which will appear in Columbus this week.

Other events in Capital's special events program include: the New Shakespeare Company performance of "Midsummer Night's Dream" on Thursday, Nov. 2; the Alvin Ailey Dance Company on Wednesday, Jan. 24; and N.Y. Politician Bella Absug, who will speak on Wednesday, Feb. 21.

All events begin at 8:15 p.m. in Capital's Mees Hall

Your Newspaper Girl . . . . .

ANGELA TANNER

She Delivers

She gets the job done, no matter what. For the newspaper girl, that's a valuable lesson in responsibility. She learns to manage her route, wisely and well.

For the newspaper girl, that's a boost in self-confidence, as well as an early start in developing a sense of business enterprise and accomplishment that will stand by him all his life. To the newspaper boy, we say, "Congratulations." We're proud to know you.

SPECTATOR NEWSPAPERS

It hurts...when our children are crowded out of job training.

Sixty per cent of our boys and girls choose not to go on to college. They want and need high school training for jobs — training for tomorrow's jobs that is not available in today's schools.

The Better Schools Program will greatly expand current high school career training. Also, it will build four new Career/Vocational Centers for specialized skills. Every child in the Columbus school district — public and parochial — will be able to choose from the wide selection of career training. Boys and girls will be transported to the Center for job training and returned to their home schools for regular classes. They'll graduate with more than a diploma — they'll be ready for jobs!

The Better Schools Program means more than buildings. It can help to build better lives for our boys and girls. The Program will assure a Library-Learning Center for every elementary school. It will provide special education facilities for handicapped children. Many over-age schools will be replaced. Passage of the bond issue will make additional facilities available for the community—senior citizens, adult students, community groups—for after school use. We must put more into our schools so we can get more out of them!

Help every child, in every school.

Vote FOR the Better Schools Program.

Three Of A Kind

IT WAS LIKE old home week last weekend as we trekked to Sawmill Creek at Huron, Ohio (on the shores of Lake Erie) to enjoy an afternoon, evening and morning of relaxation with Edward McArdle our host.

The old home week came across strong when we had the pleasure of breaking bread and everything else our host provided with three astute gentlemen from the shores of the Little Miami, Great Miami, Mad and Stillwater Rivers that are banked around Dayton, Ohio, our home town.

Dayton Journal Sports Editor Ritter Collett, Dayton TV-2 (Avco) News Director Ed Hamlyn and Dayton Journal Business Editor Brainard Platt, along with their charming spouses, plus mine, spent a lot of time away from the daily chores of the media responsibilities doing just that - discussing our responsibilities.

THESE THREE horsemen from the Gem City are the best there are in the daily business in their area - at least that is our opinion.

Each is talented - each has firm convictions and each doesn't mince the flowery words when making his point.

We don't know Platt as well as do Collett and Hamlyn but since he was in the same eight-some (and in such good standing with Rit and Ham) there's no doubt in my mind of his calibre.

THIS IS almost National Newspaper Week and isn't it a shame they don't call it National Media Week!

COLLETT operates on a different wave length than Hamlyn and I. He's so sportsminded (and sports knowledgeable) that in his presence I felt like a gal at her first football game.

Hamlyn knows the ins-and-outs of the TV news game like nobody's business.

Platt knows where all the decimal points belong (as well as the nuts and bolts) in the industrial and business panorama.

SO WE PUT our heads together (and let the women's liberationists get a word in edgewise now and then) and have come to the conclusion that we are all part of the game and each provides a service to his loyal listeners and readers.

Hamlyn, it was agreed, has the toughest job - getting reams of copy edited into a fast 30 minutes that must include the jolly weather report, some sports and plenty of what's happening around town.

The Dayton Journal (take our word for it and get a copy at your out-of-town newspapers stand) provides the best all-round sports coverage in the nation. It's Saturday morning edition covers the high school scene par excellence.

The Cincy Reds, University of Dayton and all other areas of interest (including hockey jockey Lefty McFadden) really get wound up in type.

So what's the point we're getting to before we dull you with any more type.

It's just this.

We just thought you ought to know that we know of three dedicated professionals in the media who are worth their salt.

They've plied their trade for a long time without getting too fixed on their targets that they can't get away from a bullseye if conditions warrant them changing their mind.

Each has taken the time to do a lot of homework on their subjects before taking liberties with the pen to prove it is mightier than the sword.

If I were Don Quixote I would not want to tangle with these three windmills of talent.

The news is in good hands.

Kathy Devaney

Get Involved

It's involvement time again.

Schools have opened so it's time to join the PTA and the November elections are soon so it's time to register to vote.

Teachers complain because they often outnumber parents at PTA meetings.

The majority rules in this country.

If parents don't take the time to get involved in their children's education, somebody else will decide who teaches them and what they are taught.

There's a sense of helplessness in the face of education. Parents feel they're not in control.

They can regain control of their schools by participating in the organizations that shape our educational process.

In November voters will decide the course of this country for the next four years.

There are fundamental differences between the two men running for president that will determine the direction of this country.

School bond issues and operating levies and possibly that state income tax issue will also be on the ballot.

These will have immediate and long range effects on each citizen..

Get involved. You can make a difference.

A New Day-A New Way

SURVEYS HAVE shown that young people are more generously committed to helping their fellow man, than any other generation in history. In large numbers, young people are helping to clean up the environment, improving health care and safety habits, working with underprivileged families and creating new methods and techniques for solving problems.

Young people want to be involved in making decisions that affect their lives. They want to be able to play an important role in making this country a better place in which to live.

4-H gives young people that opportunity – to help solve the problems of today – to make the best better.

During 1972 National 4-H Week, Oct. 1-7, five million boys and girls, ages 9 to 19, will reaffirm the principles 4-H has stood for and they'll look to see where 4-H is headed in the future.

THAT FUTURE includes a committment to human betterment, expansion of 4-H into urban areas, more work with underprivileged families and continued growth for America's largest youth organization.

The theme of National 4-H Week, "A New Day – A New Way," encourages 4-H'ers, their leaders and friends of 4-H, to strive even harder to make the 4-H program relate to the needs of young people today.

WE KNOW that interest in 4-H has broadened in recent years.

Of the five million 4-H'ers, 33 percent are from rural areas, 43 percent come from small towns and the remaining 24 percent are from metropolitan areas.

Urban 4-H programs have grown tremendously in the last five years.

4-H is in all 50 states, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam and similar programs exist in 85 countries around the world.

Each of the 96,000 4-H clubs in the U.S. relate their activities to helping themselves and their communities meet the problems of the 70's.

Clubs have inaugurated roadside clean-ups, cleaned streams and rivers, collected trash and recycled materials to improve the environment.

WE'VE FOUND that clubs have conducted tractor safety checks, health testing, drug abuse programs, rural development planning; demonstrated proper first aid techniques and correct bicycle and small engine vehicle operation; and interpreted proper nutritional habits.

There are 4-H programs for handicapped and mentally retarded youths, as well as programs using television that reach thousands of youths, not normally reached by the 4-H program.

EFFORTS OF 4-H'ers all over the country have been highly applauded by governors, mayors, city councils, chambers of commerce, police and fire departments and community residents.

Guiding and encouraging 4-H'ers to "make the best better" are a half million volunteer leaders, who give of their time, to help young people make their own decisions.

Men and women of the Extension Service, at all levels – county, state and federal – help supervise 4-H by developing programs to meet the needs of young people.

INDIVIDUALS, corporations, civic organizations and foundations do their share to help 4-H, through their support of local, state, national and international 4-H programs. Their financial and technical support, and their incentives and scholarships to 4-H'ers, have helped to make 4-H grow to even greater heights.

And behind them all are 30 million 4-H alumni, whose experience and expertise gives young people a model after which to pattern their 4-H work.

We salute the success of the 4-H organization as it celebrates 1972 National 4-H Week.

WE ENCOURAGE 4-H to continue to expand into urban areas and continue to serve the needs of all American youth.

We look forward to America's largest youth organization growing larger in the years to Press Freedom A Public Freedom

BY ALBERT BLANK
Philadelphia (Pa.) Evening and Sunday Bulletin

The week of October 8 to 14 is being observed as Newspaper Week in communities throughout the nation. Anyone who reflects on the role of modern newspapers in today's society is reminded anew how wise were those men who wrote into the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution the guarantee of a free press.

Thomas Jefferson once said he would prefer to live in a country with newspapers but without a government rather than a country with a government but no newspapers.

"NO EXPERIMENT can be more interesting than what we are now trying," he wrote on another occasion, "and which we trust will end in establishing the fact that man may be governed by reason and truth. Our first object, therefore, should be to leave open to him all the avenues of truth.

"How do you go about giving the citizen a clear shot down the avenue of truth?

"The most effectual (method) hitherto found," said Jefferson, "is freedom of the press." It still is.

NEWSPAPERMEN throughout the English-speaking world are well aware of Edmund Burke, who first referred to them as the Fourth Estate, 200 years ago in the British House of Commons.

"In this Parliament," said Edmund Burke, "are three estates: The Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons. But, in the Reporter's Gallery, yonder sits a Fourth Estate, more important by far than all.

"What then remains?," he asked Parliament. "Only the liberty of the Press, which no influence, no power, no minister, no government, which nothing but the depravity or corruption of a jury can ever destroy. It will be the nation's most awful moment, it will be the first grasp of tyranny, and how pregnant is the example. What remains if the public press is extinguished, the people enslaved, and the price undone?"

"AS AN ADVOCATE of society, of peace and of liberty, I conjure you to guard the liberty of the press, the great sentinel of the state, the grand detector of public imposture. Guard it and cherish it, because whenever it ceases to flourish, there will die with it the liberty of the people and the security of the Crown."

To benefit from a good press, the public should zealously defend press freedom even when it hurts.

Freedom of the press is not a press freedom but a public freedom, a public possession and right, and in many ways the public's stoutest weapon.

To deserve its freedom, the press should strive to be full, fair and factual. But a free people does not leave it to the government to decide what is full, fair and factual.

THE GREATEST strength of a free press is not points of similarity, but in the points of difference. In the production of news every step involves the conscious intervention of some news-gatherer, and two accounts of the same event will never be the same.

The threat to the liberties of the individual is always possible. External vigilance on the part of the public is essential, and that is why once a year Newspaper Week seeks to focus attention on Freedom of Expression–a priceless heritage bought with blood and tears over many years.

Culinary Catastrophe

I had a very traumatic experience the other night–I had to cook my own dinner. Now I don't want to give the impression that I'm not domestic, it's just that I thought knowing your way around the kitchen meant you were aware that peanut butter doesn't have to be refrigerated and that TV dinners are baked not broiled.

IT WAS a rude awakening. But since I had to go through with it I figured I'd do it right and consult a cookbook. If there's one thing I can't stand it's a smug writer. Just because they know what saute and pureed mean they think everyone else should too. Besides what I wanted was just some basic information–like how does the can opener work.

When kidded about my lack of knowledge in this area I just throw it all back to my childhood. My mother has a sign in her kitchen which says something to the effect, "He who eats here must trust his fate, I'm no cook, I like to paint."

MY SISTER and I are probably the only two people in the world who ever mistook dormitory food or gourmet cooking. Growing up at our house it wasn't "no getting up from the table until you've cleaned your plate:" rather it was "no getting up until your Colonel Sanders box is empty." We thought "nothing says loving like something from the oven" meant we were getting another piece of pottery.

THE MEALS at our house were so standardized you could order by number. For example at our house spaghetti is 2-B.

With this background I expected a total disaster on my first encounter with the world of pots and pans, but surprisingly I didn't do too badly. In fact my first success went right to my head. Before I knew what was happening I was inviting three friends to lunch. I must have caught them off guard because they said yes.

I COULD tell they knew I was a beginner when they all arrived carrying portable stomach pumps. I tried not to let that bother me, but I had to admit it made me a little nervous when they waited for me to take a bite before they ate. I guess I should have warned them there would be no effects on me–I've been eating this stuff for years.

Only You Can Protect Your Right To Vote

(Ed. Note: This is the last of a four-part series of information concerning YOUR ELECTION Laws as outlined by Ohio Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.)

October 8 is the first day for applying for absentee ballots for the general election November 7.

Applications will be received through November 2.

During that 25-day period, people who will be unable to go to the polls on November 7 because of necessary absence or because of disability may apply to have their ballots delivered to them.

AN APPLICATION for an absent or disabled voter's ballot may be obtained on request from the county board of elections.

Each person must request his own application. The board cannot issue a sheaf of applications to one person and let him distribute them as he pleases.

A card or letter to the board office will be honored, and the application form will be returned by mail. Of course, you can stop in at the board office and pick up an application. If you do that, you can fill it out and vote then and there.

WHEN YOU receive your application, you should fill it out. Fill out all of it. Give all the information it requires.

You must then sign it, and it should then be mailed back to the board.

The board of elections will send you ballots. They must be voted by the applicant and by no one else, and no one can be allowed to see how you vote or help you to vote. Anyone else who votes your ballots or looks at your ballots is committing a crime, and you would be committing a crime to let anyone vote your ballots or look at how you voted.

AFTER YOU have voted your ballots, you must seal them in the envelope provided, fill in the information required on the envelope, sign it as required, and swear to it.

Absentee voting procedures are designed to make it possible for people to vote even though they cannot come to the polling place on election day. If you cannot come in to vote, you should by all means vote this way. No one should fear that the procedure is too complicated. It is actually quite simple, as simple as it can be and still preserve the minimum safeguards for an honest election.

West Side School Needs Explained

To The Editor:

September 20, I attended a meeting at West High regarding the Columbus School Bond Issue.

The main concern of many west siders is "when will we get another high school on the west side?" The next night I spoke at Binns School PTA and would like to share my remarks with you.

I have a choice to make between now and November 7. I can decide now to vote against the Bond Issue for any number of reasons, or can listen and read about Dr. Ellis' plans for our children before I decide how I will vote.

I know you have questions you want answered before you decide how you will vote.

I accepted this job as campaign chairman because I wanted to try to get satisfactory and honest answers to your questions about the Bond Issue - so you will have facts on which to base your decision on November 7.

I am not satisfied with vague promises - I wanted to know what is planned and when it will be done. I wanted to know what the most urgent needs of our city schools are.

So, on September 11 I sent 25 questions to Dr. Joe Davis, an assistant superintendent. I met with him at West High and with Mr. Merriman and and Mr. Beers and this is what I found out.

The last time the voters approved a Bond Issue was in 1964. I looked at a list of the promises that were made for the west side and at the results. Every promise that was made for 1964-69 was kept.

Wayne Elementary and Wedgewood Junior High were built. A total of 18 classrooms were added at Georgian Heights, Lindbergh, West Mound, Chicago Ave., Highland Ave. and West Broad Schools. Miscellaneous remodeling was made at Avondale, Burroughs, Chicago, Dana, Bellows, Highland, West Broad and West High School.

Expansion sites were purchased at Avondale, Chicago, and Highland Schools. We were able to get our learning center because of the 1964 bond issue and that hadn't even been promised.

In September, 1969, a bond issue appeared on the ballot which promised a new high school on the west side, but it was defeated.

In May, 1971, another bond issue was on the ballot and it promised a new high school on the west side, but it was defeated.

Now this November we have another Bond Issue and again a new high school on the west side is promised. So, I asked Mr. Beers, if this bond issue passes, when will the new high school be built.

He said that the purchase of the land, will have top priority and that the building will be completed within four years, which would be January, 1977, at the latest.

There are other needs which must be met on the west side and throughout the city. Overcrowding of schools is the worst that it has ever been in this city.

Over 2000 elementary school children are now being bussed an average of five miles twice a day because no school exists in their neighborhood.

Nine junior and senior high schools have split sessions and 17 more have extended day schedules because they are overcrowded.

The elimination of overcrowding and bussing of elementary children is the number one priority of this bond issue, in my opinion.

Another priority is to provide housing for good career-vocational programs. Ft. Hayes will become a career training center within three years and it will be available to every eligible high school student in the city, because transportation will be provided.

Right now they are working on plans to provide transportation between high schools this year for students who want to take a vocational course that is not available in their own high school.

They want kids who are not planning to go to college, or work in an office, to stay in school and learn a trade so they can get jobs.

Other needs which will be met by this bond issue include numerous west side remodeling projects, learning centers, and career-vocational centers, better facilities for handicapped children and replacement of schools built during the Civil War.

If you have any questions, phone the Bond Issue Information phone number 221-1456.

In my opinion, a no vote will accomplish nothing except the postponement of the high school we want and need on the west side.

Mrs. Lou Houston

He'll Back His Son

To the Editor:

My son is running for a political office in November. He's spending a lot of time away from his job and family to talk to people about his beliefs.

My son is not wealthy by any means and neither are we.

We're going to help him, though, because we believe he has something to tell the people in which he honestly believes.

Since there are many more losers in the game of politics than there are winners he is primed for a win or a loss.

I reminded him of what the late Grantland Rice once said about games: "For when the One Great Scorer comes to mark against your name he'll write not that you won or lost but how you played the game."

I hope other parents feel the same about their sons and daughters. I'm proud to be an American and I'm proud I have a son who believes in her greatness.

Sincerely,
Name witheld by request.

Answers About Your Insurance

(Presented by the Columbus Chapter of the Society of Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriters)

...Does My Automobile Policy Apply To Rented Automobiles? For Example: Will The Policy Which Insures My Family Car Apply To A Car Rented While On Vacation For Three Weeks, Or Should I Purchase Liability Insurance From The Rental Organization?

Most policies insuring private passenger automobiles provide coverage for rented vehicles used in the circumstances you describe. The exceptions are vehicles furnished for the regular use of the driver or rented under a long term lease arrangement.

It appears that a rental period up to three weeks would not constitute regular use; however, we suggest your insurance representative be contacted and informed of your intentions when you plan to use a rented car for more than three weeks.

As a general rule, insurance policies providing liability coverage for private passenger automobiles will extend coverage to rented automobiles while they are used for a few days, a business trip, vacation, or other similar purposes.

When one finds himself renting automobiles frequently, he can have his own policy endorsed to provide coverage for this type of exposure. Since the policy language is vague on this latter subject, we feel a written statement from your insurer is advisable.

Your insurance questions are welcome. While individual answers cannot be provided, questions of general interest will be used in this column.

All About A Ubiquitous Boutique

BAGATELLE RUDI GERNREICH DANIEL HECHTER

PHOTOS BY LINDA STERN.

ANYBODY NOT involved with a boutique these days is simply wasting time...boutiques are breaking out everywhere...elegant or crazy, large or teeny weeny, inexpensive or high priced...they seem to be leading charmed lives.

BOUTIQUES ARE not just shops...they're more fun and freedom than most people in fashion have had for a long time. The proprietors are right in on the act along with the customers, catering to every fashion whim with intimate, friendly service...customers never had it so good.

ONE OF the newest and most enchanting Boutiques I've discovered is ATTITUDES at 2996 East Broad Street in Bexley. Recently opened, it looks like a little chunk of Paris (at least what most people dream Paris is like). The total decor, both interior and exterior, was designed by Mark Rinker of Centners...a charming combination of nostalgia and "to-day".

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

Provincial fabric patches paper the walls, reflected in sparkling mirrors with antique frames. Antique parlor chairs and tables are set against fern greenery. Clothes that go together are cleverly displayed throughout...each with a personality of it's own.

ATTITUDES IS chucked full of exciting Contemporary designer fashions...names such as Rudi Gernreich, Kenzo (Japanese) Clothes Circuit, Cacharel, Digits, Tricots, Daniel Hechter, and Giorgio di Sant'Angelo, to name a few...all in a lighthearted mood for day and evening...like the navy wool wrap coat with red seaming lined in foulard print by Daniel Hechter...the long knit dress with black and white check skirt and baseball sleeved bodice by Rudi Gernreich...the mauve, orange, shrimp and brown layered knit separates with a wild design on one pant leg by Giorgio...and the glove leather sport jacket by Bagatelle, with flange shoulders, worn with wide tweed pants by Digits...so sensuous, you won't be able to resist it.

THE OWNER manager of Attitudes, who buys all these exciting clothes, is Mark Lavine, a talented, personable young man who knows what the capricious fashion business is all about. For many years he displayed his talents as buyer of better sportswear for a local department store, however the desire to open his own shop was so great...it is now a reality...catering to the young-at-heart woman who likes the new and unusual...clothes that amuse or make a terrific impact...not too serious, but with all the originality and status of Paris Couture.

GLOVER SHEARRON

Two Area Men Aid UW Drive

Two Bexley residents have been named loaned executives (LE's) for the 1972 United Way campaign, Oct. 10 through Nov. 15.

Glover L. Shearron, 1421 Kenwick Rd., and Willis E. Wilcoxon, 634 Brookside Dr., have been loaned by their employers to serve for six weeks as full-time campaign volunteers, assisting United Way in raising its $6.3 million goal. They will join 21 other Franklin County men and women participating in this program.

Shearron is a supervisor in the data authorization department of City National Bank and Wilcoxon is municipal relations representative for Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co.

According to LE Chairman John E. Fisher, president, Nationwide Insurance Co., loaned executives will help solicit corporate gifts, budget funds, speak to community groups, record campaign results and assist with collections.

The loaned executive program was formally initiated last year with the recruitment of 15 executives. Similar programs are used in every major united fund-raising campaign in the United States.

United Way of Franklin County is a non-profit organization which conducts an annual fund-raising campaign to generate financial resources for numerous community health, family and character-building agencies.

League Tilts Spice Weekend Grid Menu

It's showdown time in the leagues now with the season beginning to take shape and the losers and winners being divided.

Eastmoor's behomoths wiped out Central last week and host the pesky South team Friday. It should be a good one with Eastmoor's Ray Griffin trying to emulate his brother Archie who set the Ohio State stadium turf ablaze with a record-breaking performance against North Carolina.

The Mohawk-Walnut Ridge city league clash at the Indian's stomping grounds will find the offensive minded Scots going against a Mohawk defense that stifyened against West last week but not quite enough.

Top games in the Ohio Capital Conference on the east side find Reynoldsburg hosting Delaware's Pacers and Whitehall greeting Mt. Vernon. Whitehall is coming closer to a victory grasp and should be ready for the Yellow Jackets.

Bexley's Mid-8 league hold off until Saturday when they travel to Mifflin for a 1 p.m. clash.

The Catholic League east side play will have Hartley going to DeSales for a GRID BITS: Reynoldsburg's 0-2 league and 0-4 season record is a bitter pill for the Raider fans to take. They had hoped for better things under first-year coach Dick Kerschbaum but a new system and lack of a good sized team have hurt the Raiders who are trying - but. Last year's Raider coach Bob James, now at Olentangy, reeled off three wins in a row before coming down to earth against Dublin last week. The Raiders were also the victim last week of an unusual incident. Westland's Slobodan Karadzic, a foreign exchange student from Yugoslavia, kicked a field goal, the first in Westland's history.

Heart Of Ohio Grid Teams Score

The Heart Of Ohio Adult Tackle Football League scored touchdowns in bunches with Whitehall, The Wild Bunch, Vulcans and Falcons winners.

Whitehall slipped by Arlington 26 to 18. Scoring for Whitehall were Tom Foronnie with an 86 yd. run kickoff return, Tim Ucker, a 3 yd. run, Bob Buckner on an 18 yd. pass from Tim Ucker, and Mike Palter's 10 yd. run.

The Columbus Wild Bunch edged the Worthington Rangers 20-15. Worthington scoring was led by Jack Roth's touchdowns of 37 and 1 yard.

Scoring for the Columbus Wild Bunch included Eddie Parks' 4 yard run, Lucky Allen's fumble recovery, and Terry Osterstock's interception and 47 yard runback for touchdowns.

The Columbus Vulcans entered the win column this week with a decisive win over Lancaster, 22-0. Scoring for the Vulcans included two touchdowns, 30 yards and 42 yards, by Bill Bynes, a 60 yard run by Walter Mayles, Jim Keeney's safety, and Rod Schleator's PAT run.

In other league action, the Heath Falcons outlasted the Mt. Sterling Golden Grizzles, 6-0. Heath's scoring came from Jeff Jones on a 12 yard pass from Ron Hapisas.

REYNOLDSBURG-WESTLAND

REYNOLDSBURG'S raiders didn't do this soon enough to Westland's Cougars and came off the short end of a 17-0 loss in an Ohio Capital Conference struggle among unwinners. The Raiders' Dave Tinkham (12) nabbed Westland's Mark Hall but too late to prevent scoring a TD.

BEXLEY-LONDON

BEXLEY'S LIONS rambled to a 16-0 win over London to continue its Mid-8 league first place hold. Lou Lombardo went for 16 yards on this skoot for the Lions in the third period in the apparently tall grass.

Schools Change Grid Start Time

Marion-Franklin and West High Schools have mutually agreed to change the starting time of their football game being held at Marion-Franklin October 27, from 7:30 to 6:30 due to the Homecoming activities being held after the game.

REYNOLDSBURG-WESTLAND

REYNOLDSBURG'S John Francis didn't have the chance to do this enough but it was one catch that added some yardage to the Raider offense. Four of this kind were stolen by Westland defensivemen.

I wasn't watching anything — I was reading my paper . . . at my own pace . . . selecting what I wanted to read . . . hopefully without further interruption

Capital Blasts Otters

Gene Slaughter's Capital Crusaders parlayed a fumble into a quick TD last Saturday and went from there to score a convincing 16-0 win over crosstown rival Otterbein.

The ninth consecutive win over the Otters started on its way when Otter punter Lief Petersen was the victim of a bad snap from center and had to make a fourth-down save at the Otter one yard line.

With only 1:57 gone on the first period clock Jim Gorczyca rammed over for the Cap score.

The final Cap score came when Craig Snider zipped over on a short burst with about two minutes in the game.

CAPITAL-OTTERBEIN

FUMBLITIS didn't hit Capital's Crusaders too often against Otterbein but this ball was one that went astray and Craig Snider attoned for it later with a Cap TD.

CAPITAL-OTTERBEIN

HOLES a mile wide were opened for the Capital backs as they ate up yardage against Otterbein. Here, Cap's fullback Mike Opalka (33) goes for some of that yardage.

Two-One-Blast-Off

THESE GROVEPORT-MADISON high school students in metals workshop got the school year started off with a bang. The first project was building rockets which were then fired out behind the school. Above, two members of the class fasten their rockets to wires which guide them upward and ignite the rockets. At right Keith Emerson, already a rocket enthusiast, prepares to launch one of his own models. At far right, class instructor Jim Orsborn shows how the rockets are constructed with a parachute which is released (hopefully) before the rocket starts downward.

Probate Law Subject Of Special Program

A pilot program to train para-professionals in the area of probate law, has begun under the director of Capital University's Law School and the Columbus Bar Association. This is the first such program in Ohio and 25 students are presently enrolled in the course.

According to coordinator John W. McCormac, a professor in Capital's law school, the pilot program is designed to provide quality training in probate law to legal assistants who will be able, after graduation, to perform para-professional services under the supervision of a lawyer who specializes in probate law.

The certified legal assistants will help bridge a gap between the lawyer and the legal secretary. They will be skilled in the gathering of vital information and the drafting of legal instruments.

One of the most significant aspects of the training, McCormac added, will be the students ability to recognize legal problems in probate which need to be resolved by the attorney.

The new legal assistant program marks one of the earliest ventures of the legal profession into para-professional staff services. So far, the medical profession has been the leader in utilizing services of persons trained in various aspects of general health care, thus freeing doctors for more specialized functions.

McCormac indicated that the new legal assistant program is one of first in the nation to reflect the combined efforts of a law school and a local bar association.

"Quality legal education is best dispensed through a university," McCormac explained, "therefore, Capital's law school was an ideal setting for the pilot program."

The new program also is unique in its admission procedure. A college degree is not an admission requirement; instead, high school graduation plus either one year of law-related employment or two satisfactory years at an accredited college meet entrance requirements.

The probate law program consists of five consecutive courses offered two evenings a week, September through May. Each course will be taught by a member of Capital's law faculty or practicing attorneys specializing in probate law.

In addition, McCormac said plans are underway to offer legal assistant programs in real estate law, civil litigation and corporate law. The programs in real estate law and civil litigation tentatively will begin in September, 1973, followed in the fall of 1974 with programs in corporate law and probate law.

Class size will be limited, he added, usually kept to about 30 students.

McCormac, a recognized authority on legal procedure and a former practicing attorney, said the legal certification program will help provide quality legal services more efficiently. In addition, it is hoped the program will create a new range of para-professional job opportunities.

The use of certified legal assistants, he said, will make it possible for persons in the $8,000 to $15,000 a year income range to purchase legal services.

"These people often cannot afford the high cost of legal advice," McCormac said, "and yet they are not eligible for subsidized or free services."

Additional information on admission and other details are available by contacting McCormac at the Capital University Law School, 2199 E. Main Street, Columbus, Ohio, 43209 (236-6395).

Two Local Students Receive Scholarships

Two local students are among seven freshmen who received four-year Air Force ROTC College Scholarships to Capital University.

They are Michael J. Wiens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Wiens of 1840 Bluhm Road, and Ronald Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Young, 4082 Larry Place.

Wiens is a 1972 graduate of Franklin Heights High School and plans to major in music at Capital. Young, an English major at Capital, is a 1972 graduate of Walnut Ridge High School.

The four year Air Force ROTC College Scholarship covers full tuition, fees and books, plus a $100 monthly subsistence allowance. Selection is made on a national level and is based on academic and leadership qualities.

Capital currently has 40 cadets on full Air Force ROTC College Scholarships, which represents about 26 percent of the total cadet corps. This is the highest total of any private school in Ohio.

This year, 110 students are enrolled in Air Force ROTC at Capital, including 24 coeds who are participating in the new four-year Air Force program for women.

Last spring, Capital's ROTC detachment was one of five schools in the nation to receive the "Air Force Outstanding Unit Award" from the United States Air Force.

THE MARRIOTT Inn Motel has to be a must on your social schedule. The food is terrific. The entertainment is also terrific.

First let's talk about the food. I had one of the best meals at the Marriott that my taste buds had the pleasure to savor in a long time.

Of course, my friend Carole, was along. We always separate our menu, so that each of us has a little of both. This gives me a chance of tasting a greater variety of food.

WE STARTED our meal with an appetizer. I selected Oyster Rockefeller. Delicious is the only way to describe this delicacy. This is something I know you will love. Carole had the escargots. Of course, I snitched a couple. Take it from me, these were out of this world. We both could have made a meal just on the appetizers.

Next came the salad. I had, as well as Carole, the very, very fresh and crisp garden salad. This was topped with their own, and my favorite dressing, the pepper cream dressing. Now, here is a real treat for you. I have told management in the past, they could bottle this dressing, and serve it as a beverage. It is that delicious, believe me. As with all of their salads, a chilled fork is served.

This is one point I like about the Marriott, if you order a cold dish, it is served cold. When you order a hot item, it is served at your table very hot.

AFTER the salad, came the main course. I selected Steak Diane. Gads, what flavor. It is flamed at your table, which gives it an interesting introduction. First, you can watch the waiter prepare it at your table. This not only adds a little excitement to the meal, but you understand what's going on.

After watching Don, my expert flammer, prepare the steak Diane, I became an expert. First, you melt down the butter, then the mushrooms are added. Next comes the various sauces. A touch of lemon, and flammed with Flambe Fanfare, a brandy that adds the zing to it all. You end up with a steak that has a very delicate flavor with plenty of body to it.

THE MEAT is the finest that you will find anywhere. It is so tender that you can actually cut this steak with your fork.

Carole ordered gianit scampi. For you lovers of seafood, this is a sure bet for you. They are hugh shrimp that taste like lobster. I tried a couple, and believe me, I could have eaten her entire meal. What a flavor they had.

THE WINE we selected may come as a surprise for you experts. It was a Christian Brothers Napa Rose. This is a domestic wine. But, it has won more medals, and wine tasters contest than any other wine available.

SINCE both Carole and I were completely stuffed, we passed dessert. Our dessert was the entertainment. The Duke Jenkins Trio. I have told you about this trio, before. They are tremendous. Duke Jenkins is featured on organ and vocals. Listen to this boy sing. He is another Nat King Cole. His brother does a wonderful job on sax and flute and Ralph Jackson is the drummer.

All three are the finest musicians you will find anywhere. But it is Duke Jenkins that will send chills up and down your back with his dynamic vocal stylings.

In fact, an evening at the Mariott Inn, be it for dining, dancing, cocktails or just setting and listening to the Duke Jenkins Trio will be a memorable experience. Take it from me, I can still taste the great food, and hear the great music. It all happens at the Marriott Inn Motel.

BY THE TIME you read this yours truly will be flying to the Elmwood Casino in Windsor, Canada, to review the Englebert Humperdinck show. The Elmwood Casino is one of the finest clubs in these parts. It is the closest thing to a Vegas night spot that you will find outside of Vegas.

WHEN A theatre gets a new manager, that's not news, but when the manager happens to be an honest to goodness Baron, that's new!

This is the case of the new manager of the Great Western Cinema, Baron Jerry Van Der Noot De Moorsel. Jerry is a Baron, by succession of the title from his father. This title has been handed down through many generations. His family hails from Belgium, and Baron Jerry, showed me very old, yellow newspaper clippings from the New York Times, with a full page story on his father. There were several photos, even one showing his father at the tender age of 18 years, losing a million dollars at the gambling tables in Monte Carlo. He also has a personal letter to his father from the then governor of New York, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

WHEN I asked Jerry what the title means to him in America, he said, "absolutely nothing in America." In Belgium, the government would honor the title. Which means, he would be given more respect than the average citizen. If he would re-nounce his American citizenship, then his title of Baron would mean a lot more to the Belgium government. For example, he would receive appointment to a government post, and it would help in many other ways.

Baron Jerry Van Der Noot is taking on the job of manager of Great Western Cinema with all the polish and enthusasim of a baron. He is changing the policy of the theatre, by bring to its screen nothing but first run, exculusive showings of movies.

Beginning Oct. 11, Great Western Cinema is showing, "Cancel My Reservation," with Bob Hope and Eva Marie Saint. He has these type of movies booked clear through Christmas. As I said, not only are they first run pictures, but they will be shown exclusive at Great Western Cinema.

WATCH FOR things to happen at this cinema, now. Baron Jerry Van Der Noot is going to turn Great Western Cinema into a castle among theatres.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Miss DeLois and Her Music Men are back at Lincoln Lodge. This gal is a fantastic performer and always packs them in, every night. Don't miss her ... My good friends, Fritz McCallister, his guitar and his voice has been held over again at the Rum and Keg Room of Howard Johnson's East. Fritz is a great entertainer and Howard Johnson's calls Fritz their 29th flavor. Yep, he is a tasty entertainer ... I have told you several times about the food at Petty's Restaurant. The best all homemade Italian food in town. Well, I'm not the only one to fell that way. The other night the well known Doc Severinsen, of the, "Tonight Show," brought a party of 25 to Petty's Restaurant. He eats three times as much as I do. After his salad, a big plate of spaghetti, Doc finished off his meal with a big juicy steak. Doc agrees with me, Petty's food is terific... Stopped in at the Sheraton Airport and caught Susan Lambi. This gal sings like a bird. You will enjoy her. Susan is well worth the trip. The well known Marty Martinez is Executive Chef at the Sheraton Airport. He has worked at some fine places. His addition to the staff is a big plus. The food is always good, but Marty's helps to make it just a little bit better. Earl Eblin is head waiter and I'll let him serve me anytime... At the Holiday Inn, Reynoldsburg, Dave Hopkins continues to please the people. What a great trio. In fact, last Saturday night, they had so much business, the group played an extra hour. If you like good music, this is the place for you... Stopped in at Diamond Jim's the other afternoon on business. Since I had not had lunch, I decided to try one of the special sandwiches. Mike Kapson, who represents half ownership in the place, said, "if you like it, mention something in your column." I said, "I don't review sandwiches." However, after I had eaten their ham sandwiches with melted mozeralla cheese, which they call, "The Flapper," with their own special sauce, I flipped.

Try it, I know you will like it. It is great. By the way, so is their barbequed chicken wings, delicious... When out east, stop in at the Mid Way Grill. It is just ten minutes from Broad and Hamilton, on East Broad. You will more than enoy the beautiful, intimate decor of the place. The Tack Room is decorated in a horse motiff. Everything about horses is there. The paneling is from an old barn, with the advertising signs that was painted on them, still there.

Club and organizational news should be sent to the Spectator by Thursday noon.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

There are many community and university theater productions opening the fall season in the next two months.

Involved in the effort to mount these shows are upwards of three thousand people - sewing costumes, building and painting sets, writing publicity, gathering props and furniture, securing advertisers for the programs, acting and directing.

WE TRY to keep the cost down to bare minimum, but somehow or other usually end up not quite making ends meet so that we have to have a white elephant sale or a casino party to make up the difference. Then we can pay our bills and open the doors for the next presentation. Our membership fees take up some of the slack, but getting people out to see the shows - paying the nominal admission price, would sure help!

Besides, a full house is much nicer to play to than one with six people in it - as was experienced by the ACT group that performed at COSI last week.

LAST WEEKEND, instead of going to a play, I went to a movie and caught two night club acts. All three were packed. The movie, which I will not name, was something I thought should be shown at a smoker - and I am certainly no prude!

One night club act was excellent.

One couple tried to bring a child in and were quite put out when they were told children were not allowed.

What is my point? There is plenty of GOOD entertainment available - theater, both community and imported professional, ballet, symphony, rock concerts, children's theater - the list is endless - without taking your children to a night club.

Patronize your legitimate stage productions, we may have no choice in the matter - we may have to fold.

Glick's Open New Store

The new Glick's Furniture Show Case at 1333 Morse Road has more than 1½ acres devoted to displaying home furnishings and decorative accessories.

Quail Hollow Is Open

Quail Hollow on Columbus' west side on Hall Road is the newest community development built and developed by the Dreyfus Interstate Development Corporation of Ohio.

The 120-acre development will feature 450 single family homes with landscaped lots and open spaces throughout. Plans also include 150 townehouse units with courtyards.

The overall accent is on roominess and the out-of-doors, yet Quail Hollow is located just off West Broad Street and Alton Road on Hall Road.

GRANTS UP

The Veterans Administration says Public Law 92-341 (July 10) makes it easier for certain disabled veterans to obtain "wheelchair" homes (with ramps, etc.) by increasing VA grants from $12,500 to $17,500.

Citizens Research Explains Gas Structure

CITIZENS Research, Inc., 21 E. State St., Columbus, is an independent fact-finding organization devoted to efficiency in government.

"Gas service rates in Franklin County" is the subject of its latest report on utilities and how they affect all communities.

In order to clarify many questions concerning the gas rate structure and how it affects all of us we are publishing a "clarification report" from Citizens Research.

The issue is one that is appearing consistently on the agenda's of city councils and villages in Franklin County.

- INTRODUCTION -

There has been some dispute and discussion in the community regarding the fairness or unfairness of current charges for natural gas service.

At issue is the rate structure that is used to calculate monthly charges for gas service in the various cities and villages within Franklin County.

This report describes how gas rates are established in Central Ohio, examines the rate structure in the local communities, and presents (as objectively and as lucidly as is possible) the viewpoints of those involved in the issue.

Additionally, this paper will report on the activities of the parties involved, as well as the outcome to date.

Finally, some observations are made which point out why the issue is being raised in the community at this time.

Natural gas rates are normally established in Franklin County by negotiations held between each local government and Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc. New rates or changes in rates must be acceptable to the gas company and approved by the legislative body of each community. In Columbus, further approval is required by the successful passage of a gas rate referendum by the electorate.
available to hear petitions for rate relief brought to it by either party. Rate increases are also subject to the approval of the Federal Price Commission. The role of the PUCO is quasi-judicial, that is, it has a right to hold hearings on and conduct investigation into disputed claims and make decisions as to what the gas company may charge for its services. Decisions of the PUCO may be appealed to the Supreme Court of Ohio.

AT THE present time, the gas company has before the commission a petition for rate relief with respect to the Groveport, Hilliard, and Worthington rates, and an appeal for rate relief with respect to the Columbus rate.

Gas Rate Structure

There are currently about as many gas rates in use in Franklin County as there are local communities. Below are the monthly charges for 15,000 cubic feet of gas in 27 Franklin County communities. Column A shows the rate at which gas was being sold when rates were orginally filed with the PUCO. Column B shows the current price charged by the gas company. The increase is permitted by previous agreement regarding cost clauses (fuel and labor) and-or escalation clauses for stepped up rates.

By state law the County Commissioners do not have jurisdiction in approving utility rates for the unincorporated areas of the county. Rates for these areas of the county are established by the outcome of hearings and investigation by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Column B - Columbia Gas Company of Ohio, Inc.

Viewpoints and Courses of Action Taken

As indicated, 12 of these contracts have expired. When a contract expires, service is continued under the provision of the expired contract, including cost clauses, until a new contract is agreed upon, or the rate is established by the PUCO after hearings.

According to George Shapter, City Manager of Worthington, 12 communities in Franklin County have not been able to agree upon new contracts with the gas company due to disagreements over rates.

THE CENTRAL OHIO MAYORS and Municipal Officials Council (COMMOC) is a cooperative body made up of elected or appointed officials of municipalities within Franklin County. In August, 1970, this council, under the then Council President Roger Higgins, took the position that a uniform gas rate should be established for all areas of Franklin County equal to the gas rates

... By Any Other Name

A ROSE IS A ROSE is a rose - not quite, especially if it's the last rose of summer and it's in your garden. The soft morning light does something to bring out its beauty with the dew still on the petals as the flower quenches its thirst before the warm October sun enters the garden. "I didn't promise you a rose garden" is more than a song and Harold and Louise Platter of Waggoner Road, Reynoldsburg have the beauty of roses to show for a summer's work. Vocational Education Desired

Educational Survey Shows Students Look At Future

COLUMBUS high school students want more vocational education, are satisfied with their basic learning skills, believe they have good relationships with other students, and in general think they are getting a good education, according to the 1972 Student Opinion Survey.

Results of the survey were made public during a Committee-of-the-Whole meeting of the Columbus Board of Education Tuesday, October 10.

UNDER a policy on student involvement adopted by the Board in 1969, a survey is made each year to determine how senior high school students view their education and school life.

The 1972 survey was the third such polling of opinion, and the first to involve a large number of students in its planning. Over 600 senior high pupils, working through their student government organizations, helped identify areas covered by the survey.

SIMILAR assistance came from Board of Education members, central administrators, principals, and other school personnel.

The survey was conducted last March in all 14 Columbus high schools, under supervision of Ray Gugel, evaluation assistant in the Department of Evaluation, Research and Planning.

Some 13,830 students – about 70 per cent of the total 1972 high school enrollment – took part, responding to the most extensive questionnaire ever used in the opinion poll.

The questionnaire contained 150 separate queries, over three times the number appearing on the first survey questionnaire in 1970.

MAJOR findings of the survey included indications of a strong preference for vocational education, according to school officials.

Responding to questions about the purpose of their high school education, the largest percentage of students polled, 86 per cent, placed importance on preparation for work after graduation; however, only 57 per cent thought their education was serving that purpose.

More emphasis on vocational education was recommended by 61 per cent, while 67 per cent favored more vocational guidance counseling.

SIXTY-EIGHT per cent thought Columbus should have three tr four separate schools where many vocational programs are offered, and over one-third of those polled, about 5,000 students, said they would enroll at such a school.

Eighty-four per cent of the students taking part in the survey rated preparation for college, business or trade school as an important purpose of their high school education, and 63 per cent felt they were being well prepared.

Greater preparation for post-high school training, such as two-year college programs or trade school, was favored by 53 per cent of the students polled, but only 41 per cent thought more emphasis should be placed on preparation for regular four-year college programs.

OTHER purposes of high school rated important by large percentages of students included learning to solve problems and make decisions, to think for themselves in a changing society, and to get along with other people.

Fifty-three per cent of the students surveyed wanted more consumer education, 52 per cent more human relations courses, 51 per cent more sex education, and 50 per cent more drug education and individual sports, such as tennis, golf and swimming.

Doing simple math, such as adding and subtracting, was the skill in which the largest number of students, 89 per cent of those polled, were satisfied with their ability. Seventy-two per cent were satisfied with how well they understood what they read, and 70 per cent with their ability to spell.

Writing themes and essays was the area in which the most students, 31 per cent, expressed dissatisfaction with their ability. Thirty per cent thought they should be able to read faster, and 23 per cent were unhappy with their ability to apply match in solving problems.

STUDENTS also responded to questions about the relationships between persons in their school.

Seventy-four per cent considered relationships between students good, although 32 per cent thought relationships between students of different races were poor.

While 49 per cent said good relationships existed between students and teachers, 43 per cent rated poor the relationships between students and the school principal and assistant principals.

Another major finding of the survey revealed an increase over last year in the number of students generally satisfied with their high school education.

THE RESULTS showed 51 per cent thought they were getting a good education in 1972, compared with 37 per cent in 1971. The increase was recorded in all 14 high schools.

Other findings by the survey showed 93 per cent of the students think it is necessary to have a high school education, 64 per cent feel good grades are important, and 70 per cent believe it is important to work hard and learn rather than just put in time.

Sixty-two per cent of the students polled had consulted a school counselor during the year, 41 per cent had used their school library or the public library, but over one-third had not taken part in extracurricular activities.

Forty-three per cent of the students felt they could benefit by going to a school attended by students of different races and cultures. Thirty-four per cent favored measures to provide a racial balance in each Columbus school, but 55 per cent would not agree to being transported to a school other than their own to improve racial balance.

Thirty-five per cent of those polled had a part-time job when the survey was taken, and 64 per cent said they would like a part-time job.

Thirty-seven per cent said they buy their lunch at school every day or most of the time, but 50 per cent said they never or only occasionally buy their lunch in the school cafeteria.

OVER HALF the students polled thought the three most helpful methods of instruction were handout sheets, movies and filmstrips, and small group discussion.

Board Picks Junior Site

Madison Local School Board members Monday night approved the building of a new junior high school on a 27 acre site just east of Sedalia Elementary school.

The construction of the new facility is contingent on the passage of a $3,380,000 bond issue Nov. 7.

The board had earlier announced they were also looking at a site in the Munk's Corner area.

The Sedalia site passed the board by a vote of four to one with John Stout casting the opposing vote.

Stout said following the meeting he wanted the junior high to be near the high school, in the center of the district.

Dave Lindsey, community relations officer for the district, reported to the board that work on informing the residents about the bond issue was under way.

Lindsey said he had spoken to several parent teacher groups and that most response had been favorable.

The junior high school is presently operating on double sessions to solve the problems of overcrowding.

Prior to the start of regular business Monday night, the board heard a report from the high school guidance counselors.

The counselors presented a report worked out over the summer giving the staff's purpose, goals and resources.

The high school is now operating with four counselors instead of two as they have in the past.

One counselor is assigned to each grade level and keeps up with the students at that level.

In other action the board approved salary changes for 20 staff members as a result of the teachers receiving more educational experience.

Four of those teachers received their master's degrees.

The board also approved the 1972-73 staff handbook for the Groveport-Madison Junior High School and approved an experimental grading project at Dunloe Elementary School for grades one and two.

Superintendent Philip Williams said the teachers at Dunloe had been working on the project and were using a check list and parent teacher conferences rather than letter grades for the first and second graders.

He said as the project progresses the staff will be reporting to the board and that if it proves successful it may be expanded to other schools.

Student Records Topic Of Debate

THOMAS B. CONNERY
Special Staff Writer

A retired Air Force M. Sgt. claimed that certain teachers and administrators in the Columbus schools are responsible for unfavorable and unjustified entries on his children's school records.

Appearing at the October 3 school board meeting, William M. James, 2866 Proctor Dr., requested that the board assign someone from "human relations" to go over his sons' profiles and remove all adverse remarks. James said that he would like his sons "to be treated as human beings."

Although James said that his sons' profiles read like "criminal records'" he did not say what exactly had been written in his sons' records.

School Supt. John Ellis instructed school officials to conduct a thorough review of the situation, making the appropriate corrections of the records if the facts are as James stated.

Ellis also asked Deputy School Supt. C.L. Dumaree to meet with two parents who complained to the board that their children were being transported to a school too far outside the neighborhood.

Mrs. Jean Stewart, 4152 Clayridge Ln., and Mrs. Diana Duemmel, 2824 Leatherwood Dr., asked that their children be transported to Beaumont Elementary School, two miles from their home, rather than Cassady Avenue Elementary School, five miles from their home.

The two women said they were told by Howard Williams, principal of Beaumont, that he could accomadate half of the children being transported to Cassady.

Dumaree explained that when students cannot be accomodating in the school nearest their home, it is official policy to try to send those from the same area to the same school.

In other action, board member Paul Langdon criticized the city's Civil Service Commission for its delay in finding a qualified auditor for the school system.

Langdon cited the lastest delay as evidence of the commission's "gross inefficiency" in locating and testing personnel. He suggested that when the commission's contract comes up for renewal, the board take a "heavy deduction" from the contract price.

In other business, the board:

Appropriated $6,000 in donated funds for the establishment of a volunteer services pilot project, including the hiring of a fulltime Volunteer Services Coordinator, at Milo Elementary School.

Authorized spending $117,250 for the Adult Basic Education program. The program is designed to serve adults sixteen years of age or older in developing communication and numerical skills.

Recieved endorsements for the $89.5 million bond issue from the Columbus Federation of Teachers and the Development Committee for Greater Columbus.

Where There Is Love

Finality - where love exists at all it stays and never passes away from the loved for any precious time.

Dana and precious love and memories will warm the heart of Carol as the days grow long and time will not stand still or step back.

THERE ARE no strangers when Death is present for love conquers all fears and hands and hearts join as one to overcome the emptiness.

Kenny Karns was loved. He gave love. He was a father, a husband, a friend to anyone who needed one.

There are many Danas and Carols in our midst. The hand of God is stretched, as are those of friends, to give them solace in their time of need..

THOUGH TEARS may cease to fall we weep inside with sorrow for his passing but with joy our hearts rejoice knowing that where there was love happiness stood tall.

So be it then as the rain falls - and we say farewell to a friend whom we knew for such a little time.

The Scioto A River For All Seasons

BY CAROL J. KEHLMEIER

THE MISTY summer morning appears as a dream, puffs of mist hovering over the quiet river. The sun soon burns away the mist and hot moist air embraces the city. Buses loaded with people en route to their employment pass over the huge concrete bridges high above the water.

Autos toot and engines growl as they choke across the giant structure. The Scioto, continuing southward, reflects the traffic, and the tall high buildings on the east bank.

High noon arrives and the sun looks back at itself through the mirror of the river. The lazy summer sky coughs white powder puff clouds into the azure softeness and they too are reflected.

AUTUMN ARRIVES with cool breezes. The water's temperature drops and the air is crisp. Leaves of gold, brown and red swim downstream. In the air is the sweet fragrance of autumn, promising golden days ahead.

Night comes and the bright yellow moon hangs in the star filled sky. Invisible to the human eye, angels dance on the golden path the harvest moon creates across the black water.

Even though bitter winds bring thin crusts of ice to the Scioto, it continues twisting and turning through the city, making it's southward journey.

WINTER BRINGS loneliness to some city dwellers. Lost souls have stood on the concrete bridge high above the icy water, looking for an answer. For some an answer came. For many the only answer was in the dark swift current to nothingness.

Snow whirls wild and free settling on the thin crusts of ice and clothing the naked trees along the Scioto.

SPRING BREATHES on the river and the ice melts and mingles with the water. The gentle flowing of the river sounds like the sweet, soft purring of a kitten. Violets and dandelions begin to dot the west river bank. Through the magic of spring the brown dull water turns bright blue.

The sounds of the city are more cheerful with the coming of spring. Laughter echoes across the river. Birds cluster at the water's edge singing cheerfully to announce their return from the south.

THE SCIOTO changes with the seasons in Nature's never ending cycle, created by God for Man and every living thing.

Education

Newspapers have been called "the university of adulthood." There is much truth in this because newspapers are the FULL information medium.

Nowhere else can responsible persons get so much current information and details about other things of importance as in the pages of newspapers.

That's why just about everyone reads a newspaper. Today, more than ever, it is important to be informed and to know what's going on.

More and more schools and teachers are joining in the newspaper-in-the-classroom program now involving well over 5 million students, 33,500 schools and 95,000 teachers.

For students of elementary grades to senior high school and even college, newspapers are todays "living textbooks and important reference books", too.

Today's news is tomorrows' history. For centuries, newspapers have been ideal sources for studying historical trends, personalities, events and details.

A prime purpose of newspapers is to inform and educate and when people are properly informed and educated, they can act responsibly to preserve a free society.

Carriers

Newspaper boy and girl carriers are the vital link in getting community and world-wide news to many readers of newspapers.

This is a welcome work opportunity for young men and women at an age when youths often find it difficult to find jobs and learn the value of work.

Newspapers make it possible for more than 600,000 boys and girls to earn and learn as they deliver newspapers to readers in most of the freedom-loving countries of the world.

As self-employed business people, newspaper carriers gain sales experience, personal satisfaction, spending money, savings, business know-how, knowledge of people, responsibility, confidence, as well as an understanding of economics.

Newspaper carriers play an important role today, and will play an even bigger one in the future armed with their special training for leadership.

Give your newspaper carrier a special word of thanks and encouragment on Newspaper Carrier Day, October 14, the final day of Newspaper Week.

Women

Women are eager and careful readers of newspapers.

Mothers need to know what is going on in their communities and around the world, and they read newspapers to keep fully informed.

The same applies to business, professional, working and all other women.

Surveys of newspaper reading show women read newspapers for information, education, fashion trends, prices, where to buy, entertainment, restaurants, current events, social affairs, editorial opinion, literature, culture, and a host of other good reasons.

There is no mystery about this, because newspapers more and more are being written for women and by women.

More attention is being given by newspapers to their needs, especially young wives with families and young working women who need and appreciate new ideas, new products, helps for home and family, ways to live enjoyably, ways to save money, home decorating ideas and suggestions for happier family living.

Newspapers are recognizing the need to meet the changing information needs that women face in the future.

Letters

That's what free speech and free press are all about.

One of the best ways to get things off your chest is to write a letter to the editor.

This time-honored way of giving one's views and ideas is an important part of our free society and free press.

All letters written to editors cannot be printed.

Oftentimes space is lacking. Sometimes the words and ideas may be spiteful, abusive or even libelous. But most readers – and writers – have the opportunity to say what they think.

It is important that people read newspapers with understanding, think for themselves, and take responsible action when they believe it necessary, if only to get it off their chest with a letter to the editor.

In this way, free speech and a free press will continue to guarantee a free and open society.

Letters To The Editor

You're Telling Us

The Spectator Newspapers welcome letters from readers, expressing their views on subjects of interest to them -- whether initiated by news stories or editorial expression in this newspaper or not. Because of space limitations, we prefer letters which do not exceed 300 words. All letters submitted for publication must be signed with the writer's name and address, although -- upon request -- the name of the writer can be withheld. Letters should be marked: "To the Editor, Spectator Newspapers, 3421 S. Boulevard, Columbus, Ohio 43204" and must be received by Friday noon prior to publication date for possible publication in that week's edition.

Kids Went To Camp Because You Cared

To the Editor:

My deepest appreciation to you and your newspaper for everything you did to make Alcoa Wrap's "Send a Deserving Child to Camp" a huge success.

With your help and the coverage from your newspaper, 250 boys and girls were given the chance to camp, many for the first time in their young lives.

We measured our success by the number of smiling faces of the children who boarded buses for camps in 15 cities across the country. And we hold you and your fellow journalists responsible for the great summer memories you've given them – and for helping Alcoa with its social commitment.

You let them know that your newspaper cared enough to spend valuable time and space for a worthwhile venture.

In fact, your contributions helped make the program so successful Alcoa Wrap is considering the possibilities of another program for next year. We'll announce details later.

Again, on behalf of Alcoa – and the kids – a warm "Thank You."

Sincerely,

A.C. Erickson

Governor Salutes Newspaper Week

TO THE CITIZENS OF OHIO:

It won't be too many more days until those of you who are eligible to vote linger in the polling place before making that final decision and exercising one of your most precious rights.

We often take for granted, but must not forget, the men and women of the newspaper industry who provide us with the means by which we exercise an equally important right in a truly free democracy–the right to read uncensored, complete concise information and opinion without fear of retribution.

FROM THE editorial staff to the composing room to the young businessman who delivers our local newspaper, it is those faceless names on bylines, mastheads and overdue payment notices who provide us with the information around which we form our opinions and make our judgements–whether they be in the voting booth or at a sale in our local grocery store.

Perhaps no other publication can invoke irritation, anger, laughter and sympathy in so few moments as our local newspaper, and is so instrumental in pacing our daily lives.

DURING Newspaper Week 1972, I urge all Ohioans to salute the men and women in the newspaper industry and recognize their contributions to the economic, cultural and social growth of this state.

Sincerely,

John J. Gilligan

Fire Prevention Is Your Business

Fire Departments in all The Spectator circulation areas are observing Fire Prevention Week now through October 14.

Fire officials hope residents will observe a 52-week fire safe year.

Columbus Fire Department public information assistant Jim Caldwell's "Monthly Hot Line" stresses what residents can do to be their own fire prevention experts.

The "do's" make good sense.

May the fire sirens be still this year for you. They can be, says Jim, if you follow these hints:

Plan to observe a 52-week fire safe year now.

Homes, apartments, and businesses become greater life safety risks and fire hazards during the fall and winter seasons, because they are closed up tightly and furnaces work full time.

Especially at night time while you sleep you are more vulnerable to toxic gases and fumes emitted from smoldering fires.

Look at this check list and check off the hazards as you correct them:

———1. Clean your furnace, check the flue clean out, fan belts, and filters. Lubricate fan bearings and motor bearings. Use competent furnace personnel.

———2. Oil furnaces cause excessive carbon build up inside chimneys. Clean your chimney. Carburetors in oil stoves need cleaning to prevent flooding and overheating. Why not have an expert check and clean your appliance?

———3. Make sure your flue pipes and chimneys are in good repair.

———4. Remove combustibles stored around furnaces and hot water heating appliances.

———5. Drain mowers and motors of their gasoline before you bring them inside your house.

———6. Be sure that gasoline is not stored inside your house or your basement. Children are curious...

———7. Removal of excessive combustibles stored in your basement, attic, or garage eliminates fuel for an "unfriendly fire."

———8. Frayed lamp and appliance cords must be replaced or repaired.

———9. Remove extension cords and replace them with approved house wiring. When in doubt use the services of a licensed electrician.

———10. A child will hide when frightened. Establish a fire plan in your home, talk it over and hold fire drills. Small children must be taught what to do when a fire strikes.

———11. Auto fires are most frequent in winter months because air cleaners and filters are often removed from the carburetor to start the car, and backfires cause the motor to catch fire. Be sure that your air cleaner is in place.

There Goes The Neighborhood

A few profit-making groups would have the general population believe conservationists are put on earth to keep the profit margin from getting any bigger - to act as a baffle to continued "growth" of America. Nothing could be further from the truth. While some noisy industrialists dream of busy factories against the skyline, conservationists dream of factories against the skyline WITHOUT smoking stacks. (A big difference.)

MANY IDEAS forwarded by the environmental movement are actually much better long-range money makers than present systems. Take for instance the problem of land use - zoning. Still today, in many areas of Ohio, you have absolutely no assurances that a coal mine, factory or grain elevator won't be built just across the property line from your beautiful new country place. Where's the progress in that?

Most of the air and water pollution problems today stem from lousy planning way back when. Factories built on the edge of town in order to get enough manpower, towns settled on rivers to take advantage of a power source. No thought was wasted on health, the environment or esthetic beauty.

IN RUNNING the Pollution Hot-Line for two years, I have come to the realization that 99 per cent of the problems would have never occurred if the growth of our state had been planned in a logical way AND insulated against political interference. Take for instance, the guy who has his home and business outside of town for twenty years and a lead reclaiming plant is built next door. Now the wayward fumes have made his home and business a death trap. Where's the progress in that?

A bill offered by U.S. Rep. Wayne Aspinall, H.R. 7211 would have straightened out the problem by instituting total land use policy. The bill was a good one until someone added all federal lands (that would have been the end to many national parks).

OPPOSITION HAS blossomed out from land speculation firms and lumber companies who wish to turn these United States into one massive production line. The National Forest Products Institute just launched a new propaganda campaign entitled "The Wilderness Issue - do all Americans benefit?;; To them I answer, "Not all Americans will feel the need to retire to a woody glen where no motor can be heard - BUT every American should have this right and opportunity should they so desire. After all, we ARE guaranteed the right to worship in our own way."

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Seek out your state representative and senator, letting them know you and yours want a statewide Land Use Act that will assure future generations that their property will not be effected by environmentally bad buildings and that more and more areas are set aside for restful green space in our fast urbanizing land.

A Proud Tradition

Pride, Professionalism - That's The U.S. Navy

The United States Navy is one year older than the United States and will celebrate its 197th birthday October 13.

At least that is the claim of Navy officials who have the facts and statistics to back up that statement.

1976 will be the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

As a part of The Spectator's coverage of this event from time to time we will present historical facts concerning Our Nation.

Through the efforts of the local area United States Navy Recruiting Service we will present the Navy story in two parts.

Part One

THE UNITED STATES NAVY enjoys a proud seafaring tradition extending to colonial days and the Revoluntionary War. When Washington took command before Boston in 1775, he saw the possibility of capturing unprotected transports and supply ships.

He converted several small schooners into warships and enlisted Massachusetts sailors into "Washington's Fleet," the first organized American naval force.

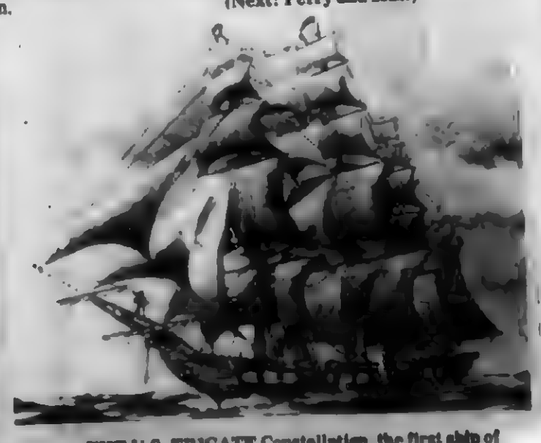
The first ship Hannah, put to sea on September 5. During the fall and winter of 1775-6, this small squadron captured some 35 ships. The richest prize was the brig Nancy, with a cargo of cannon and powder.

THE SECOND Continental Congress passed legislation on October 13, 1775, authorizing the acquisition of ships and the establishment of a navy. This is the date now celebrated as the Navy's birthday. Navy ships soon led an expedition to the Bahamas, the first Navy MarineCorps amphibious operation.

The Navy never numbered more than a handful of ships,but in these few warships served men who molded the naval traditions that have strengthened the nation to this day. Continental ships and privateers prevented the isolation of America. They brought in essential supplies, convoyed merchantmen, captured enemy ships, furthered domestic opposition to the war in England and showed the "Stars and Stripes"in foreign ports.

Bold attacks on British shipping hurt the enemy. Jones, in Bon Homme Richard, defeated HMS Serapis in the most celebrated naval battle of the American Revolution.

FOLLOWING the peace settlement the navy went into a decline, and with the sale of the frigate Alliance in 1785 went out of existence Political independence was a reality, but in the next thirty years the United States had to fight three wars to win her domination of the seas. In 1793, Algerian corsairs captured a number of American merchant ships and enslaved their crews.



In response, Congress in 1794 authorized the construction of six frigates to meet this threat to our commerce. The French Revolution brought war between France and England and their ships preyed on American commerce as each belligerant tried to stop the other's trade. French depredations increased and the revived Navy had its baptism of fire in the Quasi-War with France (1798-1801).

IN THE Mediterranean, attacks by Barbary Corsairs were renewed and the Navy engaged the Tripolitians. Preble, Rogers, Decatur and other gallant men in the ships Constitution, Constellation, Intrepid, Nautilus and Enterprise won respect for our flag.

Gas Structure . . .

Since, that time, the legislative authorities of 22 of the 26 cities and villages listed above have also taken the position that a uniform gas rate should be established for the entire county. The City of Columbus is not included in the local effort to obtain a uniform county-wide rate.

IN MAY, 1972, the COMMOC group selected Langdon D. Bell, an experienced attorney in utility rate cases, as counsel. Legal fees are being paid by the above 22 communities, all of whose legislative bodies have passed ordinances to provide funds. Each community is providing money on a pro rata formula based upon population. Mr. Bell filed a petition for COMMOC on July 28, 1972, before the PUCO relative to the rates for gas service in Franklin County.

In this petition, COMMOC vs. Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., attorney Bell demanded that the commission investigate the cost and other factors upon which utility rates are based and that the gas company show why a uniform rate should not be developed and extended to all its customers in Franklin County. Or, alternatively, the petition asked why the lowest rate under which gas is sold and delivered to its customers in Franklin County should not be offered to all its customers in the county. The petition further asked for a public hearing on uniform rates when all local contracts expire, and, upon hearing, that the PUCO establish and fix a rate for all local communities equal to the City of Columbus rate.

ATTORNEY BELL stated that he trend in utility regulation is toward uniformity of rates. He pointed out that other utility services in this area (electric and telephone) are provided by utilities under uniform rate schedules. Mr. Bell stated that where there is no significant difference between the communities served by a utility; where the investment of a utility is made upon system-wide needs in an area; where the plant and facilities have been designed to serve the needs of the entire area as a single system; and, where utilities operations have been conducted on a system-wide basis in the area, without regard to political boundaries, there is no justification for non-uniform rates in an area.

Further, he holds that communities in this area receive the same quality of gas service under substantially the same circumstances and conditions. He therefore claims that the present variation in rates for gas service in Franklin County is unreasonable and unjustifiable.

I. L. Briscoe, Vice President in Charge of Rates for the gas company, stated that rates are based upon what is costs to serve a community. These costs are related to several factors: the amount of pipe and other facilities required to serve a community; population density of a community; amount of gas used by customers; and the number of industrial and business establishments in a community. To these factors is added the wholesale price of gas which is the same for all communities.

FRANK CADWELL, Manager of the Rate Department for the gas company, explained that rates in the various communities are based upon the investment per customer and the usage per customer. The investment per customer, or rate base, in a community, is determined by the reproduction cost (new) of the gas distribution system (plant, pipelines, meters, regulators, etc.), minus observed depreciation, plus working capital.

For example, the present monthly charge for 15,000 cubic feet of gas in Dublin is 41 percent higher than Columbus. The gas company's explanation for the variance in rates is that it has 108 customers in Dublin with a rate base (1971) of $1608 per customer while it has over 160,000 customers in Columbus with a rate base (1969) of $348 per customer. Hence, the lower rate base, or investment per customer in Columbus, means less cost and consequently results in a lower rate for Columbus.

THE OTHER FACTOR affecting the level of rates in the various communities is the usage factor. Mr. Cadwell explained that a large part of the variation in rates is due to this usage factor or load factor. The load factor represents how much of a given pipeline's capacity is used each day of the year, and is expressed as a percentage figure. The more a given pipeline's capacity is used on a daily basis, the higher the load factor.

A higher load factor results in a lower per unit gas service cost and ultimately in lower rates for areas with high load factors. The gas company reported that the load factor for residential users is about 28 percent, commercial users about 30-40 percent, and industrial users about 75 percent.

ALTHOUGH THERE are different rates for different types of users, e.g., residential and industrial, within a single community, Mr. Caswell pointed out that there are also some cost savings from jointly used facilities. Thus, a community with a number of industrial plants which results in a high load factor may have lower gas rates than a community without industrial plants.
cost of negotiating and litigating rates by instituting a county-wide uniform gas rate since costs for the entire county are relatively easy to obtain while it is expensive to allocate the rates base and the cost of service by smaller political areas.

He suggested possible cost savings of three-quarters of a million dollars or higher. He pointed out that the expense of calculating cost for the purpose of negotiating rates, whether done by the gas company staff or the PUCO staff, is eventually paid by the gas company customers. Presumably, any savings would be passed o in the form of lower rates to customers. He concluded that the simpler the process of regulating rates, the better it is for consumers and the utility.

THE GAS COMPANY stated that it does not oppose, and basically has never opposed, the establishment of a uniform gas rate for all its customers in the county. However, it wants any uniform rate to reflect the cost of serving the entire county. Mr. Briscoe of the gas company warned that a uniform gas rate would mean higher gas bills for some customers in the area, including Columbus users, and that most of the suburban communities would benefit from a uniform rate through lower gas bills. He pointed out that it is difficult to see how a city or village council that can obtain a low rate can justify to its citizens an area-wide uniform, but higher rate.

IT IS OVER this point that Columbus city officials have indicated their unwillingness to agree to a uniform gas rate, since an area-wide uniform rate would mean a higher gas rate for Columbus. Robert W. Newlon, Columbus Utilities Director, holds that it is unfair for Columbus residents to bear the burden of a higher gas rate for the sake of an area-wide uniform rate. Thus, on August 12, Columbus filed action with the PUCO asking that the COMMOC petition be dismissed and that the city be permitted to proceed in negotiating its own rate agreements with the gas company.

The gas company filed a similar action on August 11. On September 13, the PUCO dismissed the COMMOC petition to intervene in the Columbia Gas Company appeal for rate relief with respect to the City of Columbus rate. Thus, the next move appears to be up to the COMMOC group. According to Mr. Shapter, the COMMOC group, on the advice of their attorney, will continue their efforts through the legal process. Mr. Newlon pointed out that each city or village has the right under the "Home Rule" provision of the Ohio Constitution to negotiate its own agreement with the utility companies serving the area within its jurisdiction.

ACCORDING TO Roger Higgins, Village of Groveport and past president of the COMMOC group, Ohio's "Home Rule" law not only provides that communities may negotiate contracts as single communities, but also provides that a group of communities have a right to negotiate contracts as a group - and this is what the smaller communities in Franklin County are attempting to do. He stated that the smaller communities have no experts in utility rate making and are therefore at a disadvantage in negotiating utility agreements.

He pointed out that five of the 27 governmental units are completely surrounded by Columbus, and, of the remaining 22, all but three are adjacent to Columbus. He questioned whether there is an actualy cost difference in providing gas service to the various communities. Mr. Higgins stated that officials of the smaller communities only want the same gas rate offered to them as that agreed to between Columbus and the gas company.

- OBSERVATIONS -

At least four observations can be made about the setting in which this issue has been raised:

(1) Gas rates, after holding steady for several years, are rising. The wholesale price of gas at the Columbus area gate, i. e., the point of delivery of gas into the distribution system, for this area, has increased 24.5 percent in the past two and three-quarter years, according to gas company figures - an average yearly increase of nine percent. As these prices are reflected in retail rates, gas service costs will rise for consumers, many of whome have become accustom to relatively stable rates.

(2) The natural gas market exhibits a relatively inelastic demand. That is, higher prices have little affect on decreasing the total volume of gas demanded. To illustrate, customers burn what they need to keep warm, to heat water, and to cook and so forth despite price increases.

Further, homeowners, as well as commerical and industrial establishments, have heavy investments in gas furnaces and equipment and are reluctant to switch to other energy sources, at least in the short run. Thus, demand will not be blunted to any significant degree by higher prices.

(3) Many gas industry spokesmen claim that the Federal Power Commission's (FPC) policy of setting too low a price for natural gas at the wellhead is limiting the supply of natural gas by discouraging new exploration and development of known reserves by private producers.

Although the FPC this year adopted a new price policy permitting producers to deliver additional gas at prices above the present ceiling and thereby encouraged new exploration, there will be a time lag in getting any new supplies to the market. Thus, gas rates will continue on an upward path for some time.

(4) There has been increased sophistication and organization on the part of the small city and village mayors and managers in attempting to develop solutions to complex problems. As communities face new gas rate negotiations, raising the issue of the equity or inequity of non-uniform rates is an attempt to deal with but one of these problems.

Area Residents Take Part In Production

Two area residents are taking party in the Columbus Junior Theatre's trouping theatre production opening this month in the area elementary schools.

Dr. Burton Louis, 1297 Fountain Ln., will place a 2,000 year old dragon in the dramatic production adapted from "Darius and the Dozer bull."

Linda McCabe, 5128 A Stoneridge Dr. S., will play Louie, a young basketball coach who befriends Darius as he is confused and baffled by the modern world.

In the drama Darius is shaken from his medieval world one morning by a bulldozer (the monster dozer bull) and involves the people of this new city in environmental problems. Darius becomes a gallant foe in our polluted world, and has a valuable message to impart his young friends as well as the members of the "Kingdom of Establishment."

The play will be presented to 10,000 elementary students in 23 schools through Nov. 13.

The second lecture will be offered by Prof. Marc Lee Raphael, at 9:15 p.m. The subject of the lecture is: "Innovative Methods For Teaching Jewish History In the Jewish School." He will explore methodologies of communicating various periods of Jewish History through Organi lesson plans detailed outlines, unusual techniques and multi-media.

His first session will be devoted to the subject of, "Teaching The Holocaust."

Prof. Raphael is a native of Los Angeles, he recieved a B.A. from UCLA; M.A. and was ordained at Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, Ohio. He was awarded a Ph. D. in Jewish History from UCLA.

The School of Jewish Studies is offered to members of the community and teachers in Jewish Schools. These courses should be of particular interest to teachers in Jewish schools; to improve their knowledge of Jewish History, and better application of methodolgy in presenting lessons to their respective classes.

The School of Jewish Studies is offered by the Council of Jewish Educators in cooperation with the Jewish Education Committee of the United Jewish Fund and Council. Speaking of Beauty

A SHAMPOO IS A NATURAL REFRESHER

By John Nerny

Have you ever finished a busy day, and wondered how you were going to swing into a demanding evening? Of course you have! So have we all. Well here's a suggestion for a quick pick-up! Hosiery Designers Bring Back Nostalgia

SHEER BLACK panty hose designed especially for tall girls, 5'8" and over, compliments a festive dress in abstract print by Kay Unger.

A SPIRITED Tartan pattern inspired by the brave Dukes of Argyle for this body suit, with black skirt by Ginori. Shoes by I. Miller.

BACK IN the 20's and 30's, femme fatales of the cinema like Pola Negri and Gloria Swanson wore stockings with back seams as an emphatic sex symbol...this ploy worked like magic in focusing admiring eyes on shapely legs.

Tuning in with today's fashion interest in nostalgia, Burlington has introduced a fall collection of opaque panty hose with seams in shock color contrast...in tune with the languid, lacy costumes with sexy back plunges and peekaboo bosoms...all part of the high charged femininity that is dominating the fashion scene.

PANTY HOSE in a Fuchsia Shock shade are highlighted by a startling black seam...black also adds high voltage to Hot Red, green and navy panty hose...while winter white contrasts with cocoa seams and brown with beige.

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

BUT THAT'S just the beginning. Color on legs is the fall fashion message...a rainbow range running the gamut from adventurous to classic and earthy. Fresh orange is exhilerating with all the browns and orange hues in plaids and prints. Fuchsia is another avant garde shade to co-star with fuchsia-toned costumes and shoes. Adventure with Smokey Plum, Wineberry, Loden Green, Saffron Yellow, Red Hot or Bright Blue...mixing or matching with costumes and shoe colors for great individuality. Black is important too, and Winter White promises to be a front runner. Just like cosmetics, color on the legs is an artful variation of flattery.

BURLINGTON BODIES are the greatest boon to women's dressing...elegantly versatile paired with skirts or layered with vest and jacket. Easy care fabrics, simulating silky satin, are embellished with feminine dressmaker details...sweater knits in Antron and Nylon come in delicate geometric patterns...Argyles in spirited Hyland Fling colors...designed for larger figures too.

Engagement and wedding announcements are printed in The Spectator Newspaper free of charge.

Council Appoints Assessment Board

City Councilmen last week set up an assessment equalization board to hear objections concerning property assessments in the Fairway Boulevard project.

The city received objections from three residents relative to the improvement of Etna Road from Country Club Road to Fairway Boulverard and the improvement of Greenwood Avenue from Etna to Fairway, including the construction of a sanitary sewer.

THE RESOLUTIONS named Paul Haytcher, Russell Sherman and Walter Siemer to the board. The first meeting is scheduled for Oct. 18 at 7:30 p.m.

The board will hear the objections and determine their validity before reporting back to council.

Work on the project began last week.

COUNCIL ALSO tabled until their Oct. 17 meeting, two rezoning questions

The first was an ordinance which would have changed the zoning at 78 Maplewood Avenue from R-4 Residental to A-2 Apartment District.

The project would be developed identically to an apartment complex just no the north. There are 16 units in the present complex and this project would add another 16.

ATTORNEY BILL LEWIS, representing the developer was unable to attend the council meeting and asked that the ordinance be postponed.

This was also the reason for the postponement of the second ordinance calling for a special permit to allow an apartment developement at 536 S. Hamilton Rd.

Council did approve the changing of the name of St. Ann Lane to Shaker Square.

COUNCILMAN LOUIS Valente pointed out that the road was put in by the Shaker Square apartment owners and serves mainly these residents.

Following regular business, Valente told council he had been in a store in Whitehall which displayed "adult magazines" where young children could read them.

"I saw four young children reading this one and I tell you it made me sick."

"I'm not a prude but I think we should try and persuade these store owners to keep the magazines under the counters. They can put up a sign saying the materials are sold there but I don't think they should be left lying around."

AM I REALLY AIRBORNE? asks Chris Hentz as he gets halfway through the parachute ride.

RAP Thrill

It was a great day for more than one hundred area youngsters at Kennedy Park last Saturday.

Great, because enough kids cared to say "Thanks" to the adults and other teenagers who helped make the day a success.

Maj. Robert Rhuda, US Army Reserve, chairman of the Reynoldsburg Awareness Program (RAP) Youth Council, arranged for the parachute harness ride and also the Helicopter. The Helicopter rides were $2.50 for a flight over the city. The parachute harness ride was free.

The parachute harness ride worked this way.

Rhuda and others climbed a tree on the banks of Blacklick Creek and attached the cable securely. The cable was then pulled taught by an Army Reserve truck.

The harness was attached and the youngsters slid down the cable about 150 foot and were stopped by a tire.

Exciting - that's what they all had to say.

AROUND TOWN

SELAH is currently performing nightly, at the Ramada Inn South. And, what a performance. This quartet, consisting of three men and a gal, are simply terrific.

Make no mistake about it. my friends, this is strictly a contemporary group. Yet, it is the type of contemporary outfit that you will like. I think they are great, and as you know, I don't personally care for these types of musical groups.

Selah is not an ear-shattering foursome. They are not over-powering. That they are is four very exciting young people who are loaded with talent.

FIRST, there is Paul Vergilio, leader and guitarist. Just wait until you hear Paul sing. He sings with so much feeling. What a style Paul possesses. His voice has a rather intriguing tone. This fellow can keep you entertained all night, just with his vocal renditions.

But, there are three others in the group, who are equally as good. Take lovely Christina Linder, for example. Besides playing organ, which she does one tremendous job, Christina sings like a bird. Her voice is as clear as mountain spring water, and just as refreshing. Listening to Christina is as enjoyable as listening to a meadowlark on a summer day. This girl is right from a story book.

MIKE LEB, handles the electric bass and he also does some mighty fine vocal work. Mike is very strong at the bass, dishing out lots of good riffs.

Last, but not least, is drummer Joseph Maistri. This fellow has beaucoup amount of style and class with the sticks and brushes. Not only does he lay down a good strong beat, but Joseph gets in some pretty fancy licks.

Put them altogether, and they spell one of the best contemporary lounge acts I have heard in many a moon. Yet, for their type of music, and style, they do play a rather wide range of music. It is one of the tightest, most polished acts I have witnessed, also.

ALL FOUR, besides being talented, are true professional musicians. When it comes to harmony, you will not hear any better. As I said, each is a good singer, so put all four voices together, and you hear some close, pretty sounds.

Give a listen to Selah. Their music and song is powerful. It lives, and so will you when you hear them. Believe it or not, their music can give you a more abundant life. It has the power. See for yourself, nightly at the Ramada Inn South.

DIAMOND JIM'S has done it again. They have another strong, sock'em type group at their place, called Leather and Lace. You can have the leather, I'll keep the lace for myself. The lace, refers to two girls that are nothing but the sexiest I have seen on stage for awhile. This you won't believe, besides looking like something you want to take home to Dad, (if you could trust him) these two beauties are also loaded with talent.

Before I tell you more about them, let me mention the other half of the quartet, the leather part that is, leader Chuck Raehm, drummer and vocalist, and guitarist Bob Baker, who also sings.

Back to the girls, men. First there is Donna Prible, a blonde bundle, who really sings out. This girl is not afraid to sing. She has plenty of control in her voice, a good sound and she is somewhat of a stylist.

KATHY DZUBA, a long legged beauty, will bowl you over with her bass work. This gal is better than many men at the electric bass. She has excellent chord structures plus an exciting voice. Of course anything this one does on stage is exciting.

Then you add the guitar work of Bob Baker, and the group begins to cook. This young man is pretty fast with his chording and finger work. He is able to create some wild things. Add the skin and cymbal work of drummer, Chuck Raehm, and now you have a quartet that is going to do nothing but entertain you. Musically, they are excellent. The same is true in the vocal department, whether it be the solo work, or some fine harmony work.

Add a hilarious show to all of this, and you will go back for more Leather and Lace. You girls can have the leather, the men will enjoy the lace just as much. And, everybody will enjoy the music, It all happens through Sunday, at Diamond Jim's.

LAST WEEK I told you that I would be going to the Elmwood Casino to review the Englebert Humperdinck show. And, what a show it was. The Elmwood Casino holds about 875 people. The Humperdinck show is booked there for two weeks, with two shows a night, with every show practically sold out in advance. His fee is $100,000 per week. The cover charge is $10.50 per person, per show. Believe it, it is well worth it all.

I, like a few other members of the local press, were the guests of the Railroad Savings and Loan Company, the purpose being to promote their Savers Club. By opening a savings account at Railroad Savings and Loan Company, you automatically become a member of the Voyager 1000 Club. This entitles you to take all kinds of trips, anywhere in Ohio to all over the world at low, low rates for air, hotel and sometimes food.

FOR EXAMPLE, this week a plane load of Railroad Savings Club members are going back to the Elmwood Casino. They get everything we got, for only $46. What a buy.

Besides Humperdinck, there are two top acts, who come on ahead of the famous singer. First, there is the Celebrations, a group of three fellows and three girls who sing and dance. A highly polished group is the only way to describe them. Next comes one of the funniest comedians I have heard in a night club for a long time, Marty Gunci. A real riot on stage. These two acts did about 45 minutes.

THEN CAME Humperdinck for 55 minutes. Besides knocking the audience dead with all of his old hits, Humperdinck did several other well received songs as well. I am not going to describe his voice or music about his singing, everyone knows Englebert Humperdinck is a tremendous performer. Of course with a 21 piece orchestra, including eight violins, it does help one to sound great.

THE ELMWOOD CASINO is in Windsor, Canada, right across the river from Detroit. It is a three hour drive. If I were you, and you wanted to see rare supper club show, this is well worth it all. And, so is the Railroad Savings Savers Club. Give them a call today. You will be surprised at how you can benefit right here in Columbus. Many of the theatres, movies, restaurants and clubs give discounts to members. You can go Around Town for less with a membership card from Railroad Savings and Loan Company.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

SPEAKING of Diamond Jim's I have forgotten to tell you that Opal Alexander is the day-time bar maid. Opal is no stranger to the people who tip their glasses on the west-side of town. She is personable and makes it worth your time to stop in at Diamond Jim's. She is a floor all herself. Diamond Jim's is open for lunch, too. Their food is delicious...

The Place Downstairs opened with this week, with a group very like very much, The Al Evans Trio, with Bob Keller at the organ. Their music is smooth, and soft. This trio is great for easy listening, as well as playing all of your favorite dance numbers. Stop out to The Place Downstairs, located at Miller's Village Inn, this week...

The Charleston Club is a swinging place. Always lots of action. There is a bevy of sharp looking dancers. You are never a stranger here. At times, owner Hal Case, sets down at the electric organ and really gives the audience a treat. Hal is an ex-showman, who sings and plays with plenty of punch, as well as being a stylist in both departments...

Dave Hopkins Trio is a must for you who enjoy dancing, or just pretty, pretty music. This is one of the finest musical trios I have heard. They have been held over several times at the Holiday Inn- Reynoldsburg. You can't beat it for playing good music. Another place you can't beat, is the DOBB'S HOUSE RESTAURANT, at the airport. This is one of the finest places in town. The food is not just good, it is excellent. All legal beverages are served. Plus, if you don't want a big meal, or just want to bring the kids in for a sandwich or coke, that's all on the menu. There is even a special menu for children. Take it from me, this is a great place to bring the kiddies because they have the most unique entertainment in town, at the Dobb's House. The restaurant has windows from floor to ceiling, and you can see just about the entire field.

Handicapped children need special education.

Thousands of our Columbus school children have special learning needs. And, we're not doing our best to help them. Five hundred educable mentally retarded children are deprived of the special classes they need. Our deaf school should have about twice as many classrooms as it has. Children with emotional handicaps must attend one of the most inadequate schools in our system, and many physically handicapped children must struggle up school stairs every day.

The Better Schools Program can go a long way toward helping our handicapped boys and girls develop their potential for today's world. The Program will construct a new school for the physically handicapped who now use the Nell Avenue School. It will convert Clearbrook Elementary School into a special school for the emotionally handicapped, replacing the aging Fairfax School. More space will be provided for special education classes; an addition will be made to the Alexander Graham Bell School.

The Better Schools Program means more than buildings. It can help to build better lives for our boys and girls. The program will expand job training facilities in our high schools and build 4 new Career-Vocational Centers. It will assure a modern library-learning center for every elementary school. It will add new classrooms and replace several over-age schools.

Help every child, in every school, every day.

Mid-8, OCC, City Have Key Grid Tilts

League Races Take On New Dimensions

IT'S NOT even near "all over but the shouting" for any football league title within Spectator earshot.

The Mid-8, Ohio Cap Conference, Columbus City, Catholic and Metro Leagues are still up in the air as far as "champs for certain" are concerned.

And-another week of league leaders vs contenders is in sight in the East that should be enough to whet the appetite of the least rabid fan.

Three big games, and others, dot the Friday and Saturday card that calls for showdown time.

WHAT HAS to be billed as the game of the season comes off Friday at Bexley when the Lions' den is invaded by the fleet Grove City Greyhounds. Grove City is headed for a possible unbeaten season in the Mid-8 but the Lions have eyes set on the crown.

Bexley took an unexpected turn for the worse last week when Mifflin's Cowpunchers tripped them up. Groveport is still in contention for the crown and they'll host Grandview in a Mid-8'r.

Walnut Ridge tops the Columbus South loop with a 2-0-1 record and Eastmoor was stunned last week by a smart South club to break a string of 14 wins. Walnut Ridge is 4-0-1 for the season.

The game rates a toss up with Eastmoor looking for another streak-starter and the Scots hoping to cash in on a host of fleet backs.

Bishop Hartley gets a taste of the Watterson Eagle offense and slam-bang defense when the Eagles meet the Hawks in a Catholic League game at Hartley Friday. Watterson is looking for another victory to make it No. 6 and a higher rank in the state computer ratings. Hartley bowed to DeSales last week on a last minute blocked kick.

St. Charles, playing an independent schedule, is at Mid-Buckeye East Knox while in a Mid-Buckeye tilt the Academy 11 goes to Lucas for a Saturday 2 p.m. game.

THE OHIO Capital Conference has a biggie going Friday. The Gahanna Lions are host to Smoky Wion's Worthington Cards and the Cards need a win to stay in the OCC race. Gahanna is 5-0 for the season and 3-0 in the loop. The Cards and Westerville are 2-1 in the loop.

Whitehall travels to Westerville Friday and the Cats have a homecoming in store for the Rams. It's about time for the Rams to come through with one but this might not be the time if the Cats are up to their potential.

Winless Reynoldsburg travels to Mt. Vernon in another OCC fray and unless the Raiders can find a scoring punch it will be a long night to another long season.

MIFFLIN 20, BEXLEY 14

DIDN'T AND DIED - This do-or-die effort by Bexley's Buzz Inboden fell short on the Mifflin two yard line late in the game (less than two minutes to play) and the Cowpunchers took the ball for the rest of the game. The Lions needed to get to the one for a first down on this fourth down shot. (Photo by Mike Stafford.)

ACADEMY 12, CLEVELAND HAWKEN 7

LOOSE BALL - Academy's Tom Levy was hit hard by two Hawken defenders in this third period play and the ball went spinning. Levy recovered the fumble and the Academy 11 went on to win. (Photo by Mike Stafford.)

WHITEHALL 12, MT. VERNON 7

TERRY TAYLOR didn't tarry on this run for Whitehall and rammed into the end zone from four yards out to give the Rams a 12-0 lead that help up. This was a second period TD. Mt. Vernon defenders are Jamie Imel (20), Bill Hillier (12) and Yogi Whetsel (22). (Photo by Tom Foley).

DELAWARE 28, REYNOLDSBURG 0

RAIDER defender Dave Greenwell came to the fore again on this play and stopped Pacer fullback Tim Cain for no gain. The Raider defense was sticky and forced the Pacers to the air where they scored three TD's. (Photo by Ed Kiernan.)

OHSAA Gives Answers

Halftime Computer Situations Clarified

The Ohio High School Athletic Association, in an effort to clarify some misunderstandings concerning halftime activities and computer ratings, has issued a series of hypothetical questions with clarification [illegible].

Ohio junior and senior high school football is played using the National Alliance Football Rules.

One of the rules in the National Alliance Code is Rule 3-1-1 which specifies the length of periods and intermissions. There has been much abuse of the half-time intermission resulting in extended delays in starting the second half, disagreements between schools and controversey between coaches and officials.

This year special emphasis was placed upon uniform administration of this rule so that it would be consistently applied in all games. Apparently there is still some misunderstanding. This information is issued in Question-Answer form answering the most frequently asked questions.

(1)- Why did the OHSAA adopt this new rule which shortens the half-time intermission?

Answer: This is not a new rule. It has been a part of the football code but has been inconsistently enforced. The OHSAA does not write football rules. The rules are adopted by the National Football Rules Committee. Ohio has one voting delegate on the Football Rules Committee.

(2)- What is the length of the half-time intermission?

Answer: The intermission is 15 minutes. However, for junior high and senior high school teams there is an additional three (3) minutes of time for teams to conduct warm-up activities. Thus the total elapsed half-time intermission is 18 minutes.

(3)- When does the half-time intermission start?

Answer: The half-time intermission starts when both teams have cleared the field. In this manner it is equitable for both teams.

(4)- Is it mandatory for the teams to warm-up for three minutes on the field?

Answer: Yes. Warm-up in the locker room or on the way to the field does not meet requirements of the rule.

(5)- Who is responsible for enforcement of the warm-up provisions?

Answer: The Head Coach is responsible for having his squad return to the field at the end of 15 minutes. It is also the responsibility of the coach to see that his squad does participate in warm-up activities.

(6)- What is the penalty if the squad does not utilize the three minutes period for warm-up activity?

Answer: There is no penalty. However, the rule has been adopted to protect the players. Research by the National Alliance Football Rules Committee indicated that an extraordinarily large number of injuries occurred early in the third quarter. This has been attributed by medical authorities to a lack of proper warm-up. Thus the coach should enforce the rule to protect his players.

(7)- How can the squad warm-up if the band has not finished its half-time show?

Answer: The coach should instruct his squad to go to the end zone and available area beyond the goal posts for warm-up activity. In this manner the band can complete their program and the teams can still be ready to play at the end of 18 minutes.

(8)- If the Home Team returns to the field after 15 minutes and Visiting Team after 16½ minutes, is there a penalty?

Answer: Yes. The visiting Team is penalized 15 yards for delay of game. In all cases the team that is late is penalized.

(9)- If the band does not clear the field at the end of 15 minutes, is there a penalty?

Answer: No. However, the band must be clear of the field at the end of 18 minutes in order that the second half can begin on time.

Football Computer Ratings

Answer: No. Each team gains the same number of points whether they win by one point or 50 points. It has been pointed out that a team which is winning should make every effort to keep their opponents physically sound for future games. Points are earned when defeated opponents win. If the opponents are not physically and mentally injured, there is greater chance they will win.

(11)- What value is placed upon a tie in the computer ratings?

Answer: A tie counts as a win for both teams. Thus in a tie game points are accordingly credited to both teams as per formula. However, at the third level in the calculations no points are credited for a tie to the team at the first level.

Eastland Vikings Active

The Eastland Viking organizations teams won three and lost two last weekend in the various weight divisions.

Clintonville felt the offensive power of the 140 lb. team as the Vikings soared to a 40-0 win with a 34 point splurge in the second half. Mark Stephens scored twice, once on a 22 yard scamper and another when he recovered a fumble in the end zone.

The Walnut Ridge Junior High unlimited team lost 16-0 to Marion Franklin.

In action this season the following are scores:

Ad Pays Dividends For Kid Gridders

If you ever thought advertising in the Spectator Newspapers was money down the drain here's something that should prove our point has sharp results.

The Association cleared about $1200 on the sale - and the only investment was a $26 advertisement in the Spectator.

Does advertising in The Spectator pay? You bet!

Call 274-1156 today and get with the "in," crowd who know that Spectator advertising pays off in dollars.

Cancer Rays Schedule Fund-Raising Projects

Rays of the Columbus Cancer Clinic will combine two annual fund-raising projects this year and host a Card Party and Holiday Bazaar October 23 at the Clintonville Woman's Club, 3951 N. High St.

A luncheon Card Party will begin at 12:30 p.m. with a salad luncheon being served. An evening Card Party will also be held at 7:30 p.m. Dessert will be served. Tickets are available by calling Mrs. Robert Mangum or Mrs. Ronald Moore.

The Holiday Bazaar will be held in the lower rooms of the Clintonville Woman's Club beginning at noon.

The Clinic's original design Christmas cards will be on sale at the Bazaar or can be ordered from the Clinic.

Twelve Rays will participate in the Bazaar displaying many hand-made items, including art foam novelties, baked, goods, candies, lap robes, stuffed animals, dried flowers, Christmas trimmings, bread flower arrangements, and ceramics. Other items for sale include candles, place mats, ice cream spades, and pillow slips.

General Chairman of the event is Mrs. Mangum, and Chairman of the Holiday Bazaar is Mrs. Moore. Mrs. Ruth E. Lewis is Chairman of the kitchen; Mrs. John Baird, door prizes; Mrs. Earl Cline, table prizes; and Mrs. Earl Rupert, luncheons.

Proceeds from these annual events are used for patient services. The Rays support a loan closet of beds, wheel chairs, equipment, and supplies for the home care of cancer patients and provide transportation to and from treatment centers for those unable to afford transportation.

Here's Your Answer To Veteran's Benefits

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benifits Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.)

Q – Do veterans attending college under the GI Bill have to submit proof to VA at intervals that they are attending school?

A – Yes, they must submit a "Certificate of Attendance" during the last month of each enrollment period. Veterans studying below college level under the GI Bill must submit a certificate of attendance card each month.

Q –I sold my home I bought with a GI loan, and obtained a release from liability to the government. Am I eligible for a new GI loan?

A - No. To qualify for restoration of your GI loan entitlement, you must have sold your home for a compelling reason, and the loan must have been paid in full.

Q – How can a veteran avoid getting into training that will not be approved by VA, which may later cost him money out of his own pocket?

A – Don't enter training or sign an agreement to enter training before consulting with VA and getting a Certificate of Eligibility. The certificate authorizes VA to pay the veteran education allowances.

Q – My son was killed during military service in Vietnam. Am I eligible for education benefits from the Veterans Administration?

A – No. Parents are not eligible for this benefit.

Q – I hear some national cemeteries have been closed and others will soon close due to lack of space. If the cemetery of the veterans' choice closes, will VA pay an additional burial allowance toward purchase of a plot in a private cemetery?

A – No. The law permits VA to pay only the statuatory $250 burial allowance upon the death of a veteran. Insurance and survivor benefits are a matter of individual eligibility.

Q – How long do I have to convert my National Service Life Insurance policy?

A – It can usually be converted at any time the policy is current. However, there are some policies prefixed by "W" that cannot be converted if the renewal date comes after the insured's 50th birthday. In such cases, the conversion must be made before the term runs out.

Q – I am the daughter of a Korean Conflict veteran who was totally and permanently disabled by a service connected injury. I am eligible for VA's Dependents' Educational Assistance, but wonder if I can go to school less than half time?

A – Yes. However, payment will be limited to tuition cost, not to exceed $175 if you train less than half time.

Q – I need funds to finance my son's college education. May I borrow on my GI insurance for that purpose?

A – Yes, provided you have a permanent plan GI insurance policy over one year old. If you do, you can borrow up to 94 percent of its cash value. Current interest rate on such loans is five percent.

Q – I understand anyone may buy a VA repossessed home. Where can I get a list of real estate brokers who handle such properties?

A – The loan quaranty officer in the VA regional office in the area where you want to buy will provide such a list if you write or phone your request.

Q – Do I have to use a VA form to change the beneficiary on my GI Insurance policy?

A – No. Any clear statement signed by the policyholder is acceptable to VA. However, it is preferred that VA Form 29-336 be used.

Q – My aunt is a disabled veteran of World War II. She needs care in a home, but does not need nursing home care or hospitalization. Does VA have such homes for women veterans?

A – Yes, VA has domiciliaries, and those at Bay Pines, Fla., Dayton, Ohio and Martinsburg, W. Va., and Vancouver, Wash., have facilities for women veterans. Any VA office will help your aunt file application for this benefit.

Q – Can a veteran whose VA benefits have been forfeited apply for their reinstatement?

A – Yes, a veteran may apply for presidential pardon which, if granted, may again entitle him to VA benefits for which he was originally eligible.

Temporary Personnel Necessary

The use of temporary personnel by Columbus businessmen is expected to increase 25 per cent in the coming year, according to George Rubin, president of Staff Builders, a temporary personnel firm headquartered in New York with offices in Columbus in Suite 3220, LeVeque Lincoln Tower, 50 W. Broad St.

The founder of the fourth largest temporary personnel service in the nation made these comments when he visited the Columbus Office which has a new manager, Glenn E. Wyckoff.

A study, Rubin said, shows that a permanent employee earning $125 a week can cost his employer nearly $190 a week with fringe costs, such as vacations, sick pay, holidays, federal and state unemployment compensation and Social Security contributions.

Rubin, whose firm has maintained a Columbus office for four years, said the majority of the temporary employees work for a period of two to three weeks but that some assignments are for as little as four hours and others as long as a year.

..At last count, there were 15 countries with a slave press, 81 with a restricted or censored press, and only 44 countries with a free press.

Columbus School Bond Issue Report

The Problem Is Simply Lack Of Space

"Help every child in every school every day" is the theme of the Citizens Committee FOR Progress in support of the 3.3 mill bond issue that Columbus City School District voters will decide Nov. 7.

Thomas E. Palmer is the committee chairman.

The committee has provided information it is projecting to the voters in an attempt to answer any and all questions concerning the 3.3 mill bond issue.

The Spectator Newspapers, in an effort to keep the voters fully informed on the issue, is publishing the committee's information.

Letters on the report, pro or con, are welcome, and will be used as space permits.

"We have a plan for better education in Columbus."

The Columbus Public School System faces many problems, but the biggest and most pressing of those problems is simply - space.

THE CITY in the past two decades has enjoyed almost phenomenal growth. Its population has increased at a rapid rate. But the physical capacity of the school system has not been able to keep pace.

The result is that we have been cramming more and more children into the system without increasing the capacity of the system to handle them.

The resultant overcrowding is bad. It's bad for the system, it's bad for the teachers, it's bad for the community, and it's particularly bad for the students.

MANY OF our schools are on half-day schedules. Some classes of students must be transported from the elementary schools they normally would attend to other, less overcrowded schools and rented space elsewhere. School space not designed for classroom use has been pressed into service. Unlike the Old Woman who lived in the shoe, however, Columbus does know what to do. We have a plan.

Fundamentally the Columbus Public School System is a sound, well-managed operation. Its administrators are aware that the times are changing rapidly and that the needs of its students are changing with the times.

Specifically there is a great need for more and improved job training programs. The school system must do a better job of preparing young men and women who do not plan to go to college. They must be equipped with marketable skills if they are to be successful. A high school diploma is one thing; the ability to hold down a job is another. They must go hand in hand.

It can be done. We have a plan.

The Columbus Public School System, like school systems everywhere, faces the problem of special education for special children. These are physically, emotionally or mentally handicapped children. The system must have more space to start doing much more for these children than it is now able to do.

It can be done....We have a plan.

That plan, if adopted by the voters in the Nov. 7 election, will:

- Expand and improve career-vocational education
- Provide libraries for elementary schools
- Replace old inefficient facilities
- End overcrowding
- Offer young people a vastly enlarged array of educational alternates and choices.

And it will do all of this at minimum cost to the taxpayer.

THE PLAN

July 18, 1972, the Columbus Board of Education voted unanimously to place a school building bond issue on the Nov. 7 ballot. Approval of this measure is the key to expanding learning opportunities, rebuilding inefficient facilities and replacing outmoded schools in the Columbus School System.

FOLLOWING, in question and answer form, are the facts about the issue and the facts about how the schools plan to use the money the bond issue will make available.

Also attached are the details about what new schools will be constructed, what older schools will be enlarged and improved and what sites will be improved.

Q: How much money will the bond issue produce?

A: The plan to up-date the Columbus School System will cost $89.5 million dollars. That's what the bond issue will raise over the next four to five years.

Q: Can't that amount be pared down?

A: No, it's already been pared to the bone. Project Unite recommended building improvements that would have cost $96 million. We've reduced that, but if we cut any further we simply won't be able to achieve the goals of the plan.

Q: Why does it have to be a real estate issue?

A: Because real estate taxes are the only source of local funds available to school districts.

Q: Why can't the schools use some of their operating funds to build new schools?

A: The use of operating funds for school construction, would not be realistic because of the amount needed by Columbus schools.

Q: How much will the bond issue cost me?

A: About $1.50 per month on a home worth $20,000.

Q: A 3.3-mill levy on a house worth $20,000 doesn't add up to a $1.50 per month. Where's the discrepancy?

A: In figuring the millage to be placed on the ballot, the County Auditor is required by law to assume there would be no increase in the value of taxable property. Secondly, he must assume all bonds will be sold at one time.

In actuality, the real estate tax duplicate has continued to expand rapidly due to new homes and business construction. It is safe to assume this increasing trend will continue.

Thus , when figuring what the bond issue would cost the average taxpayer, school officials anticipated a continuously increasing tax duplicate in the real estate value over the lifetime of the bonds. In addition, the bonds will be sold over a four year period, not all at once. Therefore, the average millage levied over the life of the bonds is estimated to 2.2 mills, or $1.50 per month on a home with a $20,000 market value.

Q: Where are you going to get the new teachers who will be needed to staff the new schools?

A: Many of them already are employed by the school system. Remember, split sessions and extended school days require more teachers than normal school hours. Those extra teachers already are with us. It will be necessary to employ more teachers as some of the new classrooms are completed, particularly specialists in vocational education. However, they will be paid largely from State funds for vocational training.

Q: If the school building bond issue is approved won't you come back soon with a request for a new tax levy to finance increased operating costs?

A: That could happen. Right now we don't need more operating money and we're not asking for it. The operating budget for the system will stay in the black through 1973. Looking further into the future, we can't make firm estimates of operating income.

Too many uncertainties cloud the picture. The state income tax repeal effort is only one of many questions. The school board won't request additional funds until they are absolutely essential and based on facts. Right now there are too many maybes to predict when additional operating funds will be requested.

Q. Why can't State and Federal money be used for constructing the new facilities?

A: State and Federal programs offer no money for new construction, except for vocational facilities-and that's on a matching basis.

Local Girls Play At State Meeting

Two of Mrs. Kenneth Evans' piano students have been selected to play their original compositions at the State Convention of the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs.

The convention is today at Scott's Inn.

SELECTED TO play were Faye Hodges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hodges of 3342 Liv-Moor Dr. and Tish Niehoff daughter of Mrs. H. Richard Niehoff of 5686 Havens Corner Rd.

Miss Hodges, 17, will play "Moonlight" and Miss Niehoff, 13, will play "Night Trilogy."

Miss Hodges has been taking piano for about eight years and has won this same honor four times. In 1968 two of her original compositions were selected as winners.

Miss Niehoff has been taking for about three years and this is her first opportunity to play at the convention.

Mrs. Evans of 38 S. Cassady, explained that she "teaches composition along with piano. Sometimes I give my students assignments or themes to work on and then they are to compose a piece."

MRS. EVANS has had over 100 students selected as winners by the Music Federation.

"My youngest winners were my grandsons who were four and five when they won." Mrs. Evans said.

She stressed the need for starting lessons early. "Many people feel you should be able to read first, but I don't agree."

SEE ALSO SAID talent is developed not inherited.

"Faye has won the most awards of all my students." Besides the four top awards she also has won honorable mention.

Miss Hodges said she hopes to continue her study of music after high school. She is currently a senior at Eastmoor.

"I REALLY LOVE music but I'm not sure what I want to do yet."

As to where she get's the idea for her compositions she said, "Sometimes I just get inspired and other times I know something is coming up so I sit down and make myself write."

Tish is a seventh grader at Columbus Girls' School and also said she plans to continue with her music study.

MRS. EVANS is a graduate of the University of Illinois School of Music and did graduate work at the University of Iowa.

SHE IS CERTIFIED by the Music Teachers National Association and the Ohio Music Teachers Association.

Citizens Chairman Says:

'School Construction Promises Were Kept'

Tom Palmer, chariman of the Citizens Committee FOR Progress working for passage of the Columbus school bond issue, says that he is more than satisfied with the school administration's record for keeping promises made to voters in previous construction campaigns.

Palmer said that in response to questions raised by some citizens as to how well construction promises had been kept in the past, he conducted a project-by-project review of the most recent school construction issue, passed by voters in 1964.

The Citizens Committee chairman said the review was based on promises made in campaign literature that was widely distributed in 1964, and the actual projects constructed with the funds provided by the bond issue.

"I have compared each promise with the record of what was actually built and I am satisfied in my own mind that the schoo.l system has fulfilled these construction promises very well," Palmer stated.

He added that the record is especially impressive considering the rapid growth Columbus has experienced since 1964 and the mobility of the city's population.

Palmer also pointed out that the schools are also promising new benefits to the West Side in the bond issue on the November 7 ballot. "A new high school will be built and West High will have an expanded learning center, expanded guidance counseling facilities, plus other improvements. Junior highs and elementaries will receive improvements including improved library learning centers,"; Palmer stated.

Palmer said that in 1964 residents of west Columbus were promised a new junior high and a new elementary school, and pointed to Wedgewood Junior High and Wayne Elementary as proof that the promises were kept.

He said a long list of improvements at other schools in the areas served by West and Central High Schools is further evidence that the school system kept its word after passage of the bond issue.

Palmer noted that additions to provide 31 classrooms to elementary schools in the area were promised and said additions were constructed providing an average of three classrooms each to seven elementaries — Georgian Heights, Lindbergh, West Mound, Highland, West Broad, Chicago and Second.

Palmer pointed out that an addition promised for Everett Junior High was also constructed, and said and addition was made to Starling Junior High, even though none was originally planned.

Palmer said remodeling promised for many schools in the area was also completed, and listed the schools as Central and West Highs, Starling and Everett Junior Highs, and Avondale, Bellows, Burroughs, Chicago, Dana, Highland, Hubard, Michigan, Second, Thurbey and West Broad Elementaries.

The citizens committee chairman also pointed to site expansions, improvements and purchases in the west area as evidence that promises were kept in 1964.

He said the sites of four elementaries — Avondale, Chicago, Fifth and Highland— were expanded as promised, and added that the site of two secondary schools—Everett and Starling Junior Highs— were also expanded.

Palmer also noted that a site for location of a possible new elementary school near Eakin Rd. and Wayne Ave. was acquired.

Eastland Board Meets

The Eastland Board of Education will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the school, 4465 S. Hamilton Rd.

Agenda items and comments were to be as follows:

Recommendation: That the salary of George Boehm be changed from Class III - Step 12 ($11,545.00) to Class III - Step 13 ($11,905.00) effective with his 1972-73 contract.

Recommendation: That the Adult Education Program be approved and the instructors employed.

Board Policy and Administrative Procedure 601.1-13 now states, "Tuition will be charged for a full month regardless of the number of days the student is enrolled."

Recommendation: That the above statement be revised as follows: "During any given month that a student may enter or withdraw, tuition shall be charged according to the following formula:

The monthly tuition rate as calculated according to Section 3317.08 O.R.C. times nine (number of months of the school year for which tuition is charged), divided by the number of actual days in the school year to establish a daily rate charge. The daily rate charge would then be multiplied by the number of days in a given month the student actually attended."

Letters To The Editor
You're Telling Us

The Spectator Newspapers welcome letters from readers, expressing their views on subjects of interest to them -- whether initiated by news stories or editorial expression in this newspaper or not. Because of space limitations, we prefer letters which do not exceed 300 words. All letters submitted for publication must be signed with the writer's name and address, although -- upon request -- the name of the writer can be withheld. Letters should be marked: "To the Editor, Spectator Newspapers, 3421 S. Boulevard, Columbus, Ohio 43204" and must be received by Friday noon prior to publication date for possible publication in that week's edition.

Tainted Trick Or Treat Situation Serious?

To the Editor:

Traditionally, Holloween has been a time for parents and children to join together for an evening of family fun. Recently this event has been marred by reports of alleged occurences which have received coverage by some newspapers and other media.

Usually, the report is of a "tainted" treat which has supposedly been given to unsuspecting children during their Halloween rounds.

Growing evidence now shows that most of these stories in reality are hoaxes which have proven to be unfounded through police investigations. Since any threat to children, real or otherwise, is a matter of great concern to all of us, the "trick" provides an effective means of creating an emotional response among parents and notoriety and publicity for the perpetrators. In a sense, this sort of trick is on us.

Two major dailies have published investigative features on the problem of Halloween hoaxes. In the case of the Los Angeles Times, the reporter found that a study of the files of detectives in Los Angeles, Detroit, Philadelphia and elsewhere revealed that "almost two-thirds of the incidents that are reported...turn out, under scrutiny, to be either hoaxes or occurrences of minor importance."

The Des Moines Register and Tribune reporter found that "police in Iowa cities and towns have been unable to confirm a single one of the Halloween reports this year." Other investigations of incidents in other communities confirm these findings.

It is your duty, of course, to report to the public any matter in the public interest. However, the snowballing effect of the publication of a number of unverified reports not only tends to encourage the perpetration of similar hoaxes but also can encourage sadists to attempt the "real thing."

When the police are kept occupied with hoaxes, they are unavailable to attend to the real needs of the community.

Therefore, we urge you to check all Halloween stories this year with careful scrutiny. The National Confectioners Association, in cooperation with the national Jaycees, sponsors a Halloween Safety Program which has been adopted by over 200 communities. We would appreciate your support of this program, which incorporates the Halloween Safety Rules of the National Safety Council.

We would also appreciate any information concerning Halloween hoaxes which comes to you in the course of your investigations. In past years, you have been most cooperative in helping promote Halloween safety.

Your interest in this matter is appreciated as are your continued efforts in helping preserve Halloween as "family fun time."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Dissenting Opinion

News stories about split decisions by the United States Supreme Court must surely bewilder many a reader. What the majority confidently asserts in Paragraph One, dissenters hint as confidently deny in Paragraph Two.

What shall the ordinary citizen make of all this? If even the experts cannot agree on what the law is, how can plain folk be expected to know?

Of course, the law is what the majority opinion says it is. A dissenting opinion has no legal force.

In fact, in many countries, dissenting opinions are simply not allowed. Once a majority decision is reached, dissenters are expected to keep their views to themselves.

But on our Supreme Court, public dissent has a long and respectable history. It has been a regular feature of the Court ever since 1806, when a holdout justice voiced his disagreement with Chief Justice John Marshall.

One great virtue of this right of dissent ("the only thing that makes life tolerable," said Justice William O. Douglas) is that it may help shape the law of the future. Major changes in the law, including even amendments to the Constitution, have had roots in earlier dissenting opinions from the Court.

Still, dissents, if overdone, can needlessly weaken both public understanding and public acceptance of a Court ruling. At least, say critics, a judge should not dissent merely because of minor disagreement or personal pride.

Statistics do show that relatively few of the dissenting opinions — even those of Oliver Wendell Holmes, the "Great Dissenter" — have ever become the law of the land.

Is it surprising that dissents occur so often? Not when one considers the kind of questions the Court must answer. Almost always, they are questions on which even the wisest and fairest of men may differ. The easy ones just never reach the Court at all

Hard Times?

We've come on hard times to hear some people speak.

Even the kids are talking about how much they have to do without - and I wonder if some parents have gotten the message to them about how much they can do with what they have.

WHEN WE reminisce about our own childhood or remember our kids in their early ages we like to think that our kids are no different than yours.

We kid them a lot to the border of embarrassment and this happened again last week when we pulled the old "three on a horse" bit.

YOU KNOW all about the horses around various stores where you put in a dime and the horse gallops off into the not-so-distant sunset with a little tot astride.

Well, there was one in Sears last week and neither one of the teenagers wanted to ride. Know why? I think it's because they remember when dimes weren't too ready and they had to ride "three on a horse". Hard times long ago? Not really - it was real enjoyment.

ANOTHER time one of the kids cut the neighbor's lawn (including his strawberry patch and petunias) and still managed to get 50 cents for the job. He was kindhearted and took a friend to the movie (one of the Saturday triple-features) and Poppa gave them each spending money for a treat. I didn't know that the little I gave them would only last through a show and a half.

Hunger pains took over and our boy thought he could eat the apple on the candy wrapper. He did and a day later he had it.

HALLOWEEN'S coming up. That's when our kids always eat too much. We found a solution. Come home every hour on the half hour and empty the trick or treat sack. This gave Poppa time to dole it out to other ghosts and goblins who came calling. At least it was better than doing all that tricking like standing on my head or other quickly thought up stunts. Hard times? Not really - just a lot of fun.

They used to call me "King of the Crawdad Hunters". I pulled the same thing on one of the kids. He thought the title was great. I thought so too until he brought home a sack of crawdads and to avoid hurt feelings we roasted them like lobster and ate them with butter (oops, margarine) and lemon. Hard times? Not really - that was really living!

BUBBLE GUM has more uses than you'll ever know. We had the bubble-gum chewingest gang on the street. Need a tire patched? We'd bubble gum it. Need a football fixed? We'd bubble gum it! Need a wire joined for the spark to connect? We'd bubble gum it.

We learned early in life to do without things we never knew existed. I still like chicken backs and wings and not because that was what I always got - I just happened to take a liking to them.

Hard times?

IT ALL depends on your point of view but after all we have created our own monsters by not letting the kids know the truth.

P.S. Our kids had the ONLY sled in town made of a cardboard box. Know what? Everyone else was jealous. It almost started a new craze. Wait until the first snow then go down your favorite hill in a big cardboard box - close your eyes and it will be a beautiful twilight zone you'll be entering.

Hard times? Oh, Lord, no - great times.

'Lest We Forget'

'Lest we forget' - Monday, October 23 is Veterans' Day.

Its meaning to some, terrible but true, is another day off from a choresome daily task, or perhaps a time to get a put-off job at home finished.

REFLECTIONS of the meaning of the day, we have found, are few and far between. If it were not for the numerous Veterans' organizations, it could well be forgotten.

Perhaps people don't want to remember the heartache caused by war. That is right and true and those who will honor loved ones by tending their graves have a special right to feel as they want.

"The government of the people, by the people and for the people", "Our country, right or wrong, but our country", "In Flanders Field the poppies grow", "I shall return", and many other words have become immortalized by men who led in battle or wrote about the battle.

IT IS US, the living, who must remember the dead and the cause for which they gave their last measure of devotion.

'Lest we forget' - more than words, we hope, this year.

What'd She Say?

I witnessed a comedy routine last week that would have made Abbott and Costello proud.

THEY USED to do a routine in which Abbott would ask Costello for the lineup on an imaginary baseball team.

Costello would start by saying Whose on first, Watts on second, etc.

Abbott would ask, "Who's on second?"

"No, Whose on first," On and on they'd go until Abbott slugged Costello.

OUR COMEDY routine went like this:

Helen owed my mother $8.23, but all she had was a $20 bill.

Mom didn't have any change, but Helen insisted on paying while she had the money.

MEANWHILE, Helen was selling tickets for a chicken dinner at church the next Sunday and there was $17.50 in the envelope.

Mom told her to put the twenty in the envelope and take out one chicken ticket and the $17.50.

Mom took the chicken ticket and $5.73.

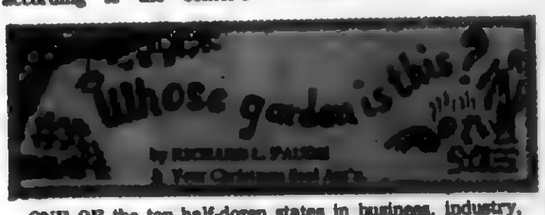
Mom also owed me $5. so I thought it was a good time to collect.

SHE GAVE me the chicken ticket and $2.50.

Helen had the right amount in the envelope for the number of tickets that had been sold.

Mom had been paid, but she didn't end up with cash because she also paid grandma the money she owed her.

I had a delicious chicken dinner the next Sunday.



AND WE WERE all hysterical after such a monumental financial transaction involving less than $10.

Vocational Center Dedication Oct. 23

A NEW $2 million facility for Ohio State University's National Center for Vocational and Technical Education will be formally dedicated in special ceremonies Monday, Oct. 23, according to the center's director, Dr. Robert E. Taylor.

A full day's program of events is planned for the day, featuring a distinguished roster of Washington officials and nationally recognized educators.

ONE OF the top half-dozen states in business, industry, population, and pollution, Ohio has one glaring omission. It has no one strong voice in the environment. In many states the National Wildlife Federation affiliate, although giving primacy to wildlife, has forged ahead as the clean-up specialist. The Ohio connection has backed away from all parts of the environment. So much so that the NWF is actively looking for a new group with which to affiliate.

Among front runners to date have been the Breather's Lobby, League of Women Voters, various tuberculosis and respiratory disease associations across the state, and the Sierra Clubs. More recently the Nader group (O.P.I.A.G.), the Conservation Society, and several local groups have put a lot of steam into the battle.

September 29, 1972 something good started. Representatives from fifteen separate and active conservation groups all scooted up to the same table with the same goals in mind. They wanted to help each other form a united front to select legislative programs for the 110th General Assembly.

Having had a part in the planning for this all-day meeting, I can tell you true, I had some nervous moments before the meeting began. I wasn't at all sure the folks from various walks of life, parts of the state, or different interests would find any accord.

All groups agreed to take a selected list of subjects back to their boards for approval. All those with approval would compose a public statement after a 30-day wait and proceed to implement the legislative shopping list in one of three ways. First, request the Governor to form a study commission and come up with policies and urge legislation for statewide land-use planning. The following six items are to be given top priority either by finding legislators to write and push bills or as a last resort, by referendum. Subjects covered and given top priority were - Citizen Suits - Environmental Impact Statements - Pesticide Control - Mandatory Environmental Education in all Public Schools - Testing Of Used Cars - Mandatory Bottle Deposits.

AFTER accord is reached, a second meeting will be held sometime in November to finalize a list of legislators friendly to the cause of conservation and to write the bills that will be presented in January to the Ohio General Assembly. If all the conservationists represented at that table can push in the same direction, it will be enough political clout to move mountains.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: If you have knowledge of an Ohio Senator or Representative who claims to be willing to do something about our environmental problems, drop me a line, or better yet, have him write to me at 860 Michigan Avenue, Columbus 43215, and I'll give him some real handles to grab..

A Proud Tradition

The Navy:Now And Then

The United States Navy is one year older than the United States and celebrated its 197th birthday October 13.

officials who have the facts and statistics to back up that statement.

1976 will be the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

As a part of The Spectator's coverage of this event from time to time we will present historical facts concerning Our Nation.

Through the efforts of the local area United States Navy Recruiting Service we are presenting the Navy story in three parts.

Part Three

Our second war with Britain was fought on ocean and lakes. The first American triumph of the war was the defeat of the HMS Guerriere by Captian Isaac Hull in Constitution. The lake fleets won crucial battles under commodores Perry and Macdonough.

Perry soundly defeated the British on Lake Erie in 1813 and Macdonough achieved a "signal victory" over the British on Lake Champlain. Naval forces also fought valiantly against the British invasion force that attacked Washington and Baltimore.

The Navy developed the first steam warship in 1815 and the first screw-driven warship in 1843. Dahlgren developed the first cannon designed on a scientific basis. Wilkes established the existence of the Antartic continent as John Rogers and the others led important explorations abroad. Maury, at the Naval Observatory, gained renown for his work in astronomy and later great works in oceanography.

IN THE WAR with Mexico in 1846-48, the Navy blockaded both coasts, provided naval gunfire support to the Army, secured California and provided sea communications. The operational high point was the amphibious assault at Vera Cruz where 12,600 troops with horses, supplies and munitions were placed ashore in one day.

This experience in amphibious warfare would soon be called to use in the Civil War. The War Between the States was our first modern war. Sea Power was the key to success. The Federal Navy was small at the start, but it gave the Union control of the seas and prevented the South from ever developing any significant naval strength.

The capture of New Orleans and the fall of Vicksburg severed western supllies from the war in the East. Farragut, in Hartford, brought his fleet against Mobile in 1864 and captured the port following his famous "Damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead."

IN THE SOUTH, ingenuity supplemented meager resources. The Confedederacy turned to ironclads, mines and the submarine Hunley.

When the Civil War ended, the United States had the most powerful navy in the world. Rapid demobilization and public apathy, however, soon took their toll and by 1881 the Navy had no modern ships.

Although financial and public support for a modern Navy were not available, many officers took the lead in developments that would help change the world. For example, Bradley Fiske, as a young officer in the 1880's, made important contributions in electricity and wireless telegraphy.

ALBERT MICHELSON returned to the Naval Academy as an Ensign to teach physics and chemistry. In 1873 he undertook fundamental experiments that resulted in fixing the speed of light.

Michelson later recieved the Nobel Prize in physics, and was the first American to do so.

Captain Stephen B. Luce formed the Naval Institute in 1873 and in 1884 established the Naval War College at Newport. Luce headed the Naval Naval War College and brought Captain A. T. Mahan there as lecturer.

THESE LECTURES became the basis for Mahan's book "The Influence of Seapower Upon History," which revolutionized naval thinking. Naval rebuilding began in 1883 with the authorization to construct all-steel cruisers with advanced armor and armament of domestic steel. New warships followed with vastly improved gunnery systems and fighting effectiveness.

When the sinking of the Maine brought war with Spain in 1898, the nation had a modern Navy of respectable size trained in modern tactics. At Manila Bay, Admiral Dewey boldly engaged the Spanish fleet and gained a decisive victory which made the United States a Pacific power.

At Santiago, Cuba, Admiral Sampson destroyed Admiral Gervera's fleet on July 3, and the war was brought to a quick end. With peace, the United States was projected into the role of a world pwoer with vast overseas possessions to protect.

This would require a strong fleet which was insured by President Roosevelt. The cruise of the "Great White Fleet" demonstrated American technical proficiency, good will and prestige.

THE FIRST submarine joined the Navy in 1900 and in 1911 the first aircraft was purchased. During World War I, the Navy convoyed and transported hundreds of thousands of American soldiers and vast supplies through submarine infested waters. The Navy, working with the British, laid the largest minefield in history to keep German submarines from traversing the North Sea.

Between the world wars a quest for permanent peace was sought through the limitations of armaments. War again came in 1939, and with the collapse of France, the tempo of U.S. preparedness increased. Then inevitably, as in 1917, the United States was drawn into conflict.

The country was engaged in a massive shipbuilding program when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, but there was a desperate need for more of everything. The requirement to provide convoys, transport men and materials and actively engage the enemy strained our resources.

As ships and aircraft became available the country went on the offensive. German U-Boats in the Atlantic changed from the hunter to the hunted. The inevitable collapse of Germany began with the Normandy invasion. Over 2,000 ships and crafts joined our allies in the movement to the beaches of Western Europe.

Next week concludes "A Proud Tradition" taking the Navy action through the war in Vietnam.

Coat Designers Have 'Wrapped Up' Fall

IF THERE'S ONE SHAPE that promises to be the runaway winner for fall and winter...it's the Wrap Coat. It has the right soft and easy spirit for '72...the classic lines that make it versatile over suits as well as dresses.

THE DESIGNERS have done it every way imaginable...a bit of nostalgia, lavish with fur...classic in country plaids and checks...stunning in camel's hair or fuzzy fabrics, with dropped or broad shoulders, shawl collars, notched lapels, in all lengths from topper to ankle...always wrapped and tied.

GEOFFREY BEENE captures the monotone spirit for fall in his three quarter length topper in melton cloth, wrapped and tied over bold plaid wide cuffed trousers and black crepe shirt.

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

ILIE WACS design for Originala is spectacular in plaid chinchilla...a dolman sleeved coat voluminous enough to wrap a suit or multiple layers beneath...a pair of huge patch pockets low-placed at the front for an extra touch of elan.

KASPER for Joan Leslie elegantly wraps his Lynx collared coat of sheer window pane check flannel, over matching skirt and pale beige satin shirt.

Coats are the great talking point of the season...and the big Wrap Coat heads the top of the list!

Speaking of Beauty

By Janis Massey

I HAVE A BRIGHT IDEA

The opposite of drab or ash is warmth in hair-coloring. If your hair looks tired, if it has a pasty congealed look and doesn't even sparkle in the sun, it probably has a coating of leftover shampoo oils, or hairspray that doesn't come off in the wash. The job is to cut through all that stuff which hides your hair. We use 10 minutes of a hair tint 2 shades lighter than your own, don't leave it on long enough for much action, wash it off and follow with a good conditioner. That's all there is to it! But just watch the gleam come from out of nowhere. Of course you can't do that if you have white or gray hair. For those patrons we have another secret.

HEARD UNDER THE DRYER

Reading is vital to learning. Libraries build reading skills.

Columbus has 129 elementary schools. Only 38 of them have any kind of library. Even our secondary school libraries fail to meet State standards. A modern school library is a learning center where children learn by reading, listening, viewing and doing—with plenty of space for individual attention as well as group work.

A modern library-learning center with films, records, tapes, electronic audio-visual equipment, books, and reading aids will be provided for every elementary school by the Better Schools Program. All secondary school libraries will also be upgraded to meet approved standards. All of our children will then have an opportunity to learn from the most innovative, motivating learning center aids.

The Better Schools Program means more than buildings. It can help to build better lives for our boys and girls. The program will provide special education facilities for handicapped children. Several over-age schools will be replaced. The program will expand job training in our high schools and build 4 new Career-Vocational Centers. Passage of the bond issue will make additional facilities available for the community—senior citizens, adult students, community groups—for after school use. We must put more into our schools so we can get more out of them!

Help every child, in every school, every day.

WANT TO make a movie? If so, just pack your bags, close up your home and head to Hollywood. That's what two prominent local people did. Now they are holding the world premiere of their motion picture right here in Columbus.

The two men I am refering to, are Mack Gilbert, of the Gilbert Shoe Store family, and Joseph Waterman, a successful attorney.

Joe, as all his friends call him, closed up his home and an extremely lucrative law office and went to the tinsel city. Mack, who maintained his ties with his shoe stores, did the same thing.

But, here comes the typical, but true Hollywood story. Neither had talked to each other about their plans. Both went to the glamour city on their own. After a stay of several months, each had not met with their expected progress. One day, both happened to meet while walking down a street in Beverly Hills. Knowing each other from good ole Columbus town, they began to talk about their ambitions and their problems in getting started in Hollywood.

DOING what any practical men would do, they decided to start their own production company. Hence, Golden Union Pictures, LTD. was formed.

From their new company, a powerful movie was born, "No Deposit, No Return." This is a picture about a young girl from a typical midwestern town, who heads for Venice, California to find herself. Hilary is her name, and is played by Melinda Marx daughter of Groucho Marx. Hilary continuously searches to find meaning in her life.

It took over four years for Gilbert and Waterman to produce this film. It has a cast of over one hundred. The film takes you right to the heart of Charles Manson territory. Many times the lives of the cast and crew were threatened because of their invasion of the highly secret and at times, dangerous flower world of Venice.

Their assignment paid off. "No Deposit, No Return," is considered a masterpiece in the film world. It has won two distinguished awards, one at the famed Edinburgh International Film Festival, and the other at the Atlanta International Film Festival.

Besides Melinda Marx, another Marx name is associated with the picture, Bill Marx, Harpo's son, who arranged, composed and conducted the orchestra. Also featured in the movie is Dianne Berghoff, who played in, "Bob, Carol, Ted and Alice."

"No Deposit, No Return," holds people and their search for life under a merciless microscope. It is about as subtle as a sledgehammer. The last five minutes will put you on the edge of your seat. The final minute knocks you right off. It is not a movie full of terror and horror, yet it has a shocking climax worthy of Hitchcock.

The world premiere of, "No Deposit, No Return," will be next Friday, October, 27 at the Bexley and World Theatres. Take my advice. This is one of the finest movies to come from tinsel town in a long time.

But, most of all, it was done by two Columbus men, who had an idea and a desire. Now, one of the most dramatic and moving motion pictures in the past few years will premiere in Columbus.

Thanks to Mack Gilbert and Joe Waterman, Columbus has turned Hollywood.

Make sure you see, "No Deposit, No Return." You will talk about the Gilbert-Waterman production for a long time.

Just one hint, opening night at the Bexley Theatre will feature personal appearance of Mack Gilbert and Joe Waterman, plus some of the stars in the movie. It promises to be a gala world premiere.

I HAVE told you about the Club House Restaurant several times. But, it is so good, I feel that you will want to know more about the place.

I had dinner the other evening at the Club House Restaurant, and let me tell you right now, you won't find any better, anywhere. Not only is the food simply out of this world, you will love the intimate, cozy atmosphere. It is the type of place where you can take your entire family, including your children. It is also a place to take that favorite gal of yours for a very romantic, quiet evening.

What I enjoy the most is the food. I ordered their Surf and Turf. You talk about something delicious, this is it. Now, with Surf and Turf, most places give you a very small serving of meat, and at times, it is not the best. At the Club House Restaurant you receive a large filet mignon that is extremely tender and succulent. The Surf part was lobster, not scampies, as you get so often. Talk about delicious lobster, this was it. They were very large and firm. Cooked to perfection.

Another member of our party had the broiled twin lobster tails. He is a great lover of sea food, and said it was the best he has ever eaten.

The salads were nice and crisp. The dressings were a pleasure to my taste buds.

It was an evening that I will remember for a long time. So will you. The Club House Restaurant is located five miles south of Scioto Downs, on route 23. It is only a twenty minute drive from the downtown. Believe me, it is well worth the drive.

To make it even more enjoyable, this Friday and Saturday Sue and The Goldbrickers will be playing for your dining and dancing pleasure. This is an outstanding group. I have heard them before and can speak from experience.

Just one more thing, be sure and visit their cocktail lounge. What a quaint, cozy room, and Mona is one of the most efficient and personable bar maids in the business.

Be sure to make it to the Club House Restaurant real soon, you will talk about it for days to come.

MAIN STREET, to most of us, is located downtown Columbus. Not this week. Main Street is located in Marco Polo's Lounge. Main Street is a trio that plays all types of music in a style that will entertain young and old alike. By the almost full house on a football Monday night, I know that I'm right.

Before going any further, let me say that all three are first rate musicians. These are not three fellows who decided to play music, and know nothing about what they are doing. These are professionals, in every sense of the word.

Wayne does a tremendous job at both the electric piano and vocals. His handling of the electrified black and whites is above average. Owning a rather unusually stylistic voice, Wayne keeps the audience's attention all night long. His tonal quality and attack is something to hear. After doing so, you will want to hear more.

The same is true for Willie, an expert guitarist. He plays with so much feeling and love for his music, I could listen to him do nothing but solo work. When Willie sings, you really set up and listen. He has a full sound, excellent control and a very relaxing, at ease type of style, even on the swinging tunes.

Last, but not least in the trio, is Doug with his fascinating work at the drums. This fellow just doesn't beat the hides and cymbals, he plays them in high fashion.

Put all three together, and one, you hear some great vocal harmony. Two, you will hear some mighty nice musical sounds from all three.

These three fellows set out to entertain you with music and song. Friends, they do a very nice job. If it is entertainment you want, you get loads of it at Marco Polo's Lounge. This week, all streets leads to Main Street, a new trio that you are going to hear a lot about in the months ahead. This is their last week, at Marco Polo's, but I'm sure they will be back.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Leagues Could Get Mixed Up

Groveport, Whitehall Get Moment Of Truth

The big games keep coming up week after week in the area high school grid action and next week is no exception.

Each stands at 3-0 in the loop with Grove City unbeaten for the season at 6-0 and Groveport heading toward a winner at 4-2.

Groveport zipped by Grandview 47-0 in Mid-Eight action.

The Greyhounds QB Mike Lesher must be stopped if Groveport is to stay in the ball game at all. He tossed a pair of TD strikes against usually unvulerable Bexley and ran 50 yards for another.

Walnut Ridge and Northland continue to dominate the Columbus City loops with the Scots at 3-0-1 [illegible] in the South and Northland's 2-0-0 good in the North.

The top knee knocker in the Ohio Capital Conference finds Gahanna at Whitehall with the Rams just about ready to break loose. A questionable call last Friday kept the Rams from catching Westerville on a called back TD with the Brobst-McMahan combination working it.

Westerville goes to Reynoldsburg for the Raiders homecoming and the Raiders look for another tough evening from the Cats who have Corkwell (Brad) and Wohlert (Steve) going full steam again.

Worthington lost its possible chance for a title tie by getting nosed 21-14 by Gahanna last week. Delaware continued its smark pace in the OCC with another win to tie for second with Westerville.

GRID BITS: Worthington gambled late in the Gahanna game in an effort to keep the ball and score (break the tie) but lost the ball and the Lions went on to score and win...Hartley showed Watterson some strong defense but the Eagles eventually wore down the Hawks. Watterson is ranked No. 1 in some polls.

Loop Title Up For Grabs

Marion Franklin will meet West at West High School field at 10 a.m. Saturday with the winner sure to take the Southern Division crown of the Columbus Independent Junior High grid loop.

In last week's games Eastmoor downed the Vikings, 30-0; West and Linden wrapped up a 0-0 tie and Whetstone zipped by East, 28-0.

Realtors Project Pride Results Open To Public

388 E. Jenkins Ave. - before Project Pride.

388 E. Jenkins Ave. - after Project Pride.

What do you do when you see a house which is in a run-down condition? You can either ignore it, or you can buy it and fix it up.

This, in essence, is Project Pride a Columbus Board of Realtors program of action.

Project Pride's objective is to rehabilitate run-down properties in stable neighborhoods, thereby reversing the decline of neighboring property values.

In announcing the project to some 120 community leaders this week, board president Jim Owen noted that "Project Pride is actually good business." He continued, "In our major project located at 388 East Jenkins Ave., in Southeast Columbus, an old abandoned house was purchased for just over $5,000. And now, after putting a little more than $6,000 into the property, it is a clean, comfortable 3-bedroom house which is a credit to its neighborhood."

PROJECT Pride co-chairman Larry Horn described the property before it was purchased. "It was an abandoned house with its share of broken windows and smashed doors. There were several truck loads of trash and debris both inside and outside the house and the structure did not meet the minimum city building codes. After hauling away the trash, we began in earnest to rehabilitate the property and our efforts are now available for public inspection Sunday, October 22 from 2 to 5 p.m.

In discussing the economics of the project, Realtor Tom Caito noted that one of the major pitfalls of rehabilitating older properties is the problem of "overdeveloping."

Caito explained that some owners rehabilitate a property to such an extent that you actually put more time and money into a property than is necessary and thereby overdevelop the property beyond the point of recovering your investment, if you should ever choose to sell the property. "In our Jenkins Avenue project, we made a point of doing all that was necessary to make the house a clean, comfortable family unit...without overdeveloping it."

HORN ADDED, "in most rehabilitation efforts, much of the work can be done by the property owner if he is so inclined and has the necessary talents. However, all work on the Realtors Jenkins Avenue property was performed by independent contractors to show any homeowner – even those without particular skills – that it is economically feasible to make the necessary improvements and still be able to recoup most, or all, of the costs if one chooses to sell the property at a later date."

Owen noted that during the past several years, individual Realtors have specialized in rehabilitating older properties and, in effect, have their own Project Pride programs. Several of those rehabilitation projects will be featured at the Jenkins Avenue open house activities.

Viet-Time Veterans Will Be Honored October 23

An all-day Opportunity Fair at Veterans Memorial, a celebrity-packed two-hour parade, and an evening of all-star entertainment will be highlights of Viet-Time Veterans Honor Day in Columbus Monday, October 23.

The purpose of the celebration, according to General Chairman Elden Bohn, is to pay tribute to the men and women who have served their country in any area and in any branch of the services during the time of the Viet Nam conflict.

In addition to the Viet-Time veterans, their families and relatives, Bohn said that special tribute will be paid to the families of men killed in Viet Nam, missing in action and prisoners of war.

The Opportunity Fair will be opened with ribbon cutting ceremonies beginning at 8:30 a.m. with Mayor Tom Moody and representatives of Columbus City Council and the Franklin County Commissioners. More than thirty five national and local firms have already contracted for space to assist and advise Viet-Time veterans in job and career opportunities. According to Fair Chairman Leonard Barney, "applications and inquiries are coming in every day, and we'll be glad to handle them right up to the last minute."

Parade Chairman Edward Hastie predited that the Viet-Time Veterans Honor Day Parade will be one of the most colorful and entertaining ever seen in Columbus.

In addition to the color guards and bands, the parade will feature an Ohio Viet-Time Medal of Honor winner, Frank J. Herda of Parma, as Grand Marshal; 50-50 Club star Bob Braun as Honorary Grand Marshal; Bobby Vinton, who will take some time off from his appearance at Scots Inn; popular singing group The Vogues; colorful floats, and many of the individuals and groups who will entertain after the parade.

Entertainment will be presented at Vets Memorial after the parade. Stars who will make appearances include Bob Braun, The Vogues, Bobby Vinton, rock group Spring Fever, Chuck Selby and his big band sound, and many others. Entertainment will be continuous until 11:30 p.m., and there will be no admission charge.

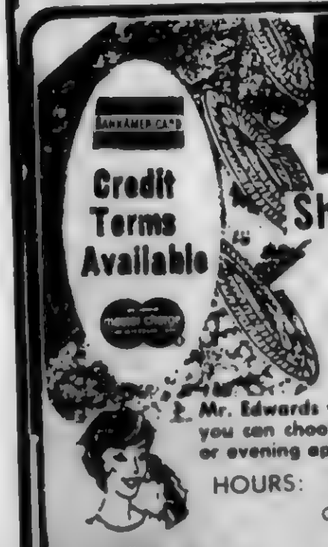
ODC Presents Drama By Dallas Performers

The Dean's Culture Series of Ohio Dominican College will bring the Alpha Omega Players of Dallas, Tex., to Columbus, Nov. 2 for a one-night appearance in "End Game."

The performance is scheduled at 8:30 p.m., in the Little Theatre of ODC's Erskine Hall, 1216 Sunbury Rd.

Written by Samuel Beckett, who gained international fame with "Waiting for Godot," "EndGame" is said by some to be his most powerful work, combining scenes that are "genuinely funny" and others that are "beautifully sad." Critics on both sides of the Atlantic have referred to his play as "utterly absorbing"..."grotesquely beautiful"..."a play of great power and skill."

Beckett was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1969. "EndGame" was first staged off-Broadway in 1958 and became one of the season's most successful productions.



The Alpha-Omega Players' tour of "EndGame" marks the first time this play has been offered nationwide. Previously it was staged only in the largest metropolitan centers.

The Alpha-Omega Players troupe which will appear at Ohio Dominican College is one of three which will present more than 600 performances for colleges, churches, military installations and civic organizations this year in 44 states and Canada.

Principals Stress Need For Bond Issue Passage

Educational improvements will be made at Eastmoor and Walnut Ridge High Schools if voters approve the Columbus school bond issue November 7, according to Charles Meyers and Raymond Trinter, principals of the two senior highs.

New additions would be constructed at both schools, providing space for more career and vocational education and new library-learning centers, the principals stated.

"STUDENTS ARE more interested than ever in courses that prepare them for jobs." Meyers said. Trinter agreed, adding that vocational classes at Walnut Ridge, as well as those at Eastmoor, are filled to capacity.

The principals said the bond issue would make possible expanding present vocational classes at the two schools but emphasized that Eastmoor and Walnut Ridge students would also be able to attend classes in four career-vocational centers to be constructed under the bond issue.

Meyers pointed out that the centers would offer programs that could not be made available in individual high schools, either because of the kinds of equipment needed to teach the course or because only a small number of students at a particular school might be interested.

STUDENTS WOULD spend half a day at Eastmoor and Walnut Ridge taking their academic work, then be transported to the centers for specialized instruction Trinter pointed out. He predicted the centers would "open up a new door for the career-minded student."

"These four centers would offer programs not now available anywhere in the school system," Meyers added, listing aircraft operations, advertising, cosmetology, data-processing, dental and medical assistance, and interior decorating as only a few.

Meyers and Trinter also view the new library learning centers the bond issue would provide as a major benefit for students.

"THESE CENTERS would contain some of the most modern pieces of learning equipment available, making it possible for students to learn by listening to tape recordings and records and viewing slides and filmstrips, as well as by reading," Meyers said.

Trinter pointed out that the learning centers would provide spaces where students could conduct research alone or in work groups.

The principals indicated the school bond issue contains other benefits for Eastmoor and Walnut Ridge.

MEYERS NOTED that the addition to Eastmoor would also contain new instrumental and vocal music facilities, and said the school's present library and music areas could be converted into space for small- and large-group instruction and improved guidance facilities.

He added that the Eastmoor High School site would be expanded and improved under the bond issue.

As for improvements at Walnut Ridge, Trinter said that with addition of a new library-learning center, the school's present library would be converted into new classrooms to help relieve the severe overcrowding that is keeping Walnut Ridge on half-day sessions.

TRINTER STRESSED that the new junior-senior high school to be built in the area of Refugee and Noe-Bixby Roads if the bond issue passes, "is the real key to ending overcrowding at Walnut Ridge."

The principal said the half-day sessions have tended to make older students at Walnut Ridge more interested in jobs trend that must be reversed."

Both Trinter and Meyers are pushing for passage of the bond issue calling it "essential if Eastmoor and Walnut Ridge are to meet the needs of their students."

"PASSING THE BOND issue would in a few years eliminate the need for half-day sessions," Trinter said. "Because of half-day session, every Walnut Ridge student is losing one hour of school each day."

"If there was ever a time when students needed more education instead of less, it's now," Trinter said. "Until we can give our students a full day in school, the education of every one of them is being short-changed."

United Way Drive Campaigns For Funds

The 1972 United Way of Franklin County campaign officially began Tuesday with the unveiling of a campaign goal progress indicator at the corner of Broad and High Streets in downtown Columbus.

According to General Campaign Chairman Mrs. Robert H. Jeffrey II, 296 Ashborne Pl., the progress indicator will keep the community informed of the efforts of more than 12,000 United Way volunteers seeking financial support for 62 UW community health, family and character-building agencies. United Way will conduct its campaign through Nov. 15.

Mrs. Jeffrey explained that the progress indicator emphasized the gap between the $6.3 million minimum goal for keeping existing agencies in operation and a needs goal of $7.5 million to attack the social and health problems confronting the community.

In addition to Mrs. Jeffrey, area residents directing the campaign effort include: Mark G. Feinknopf, Jr., 136 N. Roosevelt Ave., construction division chairman; Erwin "Gus" Gassman, 3614 Shamrock Dr., labor division chairman; Robert Lazarus, Jr., 2094 Park Hill Dr., corporate I division chairman; James B. McIntosh, 173 S. Parkview Dr., commercial A division chairman; William J. Mylett, 5461 York Ln., N., Public services division chairman; and Mrs. Peter S. Mykrantz, 254 Stanbery Ave., residential division chairman.

The traditional community kickoff event of previous years was eliminated to better utilize volunteer and staff time.

United Way has established a special information telephone line to answer inquiries about United Way, its agencies and the current campaign. Persons seeking information should call "United Way Answers", 461-8111.

'Tiny Tim 72' Theme For Society's Christmas Cards

Alpha Gamma Delta alumnae members have chosen a towheaded five year old boy to be their own "Tiny Tim for 1972" as they commence their annual sale of special Tiny Tim Christmas cards for the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children.

The stand-in for the fictional figure of Tiny Tim will be Brad Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shaw, 2950 Kingsrowe Cr. who has a handicap of cerebral palsy.

Brad, too, is perhaps a little luckier than Tiny Tim, for he receives help for his handicap at the Treatment Center of the Society which is located at 565 Children's Drive West. Here he is given physical and occupational therapy and is enrolled in pre-school classes.

In physical therapy, Brad is given walking and balancing exercises and is learning to go up and down stairs with his crutches. In occupational therapy he is being taught dressing and pre-writing skills.

Brad represents over 100 handicapped children at the center who receive therapy, education and recreation under the Easter Seal service program. Proceeds from the card sale will go toward continuing and expanding these services.

In addition to selecting Tiny Tim, the Alpha Gamma Delta alumnae sorority members have assisted in the mailing of 20,000 sample Christmas cards and order blanks to local residents and businessmen.

The cost of the cards is a donation to the Society for an amount the purchaser would normally spend for Christmas cards. Donations in previous years ranged from ten cents a card to over a dollar. An additional fifty cents is requested for handling and postage.

Plain white envelopes are included with each order. A small printed line inside the card reads, " 'Tiny Tim' cards say more than season's greetings. The proceeds help handicapped children through the Easter Seal Society of Franklin County."

Any amount of cards may be ordered for Christmas mailing from Alpha Gamma Delta members or from the office of the Society, 565 Children's Drive West. The mailing address is Post Office Box 7166 and the telephone number is 253-5523.

A sample card will be mailed upon request.

Mrs. David Sweet, 1281 Langston Dr. is the altrustic chairman for Alpha Gamma Delta and in charge of the project. Mrs. Richard L. Sherman, 127 Boyd Dr., Worthington is the president.

AN EAST COLUMBUS boy, Brad Shaw, 2950 Kingsrowe Ct., has been named as "Tiny Tim for 1972." He is shown displaying the Tiny Tim Christmas cards members of Alpha Gamma Delta alumnae will sell for crippled children.

BUSINESS IN ACTION

MEET YOUR PERSONAL SERVICE INDEPENDENT BUSINESS MAN

Counseling Key To Success
General Business Services Offers

COUNSELING has become a key word in many facets of business, industry and home life.

It is more than a key word with General Business Services, Inc., 3823 Dehner Dr. - it is the vital word that makes General Business Services, Inc. unique in its field.

The firm is a complete package firm in that it can provide the services necessary to operate a business. It adds the final touch that sets it apart from other such businesses by offering skilled business counseling from specialists who are well-versed in all areas of the business services.

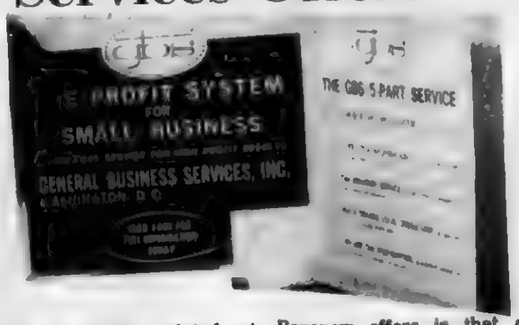
General Business Services has the answers to your business management problems - whether you own a bar, a florist shop, a corner grocery store or an auto parts shop, or are a small manufacturer, or a practicing physician or attorney.

The reason behind the failure of small businesses, 88 per cent of the time, is faulty bookkeeping. And according to the Congressional Record, no business which has subscribed to GBS for two years has ever failed. Whether your problems lie within record keeping, billing, tax forms or collections - or whether you simply want to know where you've been, where you stand, and where you're going, Richard Barenow can help-and at nominal fees. Why not give him a ring at his office, 235-6352 or drop him a line at 3823 Dehner Dr. Columbus, 43227?

What happens to the well-intentioned, hard-working small businessman who falls by the wayside?

In 88 per cent of the instances, the answer is simple bookkeeping.

The owner simply failed to establish the bookkeeping system that could have warned him of financial shoals in time for him to rechart his course.



Increasing public awareness of this fact and the time proven success of General Business Services has made a businessman out of an engineer.

He is Richard B. Barenow, area director of GBS who offers complete business services to the small businessman.

Franchised by GBS, a coast-to-coast firm, Barenow works with his clients upon the magic of seven words, "How can I really help this man?"

Several years ago the magazine "Nations Business" gave the answer why businesses go broke.

"They keep too many records, or not enough."

It was further pointed out that every new bookkeeper adds something else to the stack of paper work, but seldom eliminates any.

The GBS system offered by Barenow does away with paper shuffling and gives the client a simplified procedure, designed by experts and tailored to his exact needs that, to be kept up to date, requires only 15 or 20 minutes a day of his or a secretary's time.

From this limited effort on the customer's part, Barenow is able to provide him with the records necessary to a successful business-monthly profit and loss statements, a picture of where the business is going and warning signals when trouble lies ahead. Inventory imbalance, collection problems, faulty capitalization and even the advisability of expansion are mirrored by the GBS systems.

And GBS services do not stop with bookkeeping per se.

The reliability of this service is reflected in the statistic that less than one-tenth of one per cent of GBS clients are ever charged with penalties and GBS then foots the bill.

An optional service Barenow offers is that of collection.

Through the copyright collection system of International Creditors Alliance, the bugaboo of accounts outstanding is minimized.

At an average cost of $1 per account, collections run about 70 percent of slow-moving and delinquent accounts-and customers are guaranteed double their money back anytime collections are not at least four times the cost of the service.

(However, no few are getting rich on the guarantee. In the first seven years of operation, there were only two "Payoffs.")

The computerized billing system that is an optional part of the service offered by Barenow makes the GBS systems particularly attractive to the professional man.

Doctors, lawyers, and others with monthly billings are able to turn over this chore to GBS computers and the problem is instantly solved.

Barenow who once sold his engineering expertise to North American is now selling the business expertise of a national concern to Columbus area businessmen.

But he is selling more than that. The GBS systems is the blue print to profits.

Bike-A-Thon Will Raise Cancer Society Money

Look out for bicycle riders Saturday, October 20. They'll be all over the county riding for health, and also for the American Cancer Society.

THIS WILL be the Partridge Family bike-a-thon, co-sponsored in Columbus and Franklin County by the American Youth Hostels and WTVN-TV.

Charles Pace, who supervises the tour of the Scioto Valley each year is the chairman. He and Ashley Molk have laid out nine routes for cyclists, who will first sell sponsors at so much per mile covered and then go back to collect the money for the American Cancer Society.

Pace and Molk have taken into consideration all possible riders in these routes, some on flat and some on hilly terrain. It'll be a real challenge, this ride for health.

THE BIG RUN of the day will be over what the enthusiastic cyclist around here calls "Snoopy." This is a regular course, starting at Groveport Junior High School and taking in Commercial Point, Circleville, Canal Winchester, Pickerington before getting a back to Groveport about 10 hours later. On this day the "Snoopy" riders will take off in a group at 8 a.m.

Other routes will have riders take off at their pleasure between 9 a.m. and noon and travel shorter distances. From Brice there's a 16-mile route to Pickerington and Canal Winchester; from Gahanna a 21-miler to Jersey and back; from Westerville a 13-miler to Worthington; from Worthington the same route to Westerville, another of 16 miles to Powell, or 40 miles to Delaware.

In Upper Arlington an "in-town" route will cover 11 miles.

Of course, there's nothing to prevent a rider from covering the same course twice in the day just to pile up miles for greater benefit to the American Cancer Society and perhaps to improve his chances of winning some of the donated prizes.

WTVN-TV will provide a portable color TV to the person turning in the most money to the American Cancer Society for the day; the largest family which rides together will receive a free dinner; there will be family dinners for the rider on each route who brings in the most money; five riders on each route will win leg lights.

ENTRY forms are available at all bicycle shops in the county, and at most of the high schools. Further information is available through the American Cancer Society, 276-5134.

ACT II

by BETTY DRAGONETTE

Hey, there's a very funny play going on right now that is rated GP - not a four letter word in it and nothing obscene about it.

The laughter that comes is pure and simple - broad, pointed comedy. This is one you don't have to think about - no message to take home, just lots of fun.

The show? "Natalie Needs A Nightie", which is really a very misleading title, at Prairie Players, directed by, well, more like re-written and will-imposed-into by Oscar Smith.

There are Oscarisms all through the action.

THE STORY, in brief, is about a bachelor salesman, named Tommy Briggs, whose boss is coming to town expecting to meet his non-existant wife and baby. He is so upset he asks an old school chum - another bachelor - to wear a wig and dress up to pretend to be his wife. The friend doesn't show up when expected and he confides his plight to the custodian, who in turn tells the chambermaid. Now you throw in a female named Tommy Briggs living downstairs, a confused Natalie, coming to visit her girl friend, Tommy, and make the product being sold a soft drink called Vita Cola - which is palatable only with Gin and - thats all I'm going to say about the plot.

My first big laugh came when Don Bender, as the custodian, sings the Vita Cola jingle - but you will have to see and hear it to appreciate it. Then when Kit Redman walked on stage clad only in a hat and a bath towell - well that was almost too much. By the way, this is Kit's first play and he does a fine job as the stuffy boss who has a way with the diaper set.

Then to watch Elaine Smith, as the chambermaid, get progressively drunker - Wow! When the bachelor friend (Woody Davis) finally shows up and gets into his female garb - he is a knockout. And speaking of gorgeous females - Darlene Loomis, as Natalie, has a wispy beauty all her own - and the clothes to go with it. I was glad to see Oscar changed the ending so David Sting (Tommy Briggs) does end up with a girl in his arms - Barbara Heyder, the other Tommy Briggs.

Now, mention must be made of the two backstage voices - Lee Bender, who always knocks herself out on Prairie Palyers productions and Bert Heyder, a real potential. One is the girlfriend Gracie, the other is the cop - they didn't say which way it went.

However, this is one to see October 20-21 at 6463 W. Broad St. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. and Elizabith Noblitt will take reservations at 878-4612.

Center Slates Show

The Jewish Center, 1125 College Avenue, will present a show of paintings, drawings, and sculpture by Harold Goldberg.

A Meet-the-Artist reception is planned at the Jewish Center on Sunday, Oct. 22 from 2-4 p.m. The show will run for three weeks and part of the proceeds from sales will go to the Jewish Center.

Goldberg was born in New York City where he received his degree from the City College of New Youk; he studied at the Art Students' League as well. He has exhibited extensively on the East Coast, where his work is in many private collections as well as at the Museum of the City of New York and the Museum of the American Indian.

Although he has been a resident of Columbus for the past two years, he still serves on the Council and faculty of the New York Sculpture Center.

Since coming to Columbus, Goldberg has had a one-man show at the Buckeye Gallery and has participated in several group shows.

He is a regular exhibitor at the Red Stable and Country Mouse galleries and at Gallery 200, and is a member of the Worthington and Columbus Art Leagues and the Central Ohio Watercolor Society.

Public Library To Have Display

The Columbus Public Library is offering a special film program, display and booklist this month at Main Library, 96 S. Grant Ave.

"Only One Earth" is the title of the film program slated at 1 p.m. Oct. 24 in the library's auditorium. The color films to be shown include: "Golden Autumn," "Amazing New Zealand," "South Sea Island Life," and "Sahara Fantasia."

The Fine Arts Division has a special display of flags and bowls representative of several countries belonging to the U.N. The "Banners and Bowls" exhibit will continue through Oct. 25 in the second floor lobby.

An international booklist with both fiction and non-fiction titles by outstanding authors from various countries will be available beginning Oct. 23 in the Humanities Division.

Heart Fund Has Card Sale

The coming holiday season is a time for hope, and again this year holiday greeting cards offered by the Franklin County Heart Branch offer hope in the fight against heart disease.

The Individual Demand of each metered service shall be determined separately. The Individual Demand shall be the Measured Demand where the connected load on a metered service is in excess of twenty (20) kilowatts, where the connected load is twenty (20) kilowatts or less, the Individual Demand may be determined, at the Company's option, as the Measured Demand established by continuous measurement or by periodic test, or as the Estimated Demand derived from the connected load. Measured Demands, either by permanent installation of a demand meter or by periodic test, shall be determined in accordance with the Company's standard practices and, except in unusual cases, shall be the maximum 30 minute integrated kilowatt demand recording of an integrating demand meter, or the highest registration of a thermal type demand meter, during the billing period. In instances of highly fluctuating loads, or demands of short duration, the Measured Demand may be determined by appropriate metering equipment designed to measure fully the impact of such demands. Where Measured Demands are determined by periodic test a Measured Demand so determined shall continue in effect until superseded by a subsequent test.

Estimated Demands shall be determined from the connected load on each individual metered service, as follows: First-5,000 watts each 90 percent, Next-5,000 watts each 80 percent, Over-10,000 watts each 70 percent.

The Maximum Capacity in any month shall not be less than the minimum billing demand, if any, specified in the service contract.

MINIMUM CHARGE

The Minimum Monthly Charge shall be $1.95 per kilowatt per month applied to a Maximum Capacity equivalent to 50 percent of the greater of (a) the highest Maximum Capacity previously established during the term of the service contract or (b) the capacity requirements of the consumer as specified in the service contract.

SERVICE AND CONTRACT PROVISIONS

Each separate point of delivery of service by one or more Metered Services shall be considered a Contract Location and shall be metered and billed under a separate service contract.

Only one Metered Service of each type, as to voltage and phase, will be supplied to a consumer under this Schedule at one Contract Location. Where two or more services are supplied to a consumer at one Contract Location said services, within the limitations above stated, may be combined in one service contract under this Schedule, or may be served under separate contracts under this or other applicable Schedules, at the consumer's option.

This Schedule is generally applicable to consumers with Maximum Capacity requirements of less than 20 kilowatts, although larger consumers may, from time to time, be served under its provisions. However, when a consumer's Maximum Capacity exceeds 50 kilowatts or the total energy utilization exceeds 20,000 kilowatt-hours in any month, the consumer shall be transferred to Schedule G-2, General Service-Medium--Secondary, such transfer to continue in effect for a minimum period of twelve (12) months.

SECTION 2: That, in the event the term of any contract for standard secondary electric service hereafter made with consumers in the Municipality pursuant to the provisions of this Ordinance shall extend beyond the termination date of this Ordinance, the rates, including the Minimum Monthly Charge, chargeable thereunder shall be the rates in effect within the Municipality at the time such charge is made.

SECTION 3: That the Rules and Regulations contained in the Company's P.U.C.O. No. 1, on file with The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (as the same may from time to time be amended or supplemented) as are not in conflict with the express provisions of this Ordinance are applicable to all service rendered under and pursuant to this Ordinance. Nothing contained within this Ordinance shall prevent any consumer from taking advantage, within the effective period of this Ordinance, of any applicable rule, regulation, supplement or option rate which the Company may make available in its P.U.C.O. No. 1 on file with The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio for the class of service involved.

SECTION 4: That this Ordinance and the rates contained in Section 1 of this Ordinance shall be and remain in force as to bills for electric service furnished on and after December 1, 1972, and ending on November 30, 1976, subject to prior termination as hereinafter provided.

SECTION 5: That the Municipality by legislative action, or the Company, shall have the right to terminate as of November 30, of any year, commencing in 1974 and ending in 1976, this Ordinance and the rate schedules contained in Section 1 of this Ordinance upon written notice filed with the other party hereto at least thirty (30) days prior to such termination date.

SECTION 6: The terms and provisions of this Ordinance are joint and several, and the invalidity of any part shall not affect the validity of the remainder.

SECTION 7: That this Ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law, and its written acceptance by Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company filed in the office of the Clerk of the Municipality.

Passed by the Council of the Village of New Rome this 10th day of October, 1972.

Vol VX No. 8 Total 835 | Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday October 25, 1972 | 15 Cents

IT'S NOT A PLACE FOR weak hearts or nervous dispositions. But if you're looking for a good scare you might try the Franklin County Jaycees' Haunted House at 2659 Bethel Rd. For just $1 for adults and 50 cents for children the Jaycees guarantee a few eerie surprises such as the werewolf, a few ghosts and for you music lovers, the Phantom of the Opera. (Photo by Kathy Devaney).

Ghosts, Goblins and Ghouls Haunt Halloween House

By MAUREEN DECKER

A spooky experience is in store for anyone who visits the Jaycees' Haunted Halloween House this year.

The truly terrifying ordeal begins in a pitch black maze where three florescent lines on the floor lead you to the Phantom of the Opera, just the beginning of the horrifying creatures which await visitors in every room of the house.

Inside the house eerie lights and spooky music lead those brave enough to continue to the laboratory and the mad scientist who haunts it.

A graveyard full of tombstones which serve as a list of honorable mention for those who have donated to the giant fun house contains an open grave just waiting for an occupant.

Ghost flit about and monsters of various shapes and forms lurk in the shadows and jump out to frighten the unwary.

A snake and reptile exhibit and a cage of giant rats are other features of the haunted house.

Although the house was completely vacant just three weeks ago, Jaycees from all six chapters of the Columbus area have improved it structurally as well as decorating it and setting up the exhibits.

According to one of the Jaycees, the haunted house may really be haunted. It was investigated and a television special was done on it four years ago.

Admission to the house is $1 for adults, 50 cents for children.

Located at 2659 Bethel Rd. (Reed and Bethel,) it is open nightly from 7-10 and from 1-10 p.m. on weekends.

Proceeds from the house will go to various community service projects of the Jaycees.

Income Tax Benefits Stressed By Board

THOMAS B. CONNERY
Special Staff Writer

AN INFORMATION SHEET stating the benefits the Columbus Public Schools receive from the state income tax was presented to the school board at its regular meeting Oct. 18.

The information was compiled by the administration and presented by board member Paul Langdon. Langdon said that it is necessary "to educate the public on the importance of the state income tax to the Columbus schools."

According to the administration figures, money received from the state income tax has saved the Columbus schools from financial disaster. The annualized increase from the income tax during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1972 was nearly $12 million.

THIS MEANS that 6.5 additional mills of taxes would be required to raise the same amount of money. According to the administration the state income tax not only reduces the need for additional real estate taxes, but also provides for a 10 per cent cut back of real estate taxes in 1972.

Columbus schools have been operating at a reduced level. The income tax money has enabled the schools to restore a limited number of personnel and make salary increases within the wage-price guidelines.

The information sheet stated that school levies that were defeated earlier would have raised six million more dollars annually than the income tax provides, so the schools face problems even with an income tax.

Although the income tax money permits the schools to operate at a reduced level, it provides no money to build new schools.

IN A STATEMENT to the board Donald L. Pierce, president of the Columbus Education Association, said "not only would the loss of $12 million a year be disastrous for the Columbus Public Schools, but at least 80 per cent of all tax payers would wind up paying higher taxes through any other method of raising revenues."

Pierce informed the board that the Association's policy-making body had voted to endorse passage of the bond issue, and to oppose attempts to repeal the state income tax.

Quoting Patrick Henry and Thomas Jefferson, Mrs. Glen Payne of 661 Elizabeth Ave. also addressed the board. Mrs. Payne harshly criticized the administration and two teachers at Eastmoor Junior High School.

MRS. PAYNE claimed that a book assigned to her son in an honors English class was "anti-God, anti-Christ, anti-moral, and anti-everything I've been taught to believe in."

She said the book "Slaughterhouse Five" by Kurt Vonnegut, is "the filthiest thing I've ever read."

Mrs. Payne also criticized an Eastmoor social studies teacher for discussing in class such topics as mercy killing, abortion, gun legislation, and Benjamin Franklin's mistress.

She also said that the same teacher taught about creation through evolution, rather than creation as stated in the Bible. She said that she should have equal time to give the Bible's version of the creation.

IN ADDITION, Mrs. Payne claimed to have a tape recording of a conference in which Eastmoor's Assist. Principal James Cameron called Mrs. Payne and her sons "pigs."

Board member Paul Langdon, chairman of the curriculum committee, expressed displeasure over Mrs. Payne not coming to him for a solution.

"I sympathize with you and I'm wide open for listening to these kinds of complaints, but we won't accomplish anything at this type of meeting."

SUPT. JOHN ELLIS said that "this type of complaint is handled best when we can sit down and work together in a discussion session, rather than addressing each other over microphones."

Ellis said that both sides of the story should be heard. Eastmoor officials were not available for comment.

Bond Rally At Walnut Ridge

A Bond Rally is scheduled at Walnut Ridge High School tomorrow, Oct. 26, at 7:30 p.m.

The Highland Lassies and Walnut Ridge Stage Band will be entertaining.

There will also be a panel of participants who will have information concerning the bond issue.

Walnut Ridge Senior Cited As Top English Student

Miss Phyllis E. Pound, a senior at Walnut Ridge High School has been cited as one of the outstanding high school students in English in the country.

MISS POUND, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan G. Pound of 5731 Flintlock Ln. was selected last fall to represent her school in the competition.

After nomination, each student was required to submit samples of their best writing, including an autobiographical sketch, and they had to write a one-hour impromtu essay.

The materials were evaluated by state judging teams of college and high school English teachers.

Miss Pound was presented with a certificate of recognition and the Walnut Ridge High School English Department was honored with a certificate of merit.

Key Precinct Will Be Reported

Precinct M, Ward five, whose voters cast their ballots at Miller Avenue Church has been chosen as a "key precinct" by the American Broadcasting Company.

A member of the League of Women Voters, (LWV) Mrs. Jeffery Spencer, 629 Eastmoor Blvd., will report voting returns from this "key precinct" to ABC election center on election night, Nov. 7.

Here's What Bond Issue Will Do

School Building Improvements Outlined

(This is the second of a two-part series explaining the Columbus school bond issue as outlined by the Citizens Committee FOR Progress, Tom Palmer, Chairman.)

Q. What's in this bond issue for the Black community?

A. A fair share.

- Old outmoded schools in the Black community such as Douglas and Franklin Schools will be entirely replaced with new buildings on enhanced sites.

- All elementary schools in the Black community will be equipped with library-learning centers as will all elementary schools in other parts of the city.

- The vocational training program will increase racial balance by attracting students from all over the city to the various career centers.

- Four Developmental Learning Centers for innovative programs will be open to students from throughout the city.

- New schools will be located and boundaries drawn so as to improve racial balance where possible.

The Columbus public schools have a commitment to improve racial balance where it exists and not foster renegregation in the process of constructing new buildings.

Q. Why should outer-city areas provide more support for inner city schools?

A. Many of the inner-city schools are old, built prior to 1900. Some of them are 75 years old or more. These buildings are outmoded and expensive to maintain. It would be economically unwise to try to improve them. They must be replaced by modern buildings. While all of them are in the inner-city, they are not all Black. Some have mixed populations. Children throughout the city are entitled to equal facilities. The old, inefficient and unsafe schools must be replaced.

Q. Why should inner-city residents support a bond issue? The outer-city schools have all the new schools and better equipment.

A. Although many of the outer-city schools are comparatively new, they were built when new housing was built. The need for additional space is just as serious in the developing areas of the city as is the need for new, modern, more efficient schools is in the inner-city. Passage of the bond issue will benefit every child, in every school, every day.

Q. Test scores in Columbus Public Schools apparently are bad. Why should we continue to support an agency that is not doing its job?

A. Test scores in the Columbus schools are not bad when compared to national averages of school systems our size. However, pupil performance and test scores can and must be improved. The major purpose of the bond issue is to provide facilities for programs that will result in improved instruction for each child.

"What specific improvements will be made with the money from the 3.3 mill bond issue?" could well be the most important question the committee will have to answer to satisfy the voters.

THE COLUMBUS JUNIOR THEATRE of the Arts' Discovery Series will launch it's 1972-73 season on Saturday with the production of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." Helping to get the season off to a big start are Mrs. Gabriel Palkuti, Carla Erika and Mrs. James Cushman. Mrs. Palkuti is ticket chairman and Mrs. Cushman is circuit chairman.

Junior Theatre Sets Production Schedule

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" by the Gingerbread Players and Jack of New York launches the 1972-73 Columbus Junior Theatre of the Arts' Discovery Series on Saturday, Oct. 28.

Elsa Rael wrote his special play version of "Snow White", the songs and dwarfs names are different than the movie version.

The interpretation of the familiar story has a new twist, presenting the seven friendly dwarfs as representatives of various cultures and nationalities and the wicked queen as one "who was walked in beauty but spoiled it all by being mean."

Dec. 9, "Noah and the Whale, Jonah and the Ark", will be staged by the Performing Arts Repertory Theatre of New York. Using the story-theatre technique, these playlets are developed from among the best known Biblical tales. They advocate no religious point of view, but are done purely for fun and entertainment.

GAYLORD CARTER, known to Columbus lovers of the organ, has put together a show for the youngsters. Using the Keystone Cops and other silent movies, he demonstrates how the organ was used to bring excitement to the silent movie era. He brings this show to Columbus on Jan. 13.

The theme of ecology which is with us so much now, is used in the March 3 production of "The Fantastic Fish Rebellion" by Maximillion Productions of New York, who brought us the enchanting "Absolutely Time" last year.

The children will find out what happens when a Clown Fish, a Sword Fish, a Butterfly Fish and a Puffer Fish decide to fight the influx of litter into their lake.

CLOSING THE SEASON on April 7 will be the classic "Adventures of Tom Sawyer" presented by the National Theatre Company of New York. Tom and his excapades will be enhanced by an imaginative revolving set, colorful costumes and a 10 piece recorded orchestra.

Discovery Series will once again be held at the Ohio Theatre. All Productions will be at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Saturdays with the exception of the Dec. 9 production when the afternoon performance will be at 12:30 p.m..

The series is geared for children between the ages of five and 12, with all productions lasting approximately one hour. Children under eight must be accompanied by an adult.

ALL PRODUCTIONS are offered for the season price of $8 for reserved, $5 for preferred and $3.50 for unreserved seats. Checks payable to Discovery Series should be sent to 51 South Sylvan Avenue, 43204.

Individual tickets will not be sold at the door for "Snow White". Group tickets of 15 or more may be purchased with seats being reserved for the group. Ticket information may be obtained by calling [illegible]

Alcoholism Resource Materials Provided

Alcoholism resource materials for use by teachers in the Columbus and Franklin County school systems are being provided as part of a new educational program of the Columbus Area Council on Alcoholism (CACOA).

Cooperation between the Columbus and Franklin County school boards and CACOA resulted in the review and selection of the first three books to be included in the alcoholism education resource kits. The books are Teaching About Alcohol, Manual on Alcoholism and Handbook on Alcoholism.

Copies of these books will be placed in the professional libraries of nearly 100 junior and senior high schools in the Columbus-Franklin County area.

The alcoholism education activities of the CACOA are in response to the rising concern about alcoholism as a major health problem. At a recent Teenage Institute on Alcohol and Drugs, it was pointed out that despite public opinion, alcohol, not marijuana or any other illegal drug, is most abused by Americans and that a comprehensive education program is most important in helping to solve this problem.

All For Cancer Society

Pedalers Miles Will Add Togetherness

There will be pedalers all over Franklin County Saturday.

They'll be riding in the American Youth-Hostel–Partridge Family–WTVN-TV rides to benefit the American Cancer Society.

THE BIGGEST family which rides together will receive a free dinner for his family from Ponderosa Steak House; the person who brings in the most money will receive a portable color TV from WTVN-TV; the rider on each of eight routes who raises the most money for American Cancer Society can take his immediate family to Ponderosa for a free dinner.

The Campus Bike Shop, 11th and 4th, will give away 50 "ankle lights" to others in the routes who show the best returns.

THE ROUTES to be covered are those which the American Youth Hostels, under leadership of Charles Pace and Ashley Molk, have found to be the safest and best. They may not be convenient to everyone for starts, but they are the safest for the pedalers – and that is an important detail.

And they also provide some room for imagination, thusly:

THE ROUTE starting in Westerville and going to Worthington is 12-miles round trip. But supposing somebody in Westerville wants more of a ride than that. This can be solved in two ways – either ride the same route two or three times, or use another of the routes which has its starting point in Worthington, such as 16-miles to Powell, or 40 miles to Delaware. Tack on the original 12 from Westerville to Worthington (these are all round-trip figures) and you've got something different.

"Snoopy" is the 100-mile course starting at Groveport Junior High School and the gang will leave there at 8 a.m., under leadership. It is hoped it stays together for the 10-hour trip, through Commercial Point, Circleville, Canal Winchester, Pickerington, and back to Groveport.

If you'd see a map of the "Snoopy" course, you'd readily understand why it's called "Snoopy." To be blunt, it looks like "Snoopy." (It's also advertised as being "downhill" all the way and if you find you go up some hills, maybe you rode the wrong direction!)

Other rides start from Brice (16 miles) Gahanna (21 miles) Upper Arlington (11 miles) and the three out of Worthington (12, 16, or 40 miles).

JOIN THE fun ride for health.

My Three Angels

I'M ALMOST to the point of tears - and all because "My Three Angels" may have come to the conclusion that I am nasty.

Far be it for me to disillusion them on this matter but I'm getting affidavits from close friends who owe me favors to prove to them that I'm really kind-hearted.

It all started last week when I caught them bouncing around during a coffee break (milk, tea and yogurt since none of them touch the Colombian juice) jabbing at each other with all the appearance of Judo wrestlers.

THAT, in case you are still apart from the message, means that they are in Kung Fu classes and are aiming for black belt status.

I reminded them that I already have my black belt and it is two inches wide and has a nifty buckle on the end that is guaranteed to leave no marks.

As I recovered my wits (well at least half of them) after picking myself out of the wastebasket it dawned on me that they were serious.

"MY THREE ANGELS" are really Lynn Williams, Kathy Devaney and Maureen Decker. They are editors, respectively, of the Eastern, Hilltop and Worthington Spectators.

They are gems, believe me, and each has contributed to my well-being in more ways than one.

ONE GUARANTEE of going on a diet is being called "Fatty" three times a day. That's enough for anyone to get with the slim and trim bit.

Their way is to pound it off me inch by inch with a few choice chops here and there plus plenty of running around the desks as an escape mechanism.

THE IDEA has dawned on me that they would soon be ideal as trouble shooters in case the barbs from unhappy readers got a bit too physical for me to handle.

Actually, I almost have them conned into the idea that I need protection and like Dean Martin did it they could become 'Ambushers' or anything else cute they might dream up.

THE CODE word is "Chou" (I think it sounds like chow.) After lengthy discussion with them on the merits of the situation I cried 'wolf' and it came out chow.

They came running, alright, and it cost me three dinners.

A WORD to the wise should be sufficient in this political year and I now have armor that is beautiful to behold.

Kathy Devaney

All Spooked Up

I went to the Franklin County Jaycees Haunted House on Bethel Rd. Friday night.

There were young children scared to death, hanging on to their parents for their life.

One little boy was holding on to his father and the wall trying to stay as far away as possible from the bodies that jumped out at him.

One little girl had her arms wrapped around her father's neck with her head hidden so she didn't see anything.

Them some teenagers came through.

They poked the Jaycee live bodies playing dead bodies.

They slugged a hanging spider.

They traded punches with a Jaycee monster.

Then, after I left, one of the Jaycees came out of his hiding place to say a teenager had punched him in the face after he told the kid to stop hitting the spider.

One ghoul's head disappeared.

Parents should warn their children that ghosts and goblins protect themselves, too. And it could spoil the fine effort the Jaycees are contributing to the community.

Homesick Blues

My sister was home from college this weekend and as this is her first year away from home she was telling us how homesick she and some of the other freshmen had been.

I DON'T know about you but I can certainly sympathize. I used to get such bad attacks of homesickness I thought it was terminal. I always seemed to suffer worse before I ever left home.

I remember the first time I was to go away to summer camp for five weeks, I couldn't eat for weeks. I kept wandering around in a daze asking myself why I ever thought camp was such a great idea in the first place.

THE NIGHT before I left I lay awake with my stomach tied in so many knots I couldn't swallow. After all there were a lot of things to worry about, things like would they make you eat everything on your plate at meal time, would there be snakes in the lake and would you have to take a shower with everyone else?

I TRIED being rational about the whole thing. I would lay there carrying on a very unreassuring conversation with myself saying things like: "I can always fake an appendicitis attack just before it's to to go;" or "There is absolutely no way that in five short weeks my parents will forget which camp they decided to send me to."

Thinking back I wonder how I ever made it through these "night befores." But somehow I did and usually in the light of day things would look a lot better (with the exception of my red, swollen eyes).

THE FIRST few nights at camp I had to sleep with my head under the pillow to muffle the sobs. It wasn't until I came up for air one night and discovered seven other headless bodies that I was finally cured.

This all seems pretty funny now but back then it was anything but funny, at least until I'd been there a few days. Then I found myself having just as much fun as my parents had said I would as they pried me from the backseat with a crowbar. By the end of the five weeks I was writing home pleading to stay second term.

EVEN TODAY I find myself suffering mild trauma at the thought of going too far from home. But I don't let it worry me. Homesickness runs in our family. I have an aunt who used to get textbook cases.

I remember my grandmother telling us about the summer they took my aunt to camp and by the time they got back home my aunt was calling to be rescued. When they said no she promptly wrote to everyone she knew in town, pleading for some one to come and get her. And it worked. The man next door couldn't take the tear stained letters so he drove up and got her.

EVERYONE thought this was a funny story but I took it as a valuable lesson. I never went to camp without first packing the entire telephone book--just in case.

Motorist Beware: Halloween's Here

More "tricks" than "treats" may be in store for drivers this Halloween as small beggars make their rounds, cautioned State Highway Safety Director Pete O'Grady this week.

"Excited children dressed in costumes may forget to watch out for cars," he said. "Trick-or-treaters can come out of the shadows anywhere, so drivers should be especially cautious in residential areas."

Halloween falls on Tuesday this year and Beggars' Night will be celebrated Monday evening, Oct. 30, in most areas. Some communities, however, mindful of the dangers, will schedule "Beggars' Night" activities for Sunday afternoon. Others have banned them altogether.

Director O'Grady suggests parents help their children to be more visible to motorists by putting reflectorized tape on their costumes and having them carry flashlights. He reminded parents to make sure their children can see out of their face masks so they don't trip into the path of a car.

O'Grady reminded adult masqueraders that drinking and driving frequently produce a permanent witching hour. "On Halloween, please don't exercise caution by alcohol consumption," he concluded.

THANK HEAVEN...for little girls...like Sheri Brabham...who have the courage of a lion.

Happiness Is . . .

SHERI BRABHAM likes hamburgers...what child of eight doesn't?

But with Sheri, it's a little different...that hamburger is a reward...one she gets after she's completed her trip every three months to the Arthritis Clinic at Children's Hospital for examination, evaluation and therapy.

Sheri is "Little Miss Arthritis," selected to help the Central Ohio Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation debunk the commonly-held belief that arthritis is solely a disease of the aged.

Two hundred fifty thousand children in the United States, like Sheri, are afflicted with Juvenile Rheumatoid Arthritis, often the most serious and painful form of the disease.

Sheri's selection as "Little Miss Arthritis," launches the 21st year of service of the Central Ohio Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

The chapter includes voluntary United Way units in Franklin, Fairfield and Licking Counties.

CHAPTER service programs include lending closets of self-help devices (such as the wheel chair Sheri uses), the distribution of informative literature about arthritis, and patient transportation to clinics for treatment and therapy.

"Little Miss Arthritis" is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brabham, 1123 Oak Blvd., and has been under treatment for Juvenile Rheumatoid Arthritis since she was 18 months old, and now has had 18 operations because of her disease...wrists, fingers, neck, knees and cataract surgery on both eyes.

HER PRESENT physician, Jack C. Bass, M.D. director of the Arthritis Clinic at Children's Hospital and chairman of the Central Ohio Chapter's Medical Advisory Committee, said: "Although greatly incapacitated, Sheri could have been even more dependent and disabled if she had not had constant medical attention since her true diagnosis."

No Frigate Like A Book

By THOMAS B. CONNERY

When I heard Mrs. Glenn Payne at a Columbus School Board meeting call Kurt Vonnegut's "Slaughterhouse Five" the dirtiest thing she had every read, I had to laugh to myself.

I've read "Slaughterhouse Five" and I also was released from the service six months ago. And, believe me, the books some sailors read would make the book in question look like a Dr. Seuss children's book.

JOKING aside, Mrs. Payne also claimed that "Slaughterhouse Five" is "anti-everything." I did not get that impression from reading it. Two points should be made.

First of all, it doesn't make any difference whether I approve of "Slaughterhouse Five" or not. My children aren't reading it, Mrs. Payne's children are.

WE ARE talking about public schools. Therefore, Mrs. Payne and other members of the community as citizens and tax payers have a right to take action through the appropriate channels to change what they don't like about their school. This is called community control.

The second point has nothing to do with the moral appropriateness of "Slaughterhouse Five" or other books like it. I wonder just how effective this book is in teaching junior high students about language arts, plot and character development, imagery, usage, etc.

FURTHERMORE, "Slaughterhouse Five" is not an easy book to understand. A scholar would probably call it surrealistic. Its meaning is difficult to grasp and therefore easily misunderstood.

I do not have a degree in English literature nor American literature, but I can name many delightful books which would seem more appropriate for a junior high English class. Good books, stimulating books, relevant books: If I can do it, so can an English teacher.

Hearing, Speech Probems Increasing In County

Franklin County health officials estimate that 85,525 Franklin County citizens have hearing and speech disabilities with this number increasing by more than 2,000 each year.

BECAUSE of increasing speech and hearing problems, the Hearing and Speech Center, a United Way agency located at 1515 Indianola Ave., has begun a public awareness campaign.

"Most people who need treatment don't know they have a hearing loss," explains Bruce Wilson, Center therapist. "And many times, they say their children will grow out of any problems."

According to Wilson, the Hearing and Speech Center has decided if the public won't come to them for help, the Center will go to the public. Recently, the Center borrowed a sound-treated bus from the Franklin County Board of Health and drove it to shopping centers throughout Central Ohio inviting area residents inside for free hearing tests.

"OTHER than disease, the biggest cause of hearing loss is noise pollution," Wilson explains. "Therefore the Center has started another new program in which a bus and recording equipment are taken to industries that request noise level readings inside company plants."

INCREASED services for Franklin County residents is contingent upon the success of the current United Way drive.

Navy Spans The Oceans

The United States Navy is one year older than the United States and celebrated its 197th birthday October 13.

1976 will be the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

As a part of The Spectator's coverage of this event from time to time we will present historical facts concerning Our Nation.

Through the efforts of the local area United States Navy Recruiting Service we are presenting the Navy story in three parts.

Part Three

IN THE PACIFIC, vast distances gave the war a different complexion. Japanese carriers and surface ships led their advance into the South. In May 1942, at the Battle of the Coral Sea, Japanese naval expansion was checked and in the following month a superior enemy fleet was decisively beaten at the Battle of Battle of Midway.

Japan was now on the defensive. The Navy-carried American marines and soldiers through all of the amphibious campaigns of the Pacific from Guadalcanal to Okinawa. With the Japanese surrender onboard USS Missouri in Tokyo Harbor, Sptember 2, 1945, victory was achieved. However, events soon would show that it was an uneasy peace.

Suddenly war errupted in Korea. Fortunately the United States had control of the seas from the outset. As bitter fighting raged on the Pusan perimeter, a bold offensive began with the amphibious assault at Inchon.

The communist armies that had been on the verge of winning at Pusan collapsed. In the ensuing ebb and flow of the war, the Navy continued its role of moving supplies, providing naval gunfire and carrier air support.

USS NAUTILUS heralded the era of nuclear power in 1955. In 1960, Triton completed a submerged cruise around the world. In 1960, the Navy commissioned USS George Washington, the first of 41 Polaris missile submarines. Nuclear propulsion plays an increasing role in the surface Navy-the aircraft carrier Enterprise, cruiser Long Beach, and the missle frigates Bainbridge and Truston.

In 1964, the Seventh Fleet moved into South Vietnamese waters to bolster the faltering government there.

In March 1965, Marines of the Seventh Fleet's Amphibious Force landed at Danang. Carrier aircraft supported the troops ashore in South Vietnam and struck enemy targets in North Vietnam. Cruiser and destroyer gunfire engaged targets of opportunity and provided close fire support.

The Coastal Surveillance Force, "Operation Market Time,," used a variety of craft and patrol aircraft to maintain a day and night watch of the South Vietnamese coastline.

CONTROL OFthe sea enabled the Navy to project power into the Mekong Delta, and waterways of South Vietnam. "Operation Game Warden" patrols interdicted the movement of the enemy supplies and troops along major rivers and canals. Rivers Patrol Boats and "Seawolf" helicopters supported commando and Vietnamese military operations and inspected native craft on the waterways.

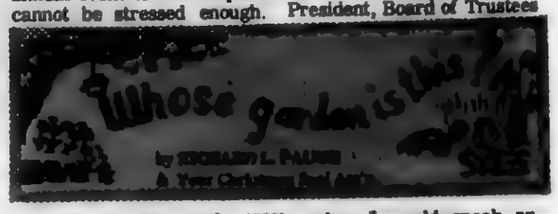
Pro-Am VII Went Way Over The Top

To the Editor:

On behalf of the entire staff of Children's Hospital and the thousands of young patients we serve each year, we want to take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation to you for the part you played in the success of Pro-Am VII.



The recent announcement that this year's event was the most successful ever, netting a record sum of money, came as no surprise. This is quite a testimonial to all of you who helped with it, considering the great success of last year's Pro-Am.

The importance of this annual event to the Hospital cannot be stressed enough. Since it was established in 1966, we have received more than a quarter of a million dollars from the Pro-Ams. You can be assured that, as in the past, the funds we receive from this year's tournament will be put to the best possible use in helping us achieve our objective of providing the best possible health services to all youngsters.

Again, thank you for your assistance in making Pro-Am VII the great success that it was.

Sincerely,
John R. Jefferies

Sherwood L. Fawcett, Ph.D.
President, Board of Trustees

BACK IN THE early 1960's, when I would sneak an occasional environmental blast into my hunting and fishing columns, most folks wondered what it was all about. I made such heady statements as "The big clean-up will be easy if we all are sincere in our efforts."

September 15 I was unhappy to learn that my prediction had been proven true. Inversely, the battle will be long and hard because some corporations and people in high places have chosen to fight the big clean-up with all their resources. The occasion was a cocktail party and luncheon at the Sheraton-Columbus for local officials and the press, to show how far we had come and how much General Motors had done "for us."

Charts and color slides were wheeled out to prove that auto emissions in Franklin County had dropped 22 per cent since 1968 - due wholly to the kind hearts and generous actions of General Motors.

IN SORTING the fact from the fiction, dear and gentle folks, please remember that nothing has been done by ANY of the American car makers to clean the air except under great duress. In other words, they have resisted every inch of the way back to their drawing boards, kicking and struggling like galled tigers.

When I asked them how they knew the air in Franklin County "wuz" 22 per cent better in four years, Mr. Krug, the PR man on stage answered glibly, "We found out from R.L. Polk Company (the people who print city directories) how many cars there are in the area." This cleared up a lot of mystery for me.

I knew there is, at this late date, only one air sampling station for the million people in Central Ohio and read-outs from that are not generally known. (Cleveland has 31 and Dayton has 11.)

ANYONE who has taken figures to play with as statistics can make them say just about anything. Knowing the number of cars in the county and figuring that pollution figures for the whole nation have dropped might give us a wild figure like 22 per cent, but it certainly would be out of touch with reality and everything else except Madison Avenue-type advertising.

We are, of course, breathing what they are playing with. The ability of our lungs to withstand pollution is a finite thing. It does not vary. Deaths from emphysema and lung cancer climb at alarming rates. Surviving family members, deep in debt for years to come, can vouch for that.

HERE IS the other side of the auto emission story:

The internal combustion engine is basically the same as it was 100 years ago, despite the fact that modern technology has us on the moon. When forced to improve their engines by government threats, the first order of business for auto makers is to hit back by warning the public how much "these environmentalists are going to cost us." Auto makers have steadfastly refused to search for new fuels and systems and when new systems are brought to them, they refuse to be innovative. (Two engines invented in the U.S.A. were finally taken to Japan where they are working well.)

Stock trades between auto makers and petroleum companies have made the use of other fuels financially impossible.

In closing out this subject I must suggest that, if auto makers do not find a cleaner fuel and form of locomotion, two alternatives remain. Either mass transportation or an acceleration in this Nation's mortality rates.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: At least twice a year have your car's anti-pollution devices unclogged and your motor carefully tuned by experienced mechanics.

Speaking of Beauty

MORALE MIRACLE OF THE RIGHT HAIRCUT.

We've said a lot in past about the importance of the right haircut to base any hairstyle or even the flow-free-no-style-at-all; so I guess this little reminder will sound a bit like playing an old record. But the subject is so important that we have to be sure that Miss and Mrs. America keep it right up there in the front of their minds when they make hairdo decisions. If you have to make a choice, I'd say that it's better to pay a lot of money for a marvelous haircut, and set your hair yourself. I don't know why we don't charge the $15 or $20 they get many places for a fine style-cutting. Even though our prices are so modest our artists do the same fine work of those other salons. Oh, well! Just think of us as your beauty bargain center.

A sundial print on pure silk with wool rib knit at neck, cuffs and midriff, over flare wool knit slacks. STARSTRUCK, two piece dolman sleeved chiffon wool pants set.

For day or night "Skyline" knits in wool and rayon...the short version with jewel neckline and long sleeves. The long gown bared with halter neckline.

For lovers of modern art, a Cubism print gown in easy-care Trevira for all seasons. (Goldworm fashions available at Beatrice West, Inc.)

'IN' fashion

with Tess Stern

FASHION HAS always been considered an art...but this year, designer Robert Goldworm has actually brought art to fashion.

THE GOLDWORM COLLECTION for Fall and Winter, that I previewed in New York City during the Press Fashion Shows, featured knit clothes that are in reality interpretations of famous paintings by Klee, Matisse, Miro, Dufy and Seurat..Mexican bark paintings and antique Egyptian art passed down through the ages via scrolls...all beautifully duplicated in knits, printed on fabric by specialists in Como, Italy...or knitted-in.

THE RESULTS are fantastic...suits, pants suits, dresses and gowns in such a magnificent variety, a woman could choose an entire Goldworm wardrobe, for daytime or evening.

THIS SEASON the designer has added imaginative go-togethers...cardigan sweater sets, ribbed or embroidered...teamed with skirts or slacks...the hip long cardigan the newsiest. Dresses either skim the figure or flare with knitted-in knife pleats...in solid colors as well as prints and argyle plaids...many feature dolman sleeves.

GOLDWORM SUITS are outstanding too. Picture a velvet collared red riding jacket over a black semi-pleated skirt...or a tuxedo jacket with floor length skirt for evening.

FOR FORMAL occasions, there's nothing more provocative than Goldworm's knit gowns that range from demure and jacketed to the sexiest plunge.

WITH ALL this in his favor...it's not surprising that creative designer Bob Goldworm is a former Coty Award Winner!

Eye On Eastmoor

by Lora Munsell

The first six week grading period has ended and students are preparing for the long year ahead. A few events have already occured but the main activities are being prepared for the following weeks.

On Oct. 9 Eastmoor's Chroale with their director, Mr. John Goldsmith, sang for the after dinner entertainment at the annual state PTA convention, held at the Neil House.

The vocal music department is presently planning a joint concert with MidPark High School from Berea, a suburb of Cleveland. It will be held in Eastmoor's auditorium on Nov. 4 at 7:30 p.m. Price of admission is $1.

Mr. Robert Birkhimer, Eastmoor's new instrumental department director, expressed no plans at the present. He did, however, offer congratulations to several students who have already acheived individual recognition. Karen Fitch flute, Sanford Starr (violin) and Gene Adams (violin) were selected as members of the Columbus Youth Symphony. John Dulmage, Al Goelz, Brain Gordon and Tom Lear were chosen from musicians throughout the county to participate in the Youth Wind Ensemble at Capital University.

Another important organization at Eastmoor is the Theatre Arts Department, consisting of about 70 members. This year the department is planning to present two plays and one musical. The first production will be Thorton Wilder's "Our Town", presented on Nov. 17 and 18. The play will begin at 8 p.m.

Two seniors, Andrea Andrioff and Ramona Creamer and junior Phyllis Van Arsdale will be competing in the Miss Teenage Columbus Pageant on Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

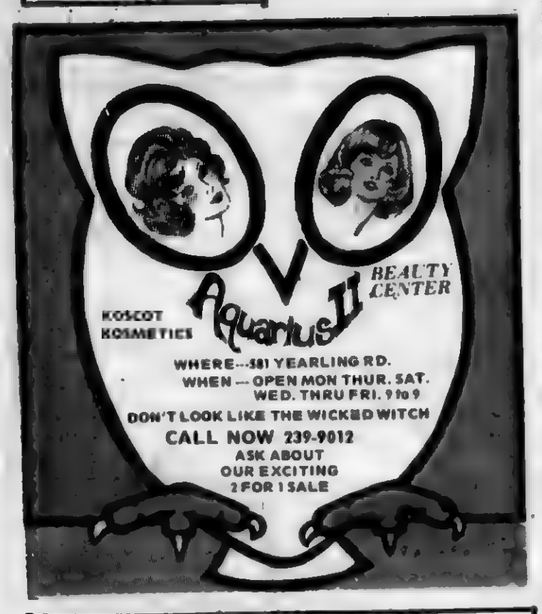
During the pageant each girl is alloted two minutes for talent presentation. Phyllis will be twirling two fire batons, Andi is singing "You've Got a Friend" and Mona is doing a pom-pom routine to the background music of "Casino Royale."

This year the student council, with the cooperation of the school administration and the Board of Education have established a breakfast program. Doughnuts, milk, coffee, fruit juice and hot chocolate are sold. Food, such as eggs and bacon may be introduced later in the year.

The annual Junior-Senior football game was held at Eastmoor's stadium on Saturday Oct. 7. The seniors were triumphant with the score 18-12.

The biggest fall event, however, is Homecoming. On Sept. 26, seniors began the process of electing a homecoming queen by choosing the top 20 girls. They were Melanie Baker, Charleta Bell, Vicky BeVier, Julie Block, Nancy Bommer, Leslie Brazelton, Carla Brown, Debbi Connell, Ramona Creamer, Pam Hillier, Faye Hodges, Nancy Kramer, Lynn Mayo, Christy McCreary, Karen Miller, Lora Munsell, Amy Rickenbacker, Karen Shields, Robin Stuart, Marilyn Vankirk.

Narrowing the candidates down to top five was the next step. In contention for the crown are Charleta Bell, a Warriorette for the last two years and member of Junior Achievement; Julie Block, on the cheerleading squad for three years and who hopes o attend the University of Denver; Leslie Brazelton, a varsity cheerleader who wants to study Pharmacology at Bowling Green University; Faye Hodges, student council secretary and who has also been a cheerleader for three years; Lynne Mayo, active in the vocal music department who has been a member of Warriorettes for two years.



The homecoming game is against Cincinnati Taft High School. During halftime Allan Silverman, student council president, serving as master of ceremonies will announce the queen and her court.

The homecoming dinner and dance is being held at Stouffer's University Inn on Saturday night, from 7 p.m. till midnight. It will be a buffet dinner. The main course being fried chicken, ham loaf and Swedish meatballs with noodles.

Decorations for the room will be based upon this year's theme "Color My World." The modest price is $10 a couple.

An important up-coming event is the recognition of this years National Honors Society members. These seniors will be rewarded for their hard work on Tuesday, Nov. 14 in the school's auditorium.

The Chairiot Eastmoor's newspaper, was chosen last year by the High School Press Club of Central Ohio as the outstanding high school newspaper in central Ohio. Any one wishing to suscribe may send $1.75 to Eastmoor Sr. High in care of Mrs. Kraus, Journalism adviser.

Walking home after school shouldn't mean walking home after dark.

Nearly 70% of Columbus teenage school children attend schools on emergency schedules. Because of overcrowding, split sessions and over-extended school days, many boys and girls go to school before daylight, others must come home in the winter darkness.

The Better Schools Program will help provide relief from such conditions. It will build 6 new secondary schools and 10 new elementary schools plus 59 additions to existing schools to relieve overcrowding. And, the Better Schools Program will provide four schools to be used as Developmental Learning Centers, available on a voluntary basis to students from throughout the city.

The Better Schools Program means more than buildings. It can help to build better lives for our boys and girls. The Program will assure a Library-Learning Center for every elementary school. It will provide special education facilities for handicapped children. Many over-age schools will be replaced. Vote FOR the School Bond Issue—we must put more into our schools so we can get more out of them!

Help every child, in every school, every day.

8785 PUPILS IN OUR SCHOOL AREA NEED YOUR HELP.
THEY NEED SPACE AND FACILITIES FOR:

CAREER-VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Sixty percent of our boys and girls do not go to college. They want and need high school training to get jobs, but this is impossible because of overcrowding that prohibits special facilities.

LIBRARY-LEARNING CENTERS TO IMPROVE READING SKILLS

Only 38 of our 129 elementary schools now have libraries. Many of the library facilities in secondary schools fall short of State standards.

HANDICAPPED CHILDREN PROGRAMS

More than 500 educable mentally retarded children are waiting to be placed in approved special education classes. The school for the deaf is overcrowded. Emotionally handicapped children are crowded into one of the oldest, most cramped schools in our system. Facilities for the physically handicapped are painfully inadequate.

CLASSROOMS TO REDUCE OVER CROWDING IN MANY SCHOOLS.

Nine secondary schools now operate on split sessions, 17 more are on over-extended day schedules. 72 classes---2100 boys and girls -- in elementary schools must be transported to other schools and rented quarters because of lack of space in their home school.

Defense-Offense Key To Leaders

Grid Season Down To Wire - Winners Are ?

IT'S ALMOST all over but the shouting in some area high school gridiron leagues, exceptions being the Columbus city league divisions and the Central Catholic League.

Gahanna in the Ohio Capital Conference (5-0), Grove City in the Mid-Eight (4-0) and Dublin in the Metro (3-0) seem to have a lock on those titles.

Strangely enough, in the high-powered Catholic loop, DeSales has the lead at 3-0 over undefeated Watterson (2-0) and 7-0 overall for the season. That league should be settled when these two clash Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Brookhaven's field.

NORTHLAND in the Columbus City League North and Walnut Ridge in the South have leads that should hold up but the city league has been noted for last game stumbles by leaders.

Grove City's Greyhounds (7-0) are headed for another title and an undefeated season provided their combined offense-defense keys keep in tune.

And that's the key to all the leaders at this point in the season - strong defense at the right time combined with explosive score-from-anywhere-on-the-field power.

Gahanna has been tossing shutouts as if they patented them, another coming against Whitehall's hopeful Rams last week, a 17-0 zip with the Lions really hitting hard as is their usual custom.

THE RAIDERS of Reynoldsburg could come up with a good one against the Lions this Friday if their defense takes hold. Several lapses against Westerville last week made the score higher than it might have been.

The Delaware at Westerville OCC clash should settle the second place issue with both at 4-1 in the loop and 5-2 on the season.

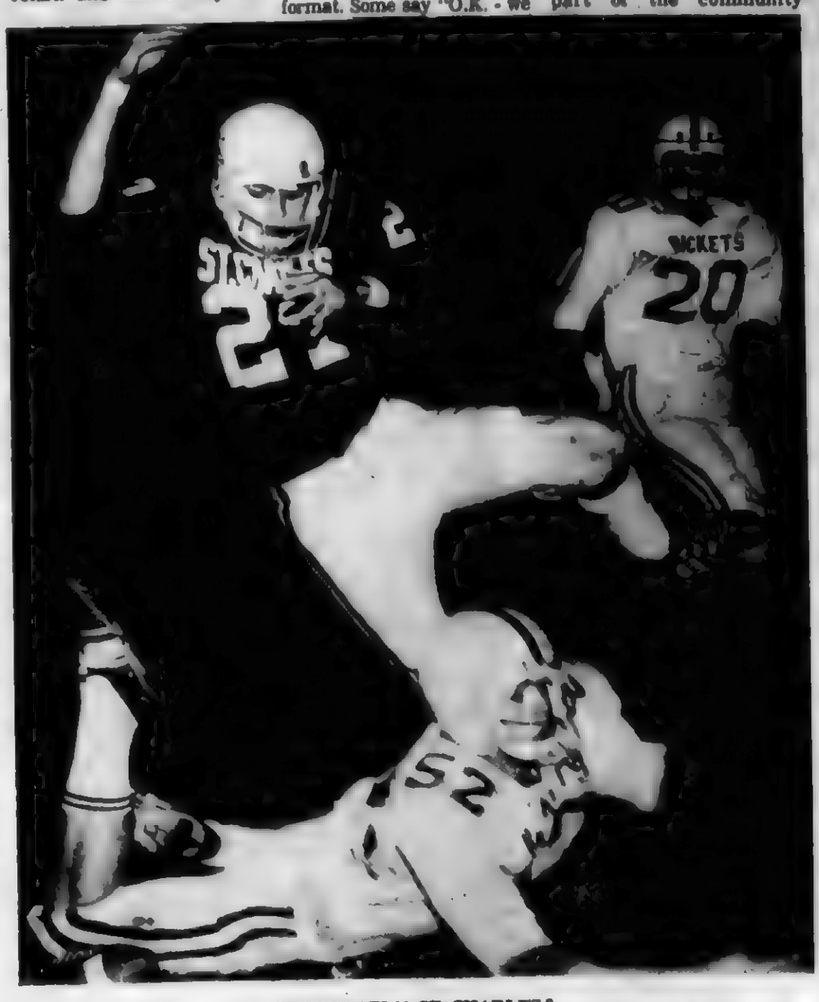
Westland will be seeking a homecoming win as they host Mt. Vernon.

A MID-8 and Metro loop clash should prove to be interesting. Bexley (Mid-8) hosts Franklin Heights (Metro) with both 3-2 in their respective leagues.

Walnut Ridge, leader in the Columbus City League, South Division came a cropper last Friday against Bishop Hartley in a neighborhood east end struggle. The Hawks sent the Scots home scoreless and that in itself is unusual. It could mean the Central Catholic League is thougher than either city loop this season since those teams have been handling city loop teams this year.

Grove City should have little difficulty with Hilliard in the Wildcats' rebuilding year under a new mentor but don't count Hilliard out of the game.

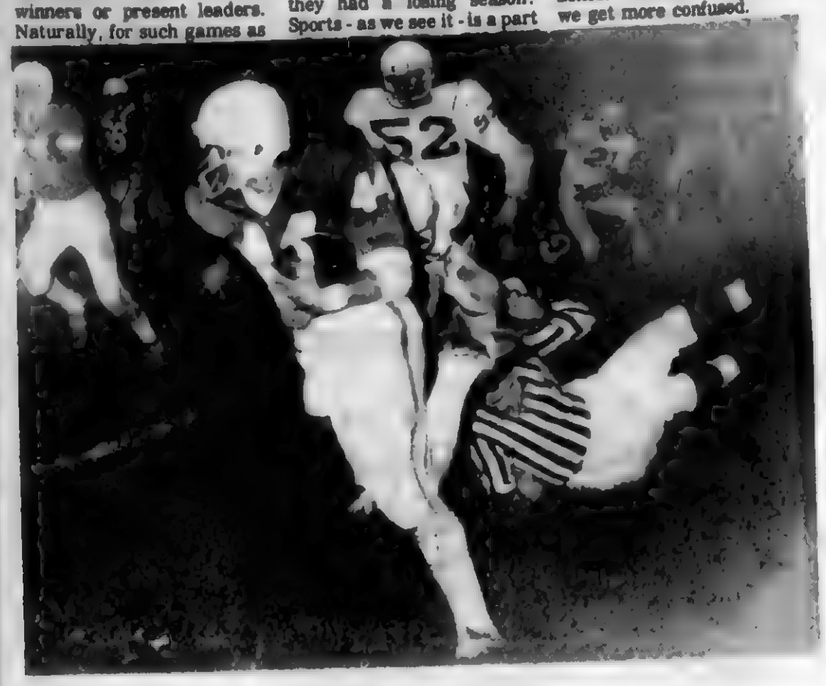
GRID BITS: Steve Wohlert, Westerville, has had two kickoff returns this season. The first was against Worthington for a 82-yard TD return and last Friday he scooted 90 yards with the opening kickoff against Reynoldsburg for a six-pointer.



We've had a few calls about the change in our sports page format. Some say "O.K. - we really like the photos" and others say - "Why isn't our team getting more space?

In answer to those we'll merely add that we are making our sports pages a part of the community newspaper format and not separate.

We feel that losers should get equal space and mention the same as those who are winners or present leaders. Naturally, for such games as the city title (North against South) we'll add a little.



We wonder, though, how many whose teams are leading would have called if they had a losing season? Sports - as we see it - is a part of the high school picture and not separate.

Meanwhile, as we look at the weekly computer ratings put out by the Ohio High School Athletic Association we get more confused.

Big White Downs Eastland

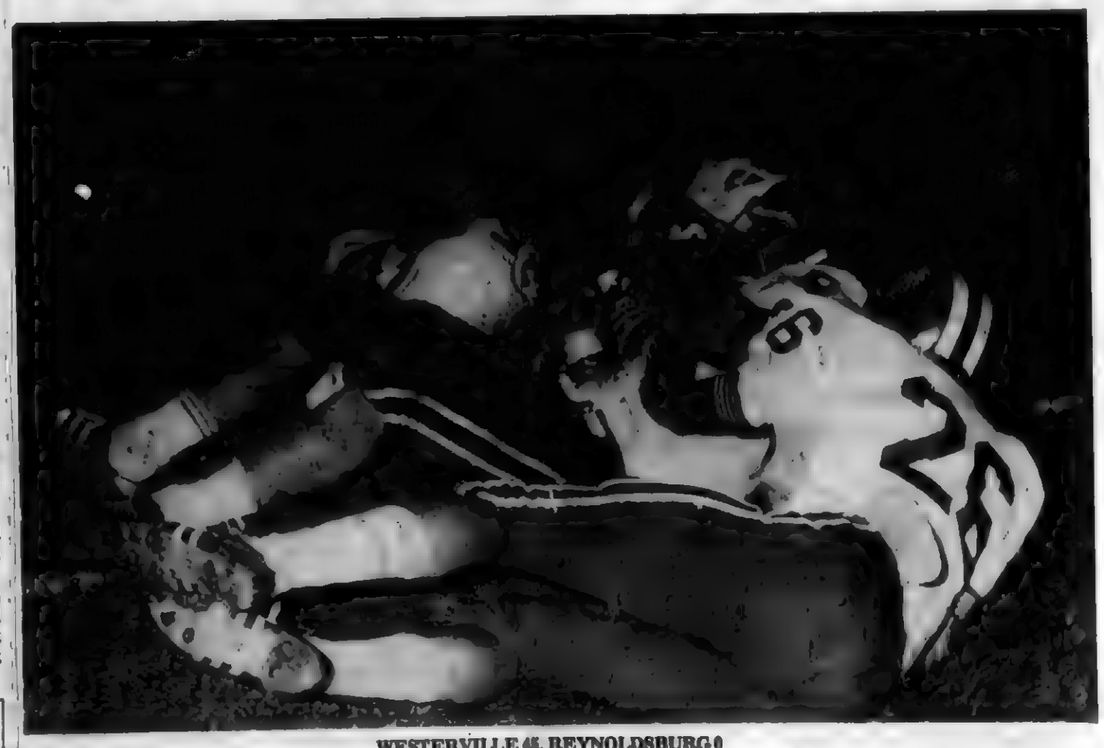
Unbeaten Worthington Big White exploded for 28 second half points and defeated the Eastland Vikings 42-0 Sunday to maintain first place in the American Division, Midwest Youth Football League.

Mark Davis gave the Big White a first period lead by scampering 36 yards for a touchdown during the first series of downs. Following the kickoff to Eastland, Craig Gallager intercepted a Viking pass and streaked 35 yards for a 14-0 lead.

Worthington built a 28-0 lead in the third quarter.

The Big White defense played alert football and held the Vikings to a game total of five yards gain. Cliff Fallon, Phil Crowley, Mark Davis, Kelly Johnson, Mike Maurer and Tom Frost recovered Eastland fumbles to help lead the defense..

The Big White has now held their opponets scoreless in the last 16 games.



The last regular season game for the Big White will be Sunday at 2 p.m. against the Westgate Falcons at Westgate.

To Sponsor Bird Shoot

The Whitehall Bantam Football League will sponsor a turkey shoot the next three Saturdays, Oct. 28 and Nov. 4 and 11.

It will be held at the Town and Country Golf Range, 4500 E. Broad St., Whitehall.

The hours will be from 10 a.m. to dark.

AROUND TOWN

ONE OF THE nicest groups I've heard in a long time is closing out their engagement this week at Ramada Inn North. Don't wait around, get up there now, and catch the Joel Dane Show. Young or old, lovers or contemporary, popular or old standards, they have it all for you put together extremely well.

This is one of the most talented bunch of musicians you will find in a group. Each is tremendous. Each one could go on to be quite successful in his or her own right.

First, let's take the leader, Joel Dane. Besides being a good musician, Joel is one fine singer. He has a voice that is smooth and mellow, with a rich sound. He also does some imitations. Hit bit on Tony Bennett sounds better than Bennett does himself. Most of all Joel is a showman. He does comedy, jokes and the whole smur.

Another person in the act who is litterally fantastic is Charlene Ellis. This is one of the very best lounge singers that has come down the pike. Even the professional singer I was sitting with was flipping over her voice. That, my friend, is a true compliment. Charlene has one of the guttiest voices you'll find. This gal sings with so much emotions. She puts everything she has into a song. I think Charlene simply wrings out a tune for all it's worth. I trully believe she may be a big star someday.

ANOTHER excellent member of the group is Chris Coswell at the organ. He has fine chord structures and his own style, that will send chills up and down your back.

Then, wait until you hear Phil Mancini, the drummer, who also sings. What a beautiful voice. Here is another one you will want to listen to the entire evening.

Add Joe Cummings, guitarist to the outfit, with his vocal works, and you have a superior fivesome. The act is favored with his exciting guitar works.

Put them all together, you end up with a slick group that does nothing but entertain royally. The act is fast paced, tight with plenty of variety. I, for one, really hate to see them close this week. It is one of the few contemporary groups that I loved. That I did.

THE PLACE Downstairs, located at Miller's Village Inn, has a group that I personally love. This is probably true, because I dig the older type of music and the more sophisticated style that the Al Evans Trio uses. I have been in this business for over twenty years, and while I do enjoy a first rate modern modern group, like the one I told you about above, and the one following this review, I still go for the more quieter lounge acts that contain other type of instruments besides guitars and electric basses.

The Al Evans Trio fits the catagory. First, you have Al Evans on drums and vocals. What a whiz bang in both areas. While Al is not a show drummer, he is one of the best ones around in my book. Playing mostly with brushes, Al lays down one of the strongest, clean cut beats in these parts. Al doesn't pound the drums, he plays them with tender, loving care, resulting in a rhythm section that keeps your toes, fingers and hands in time with the music. Using back beats and all sorts of riffs Al drives the other two musicians all around the bases like a homerun king.

IN THE vocal department, he is smooth as silk. His vocal styling matches to some degree his drumming techniques, strong, but soft, a style loaded with tenderness, yet keeps moving. This is true on the ballads as well as the swinging things. His tonal quality is out of this world. He will leave you as high as the moon with his rich, mellow sound. His style belongs strickly to Al Evans. It is so easy going. Soundwise, you don't have to fight him, just set back and Al Evans will entertain you with his voice and drums.

The same is true for the other two men in the trio. Chet Grabill sax work matches Al's vocal presentations. Chet plays the sax with such sweetness, that it literally drips with milk and honey. The sounds just drifts out of his horn. Even on the jump tunes, and while he is showing off his finger dexterity, the music just flows.

Bob Keller is a very excellent organist. This fellow plays with such a strong style, and gives Al and Chet plenty of musical support.

IF YOU are looking for a place where you can listen to beautiful music, that includes a lot of the oldies, a place where you can enjoy the music and still hold a conversation, a place where you can dance, then The Place Downstairs is the place for you. The Al Evans Trio makes it all happen. I'll see you there often.

Columbus is certainly blessed with fine groups this week. On the west side of town, at the swinging Diamond Jim's is another excellent group, The Sunshine People. Let me tell you right now, they do bring a lot of musical sunshine into your life while you are at Diamond Jim's. This quintet is first class, all the way.

While it is a contemporary group, they set out to please all ages, with their music. The leader, Dino Martino, is a good Italian singer loaded with ability. This is not a young man, as standards go for mod music. This man is a professional, with lots of experience. Dino plays the keyboard of the organ as an old pro. But, he can dish out all the modern sounds, styles and material like an eighteen year old. Then he can come back and give you a touch of the oldies, but goodies, too. Dino's vocal attack reminds me a little bit of Joe Williams. This fellow is a real singer.

Mark Allen is another one you'll flip over. His trumpet endeavors are superb. When he and Dino do some close harmony things between the organ and trumpet, it sounds as if you were listening to a full orchestra. It is a big full sound. The outfit is not over-powering, nor ear-shattering. Just full of dynamics. This is true both instrumentaly and vocally.

Speaking of vocals, another one who does an above average job is the beauty of the act, Lana Conley. She can sing the notes right off a sheet of music. This gal gets into a song and works it over. She is a rather exciting songstress.

Drummer, Ed Henry I enjoy watching as much as listening while he performs. He is not only showy, but a top flight man with the sticks. Shows a lot of fancy, creative bits. Jimmy C. Roberts handles the guitar and vocals. He is A-Ok in both departments. This fellow plays a strong guitar, using plenty of chord changes to keep it all lively. Jimmy is also a fine vocalist.

THE SUNSHINE People also do lots of comedy. Woody Hayes would love to have them all on his team, because they are certainly a tripple threat operation.

As I told you at the beginning, they are contemporary. Make no mistake. But, they all have a fine sence of musicanship and talent. What ever they do, it is done with class, backed by plenty of talent.

This is their last week at Diamond Jim's. This has to be another must on your entertainment schedule. Be you sixteen or sixty, you'll love them.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

In the Yankee Doddle Room of the Imperial House - West, Martin 'N Me is hold court with their musical moods. Martin is Tim Martin, a young fellow who does a fine job with the 12 string guitar. "Me," is Kathy Casa, a young girl who sings with one of the most beautiful, crystal clear voices I have heard. They are not loud. You can hear what your partner is saying. They are good for the dining crowd and nice for the late evening crowd who want to set and relax. While the food is very good in the Yankee Doddle Room, don't think you must eat when you visit the place. You can stop in just for cocktails, a late evening snack or a full course dinner. What ever you want, The Yankee Doddle Room has it for your enjoyment. Never a cover or minimum. Next week, I'll give you a complete review on Martin 'N Me. In the meantime, get out to the Imperial House West and listen to them... FLASH...Sixteen East, the rather new gourmet restaurant at 16 East Broad St., has been sold, according to my informanats. New owners is Sam Fontas, who started a string of restaurants a few years ago and Carl Mason of the Imperial House - Arlington, plus a couple of other men. More on their plans latter. You always read it first in the Spectator's entertainment section. So, watch for more details...Speaking of restaurants, one of my favorites places is getting better, that's hard for me to believe. The Dobbs House, at the Airport has a new menu, and policy. Everything is prepared before your eyes. Open Hearth Dining they call it. All the meat is cooked on open hearth fires, and all food is prepared out front. What a varied menu. Just a tip, be sure to read their menu, in their add this week on the entertainment page. I'll tell you more about this place latter, also. But, for now, take my word for it, their food is out of this world...My favorite gal, Sonia Modes, keeps packing them in at the Holiday Inn East. This little dynamic of a musician is also loaded with personality. She makes the cocktail hour at the Holiday Inn East very enjoyable. You can set in a cozy corner and talk with that favorite friend, or set at the piano and join in all the fun, and I do mean fun. This has to be the swingingest cocktail hour Around Town. While out east, be sure to drop in at the Midway Grill's Track Room. This is one of the most unique spots around. The interior is constructed from an old barn. The siding was removed piece by piece and re-constructed for the wall paneling. Even the sign that was painted on the old barn is still intact. The Tack Room has all types of trinkets and things pertaining to horses. You will flip over the rustic atmosphere. The Midway Grill is only ten minutes from Broad and Hamilton, straight out East Broad, at Columbia Center. There is no entertainment, but what a place to relax and have a tate a tate.

Skinhead McWherter Makes Hole-In-One

After more than 30 years of swinging a golf club around local courses it has happened to Wilbur "Skinhead" McWherter.

Johnny Cook called the Sports Department this week to be sure we gave Wilbur his just dues for a hole-in-one on the Wee Bonnie course.

The 58 (or is it 59)-year old "Skinhead" as everyone calls him affectionately, whammed a drive 160 yards on the No. 1 hole at Wee Bonnie (the Par 3 course) and the ball had eyes as it went 'kerplunk' into the hole.

Wilbur had a 56 for the 18 holes (only four over par). He lives at 2085 Fairmont on the Hilltop.

Playing with Wilbur were Bill Riley, John Cook, Earl Ruppert and Jim Holly.

Edison Film Set

"A Man Called Edison", a film tracing the early history of Thomas Edison's experiements with the motion picture in the years 1893-1902, is the free weekend film offering Saturday and Sunday, October 28-29, at the Ohio Historical Center, Interstate 71 and 17th Avenue., under sponsorship of The Ohio Historical Society.

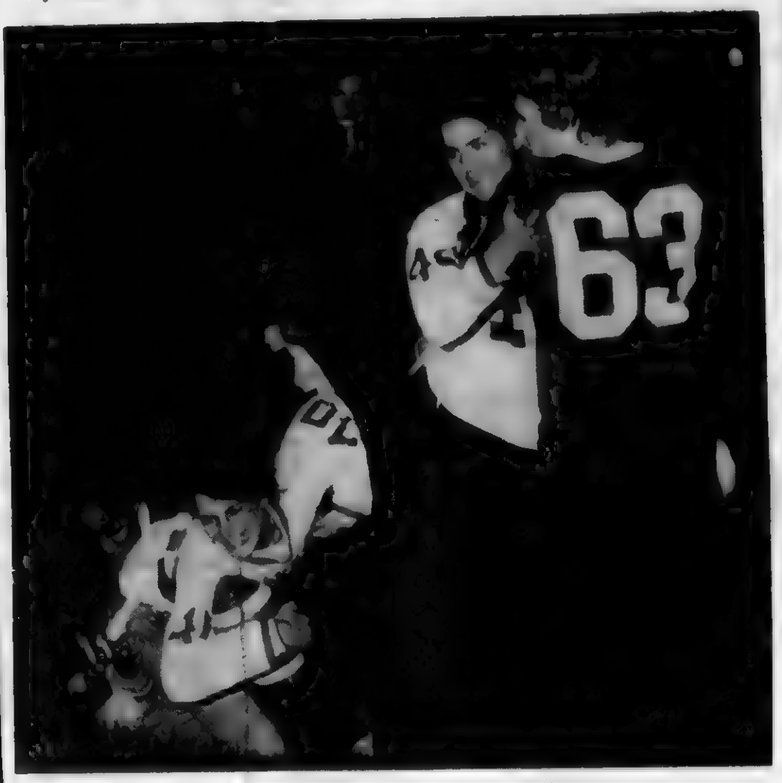
SPECTATOR NEWSPAPERS

Powder Puffers Do Their Own Thing

The Reynoldsburg Raiders let the gals play football last week and the annual Powder Puff game turned into a real donnybrook with the Juniors ripping in and around the Seniors for a 23-18 victory. These photos by fearless Ray Adams tell only part of the story.

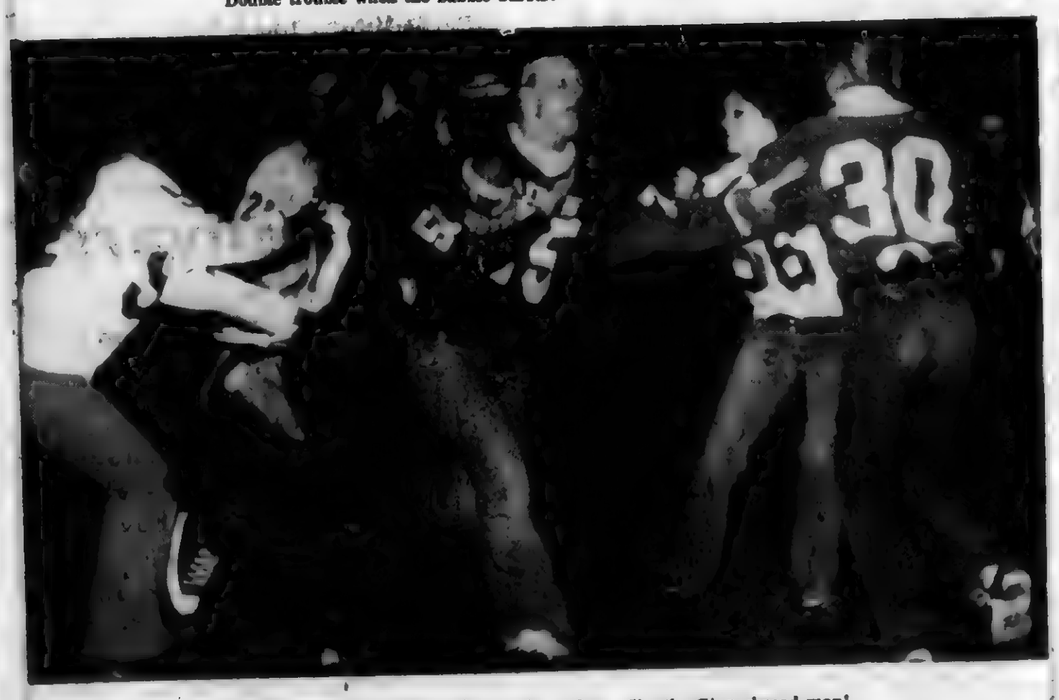
Now look, Ref, here's the kind of an offer you can't turn down.

The Quing is quowned and kissed. Tom Sperry, Miss 1972 Powder Puff, left, gets the royal send off from 1971 Quing Tom Cherico.

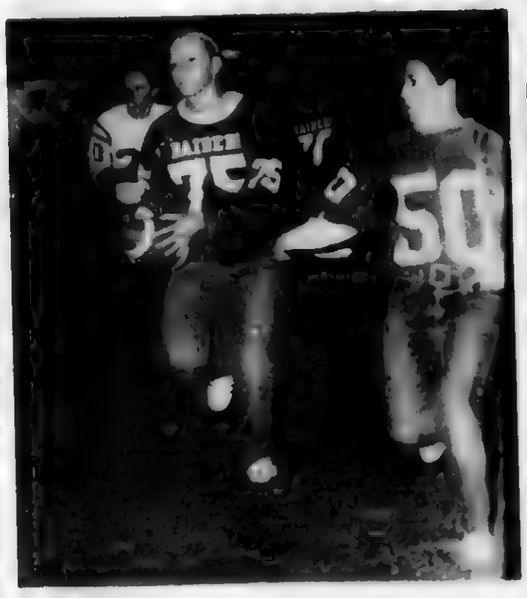


The goal line is in sight for this underclassman and the 12 was soon changed to an 18 on the scoreboard.

Somewhere below are football and player.



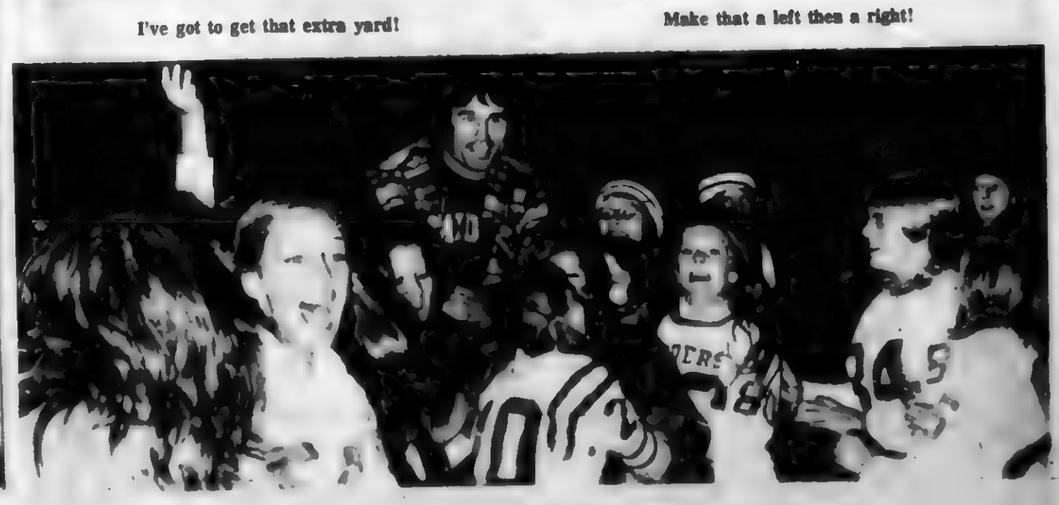
Double trouble when the bubble bursts!



Go, Tiger, get that extra yard while I take this one out of the way.

It's Bonnie Braids and would you believe she didn't get her hair messed up at all?

Run, run, fast as I can - they can't catch me, I'm the Gingerbread man!.



I've got to get that extra yard!

Make that a left then a right!

The horn blew 'til midnight in sorrowness for the seniors' loss and Mitch Greening was the tooter.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

I'm a bit cantankerous when it comes to dramas I dearly love, and "The Rainmaker" is one of them. I don't think serious material should be turned into musical comedy. With this in mind read on - my review of "110 In The Shade", the musical version of the above mentioned drama now playing at Welsh Hills Players, 3 Wilwood Ave., Newark, Ohio.

I was entertained. The piano accompaniment was a delight. In this story about an "old maid", a loving, protective family, and a rainmaker with a sheriff after him, some of the individual performances were excellent.

As Lizzie, Diane Disque shows that she is more than just a pretty girl with a fine voice. She allows herself to be made up as an old maid and her transition to the pretty girl in the end is brought about in a most subtle but effective manor.

Marty Altmaier was so convincing as Sheriff File that I wanted to start match making to find him a new wife. He has a good voice and makes a fine appearance on stage. John Holland is a student a Heath High School but he handled the role of the younger brother, Jimmy, with all the stage presence of a veteran actor. His girlfriend, Snooky, was played by Debbie Kay Camp and you could tell she was having a good time playing a very young girl. And why not? She is a teacher in Millersburg in real life. Some switch?

I got the feeling that if it were not for the afore mentioned outstanding performances the life would be non-existant in this case. However, these actors did prevail and brought together a worthwhile performance. "110 In The Shade" continues thru the 28th. Curtain time is 8:30 and the Newark phone number is 345-7385.

Put on your specks and read The Spectator.

A Stilled Voice In Man's Wilderness

OHIO HAS 173 old covered bridges still in existence in 41 counties, according to the Ohio Historical Society. Fairfield County continues to be the leader in numbers with 27 such structures although that county lost three to "progress, vandalism and other causes" since the 1970 compilation. One such covered bridge in Fairfield County is just west of State Rt. 256 and State Rt. 204, south of Reynoldsburg. It crosses Blacklick Creek on Tussing Road. The bridge is be-decked with countless names and designs in colored paint of persons who wanted to leave their mark on the once handsome bridge. It has a load limit of five tons. It's beauty may be diminished to some but - beauty is in the eye of the beholder and those who remember her before nature and man took their toll still see her as a virgin untouched. PROJECT TERMED SUCCESS

School Board Hears Curriculum Report

THOMAS B. CONNERY
SPECIAL STAFF WRITER

Diversified curriculum in the Columbus Public Schools is a success according to a status report presented to the school board at its Oct. 24 meeting.

The report was given in the form of a panel presentation, consisting of one administrator, four teachers, and two students.

T. H. Mayer, executive director of Secondary Education introduced the panel discussion with a brief explanation of the diversified curriculum.

Mayer said that the purpose of diversifying education is to provide a wider range of courses so that students may choose educational experiences that relate more closely to their needs, interests, and plans for the future.

Mayer explained that previously students were grouped into classes according to ability. "All students studied the same material but at different levels of difficulty," he said.

The diversified curriculum recognizes that "students are different in more than academic ability," Mayer said. "They also have different goals, attitudes, needs and interests."

Mayer explained that the senior high school curriculum is being diversified on a step-by-step basis. Single required courses have been replaced by clusters or groups of courses from which the student may choose.

Although courses within each cluster differ in name, purpose, content and materials used, they are usually related by common themes or concepts.

Mayer said that for the 1972-73 school year, 10th and 12th grade social studies and 11th grade English have been diversified. All high school social studies and English courses are expected to be fully diversified the 1974-75 school year.

According to Mayer, most of the other subject areas are already diversifed to some extent, but these will be studied to see if additional choices should be provided.

Mayer said that with assistance from counselors, students choose the course or courses within the cluster that seem to best meet their needs and interests.

For the 10th grade social studies requirement, students select one or more courses from a cluster built around world concepts such as nationalism, international trade, religion, and culture. Course titles are the cultural world, the historical world, multi-ethnic studies, the urban world, and world area studies.

The 11th grade English requirement consists of selecting two or more courses from a group of nine. Courses titles are advanced composition, American literature, American ethnic literature, basic communications, literature of drama, media study, nature of language, reading for pleasure, and world literature.

For social studies in the 12th grade, students can either take principles of democracy or select two or more semester courses from a group of five. These courses focus on concepts that examine man both as an individual and as a member of society.

The 12th grade courses are anthropology, government, economics, psychology, and social-psychology. Concepts examined include role, power, scarcity, allocation of resources, rules of conflict, and society.

According to Mayer, individual schools are encouraged to supplement the city-wide program with their own courses designed to meet student needs or interests not included in the city-wide curriculum.

Mayer said that the decision concerning which courses to offer was made on the basis of input from administrators, teachers, students, and parents.

Mayer also said that "just because students are selecting their own courses, this does not mean that skills are being neglected.

"For example," he said, "all English courses develop writing skills, but each course is approached in a different way, with different purposes."

The entire panel agreed that the diversified curriculum is a positive step toward meeting the individual needs of students.

James McCann, an East High School social studies teacher, said that in his personal psychology class "the students can see and understand human differences.

"They learn to see themselves in relationship to others," he said. "They learn to trust each other and respect the opinions and attitudes of one another."

Jeannine Quick, an East High junior, said that she is now "learning things that can be applied to life.

"Much of what I read in the newspapers now makes sense to me," she said.

Debbie Foster, a junior at Walnut Ridge High School, described the diversified curriculum as "fabulous."

"The students learn more because of their increased participation and more responsibility," she said.

Will Anderson, Linden-McKinley High School principal, said that he notices more enthusiasm in the students. "Students are carrying more books, they are not tied to one textbook," he said.

Anderson said that he also notices "more give and take between teachers and students."

McCann said that the diversified curriculum "forces you to be a better teacher because it requires more preparation and interaction with students."

Linda Thompson, a Whetstone High School English teacher, said that under the diversifed curriculum "the teacher is a guide rather than an authority."

L. W. Huber, assistant supt. for Instruction acted as a moderator in the discussion. Other panel members were Miriam Glessner, an Eastmoor High School history teacher, and Fredericka Miller, an English teacher at Mohawk High School.

Board members indicated they were pleased with the progress report.

Board member Virginia Prentice said "We shouldn't stop here, we need even more diversity, other developments, new ideas."

JANE FONDA ENDS TOUR

Actress Cites Need For Anti-War Movement

By LYNN WILLIAMS And KATHY DEVANEY

Activist actress Jane Fonda returned to Columbus last week to conclude a seven week speaking tour which began here in September at the State Fair.

Speaking up to 18 hours a day, Miss Fonda has been touring the country as part of the Indochina Peace Campaign's educational program.

In an informal speech at the First Unitarian Church last Friday evening, Miss Fonda said, "Now more than ever there is a need for a strong, healthy, anti-war movement."

She said the North Vietnamese had released the terms of the peace negotiations to force the U.S. to make some statements.

"And now the people have had their appetites whetted for peace and we must keep the pressure on to force President Nixon to follow through and keep these agreements."

She said, "The only reason Henry Kissinger has been negotiating is that Nixon's plan or strategy of Vietnamization has been defeated. It was tried and it failed and if we don't have peace the only other alternative is the continuation of the mass bombing or total genocide."

We must be a visible public, making our feelings known, she said.

"You can be sure that Nixon is not negotiating seriously if you read that South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu is raising objections.

"Who is this man Thieu. He's a puppet. He was a French colonial general and the French now consider him a Benedict Arnold, yet this is the kind of man we support.

"Thieu has said there can be no coalition with the communists, no neutrality with the communists and no civil liberties for the communists. He has said we can't stop until all communists are dead.

"This man has closed down all opposition newspapers, he has jailed editors, there is no freedom of speech or press and his top officials and generals are making fortunes in the drug business."

Miss Fonda said that to say this man Thieu won't stand for the peace negotiations is like saying Charlie McCarthy won't talk to Edgar Bergen.

"As long as Thieu is used as an excuse to delay things, you can be sure the negotiations are not that serious."

She added that this was the reason why the Indochina Peace Campaign was working so hard now to put the pressure on the President to make peace.

If peace is reached, Miss Fonda said the IPC will not die nor will she end her activities.

"We will keep working to define the Nixon doctrine. We must make the public see that Nixon's strategy (that of mass bombing and Vietnamization) failed.

"We are afraid that if the war ends people will see it as a victory for the Nixon policies and this is not so."

She said unless the war is defined and understood, the U.S. will find itself in more Vietnams.

"The war is an American tragedy and if we don't end it and define it, we will be condemned as a people and we will have lost our identity."

Miss Fonda said the American people have an obligation to learn about the Vietnamese people.

She said it was during her trip to North Vietnam that she learned to be proud to be an American. "I now wear an American flag."

"While in Hanoi I saw the play "All My Sons" being performed in Vietnamese. Our greatest writers are translated into their language. I asked them why this was done and I was told that they want their people to understand the Americans.

"They said if our people learn to hate then we are finished. And we here in this country, who are paying for the planes and bombs, we know nothing about these people. If we understood their country and their culture we might understand why they can't be defeated."

She added, "It is not the POWs who are being brainwashed. It is the American people."

She said 40 to 60 per cent of the south is under the control of the north and that taxes are being collected and elections held. "There is land reform, and schools and hospitals are being built

"In many of these villages people's councils have elected representatives who are anti-communists, communists and neutral.

"This is supposedly what we are fighting for and it is already being done."

And here in the States, Miss Fonda said, "The worse thing we can do is sit back and do nothing. Now more than ever we must speak out and make our feelings known. We must put the pressure on so that this war may end."

"THE WAR is an American Tragedy."

City Issues Decided

Polls will be open Tuesday, Nov. 7, from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Columbus residents will be voting on a proposed charter amendment to combine the Division of Parks and Forestry and Public Recreation under a nine-member Recreation and Parks Commission.

The electorate will be asked to decide if the Board of Education should issue bonds.

If passed the money would be used to acquire real estate and easements, improve buildings and additions to buildings, furnishing and equipping schools, and landscaping and site improvement in the sum of $89,500,000.

It also asks if a levy of taxes should be made outside of the 10 mill limitation estimated by the county auditor to average 3.3 mills (33 cents for each $100 valuation) for a maximum period of 23 years to pay the principal and interest of such bonds?

Shall ordinance no. 1084-72 passed by the City Council July 24 which provides for the "establishment of the ordinance upon the acceptance by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. for four years, commencing Dec. 1 and ending Nov. 30, 1976, with certain rights of cancellation in Nov. 1974 and 1975 of increased standard residence and general service, small secondary and medium secondary, electric rates contained in Section 1 of the Ordinance" be passed?

Bond Issue Needs Support

On Nov. 7th the residents in the Madison Local school district will be asked to vote yes to a $3,380,000 school bond issue.

To the average tax payer in the area this will mean $36 a year on a $20,000 home.

The money if approved will be used to build a new junior high school on land adjacent to the Sedalia Elementary School, another elementary school or two additions, one at Sedalia and one at Glendening Elementary.

Also the money will be used to purchase a site for an elementary school at Munks Corner, remodeling of the present junior high school, completion of the high school athletic and physical education facilities and site work at various schools in the district.

While the failure of the issue to pass will not mean the closing of schools, it will mean that the junior high school will continue on double sessions and may cause double sessions at other grade levels.

The district is growing at approximately 500 students a year. (So far this year the growth has been 498.)

There is also the possibility of at least one more new housing development in the area within the next three years.

Four of the eight elementary schools are operating over capacity as are both the high school and the junior high.

The bond issue needs your support.

Speaking of Beauty

HAIR TREATMENTS THAT START AT THE ENDS...

For you gals whose hair looks great at the scalp but gets fuzzy and dry at the ends, we do have a spot of good news! There is a professional hair treatment which seems to ravel those split ends right back together again. It even seems to deepen the color of the bleached out ends just a fraction. And then speaking about color, of course sunbaked ends just don't seem to want to take color very well so it helps to use just plain color fillers along with your weekly shampoos. Ask us about it when you come in next time.

HEARD UNDER THE DRYER

Later during his residency in the Smith College School of Social Work Doctoral program Professor Blumenstein worked for two years at the Judge Baker Guidance Center in Boston, Mass.

In his current consultancy at Jewish Family Service he consults with staff on cases as well as practice in various treatment modalities such as individual, family, and marital therapy. He has also launched a group therapy program.

Rounding Up The Rams

The days of late summer and first few months of the school year are especially busy for over 100 of Whitehall's most talented students. Those hard working Marching Band and Ramette members spend long hours and many days in preparation for a number of football games and parades. This year the work has increased...so have the rewards!

Taking a day off from this busy schedule, the members of the Band and Ramettes visited King's Island. There was no performance, no marching, and the members didn't drill. It was just a day for fun!

Three commercial buses, provided by both the students and The Whitehall Instrumental Music Boosters Association carried our youngsters from W-YHS at 9 a.m. Everyone enjoyed the rides, the eats, and the fun before returning to Whitehall at 7 p.m.

Good work deserves good praise and we praise highly our young people for their active efforts! Who knows, after a bit more of that hard work, where the Whitehall Marching Band and Ramettes will go next?

All Brides Are Beautiful!

RON LOVECE likes sleeve interest in this silk-faced satin bridal gown, with Alencon lace to form a doublet effect.

OSCAR DE LA RENTA uses row upon row of silk organza ruffling for the apron front of this rustling taffeta gown.

BRIDAL GOWNS for fall and winter '72 are simple and sophisticated or romantic and glamorous...so that today's bride can project any image she wishes for her joyous trip down the aisle.

Designers of bridal clothes for Piccione have taken their inspiration from many sources...translated with gentle touches of genius to make them irresistible.

OSCAR DE LA RENTA has borrowed historically authentic fashion silhouettes and updated them to a romantic and feminine look in his bridal collection.The high-waisted bodices, puffed sleeve effect at the shoulder, the collar set right under the chin and ending in a swell of soft ruffles, are recognizable details from the past...but under the spell of his magic, cotton is replaced with marvelous fabrics like re-embroidered lace over Quiana, Venise lace, silk organza, sheer silks, in a pristine shade which he calls "frost white." Exquisite crystal pleating at hemlines and sleeves ...lace pinafore bodices...appliques...rows of silk organza create an apron effect on gowns with a seasonless quality, that could be worn in summer as well as winter.

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

RON LO VECE hasn't missed a trick in the department of glamour and beauty for his Piccione creations. His romantic gowns have a touch of "Nicholas and Alexandra". Most waistlines are normal to balance the trend toward fuller skirts...floor length skirts are shaped with panels, pleats, jumper or apron effects...sashes with small bows and flowers and back interest...non-detachable peacock or cathedral trains...unusual and dramatic sleeves.

Fabrics are opulent...satin peau de soie, velvet, chiffon, point d'esprit, silk taffeta and English net...trimmed with lace, beading, appliques, buttons and bandings. Pristine white and ivory are his favored colors.

MICHAEL PICCIONE of Rome, 22-year-old daughter of the head of Piccione International, has a talent for making simple bridal shapes elegant. In her first collection premiered in New York, she showed coat dresses, the long wedding suit, the princess dress, in fabrics not usually associated with Bridal gowns...antique ivory silk moire taffeta, wool, ottoman and worsted silk.

Although each designer "does his own thing" in creating Bridal Gowns...they join together in proving the old adage...all brides are beautiful!

Language Courses Available In Bexley

Bexley residents will have an opportunity to learn a second language this fall and winter - in a new way.

Direct from Chicago where the method is enjoying success at the University of Illinois, the Linguathon method will debut in Bexley on Tuesday, Nov. 14th at the Jeffrey Mansion, 7:30 p.m.

All language courses are conversational in nature, with every member of the class participating. Average class size is 15 persons.

These classes are taught by professional language educators holding at least a master's degree (the majority holding doctorates) in the language. The instructors are also native speakers as well, a big plus in teaching conversational foreign languages.

At the end of the five-week course, a person will have conversational proficiency in the language studied. Classes meet for two hours each week, and will be offered in Spanish, French or Italian. So, if it's preparation for travel, or just recreation, plan to join the group and learn the second language of your choice.

For information on cost and scheduling, call the office of the Bexley Parks and Recreation Department week days before 5 p.m. at either 258-8755 or 258-9709.

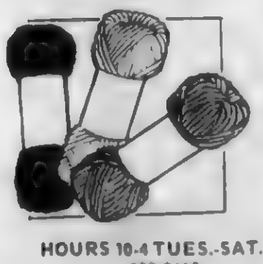
Don't Be Fooled– Issue 2 Will Hurt You

Issue 2 is a real fooler. It is being billed as a tax cut. The fact is Issue 2 could cost three out of four Ohioans more taxes—not less. Here's what Issue 2 could mean to you—



•Higher Property Taxes
•Higher Sales Taxes
•Unfair Taxes

Issue 2 is designed to help only wealthy individuals and the big corporations in Ohio. Issue 2 eliminates the funds for the 10 per cent property tax rollback. Issue 2 eliminates the funds for the Homestead Exemption for senior citizens. Issue 2 almost mandates a whopping (two cents or more) increase in the state sales tax. Or, it could mean unfair taxes in the form of a flat rate income tax which forces the lowest wage earner to pay at the same rate as those in high income brackets. Any way that you look at it, Issue 2 is bad for most Ohio taxpayers.

'Jabberwock' Debut Will Open Thurber Theatre

WHEN THE authors of "Inherit the Wind" and "Mame" pass up Broadway for the hinterlands of Ohio, there's got to be a reason.

And there is. By choosing the campus of Ohio State University for the premiere of their latest work, "Jabberwock," playwrights Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee are, in a sence, bringing the play home.

Based on "the improbabilities lived and imagined by James Thurber in the fictional city of Columbus, Ohio," the play will open at the university which Thurber himself attended and which has accumulated probably the most extensive collection of original Thurber manuscripts, scetches and correspondence in the country.

THE NOV. 18 premiere performance of "Jabberwock" will serve to dedicate Ohio State's new Thurber Theatre, which has 622 seats and a proscenium stage. The theatre is located on the east bank of the Olentangy River in Drake Union, a $4-million student center which opened this past summer.

Expected to attend both the dedication and the premiere is Thurber's widow, Mrs. Helen Thurber, of West Cornwall, Conn., who has made most of the major contributions to Ohio State's Thurber collection. Thurber's only child, Mrs. Frederick Sauers (Rosemary Thurber) of Hinsdale, Ill., will play the part of her own grandmother, Mary Agnes, In "Jabberwock."

Michael Straight, Washington, D.C., deputy chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts, will make the dedication address. Also participating in the dedication ceremonies will be Ohio State President Harold L. Enarson and Dr. Lewis C. Branscomb, professor of Thurber Studies. A number of drama critics from some of the nation's leading publications nation's leading publications have been invited to attend both the dedication and the premiere.

AMONG THURBER'S most famous works are "My World—and Welcome to It," "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," and "My Life and Hard Times," the last of which provided much of the subject material for "Jabberwock."

As a journalist, Thurber wrote for a variety of papers, including the Ohio State Lantern, and the Christian Science Monitor. His articles and cartoons regularly appeared in the New Yorker magazine. Unfortunately, his progessive blindness interrupted his career, and he died in 1961.

"Jabberwock" introduces "Jamie" as a 16-year-old high school student whom Lawrence describes as having "a perpetual question mark on his face." It follows him through his years at Ohio State, or from "when W. Wilson was keeping us out of war" to when "W. Wilson (Mary Agnes, Grandpa and others) were making the world safe for democracy." Robert Isenhart, of 5370 York Terrace, Columbus, will play the role of Jamie.

Grandpa, described as "77 going on 12" keeps the Thurber household jumping as he constantly tries to refight the Civil War. The loosely-knit plot thickens when that "ice-cream-cone beautiful" Georginia Littlefield moves into the neighborhood and into Jamie's life.

PERFORMANCES will continue through Dec. 2. Director is Dr. Roy Brown, professor of theatre and former director of a Columbus community theatre, Players Club. A professional theatre company will perform "Jabberwock" at the Dallas Theatre Center in early spring 1973.

Dr. Branscomb played a key role in founding the Thurber collection at Ohio State in 1962 and continues to work with Robert A. Tibbetts, curator of special collections, to expand it through auctions, book dealers and individual contacts.

As professor of Thurber Studies, Dr. Branscomb lectures to various community groups, conducts independent research and writes. He is currently preparing an oral history of Thurber, based on tape-recorded interviews with his friends and relatives.

THE COLLECTION includes 85,000 pages of original manuscripts 200 drawings and about 800 letters. All are kept in a room at the Main Library with special air conditioning, lighting and humidifying systems for the preservation of the material. Valued at about $75,000 by Tibbetts, the collection is protected against theft by an automatic alarm system.

The library also has on deposit the scripts from the television program, "My World and Welcome to It," which was based on the work by Thurber. A large number of Thurber's published works translated into Japenese, Arabic, and European languages complete the collection.

Ghosts, Goblins Ghouls Haunt HalloweenHouse

A spooky experience is in store for anyone who visits the Jaycees' Haunted Halloween House this year.

The truly terrifying ordeal begins in a pitch black maze where three florescent lines on the floor lead you to the Phantom of the Opera, just the beginning of the horrifying creatures which await visitors in every room of the house.

Inside the house eerie lights and spooky music lead those brave enough to continue to the laboratory and the mad scientist who haunts it.

A graveyard full of tombstones which serve as a list of honorable mention for those who have donated to the giant fun house contains an open grave just waiting for an occupant.

Ghost flit about and monsters of various shapes and forms lurk in the shadows and jump out to frighten the unwary.

A snake and reptile exhibit and a cage of giant rats are other features of the haunted house.

Although the house was completely vacant just three weeks ago, Jaycees from all six chapters of the Columbus area have improved it structurally as well as decorating it and setting up the exhibits.

According to one of the Jaycees, the haunted house may really be haunted. It was investigated and a television special was done on it four years ago.

Admission to the house is $1 for adults, 50 cents for children.

Located at 2859 Bethel Rd. (Reed and Bethel,) it is open nightly from 7-10 and from 1-10 p.m. on weekends.

Proceeds from the house will go to various community service projects of the Jaycees.

Rosehill PTA Plans Party

The Rosehill PTA fund-raising project will be a theatre party Friday, Nov. 10 at one and three p.m.

It will be held at the Centre Cinema in the Reynoldsburg Shopping Center.

The admission will be $1 and is open to all Reynoldsburg students.

There is no school Friday, Nov. 10 due to a teacher's meeting.

The film will be a good children's movie plus a cartoon.

Jack and Helen Kitzmiller are owners of Brock's Electric Service at 7357 Broadwyn Dr., Reynoldsburg. They take no chances in auto electrical work and tune up.

Jack has long been associated with diagnosis' testing equipment and systems. His experience includes selling and servicing "Sun" automotive testing equipment for six years.

This, plus 14 years as an automotive mechanic, has given Jack a thorough background for this work. You can be sure the testing equipment for his work is the most advanced.

This complete engine performance evaluation includes tests of the starting, charging, ignition, fuel and compression systems under all critical operating conditions.

After Jack puts a car through a Sun 26 point engine performance test he then uses the findings to tune up your car. You can be assured nothing escapes his expert scrutiny.

SERVICE does not stop at one visit because a record is kept on each car and much time and expense can be saved by knowing the history of each car's servicing. This service extends to the cars equipped with air conditioning.

In Behalf Of Education

County 'Consensus' Meetings Concluded

"This week 30,000 citizens in Ohio's 88 counties expressed their recommendations for redisigning education through the preparation of new goals and objectives for education in Ohio," according to Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction, Franklin B. Walter.

THE COUNTY meetings which were completed last week were a followup to the 604 local citizens seminars held throughout Ohio last spring.

Those meetings produced 56 000 responses to an 88 item opinionnaire, 12,500 written recommendations and involved nearly 100,000 people statewide.

Approximately 150,000 people are expected to be involved in the entire process of developing new goals for the redesign of education in Ohio.

WALTER said, "The comments and suggestions which are being made in each of the meetings reflect the importance the citizenry places on education and confirm the importance of citizen involvement in charting the goals and objectives for education."

"The entire concept of redesign was planned around the idea of getting citizen involvement and reaction. Indications are that this concept has succeeded extremely well," added Walter.

Walter noted that, "the goals and objectives which were discussed at the county meetings were the result of an analysis of the data from the local citizens seminars, recommendations from the statewide goals conference conducted by the Jennings Foundation in 1971, suggestions form the Priority One Conference of the National School Public Relations Association, two surveys of the attitudes of young adults, which were recently conducted by the Department of Education, and data and information form other states."

"THESE goals," he added, "represent a synthesis of all available data. They are tentative in nature and all reactions will be included in redrafting the goals so that they accurately reflect the opinions and feelings of Ohio citizens."

George McGovern says,

OUR PRESENT TAX SYSTEM IS SIMPLY NOT FAIR TO THE AVERAGE WAGE-EARNER

-and as President, I'm going to do something about it!

IT'S NOT FAIR that in 1970 112 persons with incomes over $200,000 paid NO income tax at all, while YOU paid exactly what the tax tables said you had to.

IT'S NOT FAIR that the share of total Federal tax revenue paid by corporations has shrunk from 23 per cent in 1960 to an estimated 16 per cent in 1973, even though corporate profits are at a record high.

IT'S NOT FAIR that a $3 billion oil company with taxable income last year of $109 million paid no income taxes.

IT'S NOT FAIR that 18,648 wealthy taxpayers paid an average effective rate of 4%—about half the taxes (Social Security tax, sales tax, etc.) paid by a $3,000 a year wage earner.

IT'S NOT FAIR that the Nixon Administration gave big business an investment tax credit bonanza worth billions of dollars at a time when the average homeowner can no longer keep up with rising property taxes.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

A French tragedy is an ambitious undertaking for a young community theater like Worthington. They, as well as director, Curt Meeks, should be commended for attempting "Therese". Somehow or other it looses something in the translation. I always thought of French love scenes, especially clandestine ones, as being tender and passionate - not filled with cliches and panic-like emotions.

The play is divided into four scenes - two in the first act and two in the second. Two of the four were excellent. It seemed that when the attempt at comedy was over and the serious moments came, they clicked.

A marvelous character portrait was turned in by Tony Lang as Madame Raquin. I felt the pain in her arteries and the determination and strength in her mother-love. Jon Cobes and Con Downy brought life to the Inspector and Grivet, the domino playing companions who could read the Madam as did no other living person.

I just want to ask Sal Perez one question - Why is it you are always cast as a cad when you are really just a pussycat? Considering some of the dialogue he has to work with, Sal does a fine job.

The Inspector's young niece is nicely handled by Lisa Long. I wish Muriel Jacobs, as Therese, had shown a little more softness toward her lover, and used some other device than shouting to show anger.

Charlie Cummings and Joyce Schreiver were well cast as the consumptive Camille and rich socialite.

"Therese" continues November 3-4 at 8:30 p.m. at the Josephinum Auditorium, on North High Street, just north of 270 in Worthington.

Many volunteers are needed so that the boy can be assured of a ride everyday. If transportation is not provided the boy will have to be hospitalized for the four weeks. Phone 228-7300 if you can help.

THE ENERGY CRISIS IS THREATENING YOUR WAY OF LIFE

There are at least sixty reasons why we need a Department of Natural Resources.

The growing energy crisis is the most serious problem facing our nation today, because energy is needed to solve all of our other major domestic concerns. And yet, the solution is being delayed because there are so many sharing responsibility for energy matters.

There are more than 60 different agencies within the government that deal with natural gas and oil matters—each compiling information, studying reports and making recommendations. There are even more of them involved with other forms of energy. It's a superhuman struggle to find one's way through the bureaucratic thicket that has grown up around the nation's energy problems.

There must be more effective administration of energy matters if we are to develop adequate supplies of all forms of energy. "More effective administration" means elimination of the duplications, delays and uncertainties that now block the energy America needs. A significant step in this direction can be taken by establishing a single Department of Natural Resources to pull together the fragmented structure of government functions that presently deal with energy. Bills are now before Congress to establish a Department of Natural Resources (S.1431) and to include the Environmental Protection Agency within that Department (S.1025).

These Bills should be enacted promptly.

The time has come for every citizen to speak out on the energy situation. Write to your elected officials. Urge them to support Senate Bill 1431, amended in accordance with Senate Bill 1025. You'll be helping yourself, your community and your country.

The establishment of a Department of Natural Resources is just one of the recommendations included in our "Action Program to Help Correct the National Energy Crisis". Copies of this program have been mailed to your Senators and Representative. Send for your free copy today.

The People's Choice

NO ISSUE since the 'Right to Work' issue more than 20 years ago has had more debate and news coverage- and public interest than the Ballot Issue No. 2, Proposed Constitutional Amendment concerning the state income tax.

Repeal and anti-repeal forces have waged a battle the past six months making known their pros and cons on this issue.

THE QUESTION on the ballot is thusly worded: "Shall the proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Ohio relative to conditions for and prohibitions upon the levy of a tax on income, except a municipal income tax, or increasing the rates thereof, without the approval of a majority of the voting electors, be adopted?

The amendment would prohibit the levying of an income tax on individuals or corporations or for that matter, any tax measured by income, by the General Assembly unless a majority of the voters approve this by a vote.

IT WOULD also limit any tax on income through a flat rate (similar to most city income taxes) rather than a graduated rate. Increases in any rates would also have to stand voter approval.

There are some side issues which have us concerned on this issue rather than the issue itself. They are:

(1) News releases from various organizations have stressed the "utter chaos" that will result if the tax is repealed. Yet, most of these organizations heads have been stressing the shopworn phrase "fiscal responsibility" that refers to "let's give maximum services with a real budget-stretching effort."

It perplexes us that the men who head these organizations have not given thought to belt-tightening, leaving us to believe that they are not really good managers of money and ideas unless they can have enough at their disposal to suit their needs, even though these needs might not reflect the opinion of the people who are paying the tax.

(2) The language being used in reference to the "people," intimating that they are not really familiar with the issue, is another thorn in our foot. Talking down to people on issues involving their purse-strings has most times resulted in defeat of issues where the money was really needed. With the increased communication areas now a voter would almost have to be without a newspaper, radio or television set to not be informed of this particular issue.

(3) The strong effort by educators and the associations aligned in this field (Ohio School Boards Association, Ohio Education Association, to name a few) leaves us with the impression that unless the tax is kept at its present level there would be numerous school closings.

The people have always made wise and just decisions in matters involving the expenditure of "their" money.

We think they will do so this time, as they have a right to do, and the "utter chaos" that so many have claimed will happen will not be the lever voters will use to determine their vote on the issue.

RATHER, it will be one of common sense.

WE URGE everyone to get out and vote.

We Support School Issues

From time to time we, like others in our profession, have become disenchanted with school bond issues and operating levies if only for the one reason that it seems they are continuously on the ballot.

NOT SO this election.

The editors of the Spectator Newspapers (Bexley, Whitehall, Worthington, Eastern, Reynoldsburg, Hilltop and West Village) have close alliances with residents, teachers, students and administration personnel in their individual school districts.

In one voice our editors say the school issues at stake in the Spectator circulation areas are critical and should be passed unanimously by the electorate.

There are not issues in all our areas. However, our education-oriented editors feel that for education to survive at the level that is needed to produce worthwhile citizens these issues must pass.

Some are new and mean a few more dollars a year in taxes. Some are renewals and in several cases mean a little less taxes than the previous year.

A "YES" vote on the school issues will assure our youngsters that we are interested in their future.

MRS. MARY WALTER

Finally, At 104 She's Gonna Vote

By KATHY DEVANEY

Mrs. Mary Walter, 104, Grove City, is voting for the first time Nov. 7.

"My great grandson wanted me to vote. In my day we never heard of things like women voting," she said.

"I never believed in women voting. There was too much to do at home. I never bothered my head with such things."

But it's different today for younger people. She thinks they're informed and should vote.

Her family has always been Democratic, but to please her great grandson she's voting for Mr. Nixon.

"Governor Gilligan has been grand to me. I got a letter and plaque from he and his wife on my last birthday. President Nixon sent me a birthday card too," she said.

Mrs. Walter has lived in Columbus all of her 104 years.

She lived on the east side and went to a one room schoolhouse on Fulton near 18th St.

"I went through a cow pasture, climbed over a fence, went up Parsons to High (where there were side walks) and then to Fulton."

School went to the eighth grade.

"We learned reading, writing and arithmetic, half in German and half in English."

"Her parents were German but she could never learn it, she told me.

When she was 15 she went to work as a dressmaker.

High St. wasn't paved and there were no street cars. There were just little frame buildings.

Mrs. Walter went to the Comstock Opera House on the west side of High St.

There were two shows every winter--a horse show and a singing act with the German and Irish singer who sang back and forth.

The Opera House was completely destroyed by fire in 1892.

When she was in the fourth grade there were trolley cars; electric cars came after she was married.

She saw the first circus come to town when she was 17 or 18.

"The town was getting more civilized then," she noted.

"I'm getting tired of living so long, but I've always had good friends and family (five generations).

"All I remember is my life.

"I'm happy."

Some Titles In Trophy Cases

Season Enders Could Decide Grid Champions

The up-and-down football season at the high school level had a few more elevator rides last weekend with have-nots making it difficult for the haves.

Columbus Central pulled the biggest shocker as the Pirates up-ended Walnut Ridge's Scots, 18-7, in what could be termed the biggest upset of the Columbus city league season.

CENTRAL had been primed for a fast finish with week by week improvement and came through in the clutch to shove the Scots into a second place tie in the city's South division with South at 3-1-1.

Marion Franklin remained unbeaten with a 26-8 socking of West's Cowboys. A Marion Franklin win over Eastmoor Friday will clinch the South title for them and they will face the North Division winner, Northland, Nov. 11 in the city title game.

GAHANNA took command of the strong Ohio Capital Conference with a 35-6 win over Reynoldsburg's improving Raiders. Gahanna sports a 6-0 league and 8-0 season record. The Raiders held the Lions to a 7-6 lead at the half until the Lions took command.

Meanwhile Westerville's Cats took over second in the OCC with a 21-12 trouncing of Delaware. Gahanna must get by Delaware Friday to win the title uncontested. If the Lions fall to the Pacers and Westerville fells Mt. Vernon it will be a two-way tie.

GROVE CITY'S Greyhounds have the Mid-8 track to themselves as they banged Hilliard 41-8 for a clear-cut title. The Greyhounds are also 8-0 on the season and wind up hosting Grandview in the league finale.

Bexley and Groveport clash with the winner (if there is not a tie) tieing Mifflin for second spot in the Mid-8 at 4-1.

The Central Catholic League title could be wrapped up by Watterson's high-flying Eagles if they get by "getting stronger every game" Bishop Ready. Ready zipped by Bishop Hartley with ease 21-6 last week in a [illegible].

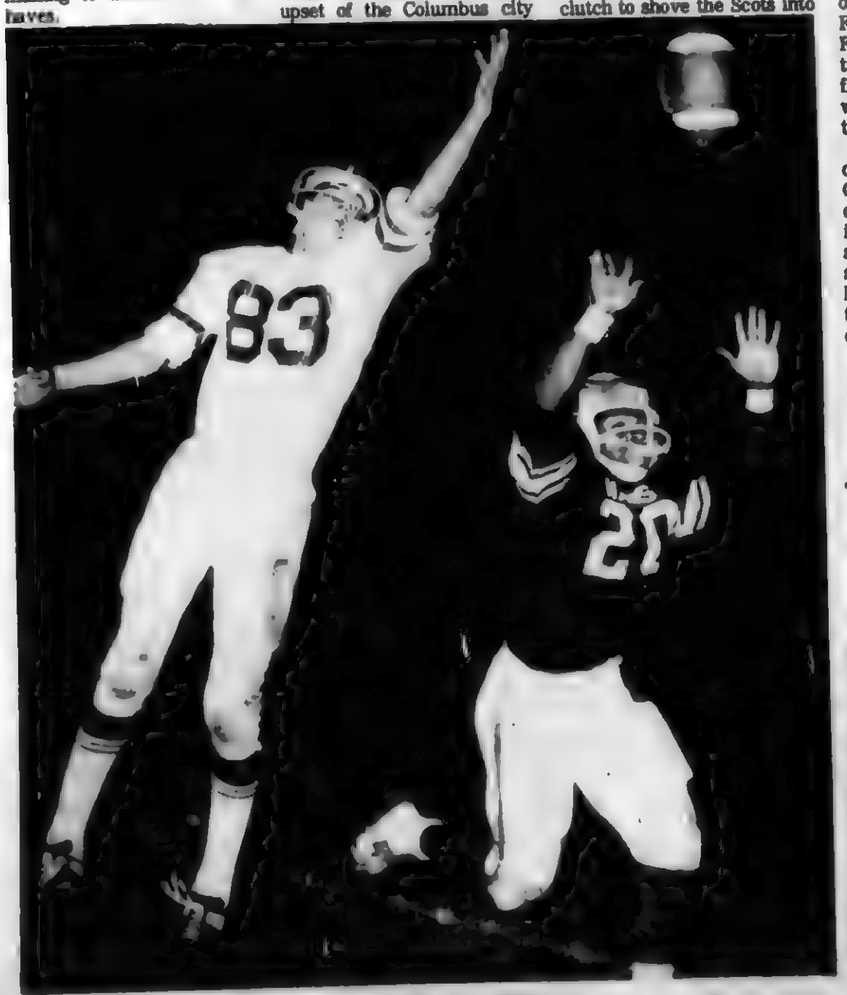
AMONG the teams closing out the season this weekend are Brookhaven, Central, East, Eastmoor, Linden, Mohawk, South, West, Walnut Ridge, North, Whetstone, Academy, Bexley, Franklin Heights, Watterson, Academy, DeSales, Groveport, Gahanna, Reynoldsburg, Grandview, Hilliard, St. Charles, London, Westerville, Mt. Vernon, Delaware, West Jefferson and Teays Valley.

Still hoping for a win is Reynoldsburg as they host Smokey Wion's hungry Cardinals. The Cards trounced Whitehall in their homecoming Friday.



Westland and Whitehall will be trying to salvage something from their season as they meet at Whitehall in the closer.

Walnut Ridge still has a chance for a title tie if they can zip through West's Cowboys and South could remain in contention with a victory over Central - all this provided Marion Franklin stumbles against Eastmoor.

GRID BITS: That halftime band show at Gahanna with the Gahanna and Reynoldsburg bands combining almost 300 strong including drum majorettes, flag bearers, etc. must have been something to see. The bands held a combined practice last week to get the works going for the actual performance.

Congratulations are certainly in order for Reynoldsburg's Dan Nawrocki and Gahanna's Robert Kessler, as they are to all the fine musicians and leaders at all our schools who have provided much to the halftime shows this season.

ALTHOUGH the usual amount of criticism has been leveled at officials this season we haven't heard of any games that have actually been decided on a call. Good teams generally win with or without good or bad officiating.

READY TAKES HARTLEY

THAT'S AS FAR AS YOU GO

AROUND TOWN

COLUMBUS' first world premiere of a movie made by Columbus people has turned out to be well received. "No Deposit, No Return," produced by Columbus' own Mack Gilbert and Joe Waterman, is one of the most powerful dramatic and moving motion pictures I have seen in a long time.

Just let me tell you this right now, about, "No Deposit, No Return," it is a movie with a story. A story that is greater than any writer could conceive. This movie tells what is going on in America today, and in my opinion the reasons and causes for all the hippies, yippies and dope that is running rampant in our society. Yes, I would have to say that it is an educational picture. It is also a movie that will make you stop and think, and keep thinking days after you have left the theatre.

What, "No Deposit, No Return," does is tell you that one: many of our youth today are being rejected by their family, which leads them to seek other friends, and more important other social environments. If, "No Deposit, No Return," does nothing else, it shows you very graphically what happens when one experiements too much in life.

"No Deposit, No Return," is one of the finest artist motion pictures to play in the local theatres. Director Peter Jenson is a real genius. His directing and photography are superb works of art.

BUT, IF YOU have a weak stomach, nor do not care to see a graphic picture of some of our social ills, then stay away from this one.

The movie takes you on one life shattering experience after another of a girl named Hilary from a small mid-western town, whose parents are just too busy to be bothered with her. She is played by Milanda Marx, daughter of Groucho. Hilary goes through one bad scene after another looking to find friends, a place in life, and most of all trying to be wanted. She lives in one commune after another, does everything from nude modeling to baby-sitting. While Hilary speaks many lines in the picture, most of all her screen appearances were handled by tremendous facial expressions.

THE LADY Hilary baby sits for is Helen, portrayed by a fine actress, Diane Berghoff. Diane is a swinging divorcee who shares her pad with an older man, who can't seem to satisfy her. The older man is producer, Mack Gilbert. Mack by the way, turns in a sterling performance in his role of lover. Helen's lover talks her into trying some acid, which results in a very tragic event for all concerned. This is the ending which has been described as a climax worthy of Hitchcock at his most gruesome.

"No Deposit, No Return," is an experience for most of its viewers. You see the true inside of life of the flower people. You see how hopeless it is, to go the acid route and the hippie life. Hilary never finds herself, or the basic of life, love, feeling needed and a sense of direction.

The story will make you stop before you try dope or any other way far out bit. The consequences are just like playing with dynamite, it could blow up any minute.

The music, as arranged and conducted by Bill Marx, son of Harpo, is one of the finest sound tracks I have heard. There is more than one song that could become a hit. The photography is breath-taking.

Go see "No Deposit, No Return," at the Bexley or World Theatres. It offers a lot. While it has an "R" rating, I, for one, recommend you take your older teen-age children. They can learn a lot of good things from this one.

MARCO POLO'S Lounge has the best playing there since owner Mark Adams has had the swinging spot. It is called Mike Kamen's Rainbow. It is one of the most outstanding and talented trios around these parts.

About ninety percent of its enjoyment can be attributed to the leader, Mike Kamen. Gads, what talent. Mike is a musician, a singer and just an all around entertainer.

More on him later. Also in the group is Mrs. Kamen, better known as Vicky. She is as cute as a bug in a rug. Vicky does a truly fine job on the electric bass. She is not over-powering, nor does she clutter up the musical aspect with a lot of wild stuff. Vicky plays lots of good chords, and adds a full tone to the trio.

Last, but not least, is drummer Ron Powly. Ron is a good man in the rhythm department. I would say that he is a real pro. Ron is not a pounder, but a classy performer. Ron owns a nice voice, too. He comes on rather strongly, yet he can dish out the sweet things, also.

BACK to Mike. You name the instrument, and I think Mike can play it. He plays mostly organ, guitar and harmonica. But, several times a night, Mike also plays banjo, violin and a host of other things. He is just a natural born musician. Not only can Mike handle these various instruments, he does a darn good job on all of them. His guitar and organ stylings will practically keep you spellbound the entire evening. What sounds he gets out of these two. A master of both, that's for sure. The same can be said for his harmonica work as well. Mike used to have an act that was a one man band. After listening to him, I would believe he had to be more like a one man orchestra.

Now, Mike has other things going for him. He could lay down all of his instruments, and still be a great big success just with his singing voice. What a singer. Mike has a very beautiful voice that he really knows how to handle. It has an excellent quality to it. Plus, Mike comes on with a style that glues you to your seat.

ADD ALL three together, and you have a trio that is darn hard to beat. Vicky sings harmony along with Ron and Mike. When this takes place, you are certainly in for

Department Plans Gymnastic Meet

Bexley Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring a gymnastic meet with the Tremont Gymnastic Club of Upper Arlington.

The meet will be held on Saturday, Nov. 4 at the Bexley High School Gym.

Warmups will begin at 1 p.m. and the meet will start promptly at 1:30 p.m.

The girls, ranging from elementary to high school age, will be competing in all four national events for women - Floor Exercise, Balance Beam, Uneven Parallel Bars and Vaulting.

Representing Bexley will be Tracy and Susan Bringardner, Jackie Halla, Cathy Klunk, Jodi Schultz, Pippa and Fiona Crean, Amy Arnett, Chris McGuire, Janet Priest, Lynne Boden, Diane Smith and Becky Millard.

Both the Bexley and Tremont teams are coached by Mrs. Kathy Sochor of Bexley. Mrs. Sochor, a native of Columbus, competed for the Columbus Gymnastic Club and also for Kent State University - local, state and national competition.

During Spring of 1971 both Mrs. Sochor and her husband Thomas Sochor, a teacher at Bexley, went on tour through the New York-Long Island area with Kent State's Gymnastics Team doing exhibitions and promoting the sport.

Mrs. Sochor is hoping that this meet will stimulate interest in Gymnastics (which is already starting to grow) among girls of the Bexley area.

Persons interested in the sport are welcome to attend the meet as spectators.

ACCORDING TO OFFICIALS

Bond Issue Will Aid Handicapped Children

Voter approval of the Columbus school bond issue Nov. 7 will mean more help for handicapped children on the city's far east side, according to administrators of the school system's special education programs.

The bond issue provides for construction of a new school for the physically handicapped, relocation of the school for the emotionally handicapped in a newer and larger facility, an addition to the school for the deaf, and a major increase in the number of other special education facilities.

Construction of a new school for physically handicapped children is badly needed and long overdue, according to Mrs. Virginia Zollinger, principal of Neil Avenue School, a two-story building where youngsters with physical handicaps are currently housed.

Mrs. Zollinger pointed out that Neil Avenue's two-story structure creates serious problems for the school's more than 140 students.

"We have just one elevator, and it will hold only four wheelchairs at a time," she explained, adding that the elevator "frequently breaks down."

"Lack of adequate space is also a serious problem," said Mrs. Zollinger, who has to give up her office one day each week so the school psychologist can have a place to work with children.

The principal said the site for the new school to be built under the bond issue would be selected by parents and school personnel working together. Parents and the staff also will be involved in planning the educational program to be housed in the new building.

A similar process would be used in planning the expansion and conversion of Clearbrook Elementary to replace Fairfax School as a school for children with emotional handicaps.

Fairfax's inadequacies are well known to Michael O'Leary, principal of the school. "Since state standards allow no more than 10 emotionally handicapped pupils per class," O'Leary said, "the need for more classrooms is constant."

He pointed out that Fairfax has only eight rooms and is generally at its maximum enrollment, severely restricting the programs that can be offered students.

"We have one very small multi-purpose room that must be used for all our activities," O'Leary said, explaining that the room alternately serves as a cafeteria, auditorium, and recreation area.

The principal said that in addition to more classrooms and space for special activities, the conversion of Clearbrook into a school for the emotionally handicapped would provide room for small group instruction.

The bond issue also calls for construction of an addition to Alexander Graham Bell School for the Deaf.

James Card, principal of the school, said the addition would increase the 120 pupil capacity of A. G. Bell to include several classes of children currently housed in other schools due to lack of space.

Card said that with the bond issue, facilities for a hot lunch program would be added at A. G. Bell.

Facilities to provide an improved program for educable mentally retarded girls attending Third Street School would also be provided under the bond issue, according to the school's principal, Mrs. Ruth Castner.

She said the involvement of parents and school personnel would be sought in planning the new facilities.

Dr. Floyd Heil, the school system's director of special education, pointed out that the bond issue includes benefits for children needing other types of special education.

Heil said that under the bond issue at least 136 classrooms would be constructed or converted over the next four years for programs serving educable mentally retarded children, the neurologically handicapped, and those with vision impairments.

He noted that over 500 youngsters are on waiting lists for special education classes at the present time, and said classrooms added under the bond issue would be located throughout the city, reducing the need for transporting pupils large distances.

The bond issue also holds increased career and vocational education opportunities for handicapped students, Heil stated.

He explained that special counseling would be offered to help the students participate in career and vocational programs offered in high schools and in four centers to be built under the bond issue.

He noted that the centers would be equipped with an occupational laboratory to help the students adjust to programs, and would also be designed to accommodate students with handicaps.

KEEP OHIO'S SCHOOL DOORS OPEN

Repeal of the present graduated taxes on corporate and personal incomes can lead to bigger classes and more school closings. Fifty-one cents out of every dollar you pay into the State general fund goes to education; 14 cents to higher education and 37 cents to elementary and secondary schools. Many school districts would not be able to make up for the lost State support, even with increases in property taxes. Give Ohio's kids a break. Vote "NO" on Issue 2.

All in all, Mike Kamen's Rainbow is one of the nicest, most entertaining, trios that has come down the road. They play all types of music in a style that is extremely enjoyable. Not an ear-bursting approach. Lively, yet pretty, pretty things.

A COUPLE of times in the past, I have told you about the Dobb's House Restaurant, at the Columbus Airport. Then I told you, that it was one of the finest places I have ever dined. Their food was out of this world. Believe it or not, they have made some changes, which has improved all of that, plus added some new methods which are quite unique for Columbus.

First, let's talk about the things that have not changed. They still have the most unusual entertainment Around Town. The restaurant has floor to ceiling windows. You can dine and view all the activity on the airfield. Secondly, The Dobb's House are still interested in serving the children just a hamburger, or coke any time of the day or night, seven days a week, and thirdly, they serve all your favorite legal beverages.

Now, let's talk about the changes. There is an all new menu that offers everything from all types of steaks to Beef Kabob. All of the food is prepared on open hearths, right before your eyes. In fact, if you desire, you may select your own piece of meat, and place your own brand on it.

All the food, not just the meat, is prepared in the dining room, before your eyes. No hanky - panky stuff in the kitchen. You see what you are getting and how it is prepared.

THE FOOD is great, the service excellent, and the atmosphere in the Terrace Room of the Dobb's House is very resting. A dinner at the Dobb's House Restaurant at the Columbus Airport is an occasion you will talk about for a long time.

By the way, Dads, the cocktail waitresses are some of the sharpest I have seen. I think they used to be stewardess.

They also have private rooms for parties and banquets. Fly the old car to Port Columbus and land it at Dobb's House Restaurant. After eating all the delicious foods, including homemade soups, desserts and great salads, you won't be able to get off the ground. But, you wouldn't want to be grounded at a better place.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Be sure you catch the new group at Diamond Jim's, The Family Affair. This is an excellent group that dishes out plenty of top music and all around entertainment...This columnist is so very sorry to hear that Mister Nice Guy, George Lias is critically ill with a heart attack. George, as many of you know, is part-owner of the popular Bistro, a top notch promoter of entertainment and entertainers in this area and one of the cleverest promotional men I have come across. This is all more or less a hobby with George. By profession, George is a lawyer with a large practice. Let's hope he gets back on the scene as soon as possible...The Duke Jenkins Trio has been held over again at the Marriott Inn Motel. For those of you who like pretty music, this is the place. Duke sounds very much like Nat King Cole. He has a real smooth trio...At the Lincoln Lodge Motel, mister Funny Man is back, John McCoy. John played there around Easter time, and I flipped over him. What a guy with the one liners and patter with the audience. If you want to be in show business, go to the Lincoln Lodge, John will have you in the act, before you know it. John is also one great, and I mean great guitarist. He can almost make that thing talk. He gets more music out of his guitar than most groups do with two or three. John McCoy is a must for you....Ruben and Wanda open tonight at Ramada Inn North. I understand this is a good group. More on them next week.

Compromise Reached On McNaughten Development

Officials of the Triple R Association and Homewood Corporation have apparently reached a compromise on the development of approximately 120 acres on McNaughten Road. The land is presently the Smith Farm.

Homewood had originally planned to develop 650 units of single family homes and condominiums on the land which is just north of the Olde Orchard addition.

WIDESPREAD opposition to this plan by residents in the area resulted in Homewood withdrawing the plan before city council made a decision.

Bud Vollmer, president of Triple R (named for the zoning typical in the area) told a group of residents that a negotiating committee had been formed to work out a compromise with Homewood.

He explained that where Homewood had originally intended to build 142 single family, units and 508 multi-family units, they were now agreeing to build 188 single family dwellings and 329 condoniniums.

VOLLMER SAID that part of the acreage had been designated as a church site and that members of Triple R had been concerned that if the developers could not sell the land for a church, they might go commercial or build more attached units.

"We got them to agree to go ahead and built more single family units on that particular site. This will also help in hiding the condominiums from view as you drive along McNaughten Road."

Another member of the negotiating team explained that agreements reached had actually decreased the density in the area by about 20 per cent. The original density proposed was 6.3 units per acres. The current plan calls for 5.1 units per acre.

HE ALSO SAID there would be no streets connecting the new complex with Olde Orchard. Original plans would have continued Strawberry Hill on into the new development.

This will keep traffic around the school at a minimum and keep Olde Orchard sealed, according to a spokesman.

Homewood, according to the Triple R spokesman, also agreed to increase the size lots that border the development up to 12,500 square feet.

"OUR INTENT is the ring the entire development with single family homes, except in one place along McNaughton Road where Homewood proposes to put the Community Center."

Mounds of earth will also be built up along McNaughten so that only the second story of the homes will be visible from the road. "We did not want to see the rear of homes facing McNaughten and with the mounds this will help.

"Also the second story will be so designed that it will be difficult to tell that you're seeing the back instead of the front of a house," the spokesman explained.

THERE WILL be six different styles of homes built by the developer. Two will be ranch styles, two split level and two will be two story.

The ranch style will have a minimum living space of 1,500 square feet, the split level, 1,700 and the two story 1,850.

Homewood has indicated the cost of the homes will range from $35,000 to $42,000.

"IN OUR AGREEMENT with them, we have stipulated that no house can be sold for less than $30,000."

The condominiums will have two, three and four bedrooms and will sell for between $20,000 and $29,000.

Vollmer said the Triple R negotiators were not completely happy with the agreement but felt this plan was something council would consider "And I think this is something we can live with."

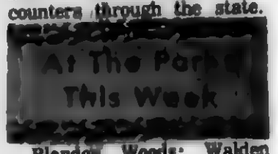
SHOCK-ING

Shock absorbers should be checked for defects at regular intervals. Leaking fluid is one of the first signs of trouble, reports the Columbus Automobile Club-AAA. Neglected shocks contribute to accidents by causing a car to bounce at high speed, thus causing steering difficulties.



Covered Bridges Listed

Ohio has 173 old covered bridges still in existence in 41 counties, according to The Ohio Historical Society and the Ohio Covered Bridge Committee which have just released a 1972 edition of the Covered Bridge Map of Ohio.

The total represents a loss of 12 such structures since 1970 when a prior map was issued and 29 since 1967 when there were 202.

Fairfield County continues to be the leader in numbers with 27 such structures although that county lost three to "progress," vandalism, and other causes since the 1970 compilation.

The two-sided, single-page map which folds into pocket size, is $1.32 tax and postage paid from the Order Department, The Ohio Historical Society, Columbus, Ohio 43211. The map is $1.04 at the Plaza level sales counter at the Ohio Historical Center, Interstate 71 and 17th Avenue, Columbus, and other State Memorial sales counters through the state.

Scots Reach For The Moon

"WE'RE NO. 1" rang out at Walnut Ridge High School last Friday as Vince Cahill's Fighting Scots grabbed the brass ring of the City of Columbus High School south division football merry-go-round by zipping past West's Cowboys, 17-6. The Scots tied with South for the title but earlier 7-6 win over South put them in the title match against Northland Saturday at 10 a.m. at Northland. That's Cahill in the foreground surrounded by some of his sure-fire winners. (Photo by Tom Foley.)

IN COLUMBUS SCHOOLS

Computerized Report Cards Now In Use

Parents of the more than 47,000 students attending Columbus junior and senior high schools are getting their first look at the school system's new computerized student progress reports.

The reports are prepared by computers in the school system's data-processing department.

Superintendent Dr. John Ellis said that while the new grade reports look different than the report cards formerlay used, they contain essentially the same information.

The reports include a listing of a student's classes, his grade and an indication of the effort he is putting forth in each course, and separate records of the student's school and class attendance, Ellis said.

He added that the computerized reports will also list the name of the student's teacher for each class – information that was not provided by the former progress reports that teachers filled out by hand.

The superintendent noted that the new computer process eliminates the need for having the reports signed by parents and returned to the school, since a copy of each student's report is produced for the school files.

Ellis also said that when the reports are prepared at the end of each grading period they will contain not only the grades for the period just ended, but the marks for all preceding periods of the school year as well, providing a complete up-to-date listing of a student's progress.

The new computerized reports will enable the schools to make better use of grades in helping students improve their performance, Ellis said, explaining that copies of the reports will be made available to school counselors to be used in identifying students with academic difficulties.

Another advantage of the new system, he said, is a savings of time on the part of teachers, since the computer process eliminates much of the clerical work necessary under the former system of grade reporting.

Ellis stressed that much work and planning has gone into the new computerized grade reporting system, and commended the staff of the data-processing department for their work in the project.

He cautioned that while no major technical problems were encountered as the first computerized reports were processed, some mistakes in grading may occur since the operation is new.

If a student or his parents believe an error may have occurred, they should simply contact the school to check the information contained on the report, Ellis said, adding that the phone number for the school a student attends is listed on his progress report.

Easthaven Schedules Meeting

Easthaven Elementary School PTA will present Jack Burgess, the executive director of the Columbus Education Association at their next meeting scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Burgess will speak on "Teachers; Rights and Responsibilities."

The meeting will be in the school gymnasium, 2360 Garnet Place.

The school is also planning a day to honor grandparents.

On Wednesday, Nov. 15 from 9 to 10 a.m. the Kindergarten youngsters have planned activities and grandparents are invited to attend. Students in grades through the sixth will host activities from 1 to 2 p.m.

Paramedic Selected For Jaycee Award

The good things William F. Rector has done for people on the east side as well as the entire city of Columbus, have been recognized as Rector was named the outstanding young fireman by the city's Jaycees.

Rector is a paramedic assigned to the fire department's Heartmobile and flies with the medicopter.

Besides his regular duties he has taught first aid for the Red Cross and for the state.

His first award came for teaching 1,000 hours to Head Start teachers for COMACAO, the diocese and South-Western City Schools. He now has enough awards and citations to fill a wall.

This past summer Rector took time out from his busy schedule to teach first aid to 22 Walnut Park Hills residents.

"I take off a week when the Shrine circus comes to town to help the children come and enjoy it," he said.

Speaking of his work with the medicopter, the officer said, "It's a thrilling experience to land and have all the drugs needed to help people. We can get medication to victims when they need it."

Paramedic Rector is involved in a seven to 10 county area helping people help themselves.

Firemen use to go out into the communities they served, he said. Now everyone is working so hard there doesn't seem to be time left.

He said he can't understand why people don't want to get involved. Rector used to work 110 hours a week until his doctor told him to slow down.

He still teaches first aid to groups like Western Electric, Gahanna Knights of Columbus, Masonic Services Association, Sertoma and Public Health Nurse's Association.

Besides teaching the east side residents to be their own emergency squad, he taught the women in Minerva Park who run the squad during the day. This group later placed 14th in international competition.

When people see others doing things they say "That's great," instead of "What can I do?" he said.

The main thing is community involvement. "I believe in young people because they have a chance to do things. I'm involved. Get involved."

Serves At Hadassah Hospital

Doctor Hopes Work Is Way To Peace

Despite increased tension in Israel over the last few months, the Hadassah Medical Center in Jerusalem continues its assistance and service to all those in need, including the Arabs.

Dr. Edward Superstine, director of Pharmacy Service at the 750 bed hospital, was in Columbus last week to speak to members of the Hadassah organization. Dr. Superstine was in this country to thank the thousands of Jewish women who have supported the hospital and it's work and to ask for continued help.

"OVER 35 PER cent of the Hadassah budget in the United States goes to the hospital," Dr. Superstine said. "Last year this amounted to over $7,000,000."

Mrs. Jerry Weingrad, president of the Hadassah chapters in Columbus, said this money is raised through various projects carried out by the different groups.

"We have luncheons, a donors campaign and many other projects. Besides the hospital Hadassah aids the Youth Aliyah, vocational education in Israel and has a community college."

ALL THE WORK to raise the funds for these projects is done by volunteers.

Hadassah was organized in 1912 by Henrietta Szold who had visited Israel and seen the need for medical and educational aid. In 1918 the first medical mission went to Jerusalem and bagan the work.

Today there are 325,000 members of Hadassah in the U.S. Dr. Superstine explained.

THE HOSPITAL treats on the average 1,000 out-patients a day, 30 per cent of which are Arabs. This is in addition to the patients admitted to the teaching hospital.

"Hadassah believes that we are our brother's keeper in terms of health care and education," the doctor said. By offering health care we feel we are in a way offering a hand in peace."

Before going to the medical center in 1960, Dr. Superstine had been an assistant chief pharmacist at the Duke University Medical Center, was chief pharmacist at the Metropolitan Hospital in Detroit, Michigan and an instructor in pharmacy at Wayne State University.

HE RECEIVED his degree from the School of Pharmacy of the Detroit Institute of Technology and received his masters from the University of Michigan. He received his Ph.D in Pharmacology from the Hebrew University in 1967.

"I left this country and went to Israel because I wanted the chance to help people who would otherwise not receive medical attention and because I saw it as a way to work for peace."

Dr. Superstine said the work he is doing there is similar to his previous work but said, "These are my people. I feel a closeness to this land and to these people."

MOST OF THE patients treated at the medical center are those who cannot pay.

Included in the medical center is the School of Nursing, the Medical School, the School of Denistry, the School of Pharmacy and the School of Occupational Therapy.

Over 2,000 people are employed at the center with 350 of these being physicians. Cost of one day spent in the hospital, including medicine, is $30, Dr. Superstine said.

"BECAUSE MOST of our patients are welfare cases, we need the continued support of the Hadassah organizations."

Dr. Superstine continued, "We feel that with the work we are doing and the services we are offering to the Arab people they will come to realize that through peace with Israel they will find a sound future."

Mohawk High School Senior Spends Summer At Bell Labs

G. Steven Young, a senior at Mohawk High School, returned to school in mid-September after completing 12 weeks technical employment at Bell Laboratories here.

Young was one of 10 high school students who worked side-by-side with Bell Labs engineers and technicians at the Columbus Laboratory this summer to carry out telephone switching systems and apparatus design and development projects.

Young joined the technical staff members at the Columbus Laboratory soon after school classes were dismissed last spring. He, like the other students who accepted the opportunity for summer technical employment at Bell Labs, was selected because of his interest and "potential" in scientific areas.

Because "potential" is such a difficult quality to judge, Bell Labs relies heavily on the intuitive judgment and opinion of high school teachers, counselors and others who work closely with the students in making their selection of candidates for summer employment. Consideration of high grades and other obvious scholastic accomplishments are of secondary importance.

Young's primary assignments at Bell Labs this summer were concerned with several studies in the field of metallurgy. His initial job was to study the effect of heat treating temperatures on the structure of a magnetic metal alloy.

This work involved polishing and etching numerous metal samples and subsequent observation and photography of the structures, using a high magnification optical microscope. The characterizations he developed provided essential links in the overall development of a new switching device scheduled to go into service in the near future.

Another assignment involved Young in an evaluation of an experimental electrical contact material.

This afforded him the opportunity to further increase his knowledge and abilities in the areas of heat treating and metallographic preparation of metals, as well as providing him with the opportunity to acquire new skills in mechanical strength evaluation.

Other assignments enabled Young to learn the use of an oscilloscope and other laboratory instruments, gain experience with electronic circuits while constructing an amplifier, and acquire some background in vacuum technology.

Young's supervisor, Dr. F. E. Bader, who is in charge of the Mechanics and Materials Group in the Switching Apparatus Laboratory, observed that Steven's performance on each of his assignments was outstanding.

"He learned quickly, had the capacity to work independently, and stayed with each job until he finished it with work of superior quality," he added. "I feel he has a very high potential for a technical career."

Young, 16, lives at 998 Gilbert Street and will graduate from Mohawk High School in June, 1973. He is a member of the Mohawk High varsity basketball squad and serves as statistician for the school's football team.

Student enthusiasm and success in completing challenging technical assignments has encouraged Bell Labs continued offering of summer employment for high schoolers each summer for the past five years. Since the first group of students was selected in 1968, 49 male and female students have experienced a summer of technical employment at Bell Labs.

STEVEN YOUNG, a student at Mohawk High School was one of 10 high schoolers employed at Bell Labs this summer. Here Young prepares an experiment to obtain data on a new electrical contact material using a differential thermal analyzer. Young resides at 998 Gilbert St.

Community Productions To Stage Musical 'Mame'

An oft-told tale – maybe not as oft-told as the one about Helen of Troy or Juliet, but nearly so – is the basis of the musical comedy called "Mame" which will be presented at Mershon Auditorium, Dec. 15 and 16, by First Community Productions.

The story of its vivacious heroine has been related often because, apparently, Americans never tire of her carefree adventures in raising a suddenly acquired orphan nephew through thick and thin, from her days of opulence in the roaring '20's, through her penury following the 1929 crash, and on to her return to fortune.

She was introduced first in Patrick Dennis's best selling 1964 novel, "Auntie Mame." She re-appeared two years later in a phenomenally successful play of the same title by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, which was followed by a movie version staring Rosalind Russell.

Her fourth and most popular incarnation has been in the musical comedy rendering which triumphed joyously on Broadway for over three years beginning in the spring of 1966 and was toured to nearly every American village and town. Its book was again the work of Lawrence and Lee, and its lilting songs were supplied by Jerry Herman, composer-lyricist of "Hello, Dolly."

It is this song and dance version that is now coming to Mershon Auditorium, with Jevne Kessel as the sparkling and irrepressible Mame. Danny Weissnecker will be seen as the ten-year-old nephew Patrick, delivered into her care in the midst of one of Mame's oddball-and-celebrity-thronged cocktail parties, and Bill West will portray Patrick when he's old enough to have gotten himself engaged to an inspired girl from whom Mame must rescue him.

Bart Loomis (Babcock) has the role of the snobbish trustee of Patrick's fortune, with whom Mame tangles over Patrick's education; Dean Hutchings is Beauregard Burnside, the genial Southerner who rescues Mame from the thickets of the Depression by becoming her husband just long enough to leave her wealthy widow.

Rebecca Richards (Agnes Gooch) appears as Mame's frumpy secretary-housekeeper, and Kevin O'Brien (Ito) as her faithful houseboy. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Martin and Mary Louise Casanta will be seen as the banal, bigoted Upsons, the family that Patrick almost marries into until square-hating Mame gives them a comic come-uppance.

All told a cast of more than 60 will grace the humorous panorama of Mame's light-hearted escapades. Dr. George Crepeau is directing the production, and Lowell Riley is providing the musical direction.

Miss Kessel's (Mame's) eighteen elaborate housecoats, dresses, suits, and gowns, as well as all the other costumes of the show are being designed by Dorie Cooper, who is also staging the ebullient dances. The scenery of the numerous locales through which Mame skitters during the course of 18 years is being designed by Chris Moore.

Additional speaking parts in the cast include: Glenn Bittner (Lindsay Woolsey), Dick Frank (Ralph Devine-Gregor), Toni Auch (Mother Burnside-Madame Branislowski), Carson Link (Junior Babcock), Susan Icely (Pegeen Ryan), Tim Pettus (Peter Dennis), Fred Peerenboom (Young Patrick-understudy), Terry Jewell (Uncle Jeff), Neil Staten (Stage Manager), Christian Crislop (Doorman), and Scott Gettinger (Elevator Boy).

MBA Center Plans For Second Term

Prior to the opening of the second semester, Jan. 8, of the Xavier University Master of Business (MBA) Center at Ohio Dominican College, John Rothwell, director of admissions for the Xavier MBA program, will be at Ohio Dominican College, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 8 and 9 to counsel potential students.

The Xavier MBA program at Ohio Dominican opened for the first time last Fall with an enrollment of 125.

Under the program, students attend classes at night and thus can continue their regular working schedules, according to Richard R. Teaff, director of Continuing Education at Ohio Dominican.

All MBA classes are taught by regular Xavier faculty, and when students complete requirements for the Master of Business Degree, diplomas will be granted by Xavier University, Cincinnati.

Compatably, Ohio Dominican offers either daytime or evening courses which are prerequisities for admission to the Xavier MBA program. Approximately 30 students currently are taking such undergraduate evening prerequisite courses.

Rothwell will be available for appointments between the hours of 9:30 ant 11:30 a.m., and 1 to 5 p.m., Dec. 8 and from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Dec. 9.

For appointment with Rothwell, those interested may call the office of Continuing Education at Ohio Dominican College, 253-2741.

What A Way To Go

SOME far-out men look forward to the day when they reach 90 and up and meet their demise at the hands of an irate husband.

I'm not in that category. I'll never make it to (beep-beep).

I can see my obituary notice now - something like "Editor Crushed To Death As Pots and Pans Fall"...or "Editor Smothered By Towels and Bedsheets In Closet"...or "Editor Drowns In Tub When Big Toe Gets Caught in Drain"...or a couple of dozen other home hazards that bring a tear with the laughter.

WE HAD a little Grandson with us this summer. His big joy was taking everything out of the pots and pans cupboard then putting them back like toothpicks so that when a hungry Granpa wanted to heat something he had to go into the pots and pans - and watch in sheer fright as the deluge came upon his pate. It happened again last Sunday and he's been gone for three weeks. I suspect someone knows I miss the little tyke and wanted to make me feel at home.

THE CLOSET-TRAP (not so tender as it may seem) is another one of my pet peeves. If they (meaning whoever's responsible for putting the towels and bedsheets away) would stop putting my favorite halfway in the pile I could get it without disturbing any other. Not so. I'm not the fumblingest person I know but I don't have this knack for taking the middle out and leaving the bottom and center intact.

Fortunately, we use the softener that makes it easy to fall on the floor and cuddle up without too much damage.

The bathtub is the root of all the evils that exist in our mansion.

Since there are so many of us (two adults, three teenagers and two dogs who think they are people) we go by the number system. Take a number and you get your turn. Forget your number and you might go unclean for a couple of days until you are told about it at the dinner table.

NOW THE KIDS and Mom, and the dogs, know I like to warble a few ditties while taking a shower or relaxing with my favorite magazine in the tub.

Naturally, it was my turn the day the bathtub stopper opened accidentally, (it is metal) and my big toe got caught. I had the tub almost filled and couldn't reach across to the faucet. The water kept getting higher and my head lower and lower. I struck up a few fancy choruses of "I'm Drowning" and "My toe's stuck" and the kids later admitted to hearing what they thought was singing and were really pleased that Dad knew two of the latest pop tunes called, naturally, "I'm Drowning' and "My Toe's Stuck".

AFTER that frightening experience I decided to leave the bathroom door ajar as older people do. That was a mistake.

We have this son who likes to give his friends tours of the house. He points out interesting sights like "This is the stove...this is the refrigerator...then he came to the bathroom and said very unconcernedly "This is the bathroom and that's my Dad in the tub."

Who was it that said "Oh, Death, where is thy sting?" Bring him around again, I think I'm ready."

The Promise Might Change

Girl Scout Revisions Due

A far-reaching amendment to the Constitution of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. was passed by delegates at the 39th Convention of the Girl Scout National Council at Dallas, Texas last week.

Along with official teenager Senior Girl Scout participants, adult delegates debated the merits of the proposal to lower the age limit of National Council members – the major direction-setting body of Girl Scouts–to include teenagers "who are 14 years of age or over" and passed it by more than a 2-3 vote.

ALTHOUGH membership in the National Council had been limited to persons 18 years of age or older, there are many Senior Girls (aged 14-17) currently serving with local Girl Scout council boards and committees and National Board committees. Enthusiastic reports indicate that these teenagers contribute valuable insights and ideas to council planning.

The amendment to lower the age limit of National Council members is in line with a stated goal of Girl Scouts, "to increase youth member participation in planning and decision-making."

BY AN overwhelming standing vote, delegates adopted a new version of the Girl Scout Promise and Laws.

The reworded version of the Promise and Laws–a basic part of the Girl Scout ethical code–amends the Preamble of the Constitution of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. It was submitted to the delegates and official (teenage) Senior Girl Scout participants for debate and discussion during the first business session of the convention.

After lengthy debate, which lasted until the late afternoon, the delegates voted to adopt the version presented for their consideration. A large number of amendments which had been submitted from the floor were defeated during the course of the discussions.

The new version is the result of a three-year study by a 10-member Girl Scout volunteer and staff task group, designated to ascertain the contemporary relevance of the traditional wording.

Questionaires were sent to a balanced scientific sample of 9,000 Junior, Cadette and Senior troops nationwide, to obtain the reaction of girls (ages 9-17) to the tentative rewording. They were asked to indicate their consensus preferences for the traditional wording–the proposed rewording–or an alternative wording of their own.

Based on the troop sampling findings, representing more than 80,000 girls, an amended rewording was prepared by the task group. It was approved by the National Board for presentation to the 1972 National Council meeting.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Wife In Name Only

During their courtship, Hannah spoke soulfully to Jim about the joys of raising a family. But right after the marriage, she changed her tune. In fact, she refused to have sexual relations with him.

Finally Jim sued for an annulment.

"She is a wife in name only," he complained in court. "She deliberately misled me with all that talk about raising a family. The marriage was based on fraud."

"Maybe I was less than honest," Hannah conceded. "But if people had to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth before the wedding, there would be mighty few marriages."

Nevertheless, the court granted Jim an annulment. The judge said Hannah's deception involved no minor matter but an essential element of matrimony itself.

It is true that the law will overlook a certain amount of what it calls "the deceptive arts" in courting. But deception about the intent to have sexual relations is usually considered too vital to be condoned.

This is so even if the subject of sex is never mentioned before the wedding. Courts say that the sexual relationship, even if not discussed, is nonetheless considered—by common consent—to be implied in the contract of marriage.

On the other hand, lying about something less important will not ordinarily justify an annulment. For example:

A disgruntled wife sought a decree on the ground that her spouse had lied about having a college education. But the judge decided this was not adequate grounds to annul the marriage.

"Surely every representation leading up to a marriage cannot be material," said the judge. "The fact that a brunette turned to a blonde overnight, or that the beautiful teeth were discovered to be false, or that the ruddy pink complexion gave way suddenly to pallor, or that a woman misstated her age, would lead no court to annul the marriage for fraud. The fraud must relate to something vital."

What's The Leveler?

Is The Price Right?

ONE OF THE most difficult things in life to measure is the answer to a question many people ponder occasionally: After all this work, am I really any better off than before?

Part of any person's answer will deal with intangibles–"the things money can't buy." That part of the answer is very personal and can't be charted on a graph or put in a computer.

BUT THE THINGS that money can buy can be measured and the figures put into computers. What comes out is an average; individual situations may differ but the average is a good indication of what is happening to most people in the country.

The most widely used measure of the cost of things money can buy is the Consumer Price Index reported monthly by the U.S. Department of Labor. It reflects the cost of many items that people buy.

IN 1970 this index went up 5.9 per cent. That meant that goods that cost $100 the year before went up in price and cost $105.90.

So, assume a man was making $100 a week and got a $5 raise during the year. He really wasn't any better off than before; in fact, he was 90 cents a week worse off even with the raise.

What's happened lately?

IN THE first 23 months the Economic Stabilization Program has been in operation, the Consumer Price Index went up at a seasonally-adjusted rate of 3.2 percent. Goods that cost $100 cost $103.20 a year later.

So a $100-a-week man who gets a $6 raise is really better off now. If he got the entire $5.50 raise permitted under the stabilization program guidelines, he's better off to the tune of $2.30 a week.

The $100-a-week figure is used here as an example only because it makes the arithmetic easy. The same principles apply to the man or woman making $150, $200 or more a week.

BEFORE the program, when inflation was running unchecked, most American wage earners found themselves having to run harder and harder just to stay in the same place.

Although all the national statistics point to a slowdown in the rate of inflation, many people – particularly housewives – don't believe it. Some of the reasons for this attitude are easy to understand.

Most housewives shop at grocery stores at least once a week. And most, as one retailer told the Price Commission recently, bring to the store a fantastic ability to remember the price of items they bought the week before. They spot any increase immediately.

IT'S ONLY human nature to remember, and to complain about, that increase. Prices that stay the same or go down get little attention. Yet, one large food chain has told the Price Commission that prices of 87 percent of the items it sells are either unchanged or have gone down since the beginning of the price control program.

The situation calls for some explanation of how the price control program works.

AGRICULTURAL prices are not controlled at the farm level. Commodity prices rise and fall in response to supply and demand situations, which usually vary according to the season of the year.

But after the first sale, food prices do fall within Price Commission controls. The Price Commission controls prices of "the middlemen" – the processors, wholesalers and distributors. The Price Commission controls their prices by controlling their mark-ups and their consumers, but windfall profits are banned.

Agricultural prices are the broadest exemption in the price control program. The prices of most manufactured goods are controlled from production to consumer.

MOST FIRMS may not increase their prices unless they can show their costs have increased. And even if their costs have increased, they cannot increase prices if the extra money would increase their profit margins over percentages the companies were earning before the beginning of the program.

The strictness of these controls is reflected in the Consumer Price Index. Since the program began, the price of all commodities except food has increased at an annual rate of only 2.3 percent.

FOOD PRICES have increased at a rate of 4.2 percent. Services increased at a rate of 3.4 percent.

C. Jackson Grayson Jr., chairman of the Price Commission, recently sent a letter to the top executives of all companies in the country with annual sales of more than $50 million reminding them of the price control program's rules and penalties for violation.

"For those firms which have raised any price and see themselves approaching the (profit margin) limit, I hope they will seriously consider voluntarily reducing their prices to the full extent necessary to avoid a violation," Grayson's letter said. "Such action will aid price stabilization without the necessity for penalties which harm both the company and, indeed, the business community as a whole.

"As I have emphasized before, penalties and administrative remedies for violating the profit margin limitation at the end of a fiscal year can be quite formidable. They call for triple rollbacks and-or price reductions, and strict reporting procedures.

"I SPEAK FOR all five Commissioners when I express our continuing appreciation for the cooperation that we have secured from the business community. It is in all of our interests to make this program effective and useful," Grayson concluded.

Mind Over Mother

Dogs and boys! They're inseparable, and once together, they're insurmountable! An indestructible team, a bull dozing force; a parent's bane.

My tow-headed cherub and his shaggy companion serve as a classic example of "mind over Mother." Their entire day is spent contriving new ways to turn a perfectly good head of hair gray.
